

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

THE STATUTES at Large, &c.

Anno primo RICHARD I III.

Statutes made at Westminster in the first year of the reign of King RICHARD III. and in the year of our Lord 1483.

RICHARD by the grace of God King of England, and of France, and lord of Ireland, the third after the conquest; to the honour of God, and of holy church, and for the common wealth of his realm of England, at his first parliament holden at Westminster, the three and twentieth day of January, in the first year of his reign, by the advice and assent of the lords spiritual and temporal, and at the request of the commons of the said realm of England, summoned to the said parliament, by the authority of the same parliament, hath ordained and established, for the quietness of his people, certain statutes and ordinances in manner following.

CAP. I.

All acts made by or against Cestuy que use shall be good against him, his heirs and feoffees in trust.

FOrasmuch as by privy and unknown feoffments, great un-surety, trouble, costs, and grievous vexations daily grow among the King's subjects, insomuch that no man that buyeth any lands, tenements, rents, services, or other hereditaments, nor women that have jointures or dowers in any lands, tenements, or other hereditaments, nor mens last wills to be performed, nor leases for term of life, or of years, nor annuities granted to any person or persons for their services for term of their lives or otherwise, be in perfect surety, nor without great trouble and doubt of the same, because of the said privy and unknown feoffments: (2) For remedy whereof, be it ordained, established, and enacted, by the advice of the lords spiritual and temporal, and by the commons in this present parliament assembled, and by authority of the same, that every estate fe-offment, gift, release, grant, leases and confirmations of lands, tenements, rents, services, or hereditaments, made or had, or hereafter to be made or had by any person or persons being of full age, of whole mind, at large, and not in dures, to any person or persons; and all recoveries and executions had or made, shall be good and effectual to him to whom it is so made, had or given, and to all other to his use, (3) against the seller, feoffor, donor, or granter thereof, (4) and against the sellers, feoffors, donors, or granters, his or their heirs, claiming the same only as heir or heirs to the same sellers, feoffors, donors

The subjects of this realm shall not be charged with any benevo-lences, &c.

c. 4.

THE King remembering how the commons of this his realm, by new and unlawful inventions, and inordinate covetise, against the law of this realm, have been put to great thralldom and importable charges and exactions, and in especial by a new imposition called a Benevolence, whereby divers years the subjects and commons of this land, against their wills and freedoms, have paid great sums of money to their almost utter destruction: (2) For divers and many worshipful men of this realm, by occasion thereof, were compelled by necessity to break up their households, and to live in great penury and wretchedness, their debts unpaid, and their children unpreferred, and such memorials as they had ordained to be done for the wealth of their souls were anentized and annulled, to the great displeasure of God, and the destruction of this realm: (3) Therefore the King will it be ordained, by the advice and assent of the lords spiritual and temporal, and the commons, of this present parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, That his subjects, and the commonalty of this his realm, from henceforth in no wise be charged by none such charge, exaction, or imposition, called a benevolence, nor by such like charge; (4) and that such exactions, called benevolences, before this time taken, be taken for no example to make such or any like charge of any of his said subjects of this realm hereafter, but it shall be damned and adnulled for ever.

CAP. III.

Escape of felons inquirable by justices of peace.

FOrasmuch as divers persons have been daily arrested and imprisoned for suspicion of felony, sometime of malice, and sometime of a light suspicion, and so kept in prison without bail or mainprise, to their great vexation and trouble: (2) Be it ordained and established by authority of this present parliament, That every justice of peace in every shire, city, or town, shall have authority and power, by his or their discretion, to let such prisoners and persons so arrested, to bail or mainprise, in like form as though the same prisoners or persons were indicted thereof of record before the same justices in their sessions; (3) and that jus-justices of peace have authority to enquire in their sessions of all manner escapes of every person arrested and imprisoned for felony. (4) And that no sheriff, under-sheriff, nor escheator, bailiff of franchise, nor any other person, take or seise the goods of any person arrested or imprisoned for suspicion of felony, before that the same person, so arrested and imprisoned, be convicted or attainted of such felony according to the law, or else the same goods otherwise lawfully forfeited; (5) upon pain to forfeit the double value of the goods so taken, to him that is so hurt in that behalf, by action of debt to be pursued by like process, judgment, and execution, as is commonly used in other actions of debt sued at the common law; (6) and that no essoin or protection be allowed in any such action; nor that the defendant in any such action be admitted to wage or do his law.

CAP. IV.

Of what credit and estate those jurors must be which shall be impanelled in the sheriff's turn.

FOrasmuch as divers great inconveniencies and perjuries do daily happen in divers shires of England by untrue verdicts given in inquisitions and enquiries before sheriffs in their turns, by persons of no substance nor behaviour, not dreading God nor the world's shame, by reason whereof divers and many of the King's lieges of divers parts of England, by exciting and procuring of their evil willers, be wrongfully indicted, and other that ought of right to be indicted by such excitation and procuring, oftentimes be spared, contrary to common right and to good conscience. (2) In eschewing whereof, be it ordained by the King our sovereign Lord, by the advice of the lords spiritual and temporal, and commons in this present parliament assembled, and by authority of the same, That no bailiff nor other officer from henceforth return or impanel any such person in any shire of England, to be taken or put in or upon any such inquiry in any of the said turns, but such as be of good name and fame, and having lands and tenements of freehold within the same shires to the yearly value of xx s. at the least, or else lands and tenements holden by custom of manor, commonly called copyhold, within the said shires, to the yearly value of xxvi. s. viii. d. over all charges at the least; (3) And if any bailiff or other officer within the said counties hereafter return or impanel any person contrary hereunto, he to lose for every person that he so impanelleth and returneth, not being of the sufficiency as is afore said, as often as he so offendeth, xl. s.

The statute of 17 EDWARD IV. cap. 2. rehearsed and made perpetual, viz. That in every court of pipowders the plaintiff or his attorney shall be sworn, &c.

17 Ed. 4. c. 2.

PRayen the commons in this present parliament assembled, That where in a statute made in the seventeenth year of the reign of King Edward the Fourth, it was ordained among other, That where divers fairs have been holden and kept in divers places within this realm, some by prescription allowed before justices in eyre, and some by the grant of your noble progenitors and predecessors, and to every of the same fairs is of right pertaining a court of pipowders, to minister therein due justice in that party; (2) in which court it hath ever been accustomed, That every person coming to such fairs, should have lawful remedy of all manner contracts, trespasses, covenants, debts, and other deeds made or done within any of the said fairs during the time of the said fairs, within the jurisdiction of the same, and to be tried by merchants being at the same fairs; (3) which courts in these days have been misused by stewards, bailiffs, commissaries, and other ministers, holding and ruling the said courts of the said fairs for their singular profit, holding plea by complaints, as well contracts, debts, trespasses, and other deeds done and made out of the time of the said fairs or fair, and jurisdiction of the same, whercof in troth they have no jurisdiction, surmising the contracts, debts, trespasses, covenants, or other deeds to be done within the time of the fairs, and within the jurisdiction of the same fairs, where in troth they were not so. (4) And sometime upon feigned complaints, by imagination by evil disposed people, to trouble them to whom they owe evil will, some to the intent to make them to lose their fair, and some to the intent that they should have, for lucre, favourable inquests of comers to the same fairs where they take their actions, (5) whereby much people coming to the said fairs be grievously vexed and troubled by feigned actions, and also by actions of debts, trespasses, deeds, and contracts made and done out of the time of the said fairs, or jurisdiction of the same, contrary to equity, and good conscience, whereby the lords of the said fairs lose great profits by the not coming of divers merchants to their fairs, which for that cause abstain them, and also the commons for that cause be worse served of such stuff and merchandises as else should come to the said fairs; (6) please it therefore your highness, the premisses considered, by the advice and assent of the lords spiritual and temporal in this your present parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, to ordain, and to establish, That from the first day of May next

next coming, no steward, under-steward, bailiff, commissary, nor other minister of such courts of pipowders, hold plea upon any action at the suit of any person or persons, without the plaintiff or plaintiffs, or his or their attornies, in presence of the defendant or defendants (if he or they, or his or their attornies desire it) make oath upon the holy Evangelists, upon the declaration, that the contract, trespass, or other deed comprised in the same declaration, were made or done within the fair-time of the said fair, where he taketh his action, and within the bounds and jurisdiction of the same fair. (7) And although the said plaintiff or plaintiffs by their oath affirm the same, That the said defendant or defendants be not concluded thereby, but that they may answer and plead to the action, or in abatement of the plaints, and to tender an issue, that the same contract, trespass, or other deed comprised in such declaration, whereupon the plaintiff or plaintiffs do declare, was not done nor made within the fair-time and jurisdiction of the said fair, but out of the time of the fair, or at other places out of the jurisdiction of the same fair, after the troth in that party.

II. And if it be so tried, or that the plaintiff or plaintiffs, or their attornies, refuse to be sworn in the form aforesaid, that then the defendant or defendants be quite dismissed and discharged in that behalf out of that court; the party plaintiff to take his advantage at the common law, or other place convenient, as him seemeth good, this ordinance notwithstanding.

III. And that every steward, under-steward, bailiff, commissary, or other minister, holding and ruling any of the said courts, that doth the contrary to this ordinance, shall for every default in that behalf forfeit C. s. the one half thereof to your Highness, and the other half thereof to him that in that party will sue his action upon this ordinance, by action of debt in his own name; (2) and that writs of proclamation in all goodly haste be directed to every sheriff of every shire of England, to make this ordinance to be proclaimed in every part within his shire, as well within franchise as without.

IV. And that the ordinance touching fairs, as is aforesaid, should endure to the next parliament, which ordinance is now expired: (2) And for certain the said ordinance is full necessary and requisite to endure for ever, and full profitable to all the commons of this realm: (3) be it therefore ordained and established by the authority of this present parliament, That the aforesaid ordinance be and stand in virtue and strength, and alway to be executory from the feast of the Annunciation of our Lady next coming perpetually after to endure.

V. And also saving to all other persons such action, right, title, claim, and interest, in and to all the said lands, tenements, and other hereditaments, which shall grow, remain, descend, or come to them after the said fine ingrossed, by force of any gift in tail, or by any other cause or matter had or made before the said fine levied, so that those persons take their said actions, or pursue their said right and title according to the law, within five years next after such actions, right, title, claim, or interest, grown, descended, remained, or come to them; (2) and also that the said saïd persons, and their heirs, may have their saïd action against the taker of the profits of the saïd lands, tenements, and other hereditaments at the time of such action to be taken.

VI. And if the same persons at the time of such action, right, and title, grown, descended, remained, or come to them, be covert baron, or within age, or in prison, or out of this land, or not of whole memory; it is ordained, established, and enacted by authority aforesaid, That their actions, right, and title shall be reserved, and saved to them and their heirs till the time they come and be at their full age, out of prison, within this land, unmarried, and of whole memory, so that they or their heirs take their saïd actions, or lawful entry, according to their right and title, within five years next after they come and be at their full age, out of prison, within this land, unmarried, and of whole memory, and pursue the same actions, or take their lawful entry with effect, according to the law of England.

VII. Also by authority of the saïd parliament it is ordained, established, and enacted, That all such persons which be covert, not parties to the fine, and every person being within age, in prison, or out of this realm, or not of whole memory, at the time of the saïd fines levied and ingrossed, by this act of parliament before excepted, having any right or title, or cause of action to any of the saïd lands, tenements, and other hereditaments, that they or their heirs take their saïd actions, or lawful entry, according to their right and title, within five years next after that the saïd persons come to be of full age, out of prison, unmarried within this land, and also become of whole memory; (2) and also sue the same actions, and take their lawful entry, and so pursue with effect, according to the law of the realm of England. (3) And moreover, if they do not take their saïd actions, and also their saïd lawful entry in the manner as is aforesaid, that then they shall be concluded by the saïd fines for ever, in like form as they that be parties and privies to the saïd fines levied and ingrossed.

VIII. Also by the saïd authority it is ordained and established, That every fine which shall be from henceforth levied in any of the King's courts, of any manors, lands, tenements, or other possessions, after the manner, usage, and form that fines have been levied before the making of this act before rehearsed, shall be of like strength, effect, and authority, as fines so levied be or were before the making of this act, this act, or any other act, in this parliament made, or to be made, notwithstanding. (2) And that every person shall be at his liberty to levy any fine hereafter, as he will himself at his pleasure, after the manner contained and ordained in and by this act, or after the manner and form before used.

The length and breadth of cloths, and the order of dying them and wools. The ability of the aulnager, and what cloths he may seal.

This preamble is taken from the statute roll in the parliament office, Anno Rich. 3.

TO the King our sovereign lord, praieth unto your Highness your true subjects and commons in this present parliament assembled, That where in time passed this your realm of England hath greatly been encreased and riched by the mean of true making and draperyng, and also of true dying of woollen cloth, whereby a great substance of the people of your said realm have been set on work, and not fallen to idleness, as daily nowe they doo, but thereby truly have gotten ther levying; it is so now, most gracious sovereign lord, That the woollen clothes which in late daies have been made, and yet daily ben made within this your realm, ben unperfect and deceyvably made and wrought, keepyng nother resonable length nor brede, and the same clothes so as it is aforeseid unperfittly made, and deceyvably wrought, afterward ben put to be shorne, and afore be not fully wette; and many of the seid clothes, after they ben fully wette and shorne, ben set upon tentours, and drawen out in leyng and brede, that is to say, some of the same clothes being but of the length of xxiiii. yardys, ben drawen out in length of xxx. yerdis, and in brede from vii. quarters unto the brede of ii. yerdis; the which clothes so shorn er they be wette, or ells drawen in leyng or in brede, as it is aforeseid, after that they receyve any wette they most of werry necessity shrynk; and also the clothmakers, and other of your seid realm, oftyen times when they make any course clothes, and also the sellers of such course clothes, being bare of threde, usen for to powder and cast flockys of fynner cloth upon the same course clothes, to the intent to make the same cloth to appere fyne and good; and also the seid clothmakers and other put and cast chalke upon white clothes, to the intent to make the same clothes to appere better then they ben: and moreover great quantitie of wolls ben had out of this your seid roialme by straungiers, and other, in caraks, gallies, and shippies, which ben sorted the better from the worse, barbed and clakked, and thereof is made moche lorkys and refuse, of the which the refuse in substance is left within this your said roialme, and therof moche course cloth is made within the same realme, and so the fine wolls ben hadd out of this your said realme by the seid strayingiers, and the course wolls and refuse here left, by reason whereof there canne be no substance of fine drapery made within this your seid roialme to the great los of your said Highness in your custome, in paying less custome for the lorkys then for the hole wollyn flese, and also to the great hurt and decay of all your seid realm, in enpayryng of the seid drapery. Also, most gracious sovereign lord, dyers within mony cities, burghes, and townes of this your seid realm of England, usen to dye great quantity, as well of fyne clothes, as of course clothes, with orchell and corke brought from beyond the sea, called Jarecork, the colours made with the which orchell and cork ben so diseyvable, that the same colours may in no wise abide, but faden away to the great hurt of all them that were or occupy any such cloth so deceyvably dyed. Also the seid dyers

*dyers usen to dye many clothes of divers colours, and upon the lists of the same clothes fysten and sowe greate rissbes, called bullrissbes, to th'entent to make the same clothes to appere of on colowre, and the lists of another coloure wher through the byers of the seid clothes can ne may unneth understand but that the same clothes ben died out of wolles, to the great hurt of you, most dreed sovereign lord, and of all your true subgiets which shall were or occupy the same clothes, and by occasion of the which imperfite and untrew making, dying, and deceyvable delving, merchauntes of strange contrex, which hath used to bye clothes made and died in this your seid realm, unneth der bye eny of the seid clothes, to the greate rebuke and dishonour of the same realm, and hurte of your Highness, and of all your seid realm, whereupon, but if the rather a remedy be provided by your most noble grace, of werry likelyhode consequently shall ensue the destruction of drapery of all this your seid realm, which God defend. For the avoiding whereof our said sovereign lord the King, by the advice and assent of the said lords spiritual and temporal, and at the request of the commons in the said parliament assembled, and by authority of the same, hath ordained, established, and enacted, That no person whatsoever he be, cloth-maker or other, shall sell, nor put to sale, after the feast of St. Michael the archangel next ensuing, any manner woolen cloths, called broad cloths, unless the same cloth be before fully watered.*

Broad cloth shall be fully watered before it be put to sale.

II. And that every whole woolen cloth, and also broad cloth, which shall be made in this realm of England, after the said feast of St. Michael the archangel next coming, after that it be fully watered ready to sale, shall hold and contain in length twenty four yards, and to every yard an inch, containing the breadth of a man's thumb, to be measured by the crest of the same cloth, and also it shall hold and contain in breadth two yards within the lists, by the whole length of the same.

III. Also that every half cloth of the said whole cloths to be made after the said feast, after his full watering ready to sale, shall hold and contain twelve yards in length at the least, with the inches aforesaid, to be measured by the crest, and two yards in breadth within the lists; (2) so that always the same half cloth do not exceed the length of sixteen yards, upon pain of cutting the whole cloth in three pieces, and of cutting the half cloth in two pieces; (3) and also to lose for every whole cloth vi. s. viii. d. and for every half cloth iii. s. iv. d. made, sold, or put to sale after the said feast, not full watered, or made after the said feast not keeping their measure above ordained; (4) and if the said whole cloth be longer in measure than the said twenty four yards, and the inches aforesaid, and the half cloth of the same be longer than twelve yards, with the said inches, that then the buyer of the same whole cloth shall pay for as much as it doth exceed in the measure of twenty four yards, and the buyer of the same half cloth to pay for as much as it doth exceed twelve yards; so that always the said half cloth do not pass the length of sixteen yards, as above is said.

Cloth shall not be drawn nor tentored after watering.

VII. And that no person whatsoever he be, after the said feast, shall set nor draw, nor cause to be set nor drawn in length nor breadth, within this realm of England, any manner of woollen cloth, after that it be fully watered, by tentoring or otherwise, upon pain to forfeit the same cloth.

No deceitful thing shall be cast upon cloth.

VIII. Also that no man, of what condition soever he be within the realm, after the said feast, shall set, cast, or put upon on any manner of cloth any flocks, or any other like deceitful thing, upon pain of forty shillings for every cloth whereupon any such person shall cast any flocks or such other thing.

IX. Also that no cloth-maker, nor other person whatsoever he be, within the said realm, after the said feast, shall set or cast upon any white cloth or kersey, any chalk, upon like pain. No chalk shall be cast upon white cloth.

X. And that no sheerman nor other person, after the said feast, shall shear nor cancel any cloths within this realm, except such cloth be before fully watered, upon pain to forfeit xl.s. for every cloth, as often as he shall so do. No shearing of cloth not fully watered ;

XI. And that no person, stranger nor other, shall send or convey any woolen cloth over the sea, after the said feast, unless the same cloth be before fully watered ; and after that the same cloth be so fully watered, that then it shall in no wise be set nor drawn in length nor breadth, (2) upon pain of forty shillings for every cloth conveyed or sent over the sea contrary to this act. nor exporting it beyond sea.

XII. Also that no manner of person within this realm, after the said feast, retail any woolen cloth or cloths, lining, nor other, except it be fully watered before ; and after that it be fully watered, it shall in no wise be set or drawn in length or breadth, upon pain to forfeit the same cloth, or the value thereof : the same pain to run upon the seller of all such cloths. None to retail cloth not fully watered, nor to stretch it in the length or breadth.

XIII. Also our said sovereign lord the King, in eschewing of great falsity and deceit which hath grown, and daily doth grow by mean of tentors, by the assent and authority aforesaid, hath ordained and enacted, That no person, whatsoever he be, shall keep, have, or occupy any tentor, or any other thing, in his own house or place of his inhabiting, whereby woolen cloths may be in any wise drawn out in length or breadth, upon pain to forfeit twenty pounds as often as he shall do contrary to this act ; (2) but that all tentors hereafter shall be used or occupied for due stretching of cloth only, after that it cometh from the mill, and before it be rowen, and for none other cause, as well within the city of London, as other cities, boroughs, and towns of this realm, shall be set in open places ; (3) and that every mayor of London for the time being, and all other mayors and bailiffs, and other governors of cities, boroughs, towns, and villages, of this said realm, shall diligently survey and oversee that all cloths, which shall be put upon tentors, shall not be drawn out in length and breadth otherwise than is before rehearsed. None shall keep a tentor in his house.
Tentors shall be set in open places.

XIV. Also that after the said feast, no stranger shall buy any wool which shall be sent, or shall pass through the streits of Marek by gallies, carracks, or ships, or other vessels, sorted, clacked, or barked, nor no wool whereof any locks or refuse shall be made ; but that the same wool be as it is clipped, and purely wound without deceit, and merchandisable, after the growing of the country, without any sorting, bearding, clacking of locks What sort of wool strangers may buy.

locks, or refuse thereof to be made, as afore is said, upon pain to forfeit the same wool, and the double value thereof.

No cloth shall be dyed with
cork,

XV. Moreover, our said sovereign lord the King hath ordained and enacted by authority aforesaid, That no dyer, nor any other person, shall dye, or cause to be dyed within this realm, after the said feast, any woollen cloth with orchel, or cork called Jarecork, upon pain to forfeit and lose forty shillings for every cloth that he, or any other for him, or to his use, shall dye, or cause to be dyed. (2) Nor that any person after the said feast shall sell or put to sale, within this said realm, any such cloth, which after the said feast shall be dyed with orchel, or cork called Jarecork, upon pain of forfeiture of such cloth so dyed or put to sale contrary to this act; (3) this pain and loss always to run upon the seller, (4) except that cork made within this realm of England may be used in dying upon wool woded, and also in dying all such cloth which is made only of wool, so that the same wool woded and cloth be perfectly boiled and maddered.

The cloth and the list shall be dyed with
one colour,

XVI. Also that cork made in this realm may be put upon cloth that is perfectly boiled and maddered; (2) also that no dyer shall dye any cloth within this said realm, after the said feast, except the same dyer do dye the said cloth, and the list of the same, with one colour, without tacking or sewing of any bulrushes, or such like thing, upon the lists of the same, upon pain to forfeit xl. s. for every such cloth that he shall so dye contrary to this act; (3) and that no person, whatsoever he be, shall put to sale within this said realm, after the said feast, any manner of cloth, which after the same feast shall be deceitfully dyed, upon pain to forfeit the same cloth, or the value thereof; (4) the same forfeitures and pains always to run upon the seller.

Faulty cloth shall be brought to the chief officer.

XVII. Also if any of the King's subjects, or any other hereafter, happen to seise any woollen cloth otherwise made or dyed than afore is said, then the same subject or other shall bring all the same cloth or cloths so by him seised, before the mayor, bailiff, or other governor of the cities, boroughs, towns, or villages where any such seising shall happen to be made of the same cloth or cloths, there to judge by the discretion of the said mayor, bailiffs, or other governor, calling to him or them such persons as by his or their discretions shall be thought convenient, whether the same cloth be otherwise made, wrought, or dyed, than is according with the acts before recited; (2) and if it be judged by the said mayor, bailiff, or other governor, or other persons called to them or any of them, as afore is said, that the same cloth is made or dyed, and put to sale contrary to the aforesaid acts, then the same cloths so seised, and by them judged as is aforesaid, shall be equally cut in three pieces in the presence of the said mayor, bailiff, or other governor; (3) the one part thereof to be delivered in the exchequer by him or them that so shall seise the same cloth or cloths to the King's use,

In what sort Italian merchants may sell merchandises. Several restraints of aliens.

ITEM, because our said sovereign lord the King, upon petition made to him in his said parliament by the commons of England, hath conceived and understood, That whereas merchants strangers of the nation of Italy, as Venetians, Genoese, Florentines, Apulians, Cicilians, Lucaners, Cataloins, and other of the same nation, in great number do inhabit and keep houses, as well in the city of London, as in other cities and boroughs within this his realm, and take warehouses and cellars, and therein put their wares and merchandises which they bring into this said realm, (3) and them in the said cellars and warehouses deceitfully do pack, mingle, and keep the same, till such time the prices thereof be greatly enhanced, for their great lucre, and the same merchandises and wares they then sell to all manner manner people, as well within the ports where they bring the said wares and merchandises, as to other divers and many places within this realm, as well by retail as otherwise; (4) and also do buy in the said ports and other places, at their own liberty, the commodities of this realm, and sell the same again at their pleasure within the same, as commonly and freely as any of the King's liege people doth, (5) and do not employ a great part of the money coming thereof upon the commodities of this realm, but make it over the sea by exchange to divers other countries, to the King's great damage in loss of his customs, and to the great impoverishing of his said subjects, of whom they should buy the commodities of this realm:

II. And the same merchants of Italy, and other merchants strangers be hosts, and take unto them people of other nations, and to sojourn with them daily, do buy, sell, and make privy and secret contracts and bargains with the same people, to their great increase and profit, and to the importune damage of the King's said subjects, and contrary to divers statutes in this case provided and ordained:

III. Also the said merchants of Italy do buy in divers places within this realm a great quantity of wool and woollen cloth, and other merchandises of the King's subjects, and part thereof they sell again to the same subjects and other within this realm, to their most advantage, and much of the said wools they do deliver to clothmakers, thereof to make cloth at their pleasure.

IV. Moreover, a great number of artificers and other strangers, not born under the King's obedience, do daily resort and repair to the city of London, and to other cities, boroughs, and towns of the said realm, and much more than they were wont to do in times past, (2) and inhabit by themselves in the said realm with their wives, children, and household, and will not take upon them any laborious occupation, as going to plough and cart, and other like business, but use the making of cloth and other handicrafts and easy occupations, (3) and bring and convey, from the parts beyond the sea, great substance of wares and merchandises to fairs and markets, and all other places of this realm at their pleasure, and there sell the same, as well by retail as otherwise, as freely as any of the King's subjects use to do, to the great damage and impoverishment of the King's said subjects, (4) and will in no wise suffer nor take any of the King's said subjects to work with them, but they take only into their service people born in their own countries, whereby the King's said subjects, for lack of occupation fall into idleness, and be thieves, beggars, vagabonds, and people of vicious living, to the great perturbation both of the King and of all his realm; (5) and when the merchants, artificers, and strangers before rehearsed, have gained within this realm, by buying and selling, or by such easy occupations and handicrafts, great substance of goods, with the same substance they go out of this said realm to such parts beyond the sea as them liketh best, and there spend the same goods oftentimes among the King's adversaries and enemies, to the great damage of our sovereign lord the King and his subjects, and impoverishment of this realm, and the commons of the same; and so by occasion of the premises, the substance of the inhabitants in the said cities, boroughs, and towns, now late hath fallen, and daily doth fall, into great poverty and decay, coy, to their great undoing, unless the King's gracious aid be to them in this behalf shewed.

V. Our said fovereign lord the King, of his abundant grace, willing against the premisses to provide remedy in this behalf, by the advice and assent of his lords spiritual and temporal, and at the prayer of the commons, in the said parliament assembled, and by authority of the same hath ordained, established, and enacted, That all merchants of the nation of Italy, before recited, not made denizens, which have now within this realm wares and merchandises brought from beyond the sea, and before the feast of Easter next coming shall have, shall cause the same to be sold or bartered in gros, and not by retail, to the King's subjects, before the first day of May, which shall be in the year of our Lord God one thousand four hundred fourscore and five, (2) and shall employ the money coming of that sale before the first day of May, within the same port or ports, where they do arrive, upon the commodities and merchandises of this realm, (their reasonable costs and expences always except and deducted) upon pain of forfeiture of the value as well of all the said wares and merchandises kept and not sold before the said first day of May, or otherwise sold than is above rehearsed, as of as much money as shall be made over by exchange contrary to this act. (3) And also that all the said merchants of Italy, which after the feast of Easter next coming shall bring any merchandises or wares into this realm to be sold, shall sell or barter the said wares and merchandises in gros, and not by retail, to the King's subjects, upon pain of forfeiture of the value of the same wares and merchandises, which they (as afore is said) shall bring after the said feast of Easter. (4) And the said merchants which shall bring in such wares and merchandises after the said feast of Easter to sell or barter, shall sell or else barter the same within eight months next after their first arrival in this realm, in the form aforesaid, and shall employ the money coming of or by the said sale or bartering, and every of them, and with the same buy the commodities or merchandises of this realm, within the said eight months, in the said port or ports where they do first arrive (the reasonable costs and expences always excepted and deducted) and in no wise to make over such money by exchange.

Italian merchants shall sell their merchandises in gros, and employ their money in the commodities of this realm.

Strangers shall sell their wares within eight months after their arrival, and employ their money, &c.

VI. And that the said merchants do in no wise sell nor barter within the said realm their said wares and merchandises, which remain unfold after the end of the said eight months, but carry and convey the same out of this realm within two months next ensuing after the said eight months, if wind and weather will suffer it, or otherwise as soon as wind and weather will serve them after the said two months, upon pain of forfeiture as well of as much money as shall be made over by exchange, as of the said wares and merchandises so sold or bartered after the end of the said eight months, not to be carried nor conveyed out of this said realm in the form aforesaid, or the value thereof. (2) The penalties, forfeitures, and losses of all the premisses always to run run and be upon the said merchants of the nation of Italy doing contrary to this act.

Strangers may carry away so much as they cannot sell within eight months.

Strangers may remove their goods from one port to another.

A stranger shall not be host to a stranger, unless he be of his own country.

Aliens shall not buy and sell wool or woolen cloth within this realm; nor make woolen cloth, nor deliver wool to that end.

An alien shall not be an handicraftsman.
3 Mod. 94.

Aliens shall make no cloth within this realm.

Aliens shall sell their wares in gross, and not by retail.

VII. Provided always that it be lawful to the said merchants of the nation of Italy, all such wares and merchandises, and every parcel thereof, which after the feast of Easter next coming shall be brought to any other port or ports of this realm of England to be sold, to convey the same wares and merchandises at their liberties to any other port or ports, or other place within this realm, and there to sell the same as afore is said, so that they sell or barter the same merchandises and wares in the realm within eight months next after their first arrival in any of the said ports of this realm; (2) and also that no merchant stranger of what country soever he be, shall be host, or take to sojourn with him in the said realm any merchant or stranger, not being of his nation or country, upon pain of forty pounds.

VIII. Also that none of the said merchants of Italy, not made denizens, shall sell or barter any woolen cloths, wools, or other merchandises in this said realm, which the same merchants of Italy shall buy within this said realm; (2) nor that the same merchants, nor any other for them, shall deliver any wool to any person, thereof to make cloth in this realm, but shall have and convey the same woolen cloth, wools, and other merchandises, over the sea by the freights of Marrock, upon pain to forfeit the value of all the woolen cloths, wools and other merchandises which by them shall be so sold or delivered, in whose hands they shall be found; (3) the forfeiture of the same to run and be upon the merchant stranger.

IX. Moreover, that no person not born under the King's obedience, as before is said, shall exercise or occupy any handicraft, or the occupation of any handicraftsman in this realm of England, but that all such persons which after the said feast of Easter shall come into this realm, and every of them, shall depart into their own country again, or else be servants to such of the King's subjects only as be expert and cunning in such feats, arts, and crafts, which the said strangers can occupy, (3) upon pain of forfeiture of all their goods which shall come and dwell in this realm contrary to this act, in whose hands soever they shall be found.

X. Also that no person not born under the King's obedience, nor made denizens, being artificer or handicraftsman, after the said feast of Easter, nor yet any other for him, or to his use, drape or make any cloth, or put any wool to work to make cloth of within the said realm of England, upon pain to forfeit the same cloth draped or made contrary to this act.

XI. Also that all persons not born under the King's obedience, being artificers, or handicraftsmen at the day of the making of this act, dwelling in this said realm, nor none other such artificers or handicraftsmen, which hereafter shall inhabit and dwell in the same, which after the feast of the Annunciation of our Lady next coming shall use, exercise, or occupy the feat of merchandise of any manner of wares within this realm, shall sell sell or barter the same wares or merchandises in gros, and not by retail, in the port, town, or place where the same artificers be, or shall be dwelling, and in none other place, upon pain of forfeiture of the value of all the wares and merchandises sold contrary to this act. (2) Also that no person not born under the King's obedience, inhabiting, dwelling, or holding any great house or chamber in this realm, and occupying any handicraft, or being artificer, or handicraftsman, after the said feast of the Annunciation of our Lady next coming, shall take any apprentice, servant, or any other person to work with him or to his use, unless it be his son or his daughter, other than at the said feast shall be apprentices or servants with him, except that the same apprentices or servants so to be taken be the King's subjects born, upon pain to forfeit and to lose for every apprentice or servant taken to the contrary xx. l. (3) the one half of all the said fines, forfeitures, and penalties; and of every of them, to be to the King, and the other half to be to him or them that will seize the same, or pursue for the same by action of debt, by writ at the common law, by bill or plaint, after the custom of the city or town where such fines, forfeitures, or penalties hereafter shall fall and be; (4) and that the defendant in any such action shall not be admitted to wage or do his law, (5) nor no protection nor esoin of the King's service shall be allowed such defendant in the same.

Aliens shall take no servant but the King's subject

Who shall have the forfeitures.

XII. Provided always that this act, or any part thereof, or any other act made or to be made in this said parliament shall not extend or be in prejudice, disturbance, damage, or impediment to any artificer, or merchant stranger, of what nation or country he be or shall be of, for bringing into this realm, or selling by retail or otherwise, any books written or printed, or for inhabiting within this said realm for the same intent, or any scrivener, illuminator, reader, or printer of such books, which he hath or shall have to sell by way of merchandise, or for their dwelling within this said realm for the exercise of the said occupations, this act or any part thereof notwithstanding.

which they bought at forty shillings the hundred, or forty six shillings eight pence at the most: (2) now it is so, that by the seditious confederacy of the Lombards using to divers ports of this realm, the bowstaves be now at such an outrageous price, that is to say at eight pounds the hundred, where they were wont to be sold at forty shillings; (3) and also they will not suffer any garbling to be made of them, but sell good and evil at such an excessive price together ungarbled, that by likelihood in short time this realm is like to fail as well of stuff of artillery, as of workmen thereof, unless due remedy be in this behalf shortly found and had: (4) wherefore our said sovereign lord the King, by the assent of the said lords spiritual and temporal, at the prayer of the said commons, in the said parliament assembled, and by authority of the same, hath ordained, established, and enacted, That no merchant of Venice, nor other which useth to repair into this realm with merchandises of those parts, shall bring nor convey into this realm any merchandises, unless the same merchants do bring with every butt of malmsey, and with every butt of tyre, ten bowstaves good and able stuff, (5) upon pain of forfeiture of xiii. s. iv. d. for every butt of the said wines so brought and conveyed, and of the said number of bowstaves with the same butt; the one half of the same forfeiture to be to our sovereign lord the King, and the other half to the party which will therefore sue. ITEM, it was shewed in the same parliament by the artificers of the said realm of England, as well of the city of London, as of other cities, towns, boroughs, and villages of the same realm, that is to say, girdlers, pointmakers, pinners, pursers, glovers, cutlers, bladesmiths, blacksmiths, spurriers, goldbeaters, painters, sadlers, lorriners, founders, cardmakers, hurers, wyremongers, weavers, horners, bottle-makers, and copper-smiths, that whereas they were wont in times past to be greatly set awork, and occupied in the said crafts for the sustenance of themselves, their wives, children, apprentices, and servants, and many other of the King's subjects; (2) now so it is, that by merchant strangers, denizens, and other, there is brought into these parts from beyond the seas, to be sold within this realm of England, as much wares as may be wrought and made by the artificers above rehearsed, that by reason thereof the people of strange countries, where the said wares be made, be greatly occupied and increased, and the said artificers in this realm greatly impoverished, and without the King's grace shewed to them in this behalf are like to be undone for lack of Occupation:

II. Our said sovereign lord the King considering the premisses, by the advice and assent of the lords spiritual and temporal, poral, and at the prayer of his commons, in the said parliament assembled, and by authority of the same, hath ordained and provided, That no merchant stranger, after the feast of Easter next coming, shall bring into this realm of England to be sold any manner of girdles, nor harness wrought for girdles, points, laces, leather, purses, pouches, pins, gloves, knives, hangers, taylor's shears, scissors, andyrans, cupboards, tongs, fireforks, gridyrons, stocklocks, keys, hinges and garnets, spurrs, painted glasses, painted papers, painted forcers, painted images, painted cloths, beaten gold, or beaten silver, wrought in papers for painters, saddlers, saddle-trees, horse-harness, boots, bits, stirrups, buckles, chains, latten nails with iron shanks, turnets, standing candlesticks, hanging candlesticks, holy-water stopps, chaffing-dishes, hanging lavers, curtain-rings, cards for wool, (except Raan cards) clasps for gowns, buckles for shoes, broches, bells (except hawks-bells) tin and leaden spoons, ware of latten and iron, iron candlesticks, grates, horns for lanthorns, or any of the said wares made and wrought pertaining to the crafts above specified, or any of them, (2) upon pain to forfeit all the said wares so brought into this realm contrary to this act, or the value of the same, in whose hands they or any of them shall be found; the one half of such fines and forfeitures to be to the King, and the other half to him or them that shall seize or pursue for the same by action of debt, by writ or bill at the common law, or by bill or plaint, after the custom of the city or town where any such fines, forfeitures, and penalties shall hereafter happen to be or fall; (3) and that the defendant in such action be not admitted to wage or do his law; (4) nor that any protection or escoin of the King's service shall be allowed in the same for any such defendant.

The contents of vessels of wine and oil, which may not be sold till gauged.

TO the King our sovereign lord, shewen unto your Highness lamentably complaining your humble commons of this your present parliament assembled, in the name of themselves and of all your other humble commons of this your honourable realm, that whereas butts of wine, called Malmsey, were wont in great plenty to be brought into this your said realm to be sold before the twenty seven and twenty eight years of the reign of Henry the Sixth, late in deed and not of right king of England, and also in the same years, and then divers of the butts held in measure seven score gallons a piece, and divers held six score twelve gallons a piece, and the least of them held six score six gallons a piece, and then a man might buy and have of the merchants stranger, seller of the said malmseys, by mean of the said plenty of them, for l. s. or liii. s. iv. d. at the most a butt of such wine, he taking for his payment thereof two parts in woollen cloth wrought in this your said realm, and the third part in ready money: It is so, sovereign lord, that by the subtle and crafty means of such persons strangers as have the sale of such wines, the which have been made denizens within this your said realm, have caused the butts of malmseys late-wards brought into this your said realm to be sold, for to be fore abregged and minished of the said measure so largely, that a butt of their malmseys at this day scanty holden in measure five score eight gallons; and besides that they knowing, as it seemeth, what quantity of such wine may serve yearly to be sold within this your said realm, where they were wont to bring hither yearly great quantity and plenteously of such wine to be sold after the prices aforesaid, of their craftiness use to bring no more hider now in late days, but only as wolle scanty serve this realm a year, wherethrough they have enbansed the price of the same wines to eight marks a butt ready money, and no cloib, to the great enriching of themself, and great deceit, loss, hurt, and damage of you, sovereign lord, and of all your commons of this your said realm; in consideration of which hurts and damages aforesaid, and for the reformation of the same, please it your highness, of your most bounteous and benign grace, by the advise and assent of your lords spiritual and temporal, and of your commons, in this your present parliament assembled, for to ordain, enact, and establish in this your present parliament, and by authority of the same: our said sovereign lord the King, by the advice and assent of the said lords spiritual and temporal, and at the supplication of the said commons in the said parliament assembled, and by authority of the same, hath ordained, established, and enacted, That no manner merchant or other person whatsoever he be, from the Feast of Saint Michael the Archangel next coming, shall bring nor cause to be brought into this realm, any butt of malmsey to be sold, unless it do contain in measure at the least the said old measure of a C.xxvi. gallons, (3) nor no vessels with any manner wines, whoever they be, or of what country they be, nor no manner of vessels of oil, unless the same vessels of wine or oil do contain and hold the measure and assise following, that is to say, every tun to contain twelve score and twelve gallons, and every pipe to contain six score and six gallons, every tertian to contain fourscore and four gallons, and every hoghead to contain sixty three gallons, and every barrel to contain thirty one gallons and an half, and every rundlet to contain eighteen gallons and an half, according to the old assise and measure of the same vessels used in this realm. (4) And that all the vessels of wine and oil brought into this realm after the said feast to be sold, shall not be put to sale after the same feast, till they be well and truly gauged by the King's gauger, or his sufficient deputy, upon pain to forfeit to the King all the said wines and oil sold contrary to this present ordinance, or else the value of the same. (5) And in case that any person, of what country that he be, from henceforth do sell to any of the King's liege people, for any certain price assigned, any butt, tun, pipe, tertian, hoghead, barrel, or rundlet of any manner wine or oil, lacking any thing of the said assise or measure, that the seller shall allow or rebate of the same price to the buyer of such wine or oil as much Accomptants for dismes of the clergy not chargeable to answer other mens suits in the exchequer.

ITEM, Whereas the clergy of the provinces of Canterbury and York, have before this time divers times granted to the King's progenitors, in their convocations, Dismes to be levied of their goods and possessions, and after that they do appear before the barons of the King's exchequer, and the names of the collectors for the same grant be certified in the said exchequer, when the said collectors do appear before the barons of the exchequer, and enter into their account for the said Dismes, that then the said collectors be often charged, vexed, and troubled with bills put by other persons against them, for other causes and matters than touching the said account, and by occasion thereof oftentimes they fall to great poverty, and causeth the said account to be two or three years hanging and the Dismes not contented, to the King's great damage, and the said collectors also:

II. It is therefore ordained and established by the King, his lords spiritual and temporal, and the commons, in this present parliament assembled, That from henceforth if any Disme, or any part of a Disme, be granted by the province of either of the said clergies, to the King our sovereign lord, or to his heirs, that after the said certificate returned into the exchequer for the Disme or part of the Disme, and of the names of the collectors for the gathering of the same Disme, that if the said collectors come by process before the said barons of the exchequer, and enter in their account, that they shall not be bound to answer to the said bill or bills there put against them, by reason of the said entry in their account, for any manner cause, but only for the matter touching the said account.

Aliens made denizens shall pay such customs as they did before.

ITEM, Where in time past divers grants have been made by King Edward the Fourth, as well by his letters patents, as by acts of parliament, to divers merchants strangers born out of this realm, to be denizens, whereby they have and enjoy such freedoms and liberties, as do denizens born within this realm, as well in abatement of their custom, which they should bear if they were no denizens, as in buying and selling their merchandise, to their great avail and lucre; (2) and oftentimes suffer other strangers, not denizens, deceitfully to ship and carry great and notable substance of merchandise in their names, by the which the said goods be free of custom in like wise as they were goods of a denizen, where of right they ought to pay custom as the goods of strangers; by the which they be greatly advanced in riches and honour; (3) and after they be so enriched, for the most part they convey themselves with their said goods into their own countries, wherein they be naturally born, to the great impoverishing of this realm, and to the great hurt and defraud of the King's highness in payment of his customs. (4) Wherefore it is enacted, established, and ordained by the advice of the said lords spiritual and temporal, and commons, in the said parliament assembled, and by authority of the same, That any person made, or hereafter to be made denizen, shall pay for his merchandise like custom and subsidy, as he ought or should pay afore that he were made denizen; any letters patents, or other ordinances by parliament, or otherwise, contrary to this made notwithstanding.

ITEM, Forasmuch as before this time divers ordinances and statutes have been made in divers parliaments holden in the same realm, for the punition of inordinate and unlawful huntings in forests, parks, and in warrens within the said realm, which statutes and ordinances notwithstanding, divers persons in great number, some with painted faces, some with visors, and otherwise disguised, to the intent they should not be known, riotously, and in manner of war arrayed, have oftentimes of late hunted, as well by night as by day, in divers forests, parks, and warrens in divers places of this realm, and in special in the counties of Kent, Surrey, and Suffex, (2) by colour whereof have ensued in times past great and heinous rebellions, insurrections, riots, robberies, murders, and other inconveniences, to the provocation and ensample of riotous and evil-disposed persons of this realm in so offending, which offences could not be punished before this time according to the said statutes, ordinances, and laws of this said realm, because that the said mis-doers, by reason of their painted faces, visors, and other disguisings could not be known: (3) The King our sovereign lord, of his noble and abundant grace, considering the premisses, by the advice and assent of the lords spiritual and temporal, and commons, in the said parliament assembled, and by authority of the same, ordaineth, That at every such time as information shall be made of any such unlawful huntings by night, or with painted faces, hereafter to be done, to any of the King's counsel, or to any of the justices of the King's peace of the county where any such hunting shall be had, of any person to be suspect thereof, that then it shall be lawful to any of the same counsel, or justices of peace, to whom any such information shall be made, to make a warrant to the sheriff of such county, or to any constable, bailiff, or other officer within the same county, to take and arrest the same person or persons of whom any such information shall be made, and to have him or them afore the maker of any such warrant, or any other the King's said counsel, or justice of his peace of the same county; (4) and that the said counsellor, or justice of peace, afore whom such person or persons shall be brought, by his discretion, have power to examine him or them so brought afore the said counsellor or justice, of the said hunting, ing, and of the said doers in that behalf; (5) and if the same person wilfully conceal the said huntings, or any person with him defective therein, that then the same concealment be against every such person so concealing felony, and the same felony to be inquired of and determined, as other felonies within this realm have used to be; (6) and if he then confesses the truth, and all that he shall be examined of, and knoweth in that behalf, that then the said offences of huntings by him done, be against the King our sovereign lord, but trespasss finable, by reason of the same confession, at the next general sessions of the peace, to be holden in the same county by the King's justices of the same sessions, there to be seised. (7) And if any rescous or disobedience be made to any person having authority to do execution or justice by any such warrant, by any person the which so should be arrested, so that the execution of the same warrant thereby be not had, that then the same rescous and disobedience be felony, enquirable and determinable as is aforesaid. (8) And over this it is enacted and established by the said authority, That if any person or persons hereafter be convicted of any such huntings, with painted faces, visors, or otherwise disguised, to the intent they should not be known, or of unlawful hunting in time of night, that then the same person or persons so convicted to have like punishment, as he or they should have, if he or they were convicted of felony.

Revocation of the penalties of King RICHARD'S act against Italians.

ITEM, The King our said sovereign lord, understanding by a supplication put unto his Highness in this his said parliament by the merchants of Italy, resident in this his said realm of England, that where by an act of parliament, made in the parliament of Richard late pretending him to be King of England the Third, holden at Westminster the first year of his reign, it was ordained and provided, That all merchants of the nation of Italy afore rehearsed, not made denizens, which then should have within this realm wares and merchandises brought from beyond the sea before the Feast of Easter then next ensuing, should do, sell, or barter them in gross, and not by retail, to the King's subjects afore the first day of May, that then should be in the year of our lord God M, CCCC, LXXXV. And the money coming of the sale, before the said first day, within the same port or ports where they arrived, employ upon the commodities and merchandises of this realm, their reasonable costs and expences away except and deducted, upon pain of forfeiture of the value, as well of all the said wares and merchandises kept and not sold afore the

the said first day, or otherwise sold then as abovesaid, and of so much money as should be made over by exchange contrary to the said act. And that all the said merchants of Italy, the which after the said Feast of Easter brought any merchandise or wares into this realm to be sold, should sell or barter the same wares and merchandises in gross, and not by retail, unto the King's subjects, upon pain of forfeiture of the value of the same wares and merchandises otherwise sold. And that the said merchants, their said wares and merchandises, which they should bring after the said Feast of Easter, should do, barter or sell the same within eight months next after the first arrival into this realm in form aforesaid: and the money coming of or by the said sale or barterings of them, and every of them, employ and therewith buy the commodities or merchandises of this realm of England within the said eight months, in the same port or ports where they should first arrive, their reasonable costs and expences away except and deducted; and that they should in no wise make any such money over by exchange. And the said merchants, their said wares and merchandises remaining unsold after the end of the said eight months, in no wise should sell, nor barter within the said realm, but that they should carry and convey them out of the said realm, within two months then next following after the said eight months, if wind and weather will serve it, and else as soon as the wind and weather will serve them, after the said two months, upon pain of forfeiture as well of as much money as should be made out of the said realm by exchange, as of the said wares and merchandises so sold or bartered after the end of the said eight months, not carried nor conveyed out of this said realm, in form aforesaid, or the value thereof: the forfeitures, penalty, and loss of all the premisses, to run and be upon the said merchants of Italy, doing contrary to this act. And also that no stranger, of what country soever he were, should host, or take to sojourn with him within this realm of England, any merchant stranger, not being of the same nation that he should be of, upon pain to forfeit and lose at every time that he so doth xl. li. And that no merchant stranger be at host nor sojourn with any other merchant stranger, not being of his nation or country, within the said realm, upon pain of xl. li. And that no stranger shall buy any wool, the which shall be sent or pass through the streights of Marroock, by gallies, carracks, or ships, or other vessels, sorted, clacked, or barbed, nor any wool, whereof locks or refuse should be made, but that the same wool should be as it were shorn, and clean wound, without any sorting, barking, or clacking, or locks or refuse thereof to be made, as it is aforesaid, upon pain of forfeiture of the same wool, and the double value thereof, as by the same act more plainly may appear. Also that the said merchants of Italy should have and convey their wool, woollen cloth, and all their other merchandises, over the streights of Marroock, upon pain of forfeiture of the same, as by the same act plainly appeareth. The King our said sovereign lord, by the advice of the lords spiritual and temporal, and the commons, in this present parliament assembled, and by authority of the same, hath ordained, established, and do to be enacted, That the abovesaid forfeitures, penalties, seizure, and actions, comprised in the said acts, and every of them, be revoked, void, annulled, and of no strength, against all manner of persons, except and reserved only to the King, to be at liberty, to have and enjoy all manner of seizures, forfeits, and penalties in the said acts specified: and that it be lawful to the King, to grant to his beseechers his letters of safe conduct, and letters patents, surely to be enjoyed, according to the tenors thereof, the abovesaid act and acts notwithstanding, in as ample wise as though they had never been had nor made.

THE King our sovereign lord Henry the Seventh, by the grace of God King of England and of France, and lord of Ireland, at his present parliament holden at Westminster the ninth day of November, in the third year of his reign, to the worship of God and holy church, and for the common wealth of this his realm, by the advice of his lords spiritual and temporal, and the commons in the present parliament assembled, and by authority of the same parliament, hath ordained and established certain statutes and ordinances, in manner and form as hereafter ensueth.

CAP. I.

The authority of the court of star-chamber. Where one inquest shall enquire of the concealment of another. A coroner's duty after a murder committed. A justice of peace shall certify his recognisances, &c.

FIRST, The King our said sovereign lord remembereth, how by unlawful maintenances, giving of liveries, signs and tokens, and retainers by indentures, promises, oaths, writings, or otherwise embraceries of his subjects, untrue demeanings of sheriffs in making of panels, and other untrue returns, by taking of money, by juries, by great riots, and unlawful assemblies, the policy and good rule of this realm is almost subdued, (2) and for the not punishing of these inconveniencies, and by occasion of the premisses, little or nothing may be found by inquiry, whereby the laws of this land in execution may take little effect, to the increase of murders, robberies, perjuries, and un-fureties of all men living, and losses of their lands and goods, to the great displeasure of almighty God: (3) Therefore it is ordained, for reformation of the premisses, by authority of the said parliament, That the chancellor and treasurer of England for the time being, and keeper of the King's privy seal, or two of them, calling to them a bishop, and a temporal lord of the King's most honorable council, and the two chief justices of the King's bench, and common place, for the time being, or other two justices in their absence, upon bill or information put to the said chancellor for the King, or any other, against any person for any misbehaviour afore rehearsed, have authority to call before them by writ, or by privy seal, the said mis-doers, and them, and other by their discretion, by whom the truth may be known to examine, and such as they find therein defective, to punish them after their demerits, after the form and effect of statutes thereof made, in like manner and form as they should and ought to be punished, as if they were thereof convicted after the due order of the law. (4) And over that it is ordained by the authority aforesaid, That the justices of the peace of every shire of this realm for the time being may take by their discretion and inquest, whereof every man shall have lands and tenements to the yearly value of forty shillings at the least, to inquire of the concealments of other inquests taken afore them, and afore other, of such matters and offences as are to be inquired and presented afore justices of peace, whereof complaint shall be made by bill or by bills, as well within franchise as without. (5) And if any such concealment be found of any inquest, as is afore rehearsed, had or made within the year afore the same concealment, every person of the same inquest to be amerced for the same concealments, by discretion of the same justices of the peace, the said amerciaments to be fessed in plain sessions.

The causes why murders be committed.

(6) Item, the King remembering how murders and slaying of his subjects daily do increase in this land, the occasions whereof be divers; one, That men in towns where such murders hap to fall and be done, will not attach the murderer, where the law of the land is, That if any man be slain in the day, and the felon not taken, the township where the death or murder is done, shall be amerced; (7) and if any man be wounded in peril of death, the party that so wounded should be arrested, and put in surety, till perfect knowledge be had, whether he so hurt should live or die: (8) and the coroner upon the view of the body dead, should inquire of him or them that had done that death or murder, of their abettors and consenters, and who were present when the death or murder was done, whether man or woman, (9) and the names of them that were present, and so found, to inrol and certify; (10) which law by negligence is disused, and thereby great boldness is given to slayers and murderers; (11) and over this it is used, that within the year and a day after any death or murder had or done, the felony should not be determined at the King's suit, for saving of the party's suit, wherein the party is oftentimes slow, and also agreed with, and by the end of the year all is forgotten, which is another occasion of murder. (12) And also he that will sue any appeal, must sue in proper person, which suit is long and costly, that it maketh the party appellant weary to sue. (13) For reformation of the premises, the King our sovereign lord, by the assent of the lords spiritual and temporal, and the commons, in the said parliament assembled, and by authority of the same, will that every coroner exercise and do his office according to the law, as is afore rehearsed; (14) and that if any man be slain or murdered, and thereof the slayers, murderers, abettors, maintainers, and comforters of the same, be indicted, that the same slayers and murderers, and all other accessaries of the same, be arraigned and determined of the same felony and murder, at any time, at the King's suit, within the year after the same felony and murder done,

A coroner shall execute his office according to the law.

A murderer indicted shall be presently arraigned at King's done, and not tarry the year and day for any appeal to be taken for the same felony or murder; (15) and if it happen any person named as principal or accessory, to be acquitted of any such murder at the King's suit, within the year and day, that then the same justices afore whom he is acquitted, shall not suffer him to go at large, but either to remit him again to the prison, or else let him to bail, after their discretion, till that year and day be passed; (16) and if it fortune the same felons or murderers and accessories so arraigned, or any of them, to be acquitted, or the principal of the said felony, or any of them, to be attainted, the wife, or next heir to him so slain, as shall require, may take and have their appeal of the same death and murder within the year and day after the same felony and murder done, against the said persons so arraigned and acquitted, and all other their accessories, or against the accessories of the said principal, or any of them so attainted, or against the said principals so attainted, if they be on live, and the benefit of his clergy thereof before not had: (17) and that the appellant have such and like advantage, as if the said acquittal or attainder had not been, the said acquittal or attainder notwithstanding; (18) and over that the wife, or heir of the said person so slain or murdered, as the case shall require, may commence their appeal in proper person, at any time within the year after the said felony done, before the sheriff and coroners of the county where the said felony or murder was done, or before the King in his bench, or justices of gaol-delivery; (19) and the appellant in any appeals of murder or death of man, where battail by the course of the common law lieth not, may make their attorney, and appear by the same, in the said appeals after they be commenced, to the end of the suit, and execution of the same. (20) And if any person be slain or murdered in the day, and the murderer scape untaken, that the township where the said deed is so done, be amerced for the said escape, and that the coroner have authority to inquire thereof upon the view of the body dead; (21) and also justices of peace have power to inquire of such escapes, and that to certify afore the King in his bench; (22) and that after the felony found, the coroners deliver their inquisitions afore the justices of the next gaol-delivery, in the shire where the inquisition is taken, the same justices to proceed against such murderers, if they be in the gaol, or else the same justices to put the same inquisitions afore the King in his bench. (23) And forasmuch as coroners had not nor ought to have any thing by the law for their office doing, which oft-time hath been the occasion that coroners have been remiss in doing their office; (24) it is ordained, That a coroner have for his fee, upon every inquisition taken upon the view of the body slain xiii.s. iv.d. of the goods and chattels of him that is the slayer and murderer, if he have any goods, and if he have no goods, then the coroner have for his said fee, of such amerciements as shall fortune any township to be amerced for escape of such murderer as is afore said. (25) And if any coroner be remiss,

C A P. VIII.

Merchants aliens, &c. and victuallers, shall employ their money upon the merchandise of this realm.

ITEM, That where in the parliament of King Edward the Fourth, holden at Westminster the seventeenth year of his reign, it was ordained among other, That every merchant alien, and every other victualler, and other stranger, not being denizen, that resort to any place or port within this realm, or Wales, after the Feast of Easter then next following, should duly employ all the money by him to be received within any port within this realm, or Wales, upon the merchandises or other commodities of this realm; (2) or else without fraud put the same money in due payment within this realm, the same employment or payment duly to be proved by the merchant, victualler, or other stranger, before his departing out of the same port, by writing from the merchant or merchants, to whom the said merchant alien, victualler, or other stranger, hath employed or paid his money by him received for his merchandises brought into this land, witnessing that he hath so done, or else by such proofs as shall be thought reasonable to the customer or comptroller of the same port, or to the mayor, bailiff, or other chief governors of any city, borough, or town where any such port shall be, (3) upon pain of forfeiture of all his goods being within this realm, and to have imprisonment of a year; (4) saving to every such merchant, victualler, and other stranger, his reasonable costs, with certain provisions in the same, as by the same act more at large doth appear: (5) which act was made to endure but only from the said Feast of Easter, to the end of seven years then next ensuing; so that no gold and silver received by merchants aliens, and other victuallers and strangers, not being denizens, for merchandise brought into this land, is not imployed upon the commodities of this land, but conveyed and carried out of this realm, to the great loss of the King, in his custom and subsidy, and the impoverishing of this realm: (6) It is enacted, ordained, and established by the King our sovereign lord that now is, by the advice of the lords spiritual and temporal, and at the prayer of the commons, in the said parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, That the said act made in the said seventeenth year of the reign of King Edward the Fourth, with all things comprised in the same touching the premises, and every provision made in the same, be good, effectual, and endure for ever. (7) Also it is enacted by the said authority, That every merchant of Ireland, Jersey, or Gernsey, that bringeth any merchandises into this realm, shall imploy the money received for the same merchandise (his reasonable expences deducted) upon the commodities of this land, or else without fraud put the same money in due payment within this realm; (8) the said imployment or payment to be proved as is aforesaid, upon pain of forfeiture of the value of the merchandise so brought into this land. (9) And it is ordained by the said authority, That every customer or comptroller shall take sufficient surety of every of the said merchant, victualler, or other stranger, to imploy the value of the said merchandises, or to put the same money for the said merchandises received in due payment, his reasonable expences always deducted, upon pain of forfeiture of the value of the said merchandises, the one half of the said forfeiture to the King, the other half to the party that will sue for the same. This to begin and take effect at the Feast of Christmas next coming.

C A P. IX.

Freemen of London may carry their wares to any fairs or markets.

HUMBLY shewen and prayen unto your Highness, your true and faithful commons of this your realm of England, That where the citizens and freemen of the city of London have used out of time of mind to go, carry, and lede their merchandise and ware unto all fairs and markets at their liberty out of the said city; now of late time the mayor, aldermen, and citizens of the city of London, have made and enacted an ordinance within the same city, upon a great pain, that no man that is a freeman or citizen of the said city, shall go or come to any fair or market, out of the same city of London, with any manner of ware or merchandise to sell or to barter, to

this intent, that all buyers and merchants should resort to the said city to buy their ware and merchandises of the said citizens and freemen of London aforesaid, because of their singular lucre and avail; which ordinance, if it should hold as is before expressed, shall be to the utter destruction of all other fairs and markets within this your realm, which God defend, for there be many fairs for the common weal of your said liege people, as at Salisbury, Bristol, Oxford, Cambridge, Nottingham, Ely, Coventry, and at many other places where lords spiritual and temporal, abbots, priors, knights, esquires, gentlemen, and your said commons of every county hath their common resort, to buy and purvey many things that be good and profitable, as ornaments of holy church, chalice, books, vestments, and other ornaments of holy church aforesaid, and also for household, as victual for the time of Lent, and other stuff, as linnen cloth, woollen cloth, brass, pewter, bedding, osmonde, iron, flax, and wax, and many other necessary things, the which might not be forbore among your said liege people; but, by the said ordinance, every man willing to buy any of the premisses, shall be courted to come to the said city of London, to their importable costs and charges, which, if the said act should endure, shall grow great hurt and prejudice to the common weal of this your realm, and shall cause many pernicious strifes and debates between your said liege people, and the said mayor, aldermen, and citizens in time to come, by the making of the said ordinance, the which is thought may not continue and stand with good charity, the premisses considered; wherefore it may please your said Highness most noble and abundant grace, in consideration of the hurt likely to grow of and by the premisses, that it may be enacted:

(2) The King our sovereign lord, in consideration of the hurt likely to grow of and by the premisses, hath by the advice and assent of the lords spiritual and temporal, and the commons, in the said parliament assembled, and by authority of the same, ordained, established, and enacted, That every freeman and citizen of the said city of London, that now is, or hereafter shall be, may lead, carry, and go with his or their victual, ware, or merchandise, whatsoever it be, at his or their liberty, to any fair or market that shall please him or them, within this realm of England, any statute, act, or ordinance, made or to be made within the said city of London to the contrary of the premisses notwithstanding; (3) and the said ordinance and act made in the said city shall be void and of none effect; (4) and that no person of the said city be hurt or prejudiced in losing of his liberty and franchise within the said city, or otherwise, by reason or occasion of annulling and avoiding of the said ordinance and act, or for not obeying to the effect of the same. (5) And if any person be prejudiced in any wise by occasion of the same, he that putteth or causeth any person to such prejudice, shall lose and forfeit unto the King x.l. as often as he so doth; (6) and he that will sue for such forfeiture, shall have therefore an action of debt against such offender, the King to have execution of the one half, and he that sueth the other half; (7) and in such action the defendant be not admitted to wage his law.

Citizens and freemen of London may wares to any

CAP. XI.

No cloth shall be transported until it be barbed, rowed, and shorn.

9 Ed. 4. c. 3.

ITEM, Where in the said parliament it was shewed by shearmen, fullers, and other artificers, that should live and obtain their needy sustentation by mean of drapery made and draped within this realm, as well throughout the same realm, as within the city of London, that where in a statute made the seventh year of the reign of King Edward the Fourth, among other it is contained, That no person, denizen ne stranger, should carry, or do to be carried to any parties beyond the sea, any woollen yarn or cloth unfulled, but that the woollen yarn to be made in this realm should be woven in the same ; (2) and also all cloth in the same made should be fulled and fully wrought within this realm, before that any of the same should be had or carried out of this realm, upon pain of forfeiture of the very valure of such yarn not weaved, and cloth not fulled, had or carried out of this realm ; (3) the one half of the forfeiture to be levied to the use of the King, and the other half to him or them that should espy, or make proof of any such yarn not woven, or cloth not fulled, carried to any place beyond the sea.

II. And forasmuch as in the said statute of King Edward there is no expresse mention made, that the said cloths should be rowed and shorn afore that they be carried and conveyed out of this realm, whereby the said poor commons of the crysts aforesaid might be set in labour and occupation; occupation; therefore the said cloths, ever sithence unto this day, have been, and yet daily are in great number carried out of this realm, unrowed, and unshorn, into the parts beyond the sea, as well by denizens as strangers, whereby outlandish nations, with the same drapery, are set in labour and occupation, to their great enriching, and the poor commons of the crafts abovesaid, through all this realm, that of natural reason, as the King's true liege men, should have and obtain their needy sustentation and living by means of the same drapery, for lack of such occupation daily fall in great number into idleness and poverty, to their uttermost destruction, if it should any longer continue: (2) the King our sovereign lord, by the advice of the lords spiritual and temporal, and at the prayer of the commons, in this said parliament assembled, and by authority of the same, hath ordained, established, and enacted, That no stranger nor denizen carry, or make to be carried out of this realm, any woolen cloths, but that they before be barbed, rowed, and shorn within the same realm, for the relief, and setting on work of the said poor commons, upon the pain and forfeiture limited in the said statute of King Edward, made upon cloth carried out of this land not fulfilled, to be divided in manner and form as in the same statute it is contained. (3) Provided alway, That cloths, called vestes, Rays, Sailing Cloths, and other cloths, commonly sold at forty shillings and under, be not comprised in this present act.

Conspiring to destroy the King, or any lord or counsellor, or great officer, shall be felony.

ITEM, Forasmuch as by quarrels made to such as have been in great authority, office, and of council with Kings of this realm, hath ensued the destruction of the Kings, and the undoing of this realm; (2) so as it hath appeared evidently, when compassing of the death of such as were of the King's true subjects was had, the destruction of the prince was imagined thereby, and for the most part it hath grown and been occasioned by envy and malice of the King's own household servants, as now of late such a thing was likely to have ensued; (3) and forasmuch as by the law of this land, if actual deeds be not had, there is no remedy for such false compassings, imaginations, and confederacies had against any lord, or any of the King's council, or any of the King's great officers in his household, as steward, treasurer, and comptroller, and so great inconveniencies might ensue if such ungodly demeaning should not be straitly punished before that actual deed were done: (4) therefore it is ordained by the King, the lords spiritual and temporal, and the commons, of the said parliament assembled, and by authority of the same, That from henceforward the steward, treasurer, and comptroller of the King's house for the time being,

ing, or one of them, have full authority and power to enquire by twelve sad and discreet persons, of the cheque-roll of the King's honourable household, if any servant admitted to be his servant in his house sworn, and his name put into the cheque-roll of his household, whatsoever he be, serving in any manner, office, or room, reputed, had, and taken under the state of a lord, make any confederacies, compassings, conspiracies, or imaginations, with any person or persons, to destroy or murder the King, or any lord of this realm, or any other person sworn to the King's council, or steward, treasurer, or comptroller of the King's house, (5) that if it be found afore the said steward for the time being, by the said twelve sad men, that any such of the King's servants as is abovesaid, hath confedered, compassed, conspired, or imagined, as is abovesaid, that he so found by that enquiry, be put thereupon to answer; (6) and the steward, treasurer, and comptroller, or two of them, have power to determine the same matter, according to the law: (7) and if he put him in trial, that then it be tried by other twelve sad men of the same household, and that such mis-doers have no challenge but for malice; (8) and if such mis-doers be found guilty by confession or otherwise, that the said offence be judged felony; and they to have judgment and execution as felons attainted ought for to have by the common law.

CAP. II.

Allaying of gold and silver, melting, selling, and marking the same.

ITEM, Whereas it was of old time used, and continued till now of late years, that there was for the weal of the King and the realm, finers and parters of gold and silver by fire and water, under a rule and order belonging unto the mints of London, Calais, Canterbury, York

York and Durham, and in other places where mints been holden, and at the goldsmiths hall in London, to fine and part all gold and silver belonging and needful for the said mints and fellowship of goldsmiths, for the amendment of money and plate of the realm, that every thing might be reformed to the right standard, as well in money as plate, to the least cost, for the weal of the King's noblemen of the land, and common people: (2) but so it is now, that such finers and parters of gold and silver by fire and water, dwelling abroad in every place of this realm out of the rules aforesaid, and buy gilt silver from the mints, changes, and goldsmiths, and part and fine it as is afore said, and for the most part of the silver so fined, they do allay it in divers manners, and sell it at their pleasures to every man of what estate or degree soever be he, that will buy of them, to make such works as pleaseth the buyers; (3) therefore men can get no fine silver when they need it for their money, for the amendment of money and plate, as hath been in times past; wherefore it causeth money and plate in divers places of the realm to be made worse in fineness than it should be, as it appeareth evidently in divers places, to the great hurt of the King's noblemen of the land, and common people: (4) wherefore the King our sovereign lord, by the assent of the lords spiritual and temporal, and of the commons, in the said parliament assembled, and by authority of the same, hath ordained, enacted, and established, That no finer of gold and silver, nor parter of the same by fire or water, from henceforth allay any fine silver or gold, ne none sell in any other wise, ne to any person or persons, but only to the officers of mints, changes, and goldsmiths within this realm, for augmentation and amending of coin and plate, as is afore said; (5) and that the masters of mints, changes, and goldsmiths, for all such fine gold or silver coming to them, to answer the value as it is worth, according as it is now and hath been in ancient time accustomed after the rate of fineness: (6) ne that no finer nor finers, parter nor parters, sell to no person, neither to one nor to other, any manner of silver into mass molten and allayed, upon pain of forfeiture of the same, the King thereof to have one half, and the finder that can prove, and will sue for it in the King's exchequer, the other half. (7) and if any finer or finers, parter or parters of gold and silver, either by fire or water, allay or sell any manner fine gold or silver, otherwise than it is ordained in this act, he or they to lose the value of the same gold or silver so allayed or sold; the King to have the one half, and the finder that can prove it, and will sue for it in the King's exchequer, the other half. (8) Also all such fine silver as shall be parted and fined as is afore said, that it be made so fine, that it may bear twelve penny weight of allay in a pound weight, and yet it be as good as sterling, and rather better than worse; (9) and that every finer put his several mark upon such fine silver, to bear witness of the same to be true, as is afore said, upon the pain of the value found contrary to be forfeit; the King thereof to have the one half, and the finder that can prove it, and will sue for it in the exchequer, the other half. (10) And that no goldsmith nor goldsmiths within this realm melt or allay any fine silver, silver, to be for works or any other intent, but only for making of amels, for divers works of goldsmithry, and for amending of plate to make it as good as sterling, or better, for the common weal of this realm.

II. Nor that they sell no fine silver, nor other silver allayed, molten into mass, to any person or persons whatsoever they be, nor one goldsmith to another. (2) This ordinance to be kept by the goldsmiths in every point, upon pain of forfeiture of the same silver, or the value thereof; the King thereof to have the one half, and the finder that can prove it, and will sue for it in the King's exchequer, the other half.

III. Also it is ordained by the same authority, That all letters patents and grants of offices belonging or pertaining to the mint of our sovereign lord the King, or exercised in the same, with fees and wages thereto belonging, be from henceforth void and of none effect.

C A P. III.

Butchers shall kill no beasts within any walled town, or Cambridge.

ITEM it was shewed by a petition put to the King our said sovereign lord, in the said parliament, by his subjects and parishioners of the parish of St. Faith's, and St. Gregory's in London, near adjoining unto the cathedral church of St. Paul's, That whereas great concourse of people, as well of his royal person, as of other great lords and states, with other his true subjects, oftentimes was had unto the said cathedral church of St. Paul's, and that for the most part throughout the parishes aforesaid, the which oftentimes been greatly annoyed and distempred by corrupt airs engendered in the said parishes, by occasion of blood, and other fouler things, by reason of the slaughter of beasts, and scalding of swine, had and done in the butchery of St. Nicholas's flesh-shambles, whose corruption and foul ordure, by violence of unclean, corrupt, and putrified waters, is borne down through the said parishes, and compasseth two parts of the palace, where the King's most royal person is wont to abide when he cometh to the cathedral church for any act there to be done, to the jeopardous abiding of his most noble person, and to ever-great annoyance of the parishioners there, and of other the King's subjects and strangers that pass by the same; (2) complaint whereof, at many and divers seasons, also by the space of sixteen years continually, as well by the canons and petty canons of the said cathedral church, landlords there, as also by many other of the King's subjects of right honest behaviour, hath been made unto divers mayors and aldermen of the city of London, and no remedy had ne found; (3) that it may please our said sovereign lord, of his abundant grace, to provide for the conservation as well of his most royal person, as to succour his poor subjects and suppliants in this behalf, considering that in few noble cities and towns, or none within christendom, whereat travelling men have laboured, the common slaughter-house of beasts should be kept in any special part within the walls of the same, lest it might ingender sickness, unto the destruction of the people: (4) the King our sovereign lord, in consideration of the premises, hath, hath, by the advice and assent of the lords spiritual and temporal, and the commons, of the said parliament assembled, and by authority of the same, ordained and enacted, That no butcher, nor his servant, slay no manner beast within the said house called the Scalding-house, or within the walls of London, upon pain to forfeit for every ox twelve pence, and every cow, and every other beast eight pence; (5) the one half thereof to the King our sovereign lord, and the other half to every of the King's lieges that will sue for the same by action of debt, and no protection or essoin be allowed to any of the defendants against whom any such action shall be conceived; and that in the same action of debt such process be made, as in other actions of debt sued at the common law. (6) And over this it is ordained and enacted by the said authority, That the said ordinance, act, and law, extend, and be observed and kept in every city, borough, and town, walled within his realm of England, and in the town of Cambridge (the towns of Berwick and Carlisle, except and fore-prised.) Provided alway, That this present act begin and take effect at the feast of the Annunciation of our Lady next ensuing, and not afore.

Every justice of peace shall cause this proclamation to be made four times in the year.

II. HENRICUS Dei Gratia, &c. The King our sovereign lord considereth, how daily within this realm his coin is traiterously counterfeited, murders, robberies, felonies, been grievously committed and done, and also unlawful retainors, idleness, unlawful plays, extorsions, misdemeanings of sheriffs, escheators, and many other enormities and unlawful demeanings daily grown more and more within this realm, to the great displeasure of God, hurt and impoverishing of his subjects, and to the subversion of the policy and good governance of this his realm; for for by these said enormities and mischiefs his peace is broken, his subjects troubled, inquieted, and impoverished, the husbandry of this land decayed, whereby the church of England is upholden, the service of God continued, every man thereby hath his sustenance, every inheritor his rent for his land: (2) for repressing and avoiding of the said mischief, sufficient laws and ordinances have been made by authority of many and divers parliaments holden within this realm, to the great cost of the King, his lords, and commons of the same, and lacketh nothing, but that the said laws be not put in due execution, which laws ought to be put in due execution by the justices of peace of every shire of this realm, to whom his grace hath put and given full authority so to do sith the beginning of his reign. (3) And now it is come to his knowledge, that his subjects be little eased of the said mischiefs by the said justices, but by many of them rather hurt than helped; and if his subjects complain to these justices of peace,

The benefit of husbandry,

The slackness of justices of peace in the due execution of the laws.

Justices neglecting to execute their commissions, or any one obstructing them, liable to pains and the King's displeasure.

Persons grieved may complain to the justices of peace and, if they have no remedy, to the justices of assise, and then to the King or his chancellor.

The punishment of the justice found guilty of omitting his duty.

peace, of any wrongs done to them, they have thereby no remedy, and the said mischiefs do increase, and be not subdued. (4) And his grace considereth, That a great part of the wealth and prosperity of this land standeth in that, that his subjects may live in surety under his peace in their bodies and goods, and that the husbandry of this land may increase and be upholden, which must be had by due execution of the said laws and ordinances, chargeth and commandeth all the justices of the peace of this his shire, to endeavour them to do and execute the tenor of their commission, and the said laws and ordinances ordained for the subduing of the premisses, as they will stand in the love and favour of his grace, and in avoiding of the pains that be ordained if they do the contrary. (5) And moreover he chargeth and commandeth, That every man, what degree or condition that he be of, that let them in word or deed to execute their said authority in any manner form abovesaid, that they shew it to his grace; and if they do not, and it come to his knowledge by other than by them, they shall not be in his favour, but taken as men out of credence, and be put out of commission for ever. (6) And over this he chargeth and commandeth all manner of men, as well the poor as the rich (which be to him all one in due ministration of justice) that is hurt or grieved in any thing that the said justice of peace may hear, determine, or execute in any wise, that he so grieved make his complaint to the justice of peace that next dwelleth unto him, or to any of his fellows, and desire a remedy; (7) and if then he hath no remedy, if it be nigh such time as his justices of assises come into that shire, that then he so grieved shew his complaint to the same justices; (8) and if then he have no remedy, or if the complaint be made long afore the coming of the justices of assise, then he so grieved come to the King's highness, or to his chancellor for the time being, and shew his grief; (9) and his said highness then shall send for the said justices, to know the cause why his said subjects be not eased, and his laws executed; whereupon if he find any of them in default of executing of his laws in the premisses, according to his high commandment, he shall do him so offending to be put out of the commission, and further to be punished according to his demerits. (10) And over that, his said highness shall not let for any favour, affection, cost, charge, nor other cause, but that he shall see his laws to have plain and true execution, and his subjects to live in surety of their lands, bodies, and goods, according to his said laws, and the said mischiefs to be avoided, that his subjects may encrease in wealth and prosperity, to the pleasure of God.

CAP. XIII.

Clergy shall be allowed but once. A convict person shall be marked with the letters M or T. A provision for them which be within orders.

ITEM, Whereas upon trust of the privilege of the church, divers persons lettered have been the more bold to commit murder, rape, robbery, theft, and all other mischievous deeds, because they have been continually admitted to the benefit of the clergy as oft as they did offend in any of the premises; (2) in avoiding such presumptuous boldness, it is enacted, ordained, and established by the authority of this present parliament, That every person, not being within orders, which once hath been admitted to the benefit of his clergy, eschews arraigned of any such offence, be not admitted to have the benefit or privilege of his clergy: (3) And that every person so convicted for murder, to be marked with an M upon the braun of the left thumb; and if he be for any other felony, the same person to be marked with a T in the same place of the thumb, and those marks to be made by the gaoler openly in the court before the judge, before that such person be delivered to the ordinary. (4) Provided alway, if any person at the second time of asking his clergy, because he is within orders, hath not then and there ready his letters of his orders, or a certificate of his ordinary witnessing the same, that then the justices, afore whom he is so arraigned, shall give him a day by their discretion to bring in his said letters or certificate; (5) and if he fail, and bring not in at such a day his said letters, nor certificate, then the same person to lose the benefit of his clergy, as he shall do that is without orders.

Clergy shall be allowed but once. Hob. 288, 294. A person convicted shall be marked with the letters M or T. Rast. pla. f. 56. Co. lit. 50. Bro. Coron. 211. If any person in orders ask his clergy, he shall produce his orders, or his ordinary's certificate. 28 H. 8. c. 1.

Sealing of writings touching the earldom of March.

ITEM, Where afore in the time of King Edward the Fourth, all feoffments, gifts, grants, demises, presentments, nominations, releases, warrants, and confirmations, made to any person or persons, of any castles, honours, manors, lands, and tenements, or other hereditaments, or advantages, parcel, or pertaining to the earldom of March, or pertaining to any manors, lands, tenements, or other hereditaments in demesne, or reversion, parcel, or pertaining to the said earldom of March, were made and passed under a special seal, named the seal of the marches, whereby is grown great vexation, trouble, and deceit of the subjects of the King our sovereign lord: (2) Wherefore it is enacted by the authority of this present parliament, That all feoffments, gifts, grants, demises, presentments, nominations, and all other writings whereto sealing is requisite, to be made after the feast of the purification of our Lady, in the fifth year of the reign of our sovereign lord that now is, of any parcel of the said earldom, be had, done, and made by the King our said sovereign lord, under the broad seal of his chancery, as it is used in all other things concerning the crown, by the course of the common law, and by none other seal.

All writings of any parcel of the earldom of March shall be under the great seal.

ITEM, Where by an estatute made at Marlbridge, it was ^{4 Inst. 196.} ordained, That when tenants made feoffments in fraud to ^{Co. Lit. 24. b.} make the lords of the fee to lose their wards, the lords should have writs to recover their wards against such feoffees, as in the said statute among other things appeareth more plainly at large : (2) Sith the making of which estatute many imaginations have been had and yet been used, as well by feoffments, fines and recoveries, as otherwise, to put lords from their wards of lands holden of them by knights service : (3) It is therefore ordained, established and enacted by authority of this present parliament, That the said statute of Marlbridge be observed and kept in all manner of things after the form and effect thereof. (4) And over, that it is ordained and enacted by the said authority, That if any person or persons, of what estate, degree or condition he or they be of, or hereafter shall be, seised in demean or reversion of state of inheritance, being tenant immediate to the lords of any castles, manors, lands and tenements, or other hereditaments holden by knights service in his or their demean, as of fee, to the use of any other person or persons, and of his heirs only, he to whose use he or they be so seised dieth, his heir being within age, no will by him declared, nor made in his life touching the premisses, or any of them : the lord of whom such castles, manors, lands, tenements and hereditaments been holden immediately, shall have a writ of right of ward, as well for the body as for the land, as the lord should have had, if the same ancestor had been in possession of that estate so being in use at that time of his death, and no such estate to his use made. (5) And if any such heir be of full age at the death of his ancestor, to pay relief, as his ancestor, whose heir he is, had been in possession of that state so being in use at time of his death, and no such estate to his use made or had. (6) It is also stablished and enacted by the said authority aforesaid, That such heir or heirs so being in ward, shall have like action of waste against the said lords, or against them in whose ward they so be, as they or any of them should have had, and recover such damages and such penalties to be to the said lord and guardians, as should have been if their ancestor had died thereof seised. (7) And moreover, if any such lord bring any such writ of right of ward against such person or persons, and be barred in the same : that then the same defendant or defendants shall recover damages against the said plaintiffs, for their wrongful vexation in the same. Actions popular, prosecuted by collusion, shall be no bar to those which be pursued with good faith.

ITEM, That where actions popular in divers cases have been ordained by many good acts and statutes afore this time made, for the reformation of extortions, maintenances, oppressions, injuries, exactions, and wrongs used and committed within this realm, (2) which actions been very penal to all misdoers and offenders in such actions condemned, and much profitable as well to the King, as to every of his subjects that them will sue and maintain, if the same actions so sued and commenced might be truly pursued without covin or collusion. (3) But now it is so commonly used within this realm, that if any such offenders offending in cases where any of the said actions lie, then the said misdoers or offenders, in eschewing to leese the said penalties, will cause an action popular to be commenced against them by covin of the plaintiff, upon that case wherein they have so offended; (4) or else if any such action popular be commenced against any such said offender by good faith, then the same offender will delay the said action, either by non-appearance or by traverse, and hanging the same action, the same offender will cause like action popular to be brought against him by covin, for the same cause and offence that the first action was sued, and then by covin of the plaintiff in that second action he will be condemned, either by confession, feigned trial, or release; (5) which condemnation or release, so had by collusion and covin, pleaded by the said offender, shall bar the plaintiff in the action sued in good faith; (6) and by these subtil means of collusion and covin the said good acts and statutes seldom been executed against such offenders which causeth them to be bolder to offend the King, as well in breaking of the said statutes, laws, and peace, as in robbing, murdering, exactions taking, quarrels maintaining, and the King's poor subjects by extortion and many other unlawful means oppressing: (7) Therefore the King our sovereign lord, in reforming of the premisses, by the advice and assent of the lords spiritual and temporal, and at the request of the said commons, in this said present parliament assembled, and by authority of the same, hath ordained, established, and enacted, That if any person or persons hereafter sue with good faith any action popular, and the defendant or defendants in the same action plead any manner of recovery of action popular in bar of the said action, or else that the same defendant or defendants plead, that he or they before that time barred any such plaintiff or plaintiffs in any such action popular, that then the plaintiff or plaintiffs in the action taken with good faith may aver, that the said recovery in the said action popular was had by covin, or else to aver that the said plaintiff or plaintiffs was or were barred in the said action popular by covin, that then, if afterward the said collusion or covin so averred be lawfully found, the plaintiff or plaintiffs in that action sued with good faith, shall have recovery according to the nature of the action, and execution upon the same in like wise and effect, as though no such action afore had been had. (8) And moreover, that it is enacted and ordained by the authority aforesaid, That in every such action popular, wherein the defendant or defendants shall be lawfully condemned or attainted of covin or collusion, as is afore said, that every of the same defendants have imprisonment of two years by process of capias and outlagary, to be sued within the year after such judgment had, or at any time after, till the said defendant or defendants shall be had and imprisoned, as is afore said, and that as well at the King's suit, as of every other that will sue in that behalf: (9) And that no release of any common person hereafter to be made to any such party, whether before or after any action popular, or indictment of the same had or commenced, or made hanging the same action, be in any wise available or effectual to let or surcease the said action, indictment, process, or execution. (10) Provided alway, That no plaintiff or plaintiffs be in any wise received to aver any covin in any action popular, where the point of the same action, or else the covin or collusion, have been once tried, or lawfully found with the plaintiff or plaintiffs, or against them, by trial of twelve men, and not otherwise.

No release of a common person can discharge a popular action.

A weight and measure according to the standard of the exchequer shall be sent into every city, borough, &c.

Every city and borough shall make common weights according to them received, and shall mark them.

PRAYEN the commons in this present parliament assembled, That where divers acts, statutes, and ordinances in the times of the noble progenitors and predecessors of our now sovereign lord the King have been made, That one measure and weight should be used throughout this noble realm; (2) and also, That in every city, borough, and town within the same realm, upon certain and several pains in the said statutes and ordinances limited, should be a common balance, with common weights, and common measures, marked according to the standard of the exchequer; by the which, and other like balance, weights, and measures marked according to the said standard, all men should buy and sell, for the avoiding of all fraud and discord in that behalf to be used; (3) which acts, statutes, and ordinances have not been observed and kept, as now in this present parliament it hath been openly by divers persons of divers parties of this realm remembered, to the great hurt and vexation of divers and many of the King's subjects of this his realm: (4) for remedy whereof be it of the abundant grace of our most gracious sovereign lord, by the assent of the lords spiritual and temporal, and by the commons, in this present parliament assembled, and by authority of the same, enacted and established, That unto the knights and citizens of every shire and city, assembled in this present parliament, barons of the cinque ports, and certain burgesses of burgh towns, before they depart from this present parliament, be delivered one of every weight and measure, which now our sovereign lord hath caused to be made of bras, for the common wealth of all his subjects and lieges within this his realm of England, according to the King our sovereign lord's standard of his exchequer of weights and measures, as they be in the exchequer of our said sovereign lord: (5) and that the said knights, citizens, and burgesses, to whom the said weights and measures shall be delivered, as is aforesaid, surely convey, or cause the same to be conveyed on this side the feast of Easter next coming, by the said citizens to their cities, and by the said knights unto such borough, or town corporate, or market town within the shire for which they be elected, as is specified and contained in a schedule unto this present bill annexed, there to remain for ever in the keeping of the mayor, bailiff, or other head officer for the time being, of the same city, borough, or town, as the King's standard of weight and measure. (6) And that the inhabitants of all cities, boroughs, and market towns within every of the said shires, shall on this side the feast of the Nativity of St. John Baptist next coming, make or cause to be made, common measures and weights, according to the weights and measures aforesaid, to remain within the said cities, boroughs, and market towns, and every of them; (7) and the same weights and measures to be viewed, examined, printed, signed, signed, and marked by the mayor, balliff, or other head officer, in whose possession the aforesaid standard shall remain;

(8) and that every of the aforesaid mayor, bailiff, or head officer, having the said weights and measures signed and printed under the sign and print for the same, with a letter H crowned, have authority and power to make, sign, and print like weights and measures unto every of the King's lieges and subjects, duly requiring the same, taking for marking of every bushel, i. d.

None shall buy or sell but with weights and measures signed and printed,

(9) And that from the said feast of the Nativity of St. John Baptist, no merchant, ne other person or persons, within any city or market town, buy ne sell with any weight or measure, except it be marked, signed, or printed in manner and form aforesaid, ne any other person or persons out of the said cities, boroughs, and market towns, except it be like and equal with the said estandard; (10) and that every person, as well without cities, boroughs, and market towns, as within, buy and sell with a bushel sealed, signed, or marked after the form aforesaid, and no otherwise.

(11) And that all the mayors, bailiffs, and other head officers of every city, borough, or market town, shall cause twice in the year, or oftener, as they shall think necessary, all weights and measures within the said cities, boroughs, and market towns, to be brought afore them, and to be duly viewed and examined; (12) and such as they shall plaints.

WHEREAS great extortion is yearly used and had within divers counties of this realm of England, by the subtilty and untrue demeanour of sheriffs, under-sheriffs, shire-clerks, or any other officers holding and keeping the counties in the name of the sheriff, that is to say, If any man affirm a plaint before the sheriffs in the counties, or before any other of the said officers, the said sheriff, under-sheriff, or his shire-clerk, will enter or cause to be entered in their books, in the same plaintiff's name, divers and many plaints both of debt, trespass, and covenant, at their pleasure, and unknown to the same plaintiff in whose name the said plaints been affirmed, to the intent that if the defendant appear not at every shire-day or court hanging the said plaint, he shall lose

leese for his default made at every plaint four pence; (2) where divers times by covin between the said sheriffs, under-sheriffs, shire-clerks, and the other foresaid officers, the said defendants being never attached, summoned, nor warned according to the due form of the common law, wherefore the same parties, so put in suit, have no knowledge of any such suit had against them; (3) and over that, the same sheriffs, under-sheriffs, and shire-clerks, will cause divers plaints to be taken in the names of such persons that are not in plain life, where the said defendant shall have like loss as is before rehearsed; (4) so that the unlawful demeanour of the said sheriffs, under-sheriffs, shire-clerks for the time being, and the bailiffs of the hundreds, for their default and negligence in their offices, and covin between the said sheriffs, under-sheriffs, shire-clerks and other of the foresaid officers, causeth the amerçiements that be in the one year after the books be ingrossed, to amount to great and importable sums of money, (5) which sums of money been yearly levied of the poor commons in the said counties by the sheriffs, under-sheriffs, and shire-clerks, and other their deputies being of no substance, neither of honour, which deputies take and levy more by extortion than is contained in their estreats, to the expresse pillage and impoverishing of the said commons. (6) Be it therefore enacted, ordained, and established by the King our sovereign lord, and by the assent of the lords spiritual and temporal, and the commons, in this present parliament assembled, and by authority of the same, That no sheriffs, under-sheriffs, or shire-clerks hereafter, neither any person in their names, nor by their commandment, shall take and enter any plaints in their books in no man's name, unless the party plaintiff be in his proper person present in the court, or else by a sufficient attorney or deputy that is known to be of good name and disposition; (7) and that the same party plaintiff shall find pledges to pursue his said plaint, such persons as are known there in the county; (8) and that the party plaintiff shall have but one plaint for one trespass or contract. (9) And if the said sheriffs, under-sheriffs, shire-clerks, take and enter, or cause to be entered, any mo plaints than the plaintiff supposeth that he hath cause of action against the defendant, that then the said sheriffs, under-sheriffs, shire-clerks, that do enter, or cause to be entered, any such plaints contrary to the said provision and ordinance, shall forfeit for every default xl. s. the one half thereof to be had to the use of our said sovereign lord the King, and the other part to him or them that will sue and prove the same matter by action of debt or information in the exchequer. (10) And over that, the justices of peace in the same counties, and every of them, shall have authority, upon complaint made by the party so unlawfully grieved, to examine the said sheriffs, under-sheriffs, or shire-clerks, and plaintiffs; (11) and if the said justices of peace, or one of them, find by their examination default in the said sheriffs, under-sheriffs, or shire-clerks, in entering of the said plaints deceitfully, for his or their advantage, as is before rehearsed, contrary to this present act, that then the said sheriffs, under-sheriffs, and shire-clerks, shall be convict and attain of the same offence, without further inquiry or examination,

No plaint shall be entered in the county court, but where the plaintiff or his attorney is present.

There shall be entered but one plaint for one cause.

present parliament assembled, and by authority of the same, That if any woman which hath had, or hereafter shall have, any estate in dower, or for term of life, or in tail, jointly with her husband, or only to herself, or to her use, in any manors, lands, tenements, or other hereditaments of the inheritance or purchase of her husband, or given to the said husband and wife in tail, or for term of life, by any of the ancestors of the said husband, or by any other person seised to the use of the said husband, or of his ancestors, and have or shall hereafter, being sole, or with any other after taken husband, discontinued or discontinued, aliened, released, or confirmed, aliene, release, or confirm with warranty, or by covin suffered or suffer any recovery of the same against them, or any of them, or any other seised to their use, or to the use of either of them, after the form aforesaid, that all such recoveries, discontinuances, alienations, releases, confirmations, and warranties so had and made, and from henceforth to be had and made, be utterly void and of none effect: (2) and that it shall be lawful to every person and persons, to whom the interest, title, or inheritance, after the decease of the said women, of the said manors, lands, and tenements, or other hereditaments, being discontinued, aliened, and suffered to be recovered, after the first day of December next coming, in the form aforesaid, should appertain, to enter into all and every of the premisses, and peaceably to possess and enjoy the same, in such manner and form as he or they should have done, if no such discontinuance, warranty, nor recovery had been had nor made. (3) And over this be it ordained and enacted by the said authority, That if any of the said husbands and women, or any other seised, or that shall be seised, to the use of them of the estate afore specified, after the said first day of December, do make or cause to be made, or suffer any such discontinuance, alienations, warranties, or recoveries in form aforesaid, that then it shall be lawful to the person or persons to whom the said manors, lands, or tenements should or ought to belong after the decease of the said women, to enter into the same, and them to possess and enjoy, according to such title and interest as they should have had in the same, if the same women had been dead, no discontinuance, warranty, nor recovery had, as against the said husband during his life, if the said discontinuance, alienation, warranties, and recoveries be hereafter had by or against the same husbands and women during the coverture and espousal betwixt them. (4) Provided alway, That the said women, after the decease of their said husbands, may re-enter into the same manors, lands, and tenements, and them to enjoy according to their first estate in the same. (5) And over this be it ordained and enacted by the said authority, That if the said woman, at the time of such discontinuance, alienations, recoveries, warranties, after the said first day of December, in form aforesaid, to be had and made of any of the premisses, be sole, that then she shall be barred and excluded of her title and interest in the same from thenceforth; (6) and that the person and

and persons to whom the title, interest, and possession of the same should belong after the decease of the said woman, shall immediately after the said discontinuances, alienations, warranties, and recoveries, enter into the same manors, lands, tenements, and other hereditaments, and them to possess and enjoy according to his or their title in the same. (7) Provided also, That this act extend not to avoid any recovery, discontinuance, or warranty after the form aforesaid, afore this time had, made, and suffered, but only where the said husband and woman, or either of them now being alive, or any other to their use, now have entries and title to the said manors, lands, tenements, or other hereditaments, aliened, discontinued, or suffered to be recovered after the form aforesaid, and thereof now taking the issues and profits, or any other person or persons to their use. (8) Provided also, That this act extend not to any such recovery or discontinuance to be had where the heirs next inheritable to the said woman, (9) or he or they that next after the death of the same woman should have estate of inheritance in the same manors, lands or tenements, be assenting or agreeable to the said recoveries, where the same assent and agreement is of record, or inrolled. (10) Provided also, That it shall be lawful to every such woman being sole, or married after the death of her first husband, to give, sell, or make discontinuance of any such lands for term of her life only, after the course and use of the common law before the making of this present act.

gauging of them.*

WHEREAS at a parliament holden at Westminster in the 22 Ed. 4. c. 2.
xxij. year of the reign of King Edward the Fourth, among other things it was enacted, ordained, and established, That no merchant stranger nor denizen, after the feast of St. Michael the archangel then next coming, should sell or put to sale any salmon by butt, barrel, half-barrel, or any other vessel, afore it should be seen, except the same butt should hold and contain lxxxiv gallons, the barrel xliij. gallons, the half-barrel xxj. gallons, well and truly packed, upon pain of forfeiture for every butt, barrel, and half-barrel, so lacking their said measure, vi. s.
viii. d. (2) And that no such merchant, being under the said King's obeyssance, after the feast of St. Michael, should sell or put to sale any manner of salmon by butt, barrel, or other vessel, except it should be well and truly packed, that is to say, the great salmon by itself, without meddling of any grills or broken-bellied salmon with the same; (3) and that all small fish, called grills, should be packed by themselves only, without any meddling, upon pain of forfeiture, and losing vj. s. viii. d.
for every butt, barrel, or half-barrel, contrary to the said act meddled, packed, and put to sale: (4) and that no such merchant nor other person should put any herring to sale by barrel, demy-barrel, or firkin, except the same barrel contain xxxij. gallons, the half-barrel and firkin after the same rate: (5) and that the same herring should be well, truly and justly laid and packed, and should be of one time taking and salting; and that the same herring should be as good and as well packed in the midst and in every part of the same barrel and other vessels, as it should be at any of the ends of the same barrel and vessel, upon pain of forfeiting and losing of iij. s. iv. d. for every barrel, half-barrel, and firkin, so lacking their said measure, and also upon pain of forfeiting and losing of iij. s. iv. d. for every barrel, half-barrel, and firkin of herring, contrary to the said act sorted, layed or packed. (6)
Also that no such merchant or pailing-man should sell or put to sale any eels by barrel, half-barrel, or firkin, except the barrel contain xliij. gallons, the half-barrel and firkin after the same rate: (7) nor that any such merchant nor pailing-man should meddle any galbyttten, storven, or pyled eels with good eels, but that the same good eels should be well and justly packed, and so sold by themselves; nor should meddle with the said good eels, nor put to sale any red eels, upon pain of forfeiture and losing of x. s. for every barrel, half-barrel, and firkin, so barrel, half-barrel, and firkin, so as aforesaid meddled, and contrary to the said act packed or put to sale. (8) And that no merchant, after the said feast, should sell nor put to sale any barrelled fish, except the same fish should well and truly be packed, that is to say, the tale-fish by themselves, and the small fish, called gulls, by themselves, without any meddling of the said small fish with the great fish, and without meddling and packing of thokes and broken-bellied fish with the said tale-fish or small fish; and that neither the tale-fish nor small fish should be laid double in packing; and that every tale-fish should contain in length, from the bone of the fin to the third joint of the tail, xxvj. inches at the least; and that the napes of all such barrelled fish should be no longer than the little bone that fitteth upon the great fin; and that the bone of every such salt fish should be taken away unto the navel of the same fish; and that every such fish should be splatted down to an handful of the tail, upon pain of forfeiture of losing iij. s. iv. d. for every barrel of fish which from henceforth should be found packed, sorted, and meddled, naped, layed double, or not boned nor splatted according to the said act. (9) And also in eschewing of the common hurts and deceits above rehearsed, the said late King ordained and enacted by the said authority, That all mayors, bailiffs, and governors of cities, towns, boroughs, markets, and all other places of this realm, for the time being, where they should be mayors, bailiffs, and governors, should have power and authority to name and choose a discreet and expert person or persons, duly to search and gauge all such vessels as been above rehearsed, that they should be truly packed, and keep their true measure and assise, according to the ordinances aforesaid, as in the foresaid act thereof made more plainly appeareth. (10) And forasmuch as in the said act no certainty is appointed how much every such gauger, packer, and searcher should take for his labour in executing of their said office, they been their own judges, and at their pleasures take for the same gauging, packing, and searching, by way of extortion, such great sums of money as them liketh, whereby the King's true subjects are greatly impoverished and wronged: (11) that it might therefore please the King's highness, by advice of the lords spiritual and temporal, and the commons, in this present parliament assembled, and by authority of the same, to confirm, ratify, and establish the said act, and every thing therein comprised; (12) and over that, by the same authority to ordain and establish, That every such gauger, packer, and searcher, take no more for gauging of a barrel-salmon, barrel-herring, barrel-fish, barrel-eels, half-barrel, and firkin, for every piece so gauged, but a farthing; (13) and for his labour for searching and packing, if it be need, of a barrel-salmon from head to head, i. d. (14) and for his labour for boning, naping, and packing of a barrel-fish, if it be need, i. d. (15) and for his labour in searching and packing of a barrel-herring, from head to head, if it be needful, ii. d. (16) and for searching and packing of every barrel of eels, ii. d. and for searching and packing of every half-barrel of herring from head to head, i. d. and for every half-barrel eels searching and packing, i. d. and for searching and packing of every firkin of herring, if it be needful, ob. (17) And over that, that all and every such gauger, searcher, and packer, that misbehaveth or offendeth in any thing concerning the said offices of gauger, searcher and packer, contrary to this act, and so proved before any of the said mayors, bailiffs, or governors of any city, town, borough, market or any other place within this realm where he or they be so gaugers, packers, or searchers, gauger, packer, or searcher, shall lose and forfeit his said office, and the same from thenceforth no longer to enjoy, any lease, grant or grants thereof made notwithstanding; (18) and for further punishment, to have and suffer imprisonment by the space of forty days without bail or mainprize: (19) provided always, That the said searcher and packer, or any of them, shall nothing receive of the said fees by colour of their office, but only for such butts, barrells, half-barrells, and firkins, as by them shall hereafter be sufficiently searched and packed, and be not afore sufficiently packed. This present act to begin and take effect at the feast of Easter next coming, and not afore.

The penalty of a gauger, searcher, or packer offending.

Searchers and packers shall not be allowed, but where they take pains.

A remedy to avoid deceitful sleights used upon fustians.

PRAYEN the commons in this present parliament assembled, That whereas fustians brought from the parts beyond the sea unshorn into this realm, have been, and should be the most profitable cloth for doublets and for other wearing cloths, greatly used among the common people of this realm, and longest have endured of any thing that have come into the same realm from the said parts to that intent, for that the cause hath been that such fustians afore this time have been truly wrought and shorn with the broad shear, and with no other instruments or other deceitful mean occupied upon the same; (2) now so it is, that divers persons by subtil and undue sleights and means, have deceivably imagined and contrived instruments of iron, with the which irons, in the most highest and secret places of their houses, they strike and draw the said irons over the said fustians unshorn; by means whereof they pluck off both the nap and cotton of the same fustians, and break commonly both the ground and threads in sunder, and after by crafty seeking they make the same fustians to appear to the common people fine, whole, and sound; and also they raise up the cotton of such fustians, and then take a light candle and set it in the fustian burning, which singeth and burneth away the cotton of the same fustian from the one end to the other, down to the hard threads, instead of shearing, and after that put them in colour, and so subtilly drefs them, that their false work cannot be espied, without it be by workmen shearers of such fustians, or by the wearers of the same; (3) and so by such subtilties, whereas fustians made in doublets, or put to any other use, were wont and might endure the space of two years and more, will not endure now whole by the space of four months scarcely, to the great hurt of the poor commons and serving men of this realm, to the great damage, loss, and deceit of the King's true subjects, buyers, and wearers of such fustian: (4) for remedy whereof, be it enacted, ordained, and established by the King our sovereign lord, and the lords spiritual and temporal, and the commons, in this present parliament assembled, and by authority of the same, That no such iron or instruments, nor any other untrue subtil mean or sleight be from henceforth used upon any fustian within this realm, but only by the broad shears, (5) upon forfeiture of xx. s. to be levied for every default of every such person or persons hereafter offending and using any such deceivable instruments or sleights, as is aforesaid; the one half of the forfeitures to be to the King our sovereign Lord, and the other half to him or them that will sue for the same forfeitures by action of debt, bill, plaint, or information, in any of the King's courts of record, where the same may be determined after the course of the common law; (6) and that the defendant in such behalf in no wise be admitted to wage his law, nor that any protection or essoin be in the same allowable. (7) And over this, be it ordained by the said authority, that the mayor and wardens of shearmen of the city of London for the time being have authority to enter and search the workmanship of all manner persons occupying the broad shear, as well fustians as cloth: and the execution of this present act to be as well of denizens, as of foreigners and strangers.

Statutes made at Westminster, Anno 12 HEN. VII.
and Anno Dom. 1496.

THE King our sovereign lord Henry the Seventh after the conquest, by the grace of God King of England and of France, and lord of Ireland, at his parliament holden at Westminster the sixteenth day of January, in the twelfth year of his reign, to the honour of God and of holy church, and for the common profit of the realm, and by the assent of the lords spiritual and temporal, and the commons, in the said parliament assembled, and by authority of the same parliament, hath done to be made certain statutes and ordinances, in manner and form following.

CAP. I.

For worsteds, sayes, and stamins, Norff.

TO the King our sovereign lord, prayen your commons in this present parliament assembled, That where the common weal and profit of your inhabitants within your county of Norfolk, have in time passed been by the due occupation of making of worsteds, sayes, and stamins, which occupation now is like to decay, for as much as the occupiers of the same may not have any apprentice, but if his father may dispend lands or rents to the value of xx. s. by year, of which ability can few or none be had to be apprentice; (2) so that for lack of apprentices the said occupation is like to be set apart, and in time to come to be utterly destroyed, which should be the loss of the common weal of your said county, and the impoverishing of the inhabitants of the same: (3) That it may like your Highness of your benign grace in consideration of the premisses, by the assent of your lords spiritual and temporal, and of the commons in this present parliament assembled, and by authority of the same, be enacted, ordained, and established, That every person of the foresaid occupation within your county of Norfolk, the which the four wardens of the said occupation within your foresaid county yearly chosen, shall enable to keep a prentice, shall by this present act be at liberty to take and keep at all times one or two apprentices any person or persons hereafter put to the foresaid occupation, so that he pass not two at once at the most: (4) And in like wise hereafter every person shall be at liberty to put any apprentice to the foresaid occupation: any act or ordinance afore made to the contrary notwithstanding.

The makers of worsted, &c. in Norfolk may take any to be apprentice.

For weights and measures.

The weight of an English penny, of an ounce, a pound, a gallon, and a bushel.
11 H. 7. c. 4.

The measure of a bushel, a gallon, a pound, an ounce, and a sterling.

31 Ed. 1.
The weights and measures sent to several cities, &c. by the statute of 11 H. 7. c. 4. being defective, shall be broken, and new sent.

WHEREAS afore this time the King our sovereign lord intending the common weal of his people and to avoid the great deceit of weights and measures long time used within this his realm, contrary to the statute of Magna Charta, and of other statutes thereof made by divers of his noble progenitors, at his great charge and cost did do make weights and measures of brass according to old standards thereof remaining within his treasury: (2) and for that, that one weight and one measure should be used throughout this his realm, in avoiding of all fraud and discord in that behalf, it was at the last parliament, holden the xiv. day of October in the xi. year of our said sovereign lord's reign, ordained, That the said measures and weights should be delivered to the knights and citizens of every shire and city assembled in the same parliament, barons of the five ports, and certain burgesses of borough towns, surely by them to be conveyed to certain cities, boroughs, and towns specified in a schedule unto the same act annexed, there to remain for ever, to the intent in the same act more largely declared: (3) which weights and measures upon more diligent examination had with the making of the said statute, been approved defective, and not made according to the old laws and statutes thereof ordained within the said realm: (4) wherefore the King our sovereign lord, by the assent of his lords spiritual and temporal, and the commons, in this present parliament assembled, and by authority of the same, ordaineth, establisheth, and enacteth, that the measure of a bushel contain viij. gallons of wheat, and that every gallon contain viij. li. of wheat of Troy weight, and every pound contain xij. ounces of Troy weight, and every ounce contain xx. sterlings, and every sterling be of the weight of xxxij. corns of wheat that grew in the midst of the ear of wheat, according to the old laws of this land. (5) And that it pleaseth the King's Highness to make a standard of a bushel and a gallon after the said assise, to remain in his said treasury for ever; (6) and from henceforth the said new bushels and gallons, lately sent forth, be not used nor occupied for no measures, but that they be sent again unto the King's receipt by the feast of Whitsuntide next coming, at the costs and charges of the said cities, boroughs, and towns, having the said bushels and gallons, in keeping, upon pain of x. li. to be forfeited to the King; (7) the same bushels and gallons, so sent again into the King's receipt, to be broken, and with the stuff and metal of the same bushels and gallons, other new bushels and gallons, by the advice of the treasurer and under-treasurer of England for the time being, before the feast of All Saints next coming, to be made and sized according to the said bushel and gallon, which by this present act is ordained to be new made, and to remain in the said treasury, at the costs and charges of the same cities, boroughs, roughs, and towns. (8) And that every city, borough, and town within this realm, which now have, or should have had, by reason of the said act made in the said eleventh year, any of the said new bushels or gallons do convey and carry, before the feast of St. Andrew next coming, into every of the same city, borough and town, a bushel and a gallon newly to be made as is afore said, at the costs and charges of the same city, borough, and town, there to remain; (9) and all other bushels, gallons, and measures, which be to be made after the form by this act ordained, be marked and ordered after the form and effect of the said act made the said eleventh year; (10) and in the mean season to use such bushels and gallons, as have been used last afore the coming down of the said new bushels and gallons, and before the making of the said statute in the said eleventh year; (11) and that all penalties in the first act expressed be of none effect until the feast of Candlemas, which shall be in the year of our Lord God M.CCCC.XCVII. and after the same feast the same act made in the same eleventh year to stand in full strength, with his penalties, upon the said bushels and gallons new to be made, as it should have done upon the said new bushels and gallons made afore the making of this present act, if this act had not been made. (12) And that it be ordained by the said authority, That after the said new bushels and gallons be made according to this present act, that all other bushels and gallons of brass, remaining as well in the said treasury, as in all other places of England, be before the feast of Christmas next coming damned and broken, upon pain of xx. li. to be levied upon every city, borough, and town, or any other place, having the keeping of the common measures, that keep still any other bushel or gallon unbroken and not damned, of brass, than is ordained to be made by this present act.

All other bushels and gallons shall be broken.

CAP. VI.

Merchants adventurers.

TO the discreet commons in this present parliament assembled, A petition of sheweth unto your discreet wisdoms the merchant adventurers inhabiting and dwelling in divers parts of this realm of England out of the city of London, that where they have their free passage, resort, course and recourse with their goods, wares, and merchandises into divers coasts and parts beyond the sea, as well into Spain, Portugal, Britaign, Ireland, Normandy, France, Seville, Venice, Danske, Eastland, Friseland, and other divers and many places, regions, and countries, being in league and amity with the King our sovereign lord, there to buy and sell, and make their exchanges with their said goods, wares, and merchandises, according to the law and custom used in every of the said regions and places, and there every person freely to use themselves to his most advantage, without exaction, fine, imposition, or contribution to be had or taken of them or of any of them, to, for or by any English person or persons; (2) and in semblable wise they before this time have had, used, and of right owen to have and use their free passage, resort and recourse into the coasts of Flanders, Holland, Zealand, Brabant, and other places thereto nigh adjoining, under the

Flemish; and now it is so, that the said fellowship and merchants of London, take of every Englishman or young merchant being there, at his first coming, xx. li. sterling for a fine, to suffer him to buy and sell his own proper goods, wares, and merchandises that he hath there; (5) by occasion whereof, all merchants not being of the said fellowship and confederacy, withdraw themselves from the said marts, whereby the woollen cloth of this realm, which is one of the great commodities of the same, by making whereof the King's true subjects be put in occupation, and the poor people have most universally their living, and also other divers commodities of divers and several parts of this same realm is not sold ne uttered as it hath been in times past; but for lack of utterance of the same in divers parts where such cloths be made, they be conveyed to London, where they be sold far under the price that they be worth, and that they cost to the makers of the same, and at some times they be lent to long days, and the money thereof at divers times never paid; (6) and over that, the commodities and merchandises of those parts, which the said fellowship, merchants of London, and other their confederates, bring into this land is sold to your said complainants, and other the King's true subjects, at so dear and high exceeding price, that the buyer of the same cannot live thereupon; by reason whereof all the cities, towns, and boroughs of this realm in effect be fallen into great poverty, ruin, and decay, and as now in manner they be without hope of comfort or relief, and

and the King's customs and subsidies, and the navy of the land greatly decreased and diminished, and daily they be like more and more to decay, if due reformation be not had in this behalf: (7) Be it therefore enacted by the King our sovereign lord, by the advice and assent of the lords spiritual and temporal, and the commons, in this present parliament assembled, and by authority of the same, That every Englishman, being the King's true liege man, from henceforth have free passage, resort, course and recourse into the said coasts of Flanders, Holland, Zealand, Brabant, and other places thereto nigh adjoining, under the obeysance of the said archduke, to the marts there hereafter to be holden, with his or their merchandises, goods, and wares, there to buy and sell, and make their exchanges freely at his or their pleasure, without exaction, fine, imposition, extortion, or contribution to be had, levied, taken, or perceived of them, or any of them, to, for, or by any English person or persons to his or their own use, or to the use of the said fraternity or fellowship, or of any other like, except only x. Mark sterling; (8) and that no person English, as is afore rehearsed, hereafter take to his own use, or to the use of the said fraternity or fellowship there, of any other English person, of what estate, degree, or condition that he be of, so alway that he be the King our sovereign lord's true liege man, any fine, exaction, imposition, or contribution for his liberty or freedom, to buy and sell any goods, wares, and merchandises, in or at any of the said marts, more or above the sum of ten mark sterling only, upon pain of forfeiture to our said sovereign lord for every time that he doth the contrary of this act, xx. li. and also to forfeit to the parties grieved in this behalf ten times so much as he contrary to this present act taketh of him; (9) and that the parties so grieved shall have in this behalf an action of debt for the said forfeiture of ten times, in any of the King's courts within this realm, by writ, bill, plaint or information; and such process to be made in the same, as is or ought to be made in or upon an action of debt at the common law; (10) and the trial thereof to be had in such shire, city, town, or place where the said action is commenced or sued; (11) and that the defendant in any such action be not admitted to wage his law, (12) nor none essoin nor protection be for such defendant admitted or allowed in that behalf.

Merchants may resort in- to foreign countries without ex- actions of the fraternity of Londoners.

No English- man shall take of another any exaction, &c. for his li- berty to buy and sell.

HENRICUS Dei gratia Rex Angliæ, & Franciæ, & Dominus Hiberniæ, vicecomiti Essex salutem. Precipimus tibi firmiter injungentes quod in singulis locis infra ballivam tuam tam intra libertates quam extra ubi magis expediens videris, publicas proclamationes quorundam statutorum & ordinationum in ultimo parlamento nostro auctoritate ejusdem parlamenti editorum fieri facias in forma sequenti.

THE King our sovereign lord Henry the Seventh after the conquest, by the grace of God King of England and of France, and lord of Ireland, at his parliament holden at Westminster the sixteenth day of January, in the nineteenth year of his reign, to the honour of God and holy church, and for the common weal and profit of this his realm, by the assent of the lords spiritual and temporal, and the commons, in the said parliament assembled, and by authority of the same parliament, hath done to be made certain statutes and ordinances, in manner and form following.

CAP. I.

For attendance upon the King in his wars.

Stat. 11 H.7.
c.18.
What he shall forfeit which doth not at-

WHERE in the parliament holden at Westminster the xi. year of the King our sovereign lord's reign, for good and reasonable considerations in an act of the said parliament contained, it was ordained by the same, That all person and persons being within this realm realm of England or Wales, having offices, fees or annuities of the King's gifts and grants, and did not give their attendance upon the King's Highness when he should fortune to go in wars in his person, in their persons as their duty bindeth them in that behalf, that then they and every of them, making thereof default (the King's special licence not had, or else the said person or persons having such unfeigned sickness, letting or disease) that he or they after due proof of the same, should forfeit and lose their said offices, fees and annuities, and the same to stand void at the King's pleasure, as in the same act more at large it is contained: (2) And forasmuch as divers and many persons, having of the King's gifts and grants many honours, lordships, castles, manors, lands, tenements, and other possessions and hereditaments, by reason whereof they are more bound to give their attendance upon the King's most royal person in his said wars, than other rehearsed persons having but fees, offices and annuities for term of life, as well for the defence of his most royal person, as for the defence of this his realm, which was at that time by oversight omitted and left out of the said act: (3) Be it therefore enacted, ordained and established, by the advice of the lords spiritual and temporal in this present parliament assembled, and by authority of the same, that every person or persons having or occupying, or that hereafter shall have or occupy any honours, castles, lordships, manors, lands, tenements, and other possessions and hereditaments, by reason and virtue of the letters patents of the King our sovereign lord that now is, now given, granted and made, or hereafter to be given, granted and made by our said sovereign lord, and give not their daily attendance in their persons upon his Highness when he shall fortune to go in wars, within this his realm or elsewhere, for any urgent, or any other reasonable causes, in his person, for the honour or surety of the same his person, and the defence of this his realm, and against his enemies or rebels within the same realm or without, for the repressing and subduing of them and their malicious purpose, and well and truly according to the duty of their allegiance to serve the King in his said journey and voyage, and to give their attendance upon his grace in the same, and not for to depart without his special licence in writing under the King's sign manual or signet, or under his great seal or privy seal, or else till after general proclamation be made, that they shall depart, or else the said person or persons having such unfeigned sicknesses, letting or disease, that he or they may not in their persons come to do their personal attendance and service, and that duly proved, that then all such letters patents, gifts and grants, and all things in them contained, be utterly from henceforth adnulled, void, and of none effect, and at the King's pleasure. (4) Provided, That all such persons so giving attendance, shall have the King's wages from the time of coming from his house toward the King, when they come to the King, and from the King home again at the time of their departing, after the rate of xx. miles for a day, and while they be with the King's grace to have also the King's wages. CAP. V.

Coin.

THE King our sovereign lord, seeing evidently that his coin, and specially of silver, is sore impaired, as well by clipping thereof, as counterfeiting of the same, and by bringing into this his realm of the coin of Ireland, by occasion whereof great rumour and variance daily increaseth among his subjects for taking and refusing of the same : (2) for ceasing and pacifying whereof, and for the universal weal of this his realm, by the advice and assent of his lords spiritual and temporal, and the commons in this present parliament assembled, and by authority of the same, hath ordained, established, and enacted, That all manner of gold of the coins of a sovereign, half sovereign, ryal, half ryal, and the fourth part of a ryal, the angel, and the half angel, and every of them, being gold, whole and weight, shall go and be current in payment through all this his realm for the sum that they were coined for. (3) And also that as well all manner groats of English coin, and of the coin of other lands now current in this realm for groats, or for iv. d. being silver, and not clipped, minished, or otherwise impaired, except reasonable wearing (albeit they be cracked) as all manner of half groats, or pence of ij. d. of English coin, or of the coin of other lands, now current in this realm for half groats, or for ij. d. not clipped, minished, or otherwise impaired, being silver (howbeit they be cracked) shall in likewise go and be current through all the same realm for the sum as they were coined for. (4) And over over that, That all manner of pence being silver, and having the print of the King's coin, shall have course, and be current for payment, as well to him in all his receipts, as to all his receivers, and to all other lords spiritual and temporal, and their receivers, and to all other within this his realm, without any manner refusal or contradiction; except only pence bearing spurs, or the mullet, betwixt the bars of the crofs; and those pence so bearing the print of the spur, or the mullet, to have course for half d. and not above. (5) And if any person hereafter refuse any coin afore rehearsed, to take it in payment after the effect and the tenor of this act, that then he that so refuseth it shall be compelled by the mayor, sheriff, bailiff, constable, or other chief officer or governor of the town or place where any such payment shall be refused, to accept and take the same payment, (6) and furthermore to be imprisoned, or otherwise punished by the discretion of the said mayor, sheriff, bailiff, constable, or other chief officer or governor afore rehearsed. (7) And if the said mayor, sheriff, bailiff, constable, or other chief officer or governor refuse to take any such coin in payment, as it is above rehearsed, that then he so refusing the said payment, to be compelled by the justices of the peace of the same county where such payment shall be so refused, to accept and take the same payment, and he so refusing the same, to be further punished for the said refusing by the discretion of the same justice. (8) And also it is ordained by the said authority, That all manner of groats and half groats, or pence of ij. d. as well English coin, as coin of other lands, clipped, minished, or otherwise impaired, except reasonable wearing, shall not go nor be in any wise current for payment within this realm, but utterly to be refused and forsaken in payment from henceforth: (9) And that notwithstanding it shall be lawful to any person having any such groats or pence of ij. d. clipped or minished, to bring the same to the King's mint, there to be changed after the custom of the same mint, or convert the same into plate, bullion, or otherwise sell or employ it to his most profit and advantage within this realm, any other act or acts to the contrary in any wise notwithstanding. (10) And in eschewing and avoiding of such clipping in time to come, the King our sovereign lord, by the advice of his council, hath caused to be made new coins of groats, and pence of ij. d. and that every piece of the same coins shall have a circle about the utter part thereof; (11) and also that all manner of gold hereafter to be coined within this his realm shall have the whole scripture about every piece of the same gold, without lacking of any part thereof, to the intent that his subjects hereafter may have perfect knowledge by that circle or scripture when the same coins be clipped or impaired. (12) And also it is enacted by the said authority, That if the warden and controller of the King's mints hereafter duly execute not their offices in searching the same coins, and see that it be made perfect in form afore said, before that it pass from the said mint, that then the same warden and controller shall shall forfeit their said office, and make fine for the same at the King's pleasure. (13) Moreover it is enacted by the said authority, That no manner of person shall carry nor convey, nor cause to be carried or conveyed, out of this realm, any bullion, plate, or coin of gold and silver into Ireland, over and above the sum of vi. s. viii. d. nor convey any such bullion, plate, or coin into any ship, boat or other vessels to the said intent, upon pain to forfeit the said bullion, plate, or coin, and to have imprisonment, and make fine and ransom at the King's will: (14) And in like wise, That no manner person bring nor convey, nor cause to be brought nor conveyed, any manner of coin of gold or silver above the sum of iii. s. iv. d. of the coin of Ireland into this realm, upon pain of forfeiture of all the same coin above the said sum of iii. s. iv. d. so brought into this realm, and to have imprisonment, and to make fine and ransom at the King's pleasure; (15) and that it shall be lawful for every of the King's subjects to take and seise all such money of the coin of Ireland, hereafter to be brought or conveyed into this realm, over and above the said sum of iii. s. iv. d. and to bring it to the King's mint, there to leave the same to the King's use; (16) and every person that so shall bring any such Irish money to the said mint, shall have the value of the one half of all such Irish money by him so brought to the said mint at the same time delivered to him to his own use by the master of the mint for the time being.

CAP. VI.

Pewterers walking.

Several evil practices used by pewterers
and brasiers.

TO the King our sovereign lord, and to the noble lords spiritual and temporal, and commons, in this present parliament assembled, humbly and lamentably shewn and complain unto your most abundant grace, your humble subjects the pewterers and brasiers of your cities of London and York, and of all other places of this your realm, That whereas many simple and evil disposed persons of this your realm of England, using the said crafts, daily go about this your realm from village, from town, and from house to house, as well in woods and forests, and in other places, to buy pewter and bras; (2) and that knowing thieves and other pickers that steal as well pewter and bras belonging to your Highness, and under your mark, and to the lords spiritual and temporal, as to other your subjects of this your realm, bring such stolen vessels unto them in such hid places to sell, and sell it for little or nought, and about they bring it into privy places or into corners of cities or towns, and there sell much part of it to strangers, which carry it over the sea by stealth: (3) also the said persons so going about, and divers other using the said crafts, use to make new vessels, and mix good metal and bad together, and make it naught, and sell them for good stuff, where indeed the stuff and metal thereof is not worth the fourth part that it is sold for, to the great hurt, deceit, and loss of your subjects: (4) also divers persons using the said crafts, have deceitful and untrue beams and scales, that one of them would stand even with twelve pound weight at one end against a quarter of pound at the other end, to the singular advantage of themselves, and to the great deceit and loss of your subjects, buyers and sellers with them. (5) For reformation of the premisses, it would please your highness of your most abundant grace, with the advice of the lords spiritual and temporal, and the commons in this present parliament assembled, and by authority of the same, to enact and establish, That no person or persons using the said crafts of pewterers and brasiers, from henceforth shall sell or change any pewter or brasse, new or old, at any place or places within your realm, but only in open fairs or markets, or in their own dwelling-houses, but if they be desired by the said buyers of such ware, upon pain of forfeiture to our sovereign lord the King for every such default x. li. (6) Also that by the same authority it may be enacted and established, That no person ne persons, of what condition or degree soever he or they be of, from henceforth within the said cities of London and York, or without, either cast or work any pewter vessel or brasse at any place or places within this your realm, but that it be as good fine metal as the pewter and brasse cast and wrought after the perfect goodnes of the same within the city of London, and by the statutes of the same ought to be, upon pain of forfeiture of all such pewter and brasse so cast and wrought of worse pewter or brasse than ought to be wrought in the same cities; that one half of every such forfeiture to be to the use of your highness, and that other half to the use of the finders thereof. (7) Provided alway, That this forfeiture in no wise stretch ne extend to brasse or pewter being in the possession of any person other than the workers of the same, or such as have the same to sell, and being of the crafts or mysteries. (8) Also that it may by the same authority be enacted and established, That no manner person or persons, of what degree or condition soever he or they be of, from henceforth make no hollow wares of pewter, that is to say, salts and pots that are made of pewter called Ley-Metal, but that it may be after the assise of pewter ley-metal wrought within the city of London; (9) and that the makers of such wares shall mark the same wares with several marks of their own, to the intent that the makers of such wares shall avow the same wares by them (as above said) to be wrought; (10) and that all and every such wares not sufficiently made and wrought, and not marked in form above said, found in the possession of the same maker or seller, to be forfeited; (11) and if the same ware be sold, the said maker to forfeit the value of the same ware so unlawfully wrought and sold; the one half of the said wares, or the moiety of the value thereof, to be to the use of your highness, and the other half to be to the use of the finder or finders, or searchers thereof. Also that it may be by the same authority enacted and established, That if any person or persons hereafter using, buying, and selling of pewter or brasse, that hereafter occupy any deceivable or false beams or weights of the said wares, that every such person or persons using or occupying such deceivable and untrue beams or weights, to forfeit xx. s.

the one half to the King, and the other half to the party that therefore shall sue by action of debt ; (12) and that in the said action no protection nor essoin shall be allowed ; and also the said party so offending shall forfeit his beams to him that shall seise it ; (13) and if the said offender or offenders be not sufficient to pay the said sum or sums by them so forfeited, that then it shall be lawful to the mayors, bailiffs, or other head officers of such place or places where any such offender or offenders shall be found, to put them in the stocks, and them so to keep till the next market-day next adjoining, and in the market-place to put them in the pillory all the market-time. (14) And furthermore, That it be lawful by the said authority, That the master and wardens of the said craft of Pewterers, within every city and borough of this realm where such wardens are, and, where no such wardens are, the head or governor of the same city or borough, to appoint certain persons most expert in the knowledge of the same, to make search within the said cities or boroughs where they dwell. (15) And over this, the justices of peace with in every shire, at their general session holden at Michaelmas, shall assign and appoint two certain persons having experience therein, to make search in the premisses in every part of that shire, as well within the franchise as without, saving in cities or boroughs where searchers be appointed by the heads and governors of the same ; (16) and that of all such unlawful pewter and brass as the said searchers shall find, the one half to the use of your grace, and the other half to the said searchers ; (17) and that in the default of the said masters and wardens of the said occupations not searching in form as is aforesaid, and whereby that any such unlawful metal is cast or made, or unlawful weights used, that then it shall be lawful to any person or persons having sufficient cunning and knowledge in the said occupations, by oversight of the mayors, bailiffs, and head officers of the said cities and boroughs, to search all the said places, and to put the said authority and act in execution in form aforesaid. (18) Provided alway, That this present act continue and endure to the next parliament and no longer.

Hob. 210.
15 H. 6. c. 6.

PRAYEN the commons in this present parliament assembled, That where in a parliament holden at Westminster the fifteenth year of the reign of the blessed King Henry the Sixth, for that that masters, wardens, and people of guilds, fraternities, and other companies incorporate, dwelling in divers parts of the realm, oftentimes by colour of rule and governance to them granted and confirmed by charters and letters patents of divers Kings, made among themselves, many unlawful and unreasonable ordinances, as well in prices of wares as other things, for their own singular profit, and to the common hurt and damage of the people : (2) it was enacted, That there should from henceforth no such masters, wardens, nor companies, make nor use no ordinance

nance in disheritance or diminution of the prerogative of the King, nor of other, nor against the common profit of the people, nor none other ordinance of charge make and use, but if it were first discussed and proved by good and reasonable advice by the justices of the peace, or the chief governors of cities, and before them entered of record, (3) and that upon pain to lose and forfeit the force and the effect of all the articles in their said letters patents and charters contained concerning the same, and over that to lose and pay x. li. to the King for every ordinance that any of them made or used to the contrary; (4) and this ordinance to endure at the King's pleasure, as in the same act it appeareth; (5) which act is now expired, and sith the expiring of the same, divers and many ordinances have been made by many and divers private bodies corporate within cities, towns, and boroughs, contrary to the King's prerogative, his laws and the common weal of his subjects: (6) Be it therefore ordained, established, and enacted by the King our sovereign lord, by the advice of the lords spiritual and temporal, and the commons, in this present parliament assembled, and by authority of the same, That no masters, wardens, and fellowships of crafts or mysteries, nor any of them, nor any rulers of guilds or fraternities take upon them to make, any acts or ordinances, ne to execute any acts or ordinances by them heretofore made, in disheritance or diminution of the prerogative of the King, nor of other, nor against the common profit of the people, but that the same acts or ordinances be examined and approved by the chancellor, treasurer of England, or chief justices of either benches, or three of them, or before both the justices of assise in their circuit or progress in that shire where such acts or ordinances be made, upon pain of forfeiture of xl. li. for every time that they do contrary. (7) And over that it is enacted, That none of the same bodies corporate take upon them to make any acts or ordinances to restrain any person or persons to sue to the King's highness, or to any of his courts for due remedy to be had in their causes, ne put ne execute any penalty or punishment upon any of them for any such suit to be made, upon pain of forfeiture of xl. li. for every time that they do the contrary. to be taken or levied but only of merchant strangers: (2) Be it therefore ordained, established, and enacted by the King our sovereign lord, and by the assent of the lords spiritual and temporal, and the commons in this present parliament assembled, and by authority of the same, That if any mayor, sheriff, bailiff, or other officer in any city, borough, or town within this realm, distrain, take, or levy any custom called Scavage, otherwise called Shewage, of any merchant denizen, or of any other of the King's subjects denizens, of or for any manner of merchandise to our sovereign lord the King before truly customed, that is brought or conveyed by land or by water, to be uttered and sold in any city, borough, or town in this land; or if that any mayor, sheriff, bailiff, or other officer in any city, borough, or town, for nonpayment of the said scavage, let or disturb any merchant, or any other person or persons, being denizens, to sell and utter their merchandise by them brought into any city, borough, and town, that then every mayor, sheriff, bailiff, or other officer distraining, levying, or taking any such scavage, or otherwise offending in any thing contrary to this present act, shall forfeit for every time he so offendeth, xx. li. the one moiety thereof to our sovereign lord the King, and the other moiety thereof to the party in that behalf grieved, or to any other that first sueth in that party by action of debt in any shire within this realm to be sued, (3) and that the defendants in any such action be not admitted to wage or do their law, nor any protection ne essoin for any such defendants be allowed in the same. (4) Provided alway, That the mayor, sheriffs, and commonalty of the city of London, and every of them, shall have and take all such sums of money for the said scavage, and of every person denizen, as by our sovereign lord the King, and his honourable council shall be determined to be the right and title of the mayor, sheriffs, and commonalty of the said city of London, or any of them, this act in any wise notwithstanding.

CAP. IX.

Process in actions upon the case sued in the King's bench and common pleas

FORASMUCH as before this time there hath been great delays in actions of the case, that hath been sued as well before the King in his bench, as in his court of his common bench, because of which delays many persons have been put from their remedy: (2) be it therefore ordained, enacted, and established by the King our sovereign lord, by the advice and assent of the lords spiritual and temporal, and the commons, in this present parliament assembled, and by authority of the same, That like process be had hereafter in actions upon the case, as well sued and hanging, as to be sued, in any of the said courts, as in actions of trespass or debt.

What process shall be awarded in actions upon the case sued in the king's bench, or common bench. Bro. exigent. 29. Sid. 148, 259, 260.

CAP. X.

Sheriffs.

BE it ordained, established, and enacted by the King our sovereign lord, by the advice, and assent of his lords spiritual and temporal, and the commons, in this present parliament assembled, and by authority of the same, That every sheriff within every county within this realm of England have the custody, rule, keeping, and charge, from the Quindecim Pasche next coming, of every of the King's common gaols, prisons, and prisoners in the same, in every of the said counties where he is sheriff, during the time of his office, except all gaols whereof any person or persons spiritual or temporal, or body corporate, have the keeping of estate of inheritance, or by succession; (2) and from the same Quindecim of Pasche next coming, that all letters patents made to any person or persons for term of life or lives, or for term of years, of the keeping of the said gaols, and of any constableness of any castle, wherein any such common gaol is, by the King our sovereign lord, or any other Kings of this land, and every thing in the said letters patents contained, be from henceforth repealed, adnulled, void, and of no force ne effect in the law: (3) and that every such sheriff, from the said Quindecim of Pasche, be charged and chargeable with the said gaols, prisons, and the prisoners remaining in the same. (4) And over that, where divers and many persons, for treason, murder, robberies, and other felonies, before this time have been taken, some for suspicion of the same deeds, and some upon indictments, and thereupon brought unto the same gaols and prisons, and sometime remained in the keeping of the persons that so arrested them for the said causes, and by colour of negligence, subtilly and craftily, and oftentimes for favour, mede, affection, or corruption, suffered the said offenders to escape, as if it had been by negligence, to the overt and express impediment of justice, and execution of the King's laws ordered for the punishment of such offenders; (5) and when such escapes have been found before the justices having authority to enquire thereof, and thereupon the parties convicted, or else yielded themselves to make fine for

for the same, small fines have been used to be set in those causes, to the little dread and fear, and great imboldening of the said offenders and misdoers; by mean whereof great and errand felons, and heinous murderers, oftentimes have by negligence escaped, so that neither they, nor the keepers of them from whom they escaped, hitherto have not been punished according to their demerits: (6) Be it therefore enacted, ordained, and established by the said authority of this present parliament, That for every negligent escape hereafter from any sheriff, having the keeping of any gaol, or from any constable of castle, or other, being keeper of any gaols where such prisoners accustomedly have been and shall be kept, of persons indicted of high treason, being in their keeping, that no less fine be set or made for every such escape, than C. mark, and more, by the discretion of the justices that shall assess such fines; (7) and for every person escaping, being in their keeping for suspicion of high treason, no less fine to be set ne made than xl. li. (8) and for every escape of persons indicted of murder or petit treason, xx. li. at the least, and more, by the discretion of the justices that shall assess such fines; (9) and for every escape of persons suspected of murder or petit treason, x. li. or more, by the discretion of the justices that shall assess such fines; (10) and for every person escaping, being in their keeping, indicted of felony, other than murder or treason, x. li. and for every person suspected of felony, other than murder or treason, as is aforesaid, to forfeit for every such escape C.s. or more, by the discretion of the justices, after the manner and quantity of their offences or demerits, (11) saving to every person or persons, their heirs; and their successors, such sufficient and lawful right and title to any such escapes, and fines for the same, or to be quit of such escapes, or of any other escapes, as they have or ought to have at the time of making this act; this act, or any clause contained in the same in any thing notwithstanding. (12) And if any person hereafter have any prisoner in his keeping, arrested for suspicion of felony, treason, or murder, and that person that so is arrested, escape by negligent keeping before that he be brought to the gaol, that that person from whom he so escaped, shall forfeit for every person that so doth escape, such fines as shall be set by the discretion of the justices that shall have authority to assess such fines, as the case shall require, and the same forfeiture to go to them that be intitled to have such forfeiture at the time of making this act. (13) And moreover, be it enacted and ordained by the said authority, That all offices of constables of castles, fortresses, or other places, and all other offices within this realm of England or Wales, not requiring actual exercise in any of the same offices by them to whom such grant or office is made or granted, or by their deputy or deputies, granted by the King our sovereign lord that now is, to any person or persons for term of life or lives, and the letters patents of the same, shall be from the Feast of Pasche next coming utterly repealed, adnulled, void, and of no force ne effect in the law. (14) And this act, as concerning the penalties aforesaid, and

CAP. XI.

For deer-hays and buck-stalls.

FORASMUCH as it is well understood and known, that the greatest destruction of red deer and fallow within this realm in time past hath been, and yet is, with nets called deer-hays and buck-stalls, and stalking with beasts, to the great displeasure of our sovereign lord the King, and of all the lords and other noblemen within this his realm, having forests, chases, or parks in their possessions, rule, or keeping; so that if the said nets or stalking should unlawfully be used and occupied in time coming, as they have been in time past, the most part of the forests, chases, and parks of this realm should be therewith destroyed: (2) Be it therefore established and enacted, by the lords spiritual and temporal, and the commons, in this present parliament assembled, and by authority of the same, That any person or persons, spiritual or temporal, having no park, chase, nor forest of their own, keep, nor cause to be kept any nets called Deer-hays, or Buck-stalls, by the space of a month next after the proclamation of this act made; (3) upon pain of forfeiture for every month that he or they so keep or cause to be kept the same nets, hays, or buck-stalls, x. li. (4) And that no person from henceforth stalk, nor cause any other person to stalk, with any bush or beasts to any deer, being in any park, chase, or forest, or without, but if it be within his own ground, chase, forest, or park, without licence of the owner, master of the game, or keeper of the same ground, chase, forest, or park, upon pain of forfeiture for every time that he or they so stalketh, x. li. (5) And furthermore, That no person ne persons without his own ground slay, take, or cause to be taken by mean of craft or engine, any herons, without it be with hawking, or with a long bow, upon pain of forfeiture for every heron taken or slain vi. s. viii. d. (6) And that no person or persons without his or their own ground take any young herons out of the nest, without licence of the owner of the ground where the said nest is, upon pain of forfeiture for every heron so taken out of the nest, x. s. (7) And that every man that will, may and shall be admitted to sue for every of the said forfeitures by action of debt, and like process to be had and made therein, as in other actions of debt at the making of this act; (8) and that the defendant be not admitted to tend nor to do his law in any such action, nor any essoin nor protection to be allowed for the defendant in the same. (9) And that two justices of peace in their sessions, shall have authority to call before them any person suspected of the premises,

The penalty for keeping of deer-hays or buck-stalls.

The penalty for stalking, or causing another to stalk at a deer without licence.

The penalty for taking of young herons out of the nest.

Riot.

WHEREAS in the parliament holden at Westminster the 13 El. 4. c. 7. Tuesday the morrow next after All souls, the thirteenth year of the reign of King Henry the Fourth, among other things it was enacted, ordained, and established, That if any riot, assembly, Jurors impanelled to inquire of riots, and the issues returned thereupon. or rout of people against the law, were made in any part of the realm, that the justices of the peace, three or two of them at the least, and the sheriff or under-sheriff of the county where such riot, assembly, or rout should be done, after the same statute, should come with the power of the shire (if need should be) to arrest them, and them should arrest; (2) and the same justices and sheriff, or under-sheriff, should have power to record that that they should find so done in their presence against the law, (3) and that by the record of the same justices and sheriff, or under-sheriff, the same trespassers and misdoers should be convicted in manner and form as it is contained in the statute of forcible entries; with divers and many other articles touching and concerning the premisses, as in the same statute made the said xiiij. year more plainly at large it appeareth, (4) which statute is thought good and necessary: wherefore by the advice and assent of the lords spiritual and temporal, and the commons, in this present parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, Be it therefore ordained, established, and enacted, That the said act made in the said xiiij. year of King Henry the Fourth, concerning riots, assemblies, and routs of people, and all and every article and articles comprised in the same, and also all other statutes before this time made concerning the punishment of rioters, at the time of the making of this act being in force, from henceforth stand in their force, and be duly put in execution after the tenors and purports of the same. (5) And forasmuch as in the said statute made in the said xiiij. year, it is not expressed of what sufficiency the jurors impanelled should be, or what issues they should lose, if they appear time of their heriots, by reason that he so being bound or condemned, and also he that of right ought to be very tenant to the lord of whom such lands and tenements be holden, causeth by fine, feoffment, recovery, or otherwise, divers persons to be seised of the said lands, tenements, and other hereditaments only to his use, he taketh the profits of the same, to the great hurt, deceit, and defraud of the King's true liege people within this his realm, if that remedy be not therefore purveyed. (2) In consideration whereof, be it ordained, established and enacted by the King our sovereign lord, by the assent of the lords spiritual and temporal, and the commons in this present parliament assembled, and by authority of the same, That from henceforth it shall be lawful for every sheriff, or other officer, to whom any writ or precept is or shall be directed at the suit of any person or persons, to have any execution of any lands, tenements or other hereditaments, against any person or persons of, for and upon any condemnation, estatute-merchant, estatute of the staple, recognisance hereafter to be made or had, to do, make and deliver execution unto the party in that behalf suing, of all such lands and tenements, as any other person or persons be in any manner of wise seised, or hereafter shall be seised in any wise, to the only use of him against whom execution is so sued, like as the said sheriff or other officer might or ought to have done if the said party against whom execution hereafter shall so be sued, had been solely seised of the said lands and tenements of such estate as they be seised of to his use at the time of the said execution sued. (3) And over that, be it ordained by the said authority, That the lords of whom any such lands and tenements be holden in socage, shall from henceforth after the death of him to whose use any person or persons as is aforesaid be seised (and no will thereof declared) have his relief, heriot, and all other duties, like as the said lord ought or might have had if he had died seised of the same. (4) Provided alway, That every such person against whom execution is or shall be had of lands and tenements, so being in possession of other persons to his use, may have all such advantage in the law against him or them that so have execution of the lands or tenements afore rehearsed, as he might or should have had if he had been solely seised of the said lands and tenements at time of the said execution sued. (5) And over that, be it ordained by the said authority, That if any bondman purchase any lands or tenements in fee simple, fee tail, or for term of life, or for term of years, and causeth estate to be made to divers persons to his use, or taketh estate to himself and to divers other jointly with him and to his use and behoof, that it shall be lawful to the lord of any such bondman to enter during the same use, into the lands and tenements and every parcel thereof so purchased by his bondman, in like manner and form as he might have done, if the said bondman had only been seised of the said lands and tenements in fee or otherwise.

CAP. XVII.

Shearing worsted.

A confirmation of part of the statute of 11 H. 7. c.11. and a repeal of the residue.

PRAYEN the commons in this present parliament assembled, That whereas the city of Norwich is an ancient city, and in the same city without time of mind among other crafts hath been used a certain craft called shearmen's craft, and the artificers of the same have always used by the same time to shear as well worsteds, flamins, fustians, as all other woollen cloth; and all apprentices of the same craft have been taken and bound to shearmen's craft only, and by reason thereof they have had and enjoyed their liberties and freedom in their occupation by the name of the shearmen's craft generally, and none otherwise; (2) and there have every year used within the said city to be chosen and sworn two wardens of the same craft, and all defaults by the said wardens, in their craft found, to be presented before the mayor of the said city for the time being, and the offenders in that behalf to be punished according to the custom of the same city; till now of late times divers persons for their own singular profit, contrary to the common weal of the said city, feigning to have a craft of worsted shearing, separate from the said craft of shearmen's craft, surmised a bill into the parliament holden at Westminster the fourteenth day of October, the eleventh year of the reign of our sovereign lord the King that now is; by force of which pretended bill it was in the said parliament enacted and ordained, That from thenceforth no man should take upon him to shear worsteds within the said city, but if he had been apprentice to the said occupation of worsted-shearing by the space of seven years, or such other as the masters of the said occupation within the said city for the time being, approving their cunning, with the advice of the mayor for the time being in the said city, will admit. (3) And furthermore in the end of the same act it was provided, That the said occupation of worsted-shearing shall not make, nor do to be made, any ordinance concerning the said occupation among themselves, but such as the mayor of the said city for the time being with his brethren aldermen shall think necessary and profitable for the weal of the King's subjects, as more plainly in the said act amongst other things doth appear. (4) It is so, that sith the making of the said act, by colour of the same, the worsted shearmen within the said city within themselves, without the advice or consent of the mayor of the said city, have chosen wardens of worsted-shearing, and separated the same pretended craft from the foresaid craft, called shearmen's craft, contrary to the liberties and good customs of the said city in time passed used and approved: (5) and over that, the said pretended wardens, with their company to them confedered, divers and many times assembled and made ordinances among themselves, contrary to the common weal of the said city, without any advice of the mayor of the said city, intending to bring the shearing of worsteds into few mens hands, and to inhance the

the price of shearing of worsteds at their pleasure, insomuch that they will not admit to shearing of worsteds but certain persons, where many other within the said city be as perfect, and have as great cunning in the said shearing of worsteds, as they that the said pretended wardens do daily suffer to shear, have; and will not admit any man to the shearing of worsteds, though he have sufficient cunning therein, without he will compound with them, and make great and importable fines; by force whereof divers and many of the shearmen, lately inhabitants of the said city, be departed out of the same city into the country, and so divers and many houses within the said city now be unoccupied and decayed, and daily more are like to be, to the great desolation of the said city, and also to the impoverishing of the merchants buyers of the said worsted within the said city, whereby the great weal and prosperity of the said city standeth, and the inhabitants of the same supported.

(6) In consideration of all which premisses, it may please the King our sovereign lord, of his most abundant grace, and for the great zeal his Grace hath to the universal weal of his subjects in this his realm, by the advice and assent of the lords spiritual and temporal, and of the commons, in this parliament assembled, and by authority of the same, to ordain, establish, and enact, That the foresaid act made the said fourteenth day of October, the eleventh year aforesaid, in every thing touching and concerning the said worsted-shearing, or the said pretended craft of worsted-shearing only, be utterly void, repealed, adnulled, and of no force ne effect. (7) Provided alway, That the residue of the foresaid act concerning the setting or putting, taking or receiving, of apprentices for all the citizens and inhabitants within the said city of Norwich, may stand in his full strength and effect, in such form as in the said act is expressed and contained, this present act notwithstanding.

So much of the statute of 11 H. 7. c. 11. as concerneth the taking of apprentices confirmed, and the residue touching worsted-shearers repealed.

C A P. XVIII.

For free passage upon the river Severn.

TO the King our sovereign lord, prayen the commons in this present parliament assembled, That where time out of mind, merchants, victuallers, and all other your liege people of this your realm, at their pleasure have had and used free course and passage through and upon your river and water of Severn, within this your realm, with ships, trows, boats, and all other their vessels, to carry and convey their merchandises, victuals, and other goods, from town to town, and from place to place, without interruption, trouble, vexation, let, or disturbance, and without any thing therefore paying or giving, until late time that divers merchants and others of this your realm of England were by divers and certain misruled persons, inhabited in the forest of Dean, and other places to the said river adjoining, wrongfully letted, vexed, and interrupted; (2) whereupon for the sure and peaceable passage and course upon the same water and river of all the King's liege people to be had and continued, divers acts and laws were made and provided, and in especial one in the ninth year of the reign of the most blessed, and of famous in memory, your uncle King Henry the Sixth, by the which act it was established, ordained, and provided, That all your liege people, and every of them, should have their common and free passage upon your said river and water with their trows, boats, and other vessels, from Bristol, Gloucester, Worcester, and other places, without let, interruption, or denier; (3) and if any of your liege people or subjects were of their said course and passage letted or disturbed, that they should have actions of trespass against the offenders in that behalf; (4) and the premisses notwithstanding, divers persons late and now, being your officers of and in your city of Worcester, and town of Gloucester, and other places adjoining to your said river and water, will not suffer any boat, trow, or other vessel, to pass through and upon your said river and water without divers impositions by them thereupon set, and by them levied, gathered, and reared upon the merchants and owners of the said goods and merchandises, by the said river and water passing, in manifest contempt of your said laws, and breach, of the laudable custom aforetime remembered. (5) Please it therefore your Highness, the premisses considered, by the advice and assent of the lords spiritual and temporal, and the commons, in this present parliament assembled, and by authority of the same, to ordain, establish, and enact, That whatsoever person or persons, of what estate, degree, or condition he or they be of, that hereafter take any imposition of any of the King's liege people, for trow, boat, or any other vessel, for any goods or merchandises carried or conveyed in and upon the said river and water of Severn, or let, vex, or interrupt any boats, trows, or other vessels so passing by the said river and water, for any such imposition or otherwise against your laws, that every such person or persons, so doing and offending, shall forfeit to the King our sovereign lord for every such offence xx.l. (6) And for every such sum or sums so forfeit, the party grieved, and all other persons that will sue for the same forfeiture, shall have and sue an action popular of debt, as well to and for the use of our sovereign lord the King, as to the use of him that shall so sue for it in his own name; and that our sovereign lord the King have two parts of the said sum so forfeited, and the party that so shall sue for the same, have the third part thereof: (7) and the party defendant in every such action shall not be received to wage his law, and also be outed of all dilatories in the same action, as protections, essoin, and other. (8) And if it fortune the parties in any such action to defend or plead to any issue, for any offences done or committed contrary to the premisses, triable in the city of Worcester, or the liberties of the same, then the same issue to be tried by twelve men within the county of Worcester, not dwelling nor having any lands within the same city, ne the suburbs of the same. (9) And if the party aforesaid in any such action defend and plead to an issue, for any such offence done or committed contrary to the premisses, triable in the shire of the town of Gloucester, or in the county of Gloucester, the same issue to be tried by twelve men of or in the county of Gloucester, thereto adjoining, not having any lands, ne dwelling within the same shire of the town of Gloucester. CAP. XXIII.

For the merchants of the hanse.

All statutes, &c. made in derogation of the merchants in the still-yard. shall be repealed.

BE it ordained, established, enacted, and provided by the King our sovereign lord, by the advice of the lords spiritual and temporal, and the commons of the same, in this present parliament assembled, for merchants of the hanse of Almain, having the house in the city of London, commonly called Guill-

ballda Teutonicorum, that by the authority of this said parliament every act, statute, or ordinance, acts, statutes, or ordinances heretofore made, concerning merchants, merchandises, or other wares, extend not to the prejudice, hurt, or charge of the said merchants of the hanse, contrary to their ancient liberties, privileges, free usages, and customs of old time granted to the said merchants of the hanse, as well by the King's noble progenitors, and ratified and confirmed by the King's grace, as by authority of divers parliaments; (2) but that all such act, statute, and ordinance, acts, statutes, and ordinances so made, or to be made, in derogation of their said liberties, privileges, free usages, and customs, stand and be, as against the said merchants and their successors, and every of them, void, repealed, adnulled, and of none effect; any act, statute, or ordinance, acts, statutes, or ordinances to the contrary made or to be made notwithstanding. (3) Provided alway, That this act, or any thing therein contained, extend not, or be in any wise prejudicial or hurtful to the mayor, sheriffs, citizens or commonalty of the city of London, or any of them, or the successors of any of them, of or for any entries, liberties, privileges, franchises, or other thing to them or any of them given or granted by the King's most noble progenitors or predecessors Kings of this realm, or by authority of parliament, or otherwise; this present act or any thing therein contained notwithstanding.

This statute shall not prejudice the liberties of London.

CAP. XXIV.

For bolding the shire-court at Chichester and Lewes

IN Consideration that the shire-court of and for the shire of Suffex is held and kept in the city of Chichester, which is in the extreame part of the same shire, the same shire being lxx. miles in length; by reason whereof divers and many of the King's subjects, inhabiting that shire, are sometimes outlawed, and sometimes lose great sums of money in that court ere they have knowledge thereof, to their utter undoing: (2) Be it therefore enacted by the authority of this present parliament, That from the Feast of Easter next coming, the shire-court for that shire shall be holden and kept one time at Chichester aforesaid, and the next time at the borough of Lewes, which borough is in the midst of that shire, and so to be kept alternis vicibus for ever; (3) and every shire-court holden to the contrary hereof, and all things therein done, to be void.

Where the shire-court for the county of Suffex shall be holden.

Here end the Statutes of King HENRY the Seventh.

Anno primo HENRICI VIII.

Statutes made at Westminster, in the first year of King HENRY VIII. and in the year of our Lord 1509.

THE King our sovereign lord Henry the Eighth after the conquest, by the Grace of God King of England and of France, and lord of Ireland, at his parliament holden at Westminster the one and twentieth day of January, in the first year of his most noble reign, after the prorogation, to the honour of God and of holy church, and for the common weal and profit of this realm, by the assent of the lords spiritual and temporal, and commons, in this present parliament assembled, and by authority of the same, hath done to be ordained, made and enacted, certain statutes and ordinances, in manner and form following.

CAP. I.

Exp. A repeal of an act made Anno 8 H. 6. c. 2. prohibiting the King's subjects to repair into Denmark and Iceland, saving to the town of Northbarm.

CAP. II.

Exp. 27 H. 8. 6. 12. The King nor any other shall take advantage of the penalties limited by the statute of 1 R. 3. c. 8. touching the making of several sorts of cloths before the next parliament.

CAP. III.

All acquittances made by John Heron, general receiver of the King's revenues, shall be a discharge against the King; and John Heron shall stand chargeable to others having interest in receipts. To endure only to the next parliament.

CAP. IV.

Exp. 18 El. c. 5. 31 El. c. 5. All actions, &c. for the King upon any penal statute shall be taken within three years after the offence committed, and for any other person within one year. To endure to the next parliament.

CAP. V.

A repeal of the act made, that no man enter goods, but in the owner's name, in the customers books.

The penalty for customing goods whereby the King loseth his duty.

WHEREAS at a parliament holden at Westminster, in the third year of the reign of King Henry the Seventh, it was ordained and established by the authority of the same, That no manner of merchant, denizen or stranger, should take upon him to enter, or cause to be entered in the books of any customer of any port within this realm, any manner of merchandises coming into this his said realm, or going out of the same, in any other merchant's name, saving only the name of the merchant owning the same upon pain of forfeiture of all such goods and merchandises so entred; (2) and every of the said merchants, which so shall take upon him to cause such untrue entry to be made, to have imprisonment, and to make fine thereof at the King's pleasure: (3) it is now by our sovereign lord the King, and his lords spiritual and and temporal, and the commons, in this present parliament assembled, well considering, that the intent and cause of the making of the said statute was only, forasmuch as by the subtil dealing of some Englishmen, colourably entering in their own names the goods of merchants strangers, the King's Highness was deceived in his customs, and that the said statute was made for none other cause; yet forasmuch as the words of the said statute were general, it was extended as well unto the goods of an Englishman entered in the name of one other Englishman, as to the goods of a stranger entered in the name of an Englishman, to the great hurt, loss, and damage of many and divers of the King's subjects, and contrary to the very intent and meaning of the said statute.

The intent and cause of the making of the statute of 3 H. 7. c. 7.

II. It is therefore ordained, established and enacted by the authority of this present parliament, That the act afore rehearsed, made the said third year, and all things contained in the same, be from henceforth repealed, adnulled, utterly void, and of none effect.

A repeal of the said statute.

III. And furthermore, be it enacted by our sovereign lord the King, the lords spiritual and temporal, and the commons, in this present parliament assembled, and by authority of the same, That it shall be lawful from henceforth, that every Englishman, and all other the King's subjects, may in every port or haven within this realm of England, Ireland, and Wales, and the marches of the same, and in the town of Berwick, where it shall happen any merchandise to arrive, or to be charged and carried out, to custom in his name all manner of goods and merchandise of another Englishman, or the King's subjects.

One Englishman may custom goods in another Englishman's name.

IV. And in like form, every merchant stranger to custom in his name any goods or merchandise of any other merchant stranger, so that the said merchant stranger that customs the goods of another merchant stranger, and the very owner or proprietary of the goods so customed, be charged with like custom, subsidy, and other things, so that the King's Grace be not defrauded of his right.

One merchant stranger may custom goods in another's name. 1 Roll, 143, 146.

V. And if any merchant stranger or denizen, or any other the King's subject, custom any goods or merchandises of another stranger or denizen, or of any other the King's subject, whereby the King's Grace should lose his custom, subsidy, or other his right or duty, that then the said merchant stranger or denizen, or any other the King's subject that so taketh upon him or them, to forfeit to our said sovereign lord the King the goods or merchandises so customed; and over that, to forfeit to the party or parties in this behalf grieved, as much money as the goods or merchandises of the merchant stranger, denizen, or other the King's subjects (so cautelously customed) amounted unto.

The penalty for customing of goods, whereby the King loseth his custom. The penalty enlarged by 2 & 3 Ed. 6. c. 22.

VI. And that no citizen of London, or other the King's subjects, inhabiting in the cinque-ports, or any other being free of prisage or butlerage of wines, by grant, custom or otherwise, custom no wines of any person or persons not being free of any prisage or butlerage.

No wines free of prisage, &c. to be customed.

VII. And if any person, free of the said prisage or butlerage, so

so do, that then the said person or persons (that so do) forfeit to our said sovereign lord the double value of the prisage of the said wines so customed.

VIII. And further, That it be lawful to any person or persons grieved contrary to this act, to have an action of debt against every person or persons that so custom the goods or merchandises in his name, and not in the owner's name, of the sum or the value of the said merchandises so customed and forfeited; in which action none essoin nor protection shall lie, nor the defendant to wage his law.

touching the fees of coroners.

WHEREAS by a statute made at Westminster the third year of King Henry the Seventh, it was enacted, That a coroner shall have for his fee, upon every inquisition taken upon the view of the body slain and murdered, thirteen shillings, four pence, of the goods and chattels of him that is the slayer or murderer; (2) where by the common law a coroner had not, or ought not to have any thing for their office doing, as by the same statute more plainly doth appear: (3) with which statute so made, the coroners have used, that if any person hath happened to be slain by misadventure, and not by no man's hand, that they will not inquire upon the view of the body so by misadventure slain, except they have for their labour thirteen shillings, four pence, which is contrary to the common law, and also to the statute afore rehearsed; whereby great inconvenience doth daily grow to the King's subjects, forasmuch as oftentimes the person that is so by misadventure slain lieth long above the ground unburied, to the great noyance of the King's liege people: (4) wherefore the King our sovereign lord, by the assents of the lords spiritual and temporal, and the commons, in this present parliament assembled, and by authority of the same, ordaineth, That upon a request made to a coroner to come and inquire upon the view of any person slain, drowned, or otherwise dead by misadventure, the said coroner diligently shall do his office, upon the view of the body of every such person or persons, without taking any thing therefore, (5) upon pain to every coroner that will not endeavour himself to do his office, as afore is said, or that he taketh any thing for doing of his office upon any person dead by misadventure, for every time forty shillings.

No fee due to a coroner where any person is slain

CAP. VIII.

The act of escheators and commissioners.

FORASMUCH as divers of the King's subjects lately have been sore hurt, troubled, and some disherited by escheators and commissioners, causing untrue offices to be found, and sometime returning into the courts of record offices and inquisitions that were never found, and sometime changing the matter of the offices that were truly found, to the great hurt, trouble, and disherison of the King's true subjects, that like before time hath not been seen in this realm: (2) wherefore be it ordained, established, and enacted in this present parliament, and by authority of the same, That if any escheator or commissioner hereafter return or put into any of the King's courts any inquisitions or offices concerning lands, tenements, or other hereditaments, not found nor presented by the oaths of twelve men, and indented, and by them sealed, that then the same escheator or commissioner forfeit for every such office or inquisition so returned, and put into any of the said courts, an C. li. to the party or parties grieved by any such inquisition or office: (3) and that from henceforth no escheator, ne no man sit by virtue of any commission, to inquire of lands, tenements, or other hereditaments, except he, or other to his use, have lands, tenements or hereditaments, of the yearly value of xl. marks, above all charges and reprises, upon pain of xx. li. (4) And that it shall be lawful for all persons that be not sufficient of freehold in possession or use at the time of any such commission to them delivered, to refuse to sit and inquire by virtue of the same commission.

II. And that they, upon process made against them out of the King's exchequer by virtue of the same commissions, to be discharged upon their oaths for their said non-sufficiency, without fine or fee.

III. And that every escheator and commissioner shall sit in convenient and open places, according to the statutes heretofore made: (2) and that the said escheators and commissioners shall suffer every person to give evidence openly in their presence, to such inquest as shall be taken before any of them, upon pain of xl. li.

IV. And that no sheriff, nor other person, which shall or ought to return writs or precepts, return before escheators, or such commissioners, any person or persons to inquire of any lands or tenements, except every of the same jury so returned, or other to their use, have lands or tenements of the yearly value of xl. s. within the same shire where the same inquiry shall be made, without fraud or collusion, above all charges and reprises, upon pain of forfeiture for every person so returned C. s. (2) And that the jury that shall be sworn before any escheator, or such commissioner, to enquire of lands, tenements, or other hereditaments, shall receive the counterpane of the office or inquisition that by them shall be presented, indented, and sealed by the escheator, or by such commissioner, and the same deliver and suffer to rest in the possession of the first person that shall be sworn in the said jury, with him to remain, to the intent that not only to preserve this his realm in its ancient fame and honour, but also to set in perfect peace and tranquillity his subjects of the same, and the better to be disposed to serve God: (2) howbeit, many times by the inordinate covetousness of captains retained with princes afore this time, great part of the number of soldiers, for whom such captains have indented with princes at time of need, have lacked of the number of soldiers, whereby great jeopardy hath ensued, and irrecoverable damages may ensue, if remedy therefore be not seen and had: (3) be it therefore ordained by authority of this present parliament, That if any captain be retained, or hereafter shall be, to serve the King on the sea, or beyond the sea in feat of war, which have not his or their whole and perfect number of men and soldiers, according as he shall be retained with the King, or give not them their full wages, without abridgement, as he shall receive of the King for them: he shall for such default forfeit to the King all his goods and chattels, and their body to prison. (4) And that every captain, petit captain, and all other having under them retinue of soldier or soldiers at the King's wages, shall (upon the pain aforesaid) pay to the retinue of soldier or soldiers, and every of the same, the wages rateably as is allowed unto them by the King our sovereign lord, or the treasurer of his wars, without lessening or withdrawing of any part thereof: (5) and for as long time as they shall receive wages for them, this payment to be made unto the said retinues, every soldier of the same, of their captains, and petit captains, always within six days next and immediately after that the said captain, petit captain, or other, shall have received their wages of the King, or of the treasurer of his wars, or of their lords or masters.

It is felony for a soldier to depart from his captain without licence.

Justices of peace may enquire of, hear and determine these offences.

II. And if any soldier, being no captain, immediately retained with the King, which hereafter shall be in wages, and retained, or take any prest to serve the King upon the sea, or upon the land, or beyond the sea, depart out of the King's service, without licence of the King's lieutenant there, that such departing be taken, deemed and adjudged felony: and that he so offending suffer for the said offence, punishment and execution of felony.

III. And forasmuch as his offence stretcheth to the hurt and jeopardy of the King our sovereign lord, the nobles of the realm, and of all the common weal thereof, that therefore he or they so offending (not being within orders of holy church) enjoy not the benefit of his clergy. (2) And that it be ordained by the said authority, That the justices of the peace to every shire of England where any such offenders be taken, have power to enquire of the said offences, and the same hear and determine, as they do and may do of felonies, trespasses, and other offences expressed in the King's commission to them made, as though the said offences were done in the same shire: (3) And also that the said departing of such soldiers, and also their retainers, if it be traversed, be tried in the same shire where they be for such causes arrested and arraigned.

IV.

IV. Provided alway, That no captain be charged by this act for lack of his number retained, as is abovesaid, whose soldiers shall happen to die, or otherwise depart, not in the default of the captain; so that the said captain, if he be at land wages, shew the departing or lacking of his soldier within ten days after the lacking of the said soldier, unto the King's lieutenant there, and to the treasurer of the wars: (2) or if the captain be at the sea-wages, if he shew the departing or lacking of the soldier so lacking, to the admiral of the navy where he is retained, at the next meeting with the said admiral. (3) Provided alway, That this act extend not to any captains or soldiers, that now be, or hereafter shall be retained within the towns of Calais, Hamme and Guifnes, Risefbank, Berwick, and Wales, or any of them, and the marches of the same.

V. Provided alway, That this act be not prejudicial nor hurtful to the said captains, petit captains, nor any other, having under them retinue of soldiers, nor any of them, for non-payment of the King's wages to their household servants and other, to whom they shall daily find and give meat and drink during the said service of war.

The captain shall be discharged if his soldiers die or depart from him.

This doth not extend to the household servants of a captain.

An act for perfect working of cloths before they shall be carried out of the realm.

WHERE at the parliament holden at Westminster the ninth day of November, the third year of the reign of our late sovereign lord, King Henry the seventh (whose soul God pardon) it was shewed by shearmen, fullers, and other artificers, that should live and obtain their needful sustentation by mean of drapery made and draped within this realm, as well throughout the same realm, as within the city of London, (2) That whereas in a statute made the seventh year of the reign of King Edward the Fourth, amongst other it was contained, That no person (denizen nor stranger) should carry, or do to be carried to any parts beyond the sea, any woollen yarn nor cloth unfulled, but the woollen yarn to be made in this realm should be woven in the same; (3) and also all cloth within the same made, should be fulled and fully wrought within the same, before that any of the same should be had or carried out of this realm, upon pain of forfeiture of the very value of such yarn not woven, and cloth not fulled, had or carried out of this realm, (4) the one half of the same forfeiture to be levied to the use of the King, and the other half of that to him or them that should espy or make proof of any such yarn not woven, or cloth not fulled, carried to any place beyond the sea. (5) And forasmuch as in the said statute of King Edward there is no express mention made, that

The act concerning juries in London.

WHERE at a parliament holden at Westminster the eleventh ^{11 H. 7. c. 21.} year of the reign of King Henry the Seventh, for the good and due administration and expedition of justice, it was ordained, and among other things enacted, That every person hereafter to be impanelled or summoned to appear in any jury or inquest in any court within the city of London, before any judges of the same city making default, at the first summons should lose and forfeit xij. d. and at the second default ij. s. and so at every such default after that, the issues and penalties to be doubled; (2) and also such issues lost in the mayor's court should be forfeited, levied, and perceived to the use and behoof of the mayor and the commonalty of the said city; (3) and that all such issues lost in the sheriffs court or courts should be forfeited, levied, and perceived to the use of the sheriffs of the same city for the time being, toward their fee-farm, as by the same act more plainly doth appear: (4) in the which act it is not expressed how or by what means the aforesaid issues, so lost and forfeited for non-appearance of the persons so impanelled and summoned, should be levied; the lack whereof is the cause that such persons as have been impanelled and summoned, as well for the King, as between party and party (being substantial and indifferent) have made many times default, and would not appear; and so it remaineth in like mischief as it was before the making of the foresaid act, to the great let of justice, and the delay as well in the King's causes, as in other causes between parties: (5) wherefore for the good execution of the said statute, and perfect remedy in this behalf to be had:

II. Be it established, ordained, and enacted by the King our sovereign lord, by the assent of the lords spiritual and temporal, and of the commons, in this present parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, That for all such issues in form aforesaid hereafter to be lost or forfeited in the mayor's court, it shall be lawful to the said mayor, and to his successors, to distrain, and the same distress to retain, till he or they be satisfied of the said issues. (2) And in like manner, that it shall be lawful to the foresaid sheriffs, and their successors, to distrain for such issues lost in their court or courts, and the said distress to retain, till they be satisfied of the said issues.

III. Item, forasmuch as after issues joined in actions and suits commenced, taken, or depending in the King's courts before himself in his bench, and before his justices of the common bench, and also in his exchequer, at the King's suit, or at the suit of parties, triable in the said city of London, as well the King as the parties have suffered great delay many times for default of appearance of the jurors impanelled to try the said issues, and many times for lack of jurors not having lands and tenements of the yearly value of xl. s.

IV. Be it ordained and enacted by the said authority of this present parliament, That the sheriffs of London for the time being,

An act for sealing of cloths of gold and silver.

None shall take any thing for the sealing of cloth of gold, silver, velvet, &c.

WHERE at a parliament holden in the twelfth year of the reign of King Edward the Fourth, amongst other it was ordained, established and enacted, That the collectors of the subsidy, and the comptrollers should at all times be ready when they should be required, to seal any manner of cloth of gold, silver, baudekin, velvet, damask, satin, sarsenet, tariron, chamblet, and every other cloth of silk, and every corse of silk and gold, and every corse of silk of the making beyond the sea, and the same merchandises should seal in every time when they should be required, without delay, tarrying, or any thing for their sealing to take by any mean, upon the pain of forfeiture to the owner of such merchandises xx. s. by every of the said collectors and comptrollers at every time when they refuse to seal any such merchandises after such request made, or take any thing for sealing of any such merchandises, as by the same act amongst other things more plainly plainly appeareth. (2) Sithen the making of which aēt the said collectors and comptrollers, and their clerks not fearing the penalty limited in the same aēt have used, and daily use to take for sealing of every piece of the same merchandises above rehearsed, ii. d. to the great loss, hurt and damage of the merchants owners of the same :

(3) for the same merchants at many times bring and convey in one ship iii. or iv. M. pieces of the same merchandises, which amounteth to xxx. or xl. l. after the rates of ii. d. a piece. And forasmuch as the foresaid penalty expressed in the said statute is but xx. s. therefore the said collectors, comptrollers, nor their clerks fear not to run in the jeopardy of the same : (4) wherefore be it ordained and enacted by the King our sovereign lord, the lords spiritual and temporal, and the commons in this present parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, That from henceforth the collectors and comptrollers of the said subsidy, nor their clerks, nor any of them, take for the sealing of any piece of the said merchandises (above rehearsed) any thing, upon pain of forfeiture at every time xx. l.

The cause why the statute of 12 Ed. 4. c. 3. is not put in execution.

II. And also be it enacted by the same authority, That if, and as often as the same collectors and comptrollers, or any of them unreasonably delay, or tarry the said merchants, or any of them, for and about the sealing of the same merchandises ; that then and so often the same collectors and comptrollers, and every of them so unreasonably delaying and tarrying the same merchants, or any of them, to forfeit for the same xl. s. (2) the one moiety of every of the said penalties (so forfeited) to be to the King our sovereign lord, and the other moiety thereof to the merchant so grieved, that will sue for the same by way of information in the King's exchequer, or by action or bill of debt, after the order of the common law, as in other actions of debt is used : (3) in which action the defendant shall not be admitted to wage his law, nor protection, nor essoin to be to him allowed in the same suit for the said forfeiture.

No collector or comptroller of the subsidy shall take any thing for sealing of cloth of gold, &c. The collector or, &c. shall not delay the merchant to seal his cloth of gold.

CAP. VII.

An aēt made for pewterers, and true weights and beams.

TO the King our sovereign lord, and the honourable the lords spiritual and temporal, and the commons in this present parliament assembled : forasmuch as a certain aēt was made and established in the parliament holden at Westminster, the nineteenth year of the reign of the late most famous King your father, Henry the Seventh (whom God pardon) concerning pewterers and brasiers hawking and walking about the countries, and also concerning false beams, scales, and weights, with a provision for casting of fine metal, and of perfect goodness, which aēt was made to endure to the next parliament, the tenor whereof hereafter ensueth :

II. That where many simple and evil-disposed persons of this your realm of England (using the said crafts) daily go about this your realm, from village, from town, and from house to house, as well in woods and forests, as other places, to buy pewter and brass, (2) and that knowing thieves, and other pickers, that steal as well pewter and brass brass belonging to your Highness, and under your mark, and to the lords spiritual and temporal, as to other your subjects of this your realm, bring such stolen vessels unto them in such hid places to sell, and sell it for little or nought, and about they bring it to privy places, or into corners of cities or towns, and there sell much part of it to strangers, the which carry it over the sea by stealth; (3) also the said persons (so going about) and divers other using the said crafts, use to make new vessels, and to mix good metal and bad together, and make it nought, and sell it for good stuff, where indeed the stuff and metal thereof is not worth the fourth part that it is sold for, to the great hurt, deceit, and loss of your subjects; also divers persons using the said crafts, have deceivable and untrue beams and scales, that one of them will stand even with twelve pounds weight at the one end, against a quarter of a pound at the other end, to the singular advantage of themselves, and to the great deceit and loss of your subjects, buyers and sellers with them: (4) for reformation of the premises, it would please your Highness of your most abundant grace, with the advice of your lords spiritual and temporal, and the commons, in this present parliament assembled, and by authority of the same, to enact and establish, That no person or persons, using the said crafts of pewterers and brasiers, from henceforth shall sell or change any pewter or brass new or old, at any place or places within this your realm, but only in open fairs or markets, or in their own dwelling-houses, but if they be desired by the said buyers of such wares, upon pain of forfeiture to our sovereign lord the King for every such default x.li.

In what places only pewter and brass shall be sold or changed. By 25 H. 8. c. 9. s. 6. the Informer shall have a moiety.

Of what goodness pewter and brass ought to be.

III. Also by the same authority it may be enacted and established, That no person nor persons, of what condition or degree soever he or they be, from henceforth within the cities of London and York, or without, either cast or work any pewter vessels, or brass, at any place or places within this your realm, but that it be as good fine metal, as is the pewter and brass cast and wrought after the perfect goodness of the same within the city of London, and by the statutes of the same ought to be, upon pain of forfeiture of all such pewter and brass, so cast and wrought of worse pewter or brass than ought to be wrought in the same cities; the one half of every such forfeiture to be to the use of your Highness, and the other half to the use of the finders thereof.

Hollow wares made of pewter ley-metal.

IV. Provided alway, That this forfeiture in no wise stretch ne extend to brass or pewter, being in the possession of any person, other than the workers of the same, or such as have the same to sell, and being of the craft or mystery. (2) Also that it may by the same authority be enacted and established, That no manner of person or persons, of what degree or condition soever he or they be, from henceforth make no hollow wares of pewter, that is to say, salts and pots that is made of pewter called Ley-metal, but that it may be after the assise of pewter ley-metal wrought within the city of London; (3) and that the makers of such wares shall mark the same with several marks of their own, to the intent that the makers of such wares shall avow the same wares by them them (as is abovesaid) to be wrought ; (4) and that all and every such wares not sufficiently made and wrought, and not marked in form abovesaid, found in the possession of the same maker or seller, to be forfeited ; and if the same ware be sold, the said maker to forfeit the value of the same so unlawfully wrought and sold ; the one half of the said wares, or the value thereof, to be to the use of your Highness, and the other half to be to the use of the finder or searchers of the same.

V. Also that it may by the same authority be enacted and established, That if any person or persons hereafter using, buying and selling of pewter and brass, that hereafter occupy any deceivable or false beams or weights of the same wares, that every such person or persons using or occupying such deceivable and untrue beams or weights, to forfeit xx. s. the one half to the King, and the other half to the party that therefore shall sue by action of debt ; (2) and that in the said action no protection nor essoin shall be allowed ; and also the said party so offending, shall forfeit his beam to him that shall seize it ; (3) and if the said offender or offenders be not sufficient to pay the said sum or sums by them so forfeited, that then it shall be lawful to the mayors, bailiffs, or other head officers of such place or places where any such offenders shall be found, to put them in the stocks, and them so keep till the next market-day next adjoining, and in the market place to put them on the pillory all the market-time.

The penalty for using false beams and weights about pewter or brass.

VI. And furthermore, that it be lawful by the said authority, That the master and wardens of the said craft of pewterers, within every city and borough of this realm, where such wardens are, and where no such wardens are, the head officers or governors of the same city or borough, to appoint certain persons most expert in knowledge of the same, to make search within the said cities or boroughs where they dwell. (2) And over this, the justices of peace within every shire, at their general session holden at Michaelmas, shall assign and appoint two certain persons, having experience therein, to make search in the premises in every part of that shire, as well within the franchises as without, saving in cities or boroughs where searchers be appointed by the heads or governors of the same ; (3) and that all such unlawful pewter or brass as the said searchers shall find, the one half shall be to the use of your grace, and the other half to the said searchers ; (4) and that in the default of the said masters and wardens of the said occupations not searching in form as is aforesaid, and whereby that any such unlawful metals is cast or made, or unlawful weights used, that then it shall be lawful to any person or persons having sufficient cunning and knowledge in the said occupations, by oversight of the mayors, bailiffs, or head-officers of the said cities, boroughs, and towns, to search all the said places, and to put the said authority and act in execution in form aforesaid. profitable, that it be ordained, enacted, and established by the lords spiritual and temporal, and the commons, in this present parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, That the said act may endure for ever.

VII. And over that be it enacted by the said authority, That if any untrue or deceivable metal, or workmanship, of tin or pewter, be founden either in platters, chargers, dishes, saucers, pottingers, trenchers, basons, flaggons, bottles, pots, saltcellars, goblets, spoons, cruets or candlesticks, or any other such wares of tin or pewter, wheresoever it be cast, made, or wrought within this realm or without, and brought to be sold within the same realm; that then it shall be lawful to the mayor of the city of London, and the master and wardens of the craft of pewterers (of the said city for the time being) and their deputies, to have search of the same within the city of London, and the suburbs of the same; (2) and that in all other cities, boroughs, and towns, where any wardens be or shall be, the mayors, bailiffs, or head officers and wardens to have like authority; (3) and where no wardens be, then the head officers or governors of the same cities, boroughs, and towns, to appoint certain persons most expert and cunning in knowledge of the same, to make search within the said cities, boroughs, and towns where they dwell; (4) and if any such new wares wrought of tin and pewter, as is aforesaid, be found defective, and being in the possession of the seller, that then the same person or persons that putteth any such new wares of pewter to sale, shall forfeit the same wares, the one half to the use of our sovereign lord the King, and the other half to the searchers or finders of the same.

VIII. Provided alway, That this act concerning the forfeiture be not prejudicial nor hurtful to any person or persons having grant of our sovereign lord the King, or of any of his noble progenitors, by his letters patents of such forfeiture, but that they and every of them shall have and enjoy the same according to their former grants and liberties.

An act concerning Richard Strode.

Ex edit. Raft.

LAMENTABLY complaineth and sheweth unto your most discreet wisdoms in this present parliament assembled, Richard Strode, gentleman, of the county of Devonshire, one of the burgesses of this honourable house, for the burgh of Plimton in the county aforesaid, that where the said Richard condescended and agreed with other of this house, to put forth certain bills in this present parliament against certain persons named Tinnars in the county aforesaid, for the reformation of the perishing, hurting, and destroying of divers ports, havens, and creeks, and other bills for the common weal of the said county, the which here in this high court of parliament should and ought to be communed and treated of.

And for because the said Richard is a tinner, for the causes and matters afore rehearsed, one John Furse, tinner, under-steward of the steimerie in the said county, in and at four courts of the said steimerie at divers places and times before him severally holden in the said county, county, he and other have condemned the said Richard in the sum of one hundred and threescore pounds: that is to wit, at every court day forty pounds, and by the procurement of the said John Furse, at the said four severall courts and lawdays, in the said steimerie by him holden, in this manner published and said, that the same Richard, at the last parliament holden at Westminster, would have avoided and utterly destroyed all liberties, privileges, and franchises concerning the steimerie: by reason whereof the said Richard, upon four bills had and made thereof by the said John Furse and other, caused that the said Richard was presented and found guilty of the premises in every of the said courts in forty pounds to be lost and forfeit by him, by reason of an act and ordinance by tinnners made and had at a place in the said county called Crokerentor: the tenor of the which act appeareth in a schedule to his bill annexed: to which the said Richard was never warned nor called to make answer to the premises, contrary to all laws, right reason, and good conscience. And for the execution of the same, one John Agwilliam, upon a surmise by him made to the King's Highness to the said condemnation to be to his grace forfeit, thereof attained a bill assigned of twenty pounds parcel of the said hundred and threescore pounds, to be to him granted by the said King's Highness: whereupon the said John Agwilliam and other caused the said Richard to be taken and imprisoned in a dungeon and a deep pit under the ground in the castle of Lidford, in the said county, and there and elsewhere remained by the space of three weeks and more, unto such time he was delivered by a writ of privilege out of the King's Exchequer at Westminster, for that he was one of the collectors in the said county for the first of the two Quindeims granted at and in this present parliament: the which prison is one of the most hainous, contagious, and detestable places within this realm; so that by reason of the same imprisonment he was put in great peril and jeopardy of his life, and the said Richard, so being in prison, and the said John Agwilliam seeing the same cruel imprisonment of the said Richard, intreated and instantly desired one Philip Furse (then being keeper of the said prison) strictly to keep the said Richard in prison, and to put irons upon him to his more greater pain and jeopardy, and to give him but bread and water only, to the intent to cause the said Richard to be fain to content and pay him the said twenty pounds. And for the same promised the said keeper four marks of money: for the which four marks the said Richard for to be eased of his irons and painful imprisonment aforesaid (for safeguard of his life) promised and granted to pay the said keeper four marks: whereof he paid the said keeper in hand thirteen shillings four pence. And over that the said Richard for to be eased of his said painful imprisonment, was also of necessity driven to be bounden to Thomas Denis, deputy unto Sir Henry Marnie, knight, warden of the said steimerie, in an obligation of the sum of an C.li. upon condition whereof part is as hereafter followeth: that is to say, That if the above bound Richard Strode, defend and save harmless the said Thomas Denis, and to use himself as true prisoner during the time it shall please the King to have him prisoner in the castle of Lidford, and also to do nothing, whereby he shall in the law be deemed out of prison, and other articles comprised in the said condition, the which the said Richard perfectly remembereth not: wherefore the premises by your great wisdoms tenderly considered, the said Richard humbly prayeth, that it may be ordained, established, and enacted, by the King our sovereign lord, and by the lords spiritual and temporal, and the commons in this present parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, That the said condemnation and condemnations of the said hundred and threescore pounds, and every parcel thereof, and judgments and executions had or to be had for the premisses, or any of them, to be utterly void against the said Richard, and of none effect.

Fines for parliament matters void.

And over that be it enacted by the said authority, That all suits, accuscements, condemnations, executions, fines, amerciaments, punishments, corrections, grants, charges, and impositions, put or had, or hereafter to be put or had unto or upon the said Richard, and to every other of the person or persons afore specified, that now be of this present parliament, or that of any parliament hereafter shall be, for any bill, speaking, reasoning, or declaring of any matter or matters, concerning the parliament to be communed and treated of, be utterly void and of none effect.

And over that, be it enacted by the said authority, That if the said Richard Strode, or any of all the said other person or persons, hereafter be vexed, troubled, or otherwise charged for any causes as is aforesaid, that then he or they, and every of them so vexed or troubled, of and for the same, to have an action upon the case against every such person or persons, so vexing or troubling any contrary to this ordinance and provision, in the which action the party grieved shall recover treble damages and costs. And that no protection, essoin, nor wager of law in the said action in any wise be admitted nor received.

BE it enquired for our sovereign lord the King, That whereas at the parliament holden at Crokerentor, before Thomas Denis, deputy to Sir Henry Marnie, Knight, warden of the steimerie, the fourteenth day of September, the second year of the reign of King Henry the Eighth: it was ordained, established, and enacted, That (from the day aforesaid) it shall be lawful for every man to dig tin within the county of Devonshire, in all places whereat tin may be found. And also to carry the water to their works without any let or trouble of any person or persons, according to our usages and confirmations of our charter, and according to our custom out of mind. And if any person or persons let, trouble, or vex any man to dig tin, or to carry water for the same, contrary to our old custom and usage, and if it be found by the verdict of twelve men at the law day, be that so letteth, vexeth, or troubleth any such person or persons, shall fall in the penalty of forty pounds, as oft as he so vexeth or troubleth: the one half to my lord prince, and the other half to him that was so letteth, vexed, or troubled. And a Fieri facias to be awarded, as well for my lord prince as for the party: if one Richard Strode, of Plimton, tinner, at the parliament holden at Westminster, the fourth day of February last past, letteth, vexed, and troubled one William Read the younger, and Elis Elford, tinner, and all other tinner in the

the same parliament, for digging of tin in the several soil of the said Richard and other persons contrary to this our act made.

Statutes made at Westminster, Anno 5 HEN. VIII.
and Anno Dom. 1513.

THE King our sovereign lord Henry the Eighth after the conquest, by the grace of God King of England, and of France, and lord of Ireland, at his parliament holden at Westminster the twenty third day of January, in the fifth year of his most noble reign, after the prorogation, to the honour of God and holy church, and for the common weal and profit of this his realm, by the assent of the lords spiritual and temporal, and the commons, in this present parliament assembled, and by authority of the same, hath done to be ordained, made, and enacted certain statutes and ordinances in manner and form following.

An act for the true making of cloths in Devon, called White-Straits.

PRAYEN the commons and inhabitants (clothmakers, and buyers of the same) within the county of Devon, that where divers and many cloths called White Straits, be and have been continually made within the said county, to the great profit of the King's subjects there, the which cloths were wont to be well and sufficiently made, and bear their breadth yard broad and half quarter raw, and fifteen yards of length, and that no man in times past hath used to make them but that the maker thereof hath set his special mark upon every of the said cloths so by him or them made, whereby every man may know their own cloths from other mens by reason of their said several marks; (2) so it is, that now-a-days the said cloths be not sufficiently made, ne bear their length and breadth according as they should do, ne marked with every man's own mark, whereof great inconvenience doth daily ensue and increase, to the impoverishing and hurting, as well of the King's subjects, buyers and sellers of the same, as of merchant strangers: (3) Wherefore the premisses considered, that it may be therefore enacted by the King our sovereign lord, by the assent of the lords spiritual and temporal, and the commons in this present parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, That from the feast of Pentecost next coming, no person make no such cloths (called white-straits) to sell, without that he be when he is raw ready to be toked, of the breadth of a yard and half a quarter, and of length fifteen yards; (4) and that no person make no such cloths, but if he set his special mark

An act for avoiding deceits in worsteds.

Deceits in worsted.

PRAYEN the commons in this present parliament assembled, That whereas worsteds which been truly made, shorn, dyed and calandred, as of old time, hath been accustomed to be made, shorn, dyed, and calandred, have been one of the goodliest merchandise and greatest commodity of this realm, and not only worn within this realm, but also much worn and used in other realms; (2) and so it is that now of late divers strangers beyond the sea have taken upon them to dry calander worsteds with gums, oils, and presses, so that a coarse piece of worsted, not being past the value of xxvi. s. viii. d. is and shall be made, by their said gums, oils and presses, to shew like to the value of xl. s. or better: (3) and if the same worsted so dry calandred, taketh any wet incontinent it will shew spotty and foul, and ever after continue still foul, and will not endure, to the great deceit and hurt of the wearers thereof, and loss of the said commodity; and for the said deceits, and falseness, the said dry calandring is scorned and abhorred in the parts beyond the sea, so that no person do ne shall use in those parts any such worsteds to dry calander: (4) and also now of late the said strangers called Dry Calanders are come into this realm, and here within the same use the said dry calandring of worsted, and of the great hurt of the said common weal and commodity of this realm aforesaid:

The deceit and loss coming by dry calandring of worsted.

No person shall dry calander worsted.

What persons
only shall wet

II. Wherefore be it enacted, ordained, and established by the assent of the lords spiritual and temporal, and the commons, in this present parliament assembled, and by authority of the same, That no person ne persons within this said realm, hereafter do take upon him or them to dry calander any worsted within this said realm, upon pain to forfeit for every worsted that is so dry calandred one C. s. (2) And over that, whereas the said old calandring of worsteds, called wet calandring, hath been used well and substantially in times past in the city of Norwich, and yet is, by persons having cunning in the same; be it therefore furthermore enacted, ordained, and established by the authority aforesaid, That no person ne persons hereafter do take upon him or them to wet calander any worsted, but only such persons as have been bound apprentices to other persons of the same craft and occupation of wet calandring of of worsteds by the space of seven years, or be cunning in the same, and their cunning approved and admitted by the mayor of the said city of Norwich for the time being, and the two masters of the said craft and occupation yearly to be chosen within the said city of Norwich, or in the county of Norfolk, of the craft of wet-calandring, upon pain of every such person or persons, which hereafter shall do the contrary, to forfeit for every piece so calandred against the ordinances and purveyances aforesaid, C. s. the one moiety of which penalties or forfeitures above specified, and every of them, to be to the King our sovereign lord, and the other moiety thereof to be to the masters of the said occupation of wet calandring for the time being. And that it shall be lawful to the masters of the said occupation for the time being, and their successors, to sue for the one moiety of all such penalties hereafter to be forfeited, against every such person or persons as hereafter shall do contrary to the form and effect of this statute, by action of debt, by writ at the common law, or by bill or plaint, after the custom of such city, port, or town where shall happen any such forfeiture to be or fall, or by information in the King's exchequer. (4) And that no protection or effoin, ne no wager of law for the defendant in any such action, plaint, or information, be allowable before any manner of justices, where any such suit or information shall be used for the said forfeiture. And this act to endure to the next parliament.

The forfeitures of the offenders, who shall have them, and by what means.

An act concerning jurors in London.

WHERE in this present parliament holden at Westminster the fourth day of February, in the third year of the reign of our sovereign lord the King, and prorogued unto the fourth day of November, in the fourth year of the reign of our said sovereign lord the King, and adjourned unto Westminster aforesaid; forasmuch as after issues joined in actions and suits commenced, taken, or depending in the King's courts before himself in his bench, and before his justices of the common bench, and also in his exchequer, at the King's suit, or at the suit of the party, triable in the city of London, as well the King as the parties suffered great delay many times for default of appearance of the juries impanelled to try the said issues, and many times for lack of jurors not having lands or tenements of the yearly value of xl. s. (2) it was the said fourth day of November ordained and enacted, by the authority of this present parliament, that the sheriffs of London for the time being, should have full authority and power to return in panels, or arrays of all actions and suits then depending, or that should depend in any of the said courts, or exchequer, persons being citizens, having goods to the value of C. mark, or above, to try the issue joined in every such action or suit. (3) And that the persons so returned, having goods to the value of C. mark, or above, should be sworn, and do in all such juries in likewise in every thing as other persons should do, having lands and tenements of the yearly value of xl. s. over all charges. (4) And that the sheriffs of the said city for the time being,

III. Wherefore, for more plain declaration of the same good statute, be it ordained and established by the authority of this present parliament, That the said act be expounded, interpreted, and taken, that the sheriffs for the time being be bounden to return at every first distress of Nisi prius, to be had at the said St. Martin's, in every such action or suit, upon every of the jurors impanelled to try the issues thereof, xx. d. and upon the second distress of Nisi prius, upon every of the same jurors, xl. d. and upon every distress of Nisi prius after that, upon every of the same jurors the double, till a full jury in every such action and suit shall appear, and be sworn to try the issue joined in the same. (2) And that no sheriff of the said city, or other, any thing forfeit by force or colour of the said statute, for any return to be made, except only upon returns to be made contrary to the form, declaration, interpretation, and exposition of this statute, that is to say, upon writs of distresses before justices or justice of Nisi prius within the said city, (3) and that upon all other writs and processes, that be and shall be awarded out of the said courts or exchequer, it shall be lawful to the sheriffs for the time being, to make their returns according to the order of the law, as the sheriffs of London were wont to do before the making of the said statute, without any loss or forfeiture.

What issues the sheriffs of London shall return upon jurors.

CAP. VI.

An act concerning surgeons to be discharged of quests and other things.

The causes why surgeons have been exempt from bearing of armour or other services.

SHeweth unto your discreet wisdoms, your humble orators the wardens and fellowship of the craft and mystery of surgeons enfranchised in the city of London, not passing in number twelve persons, that whereas they and their predecessors, from the time that no mind is to the contrary, as well in this noble city of London, as in all other cities and boroughs within this realm, or elsewhere, for the continual ser-service and attendance that they daily and nightly, at all hours and times, give to the King's liege people, for the relief of the same, according to their science, have been exempt and discharged from all offices and business, wherein they should use or bear any manner of armour or weapon, and with like privilege have been intreated as heralds of arms, as well in battles and fields, as other places, there for to stand unbarnessed and unweaponed, according to the law of arms, because they be persons that never used feats of war, nor ought to use, but only the business and exercise of their science, to the help and comfort of the King's liege people in the time of their need: (2) And in the aforesaid city of London, from the time of their first incorporation, when they have been many more in number than they be now, were never called nor charged to be on quest, watch, nor other office, whereby they should use or occupy any armour, or defensible gear of war, where through they should be unready, and letted to practise their cure of men being in peril: (3) Therefore, for that there be so small number of the said fellowship of the craft and mystery of surgeons, in regard of the great multitude of patients that be, and daily chance, and infortune happeneth and increaseth in the foresaid city of London, and that many of the King's liege people suddenly wounded and hurt, for default of help in time to them to be shewed, perish, and so divers have done, as evidently is known, by occasion that your said suppliants have been compelled to attend upon such constableness, watches, and juries, as is aforesaid; (4) be it enacted and established by the King our sovereign lord, and the lords spiritual and temporal, and by the commons, in this present parliament assembled, and by authority of the same, That from henceforth your said suppliants be discharged, and not chargeable of constableness, watch, and of all manner of office bearing any armour, and also of all inquests and juries within the city of London: (5) and also that this act in all things do extend to all barber-surgeons, admitted and approved to exercise the said mystery of surgeons, according to the form of the statute lately made in that behalf, so that they exceed not, ne be at one time above the number of twelve persons.

The surgeons of London shall be exempt from bearing armour or parish offices, &c.

An act for proclamations to be made before the exigents be awarded in foreign shires.

4 H. 8. c. 4.

WHERE at a parliament holden at Westminster the fourth day of February, in the third year of the reign of our sovereign lord King Henry the Eighth that now is, and from thence (for divers urgent causes) unto the fourth day of November, the fourth year of the reign of our said sovereign lord, prorogued, one good and reasonable act was made and ordained, touching writs of proclamation to be made upon exigents sued against any persons in foreign or other shire, than where such defendant be called of; only to endure from thence unto the next parliament: (2) which act is now determined, the effect and true intent of which said act is thought right available, and commodious, and in avoiding of outlawries hereafter to be pronounced against any person by reason of such foreign suits, to have continuance, and perpetually to endure: (3) be it therefore, by the King our sovereign lord, with the assent of the lords spiritual and temporal, and the commons, in this present parliament assembled, and by authority of the same parliament, enacted, ordained, and established, That if and where any writ of exigent, at any time from the fifteenth day of Easter next coming, or after, shall be awarded at the suit of our sovereign lord the King, or any other person or persons, plaintiff or plaintiffs, in any action personal, against any person or persons called of any shire or city, being a shire-corporate of itself, or else late of any such shire or city, other than into such shire or city where-into it therefore ordained and enacted by the authority of this present parliament, That the justices of the King's bench for the time being have full authority and power, by their discretions, to remand and send down, as well the bodies of all felons and murderers brought or removed, or that shall be removed or brought before the King in his bench, as their indictments, into the counties where the same murders or felonies have been committed and done; (2) and to command all justices of gaol-delivery, justices of peace, and all other justices and commissioners, and every of them, to proceed and determine upon all the aforesaid bodies and indictments so removed, after the course of the common law, in such manner as the same

CAP. VIII.

An act concerning the making of certain woollen cloths in the county of Devon.

WHEREAS at the parliament holden at Westminster the twenty third day of January, after the last prorogation thereof, in the fifth year of the King's most noble reign, the commons and inhabitants (clothmakers and buyers of the same) within the county of Devonshire, prayed and desired, That where divers and many cloths, called White Straits, be and have been continually made within the said county, to the great profit of the King's subjects there, the which cloths were wont to be well and sufficiently made, and to bear their breadth, yard broad and half quarter raw, and xv. yards of length; (2) and that no man in times past hath used to make them, but that the maker thereof hath set his special mark upon every of the said cloths so by him or them made, whereby every man may know their own cloths from other mens, by reason of their said several marks; (3) so at the said parliament it was shewed by the inhabitants (clothmakers and buyers of the same) in the county aforesaid, that now-a-days the said cloths be not sufficiently made, ne bear their length and breadth according as they should do, ne marked with every man's own mark, whereof great inconvenience doth daily ensue and increase, to the impoverishing and hurting as well of the King's subjects, buyers and sellers of the same, as merchants strangers. (4) Wherefore the premises considered, it was therefore enacted by the King our sovereign lord, by the assent of the lords spiritual and temporal, and the commons, in the same parliament then assembled, and by the authority of the same, That from the feast of Pentecost next after the making of the said act, no person should make any such cloths, called White Straits, to sell, without that it or they be, when they be raw, ready to be toked, of the breadth of a yard and half a quarter, and of length xv. yards; (5) and that no person make any such cloths, but if he set his special mark upon every of the said cloths so by him or them made, (6) and that no person use no mark on his cloths, such as any other person doth or hath used before him, upon pain of forfeiture of every of the said cloths, the one half thereof to be to the King, and the other half thereof to him that so seisseth the said cloths so made or marked contrary to the form and effect afore expressed. (7) And this act to endure unto the first day of this present parliament. (8) And forasmuch as the said act is thought to be very necessary and behovable, be it therefore ordained, established, and enacted by the King our sovereign lord, and the lords spiritual and temporal, and the commons, in this present parliament assembled, and by authority of the same, That the said act concerning making

6 H. 6. c. 5.
& 4 H. 7. c. 1.

WHERE in the parliament of the right noble Prince Henry the Sixth, late King of England, holden at Westminster, the first year of his reign, one good statute was made and ordained, That for ten years then next following, several commissions of sewers should be made to divers persons, by the chancellor of England for the time being to be named, in divers parties of this realm, where need were, after the form and tenor of a commission in the said act specified; which act and other acts for the authority of such commissioners, and executions of the same, have since been made and ordained and continued, as been more plainly rehearsed in the parliament holden in the fourth year of the reign of King Henry late King of England, the Seventh; and in the same parliament the said fourth year it was (among other) enacted and established, That for fifteen years then following, several commissions of sewers should be made to divers persons, by the chancellor of England for the time being to be named, in all parties of this realm, and of the marches of Calais, Guines, and Hammes, where need shall be, made according to the said commission contained in the said sixth year of King Henry the Sixth; and that all such commissioners should have full power, to make, ordain, and execute ordinances, and all other things do according to the purport of the same commission, which fifteen years comprised in the said act aforesaid, been now determined; pleaseth it therefore the King our sovereign lord, with the assent of the lords spiritual and temporal, and the commons, in this present parliament assembled, and by authority of the same, to ordain, establish, and enact, That the said acts, and all other acts, and authorities heretofore made concerning commissioners of sewers, and their commissions and authority, not being before this time repealed, abide, and stand from henceforth good and effectual to endure for ever: and also that the chancellor of England for the time being, shall have from henceforth full power and authority for ever, to grant commissioners of sewers into every part of this realm, and the said marches, where need is or shall be, to certain persons by the said chancellor for the time being to be named, named, according to the form and effect of the said commission and act expressed in the said parliament holden the said sixth year of the reign of King Henry the Sixth: and over that be it ordained, enacted, and established by the said authority, That all such commissioners have, and shall have full power and authority to put their commission in due execution, and to make and execute statutes and ordinances, and all other things to do after the effect and purport of their commission; and that all commissions of sewers granted or made since the said twenty years determined, and the acts, ordinances, and all executions, and other things by the commissioners of the same, concerning the said commissions, or any two of the same commissioners, and every thing in the same comprised, be and shall be, effectual and of like strength, as if the said commission had been made or granted within the said five and twenty years, immediately after the said parliament holden the said fourth year of the reign of King Henry the Seventh.

II. And also be it enacted by the said authority, That the chancellor of England for the time being, shall make no commission to any person or persons for the execution of this act, except he have lands and tenements of estate of freehold, to the yearly value of twenty pounds at the least, or else be justice of Quorum learned, within any of the shires where he shall be made commissioner.

III. And if any such commission be directed to any person or persons, not having lands and tenements to the yearly value of twenty pounds, or not being one of the justices of Quorum learned as afore said, That every such commission, and all presentments and accusations, had and presented before any such commissioners, and also all and every fines set by the said commissioner or commissioners, to be utterly void and of none effect. An act concerning avowries for rents and services.

How rents and services may be recovered by avowry.

WHEREAS divers as well noblemen as other the King's subjects, have suffered recoveries against them of divers their manors, lordships, lands, and tenements, for the performance of their wills, or for the surety of their wives jointures, or for the jointure of their sons and heirs apparent, and their wives, or of any other person or persons, according to their covenants and agreements, (2) and those persons that so have recovered the said manors by the course of the common law, had no remedy, nor may have, to compel the fermors, freeholders, and tenants, which held of the same manors by rents, services, or customs, to attorn to them; (3) nor could by the order of the law attain to the said rents, services, or customs (if they were denied) by distress or action, without they could once attain to the possession of the same rents, services, and customs, by paying or doing the said rents, services, or customs, by the same freeholders, fermors, and tenants; (4) which to do, divers and many of them have oftentimes refused, and yet do, to the great offence and charge of their conscience, not only to the disheritance of the said recoverers, but also in breaking of the last wills of them against whom such recovery is had, and also to the disheritance of the said husband and wife, or other, to whose use the same recovery was so had. (5) Also if there were any advowson appendant to any of the said manors, the same advowson had fallen void, and a stranger had presented, the said recoverers, nor they to whose use the same recoveries were had, had no remedy for the same disturbance, and sometime thereby they have been disinherited.

Statutes made at Westminster, Anno 14 and 15 HEN.
VIII. and Anno Dom. 1522-3.

THE King our sovereign lord Henry the Eighth after the conquest, by the Grace of God King of England, and of France, and lord of Ireland, at his parliament holden at London the fifteenth day of April, in the fourteenth year of his most noble reign, and from thence adjourned to Westminster the last day of July, the fifteenth year of his said reign, and there holden, to the honour of God and holy church, and for the weal and profit of this his realm, by the assent of the lords spiritual and temporal, and the commons, in this present parliament assembled, and by authority of the same, hath done to be ordained, made and enacted, certain statutes and ordinances, in manner and form following.

CAP. I.

No person shall sell to a merchant stranger any broad white woolen cloth made in England, unless he cannot sell it to some English merchant within eight days after he brought it to Blackwell-hall, except the sale be in fairs, ports, or creeks. To endure to the last day of the next parliament.

CAP. II.

What apprentices strange artificers shall take, &c.

BE it enacted by the King our sovereign lord, and the lords spiritual and temporal, and the commons, in this present parliament assembled, and by authority of the same, That no manner of stranger, born out of the King's obedience, be he denizen or not denizen, using any manner of handicraft within this realm, shall take from henceforth any apprentice, except the same apprentice be born under the King's obedience, (2) upon pain to forfeit for every apprentice that he shall take contrary to this act, x. li. the one half thereof to be to our sovereign lord the King, the other half to him or them that shall sue for it, be it by action of debt, bill, plaint, information, or otherwise; (3) in which suit the defendant shall not be admitted to wage his law, ne any essoin, licence, or protection to be allowed.

No stranger shall take an apprentice, but one which was born under the King's obedience. Made perpetual by 21 H. 8. c. 16. f. 8. and explained by 22 H. 8. c. 13.

No alien shall keep above two journey-men, except they be born under the King's obeisance.
5 El. c.4.

II. Be it also enacted by the authority aforesaid, and under like pain to be forfeited and recovered as is aforesaid, That no stranger, being alien born, and using any manner of handicraft within this realm, from the Feast of All Saints next ensuing, shall in any manner of wise, use, take, retain, or keep in his or their services, any manner of journeyman or covenant-servant, above the number of two at one time, except the same journeyman or covenant servant be born under the King's obeisance.

All strangers dwelling within two miles of London, shall be under the reformation of the wardens of handicrafts within the city.

III. And over this, be it enacted by authority aforesaid, That all manner of persons, being aliens born, using any manner of handicraft, be they denizens or not denizens, and inhabiting within the city of London, or suburbs of the same, within the town of Westminster, the parish of St. Martin's in the fields, the parish of Our Lady of the strand, St. Clement of Danes without Temple-bar, St. Giles in the fields, St. Andrew's in Holbourn, the town and borough of Southwark, Shoreditch, White-Chapel parish, St. John-street, the parish of Clerkenwell, St. Botolph's parish without Aldgate, St. Katharine's, Bermonsey-street, or within two miles compass of the said city of London or the parishes aforesaid, shall be under the search and reformation of the wardens and fellowships of handicrafts within the said city of London, with one substantial stranger, being an householder of the same craft; by the same wardens to be chosen, that is to say, every such stranger occupying any mystery or handicraft, as is aforesaid, shall be under the search and reformation of the wardens, and one substantial stranger, being an householder, of that craft that they shall so occupy.

The wardens, &c. shall assign a proper mark for strangers wares.

IV. And that the wardens of the said city of every such handicraft, with one stranger or householder (as is aforesaid) of the same craft, have full power and authority, by this present act, to limit and appoint to every stranger of the mystery and handicraft that they be of, inhabiting within the said city, suburbs, places, or precinct above remembered, a proper mark, without taking any thing therefore, by the which their wares, vessels, and workmanships that they make may be known.

Reformation of strangers wares and workmanship.

V. And that the wardens of every such handicraft and mystery aforesaid, calling to them one stranger of the mystery and occupation that they be of, being an householder, shall have full power and authority to search, view, and reform, as well within the said city of London, as in all other places and limits before said, all manner of wares of workmanships made by any manner of such handicraftmen, being aliens born, as is aforesaid.

Smiths, joiners, coopers, which be strangers must mark their wares.

VI. And that no stranger born out of the King's obeisance, using any of the mysteries or occupations of smiths, joiners, or coopers, shall make any manner of wares or vessels concerning the same mysteries or occupations, except that they and every of them put such marks to every of the same wares and vessels, before they shall be put to sale or use, as the wardens of their occupations, crafts, or mysteries shall limit and appoint, without taking any thing therefore, (2) upon pain of forfeiture of the double value of the same wares and vessels; the one half of which which forfeiture to be to the King our sovereign lord, the other half to the party that first will sue for the same by action of debt, bill, plaint, or information, in which the defendant shall not wage his law, nor any essoin shall be cast, or protection allowed.

VII. And further, it is enacted by the authority aforesaid, That if upon any such search or view to be made by the wardens and one stranger of any craft or mystery before said, after the form of this estatute, in vessels or wares to be found in the possession of the workers or owners thereof, putting the same vessels or wares to workmanship of any stranger falsly and deceitfully made, to the hurt of the King's liege people, and so adjudged by the said wardens and one stranger, that then such worker or owner, in whose possession the same false and deceitful wares shall be found, shall forfeit the same wares; (2) the one half thereof to the King our sovereign lord, and the other half thereof to the first finder thereof suing for the same in any of the King's courts by action of detinue, in which action the defendant nor defendants shall not be admitted to wage their law, nor protection ne essoin be to them herein allowable.

The forfeiture of wares deceitfully made by an alien.

VIII. Be it also enacted by the authority aforesaid, That all wardens and masters of fellowships of all and every such handicrafts within any such city, borough, or town corporate within this realm, where any such wardens happen to be, and in such boroughs and towns corporate where no wardens of handicrafts are, the bailiffs, or the governor or governors of the same boroughs or towns so lacking wardens, shall have like power and authority with the bailiff or bailiffs of the liberties with them, where any such liberty shall be, being content so to do, to view, search, and reform strangers born out of the King's obedience, inhabiting and using within any such city, borough, or town corporate, any manner of handicraft, in as large and ample manner, as the said wardens and fellowships of the said city of London may do, by virtue of this present act; (2) and that all strangers using any of the said handicrafts in any of the said cities, boroughs, or towns corporate, be bounden to do and obey in every thing, according to the tenor of this present act, upon like pains and forfeitures as is above remembered, to be had and recovered in form above rehearsed.

Wardens, bailiffs, &c, of towns corporate may search and reform strangers.

IX. Provided alway, That if the wardens of any fellowship or mystery before said, bailiffs, governor or governors before said, wrongfully will intreat any stranger in executing of this act, or any thing therein contained, that then the stranger so grieved may, by authority of this act, by bill or information, complain to the lord chancellor and treasurer of England, or the justices of assise in the county for the time being, which, by their examinations, shall have full power and authority to hear and determine the same complaint, and to award to the party complainant such amends, as by their discretion shall be thought reasonable.

Remedy for strangers who are injured by wardens, &c.

X. Provided also, That it shall be lawful for and to every the said strangers born out of the King's obedience, being a householder, to have and retain as well all and every such strangers born out of the King's obeisance, being the time of this parliament with him retained as a journeyman, as to have and retain every such stranger being born out of the King's obeisance, being apprentice with him the time of this parliament, this act notwithstanding. (2) This to endure to the last day of the next parliament.

Strangers dwelling in Oxford, Cambridge, St. Martin's.

The wardens refusing to mark the wares.

XI. Provided also, That this act extend not to the inhabitants, strangers that now be, or hereafter shall be, in the universities of Oxford or Cambridge, or within the sanctuary of St. Martin's le Grand, within the said city of London.

XII. Provided always, That if the said wardens of the said city of London, with a stranger, or governor or governors of any city or borough corporate within this realm, refuse to mark the wares of any stranger, after that they be required so to mark; that then it shall be lawful to the same stranger or strangers, to whom such refusal shall be so made, to sell and put to sale his said wares so required to be marked, and refused, this act notwithstanding.

To what crafts this statute doth not extend.

XIII. Provided also, That this act extend not to any other handicrafts, than to the crafts of joiners, pouchmakers, coopers, and blacksmiths, for or concerning the foresaid articles of marking of wares of the said strangers.

Who may retain aliens.

21 H. 8. c. 16.

22 H. 8. c. 13.

32 H. 8. c. 16.

XIV. Also that it shall be lawful to any lord of the parliament, and every other of the King's subjects, having lands and tenements to the yearly value of one hundred pounds, to take and retain strangers, joiners, and glaziers, in their service, from time to time, to and for the exercising with them their crafts, this act notwithstanding.

CAP. III.

Touching worsted-weavers of Yarmouth and Lynn.

Confirmed 26 Hen. 8. c. 16.

7 Ed. 4. c. 1.

BECAUSE it is discreetly considered in this present parliament, that the true making and draping of worsteds, sayes, and flamins, is one of the most profitable occupations of this realm, and that the same worsteds, sayes, and flamins, truly and substantially made and wrought, been right acceptable, and commodious merchandises, as well in this realm of England, as in other foreign regions and countries; (2) for establishment and good order whereof, divers good and laudable statutes, acts, and ordinances heretofore have been made and enacted; and namely, in a parliament holden at Westminster the third day of June, in the seventh year of the reign of the late King of famous memory, Edward the Fourth; (3) sithen which parliament the making of the said worsteds, sayes, and flamins, hath much increased and been multiplied in the city of Norwich, and in divers towns and places in the county of Norfolk; (4) and because the towns of Great Yarmouth, and Lynn, in the said county, been towns corporated, and the inhabitants of the same towns now daily practise and use the making and draping of the said cloths of worsteds, sayes, and flamins, more busily and diligently than they have done in times past, to whom it is painful and costly to transport and convey their said cloths to the said

said city of Norwich, or to places within the said county of Norfolk which been far distant from either of the said towns, to be searched and sealed by the wardens of the worsted-weavers of the same city of Norwich, or county, according to the said act of parliament made the said seventh year of King Edward the Fourth: (5) It is therefore ordained, established, and enacted by the King our sovereign lord, and by the lords spiritual and temporal, and the commons, in this present parliament assembled, and by authority of the same, That the craftsmen called worsted-weavers inhabited in the said town of Great Yarmouth, shall have power and authority by this present act, from henceforth to elect, and and choose yearly for ever, in the Monday next after the Feast of Pentecost, one honest man of the same mystery and occupation, being an householder within the said town of Great Yarmouth, and having of his proper goods and chattels to the value of ten pounds at the least, or lands and tenements to his own use of estate of freehold, at least to the clear yearly value of xx. s. to be warden of the same craft and mystery for the year next ensuing, (6) which man so elected and chosen, shall personally appear before the mayor of the said city of Norwich for the time being, the Monday next after the Feast of Corpus Christi then next ensuing, then and there to be sworn and charged by like oath, concerning the true and substantial making of the said cloths within the said town of Great Yarmouth, as the four wardens of the said city of Norwich, by virtue of the said act of parliament made in the said seventh year of King Edward the Fourth, been charged and sworn for the same city of Norwich; (7) and if the said mayor happen to be absent the said Monday after Corpus Christi, or else then refuseth to receive or take the said oath; then the said warden so elect, within four days next after the same Monday, shall come before the bailiffs of the said town of Great Yarmouth for the time being, or before one of them, the other being absent, and then and there receive a corporal oath for the true exercising of the same office of wardenship, after the tenor of the oath accustomed to be given to the said wardens of the said city of Norwich.

Election of a warden of worsted-weavers in Great Yarmouth in Norfolk.

The warden of Yarmouth's oath.

II. And that the said warden of the said town of Great Yarmouth for the time being, so elected and sworn, may ordain and appoint a seal with this letter Y. to be engraven in the same seal, and may have full power and authority to view, search, seise, and seal in lead with the same sale so to be appointed and engraven, and none other, all worsteds, sayes, and stamins within the said town of Yarmouth, and suburbs of the same, made, or to be made, and not elsewhere, in as large and ample manner as the said wardens of the said city of Norwich, and wardens of the said county of Norfolk, or any of them, hath or have within the said city or county, or in any wise may do in that behalf, by authority or virtue of the before remembered act, made in the said seventh year of King Edward the Fourth, any thing in the same act contained to the contrary notwithstanding.

The warden of Yarmouth's authority.

III. And that no person inhabiting within the said town of Every person shall mark his worsteds, sayes, &c. with his several mark.

Great Yarmouth, or suburbs thereof, weave any worsteds, sayes, or stamins within the same town, except he be an Englishman born, and have been apprentice to the said occupation, and without he weave therein such proper mark as shall be limited and appointed by the said warden of the said town for the time being, elect, and sworn as is aforesaid, upon pain of forfeiture thereof to the King our sovereign lord; (2) and that every warden of the said town shall limit distinct and several marks to every of the said worsted-weavers of the same town of Great Yarmouth, and the same marks by the said warden to be registered in a book.

Election of a warden of worsted-weavers in Lynn in Norfolk.

IV. And also be it enacted by the authority aforesaid, That if, and whensoever hereafter the said town of Lynn shall be inhabited with ten sundry householders, or more number of householders exercising and using the said craft or mystery of worsted-weavers, then, and from thenceforth, that is to say, as long as the same town of Lynn shall be inhabited with the number of ten such householders at the least, it shall be lawful to the same inhabitants of the said town of Lynn yearly, on the Monday next after the Feast of Pentecost, to elect and choose of themselves one warden of the said craft and mystery of worsted-weavers, to be of the value in lands and goods as is aforesaid of the warden of Yarmouth; (2) which warden, so elect, shall yearly be sworn and charged at the said city of Norwich, in like manner, and at like day, as is before limited to the wardens of Yarmouth; or in default of the said mayor of Norwich, then the said warden so to be elect for the said town of Lynn, to take a corporal oath before the mayor of the said town of Lynn, within such time, and after such form, as is before limited unto the warden of Yarmouth; (3) and that the said warden of the said town of Lynn for the time being, so elect and sworn, by himself may ordain and appoint a seal with this letter L. to be graven in the same seal, and may have full power and authority to view, search, seise, and seal in lead with the same seal so to be engraven, and with none other, all worsteds, sayes, and stamins within the said town of Lynn, and suburbs of the same, made or to be made, and not elsewhere, in as large and ample manner as the said warden of the said city of Norwich, and wardens of the said county of Norfolk, or any of them hath or have within the said city or county, or otherwise may do by authority or virtue of the before remembered act made in the said seventh year of King Edward the Fourth; any thing contained in the same act to the contrary notwithstanding.

The warden of Lynn's seal and authority.

Every worsted-maker to be an Englishman born, and to have his own mark.

V. And that no person inhabited within the said town of Lynn, or suburbs thereof, make any worsteds, sayes, or stamins within the same town, except he be an Englishman born, and have been apprentice to the same occupation, and without he weave therein such proper mark as shall be limited and appointed by the said warden of the same town of Lynn for the time being, upon pain and forfeiture thereof to the King our sovereign lord; (2) and that every warden of the said town shall limit distinct and several marks to every of the said worsted-weavers of the same town, and the same marks by the said warden to be registered in a book.

VI. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That from the Feast of St. Michael the Archangel next coming, unto such time as the said town of Lynn shall be inhabited with the said number of ten householders of the said craft of worsted-weavers, and always after, when that number of ten householders shall happen to fail, and not be inhabited in the said town of Lynn, the said wardens of the said city of Norwich, and their successors, shall procure and cause one of themselves, or one of the wardens of the said craft of the said county of Norfolk, personally to come and be every twenty eighth day from and after the said Feast of St. Michael the Archangel, in and to the said town of Lynn, or within six days next after every such twenty eighth day, and there to continue and abide by so long time as he may search and seal all such worsteds, sayes, and stamins made in the same town of Lynn, as then shall be brought to him to be sealed within the space of one whole day; (2) and the said inhabitants of worsted-weavers, of the same town of Lynn being, shall content and pay to the said warden of Norwich or Norfolk, which shall so come to Lynn, in the said twenty eighth day, or within six days next after the said twenty eighth day, for his costs and expences, for every time that he shall so come to Lynn, between the Feast of St. Michael the Archangel, and the Annunciation of our Lady St. Mary, iii. s. and for every time that he shall so come to the said town of Lynn, between the Feast of the Annunciation of our Lady, and the Feast of St. Michael the Archangel, ii. s. (3) and if the said inhabitants of worsted-weavers of the said town of Lynn do not content and pay to the said warden coming to Lynn in form aforesaid, for his said costs and charges the said iii. s. or ii. s. as is above limited, then the same inhabitants shall forfeit and pay to the said warden, or to his executors, for every such default of payment, xl. s. (4) and if none of the said wardens of Norwich, and Norfolk, come to the said town of Lynn, for the cause aforesaid, in manner and form above remembered, then the said wardens of the said city of Norwich shall forfeit and pay to the said inhabitants of Lynn, of the said mystery of worsted-weavers, for every such default xl. s. (5) for recompence of which penalties and forfeits, the said wardens of Norwich or Norfolk, being thereunto intituled by this present act, by his proper name, with this addition, that is to say, Unus Gardianorum, or nuper unus Gardianorum artis sive mysterii textorum panni lanei vocati worstedes in civitate Norwici vel comitat. Norfolk, as the troth requireth, shall and may have action of debt by writ, bill, or plaint, in any competent or lawful court of this realm, against the said inhabitants of Lynn, of the said mystery, for the time being, by their sundry proper names; (6) and the said inhabitants, by their said names, with this addition, Textores panni lanei voc. worstedes, inhabitantes villæ de Lynn, shall and may have like actions of debt against the said wardens

A warden of Norwich or Norfolk shall come to Lynn when there is no warden there.

By what names the parties grieved shall bring their actions.

The particular bodies or goods of the wardens or inhabitants put in execution.

Cloths to be marked by the wardens of Lynn and Yarmouth.

What apprentices worsted-weavers in Lynn and Great Yarmouth may take.

26 H. 8. c. 16.
5 El. c. 4.

This statute shall not be prejudicial to the mayor of Norwich, or the wardens there.

wardens of Norwich, by the name of Gardiani artis sive mysterii textorum pannorum laneorum voc. worstedes infra civitatem Norwic. vel com. Norfol. to be used in good congruities of Latin, and form of the laws of this realm; (7) in which actions, or any of them, none essoin, protection, or wager of the law shall be suffered or allowed. (8) And that the particular bodies, or goods of any of the said wardens or inhabitants being condemned in any of the said actions, shall and may be put in execution, after such manner and form as is used in actions of debt by course of the common law of this realm.

VII. And moreover, be it enacted by the authority aforesaid, That all cloths of worsteds, sayes, and stamins, made or to be made within any of the said towns of Lynn, and Great Yarmouth, or suburbs of the same, or any of them, and marked with such marks as shall be limited to the makers by the said wardens of the said town, in manner and form aforesaid, and weaved, and sealed by any of the wardens of the said town of Lynn, and Yarmouth, in form above remembered, by force and virtue of this present act, may be lawfully put to sale by the owners and makers of the same, without any other marking or sealing upon the said cloths, or upon any of them to be had or made by any other wardens, dwelling or abiding without the said towns, and without any arrest, seizure, or forfeiture to be had or made of or upon any of the said cloths, for lack of any other seals or marks; any thing contained in the said former act made in the said seventh year of King Edward the Fourth to the contrary notwithstanding.

VIII. And over this, be it enacted by the authority aforesaid, That every craftsman of the said mystery and occupation of worsted-making, dwelling within any of the said towns of Lynn and Great Yarmouth, and suburbs of the same, at their own free-wills and liberties from henceforth for ever, may have and take apprentice or apprentices (being male) of the age of fourteen years and upward, and being the King's natural subjects, for the term of seven years, and not under, so that none of them exceed the number of two at once, to learn, use, and exercise the said craft within either of the said towns of Lynn and Great Yarmouth, or suburbs of the same albeit the father of the same apprentices or apprentice may not expend in lands and tenements to the yearly value of xx. s. any act or ordinance to the contrary made or to be made notwithstanding.

IX. Provided alway, That this present act, nor any thing therein contained, be not in any wise hurtful or prejudicial to the mayor of Norwich, or to his successors, or to the wardens of the said city and county, or to their successors, in any point, article, power, or authority, other than for weaving, searching, and sealing of worsteds, sayes, and stamins, made or to be made only within the said towns of Lynn and Yarmouth, or suburbs of the same, or to any of them; and for limiting of marks to the makers of worsted, sayes, and stamins, only inhabited in either of the said towns or suburbs thereof, and taking of apprentices in form above above remembered; (2) but that the said mayor of the said city of Norwich, and wardens of the said city and county, and every of them, may have and use all other points, articles, powers, and authorities contained and specified in the above remembered act, made in the said seventh year of King Edward the Fourth, as well for the search, sealing, correction, and reformation of the said wardens newly to be elect by virtue of this present act, and every of them, according and after such form as they may do or use, any of the said wardens of the said city or county by force of the said act made in the said seventh year of King Edward the Fourth, as all and every other inquiries, corrections, searches, seifings, and reformations to be had, for the true making of worsteds, sayes, and stamins, in and upon any person or persons, as well within the said towns of Lynn and Yarmouth, as without, without trouble, let, or vexation of any of the inhabitants of the said towns, in as large and ample wise as they might have done before the making of this present act; any thing contained in the same present act to the contrary notwithstanding.

X. And also provided, and be it enacted by the authority aforesaid, That the said craftsmen of worsted-weavers inhabited, or hereafter to be inhabited, within either of the said towns of Lynn and Yarmouth, or suburbs of the same, and the merchants, or any other person or persons which shall happen to buy of the same craftsmen, or of any of them, or of any other person, any of the said cloths of worsteds, stamins, or sayes, made or to be made within either of the said towns of Lynn and Yarmouth, and sealed by the said wardens of the same towns to be elect and sworn as is aforesaid, and any of them, shall not shear, dye, or put in colour, or calander any worsteds, stamins, or sayes, made or to be made within either of the said towns of Lynn and Yarmouth, or suburbs of the same, in any other place or places, but only within the said city of Norwich, or suburbs of the same, upon pain of forfeiture of every piece of worsteds, sayes, or stamins, to be made within any of the said towns of Lynn, and Yarmouth, or suburbs of the same, or the value thereof, shorn, dyed, coloured, or calandred by any of the said craftsmen, buyers, or merchants, in any other place or places than in the said city of Norwich, or suburbs of the same; the one half thereof to be to the King our sovereign lord, and the other half thereof to such person or persons as shall seife the same, (2) so that the said worsteds brought to the said city of Norwich to be shorn, dyed, coloured, and calandred, without covin or craft of any of the said inhabitants and merchants, may be shorn, dyed, coloured, and calandred at and by as convenient price or prices, and in as ready wise, as the said inhabitants of either of the said towns of Lynn and Yarmouth, and merchants buyers of the said worsteds, or other of the said city and county hath had in times past, or hereafter shall have.

XI. And also that the same inhabitants and merchants, and every of them, so bringing their said worsteds to the same city for

XII. And be it enacted by the authority aforesaid, That no person or persons any time after convey or transport into any of the parts beyond the sea, any manner of cloths of worsteds, before the same cloths be shorn, dyed, coloured, and calandred, upon pain of forfeiting the value thereof; the one half to the King our sovereign lord, and the other half thereof to the party that will sue therefore by action or plaint of debt in any of the King's courts; (2) in which action or suit no protection or es-join shall be allowed, nor the offender admitted to wage his law. (3) This act to endure to the next parliament.

CAP. IV.

What customs and impositions Englishmen sworn to foreign princes shall pay.

PRAYEN the commons in this present parliament, That where many and divers persons, being the King's subjects naturally born within this his realm, have withdrawn themselves out of the same realm, and transported themselves, with their wives, children, and goods, into Holland, Zealand, Brabant, Flanders, and into other countries of foreign princes, and there be sworn to the obeisance of the princes and lords of the countries where they be now inhabited, making, there great buildings, and be contributaries to all manner of charges, as the subjects of those countries be; and thus they maintain, as much as in them is, the cities, boroughs, and towns of those countries, and many more of the King's subjects intend to do the same, if remedy therein be not provided: (2) which subjects born in England, notwithstanding that they thus estrange themselves from the King's obeisance, yet they occupy here in all the ports, havens, and creeks, cities, boroughs, and towns of England, as freely, and as free in custom and subsidy, as the King's subjects do occupy, and not only for themselves, but also colourably for other strangers, their friends and partners, and also make themselves quit and exempt from all charges within this realm, in prejudice and decay of the cities, towns, and boroughs of England; (3) and as for beyond the sea, they will obey to none authority granted to the English nation by the King's Highness and his noble progenitors under the great seal of England, and by authority of parliament, but they give themselves over to the protection and defence of those outward princes, to whom they be sworn subjects; and by these manner of persons much coin is conveyed out of the land:

An Englishman sworn subject to a foreign prince, shall pay such impositions as aliens do.

II. Wherefore be it ordained and enacted by the King our sovereign lord, and the lords spiritual and temporal, and the commons, in this present parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, That all and every such subjects born in England, and sworn to be subjects to foreign princes and lords of outward parts, from henceforth (as long as they shall so abide, and and be as subjects to foreign princes and lords) that from henceforth so long they and every of them shall pay such customs, subsidies, tolls, and other impositions within this realm of England, as other strangers of those parts where the said Englishmen make their inhabitations, pay or use to pay within this said realm: (2) and that the knowledge of all and every such person or persons inhabitants, and sworn in manner and form as is before rehearsed within the archduke's countries, that is to say, Holland, Zealand, Brabant, and Flanders only, shall be had by certificate thereof made by the governor of the merchant adventurers and the assistants there for the time being; (3) and also for all other realms and countries of foreign princes, to be certified by the King's most noble embassadors, being at such time there, as they shall happen to be in the said countries upon the King's affairs, shall likewise certify, as is aforesaid, under their seal, into the chancery of our sovereign lord the King; (4) and thereupon out of the said chancery writs to be made, and directed unto the customers, comptrollers, or other officers of the King's custom in every port, haven, or creek within this said realm, to perceive, levy, and take all manner of such customs, subsidies, tolls, and other impositions, as is before specified, of all such goods and merchandises as shall belong unto any such person or persons inhabited and sworn in manner and form above written, as well inward as outward.

III. Provided alway, That if hereafter it shall happen any such person or persons to return into the realm, and here to tarry and inhabit, that then he or they shall be restored to all such liberties and freedoms in paying of customs or subsidies, and other charges, as all other Englishmen do use to pay, and to have a writ out of the chancery for the same, this act, or any thing therein made, to the contrary notwithstanding.

An Englishman returning, and dwelling again in the realm shall pay such impositions as other Englishmen use to pay.

CAP. V.

The privileges and authority of physicians in London.

IN the most humble wise skew unto your Highness, your true and faithful subjects and liege men, John Chambre, Thomas Linacre, Ferdinandus de victoria, your physicians, and Nicholas Halsewel, John Frances, and Robert Yaxley, and all other men of the same faculty within the city of London, and seven miles about, that where your Highness (by your most gracious letters patents, bearing date at Westminster the xxiii. day of September, in the tenth year of your most noble reign) for the common wealth of this your realm, in due exercising and practising of the faculty of physick, and the good ministration of medicines to be had, hath incorporate and made of us, and of our company aforesaid, one body and perpetual commonalty or fellowship of the faculty of physick, and to have perpetual succession and common seal, and to choose yearly a president of the same fellowship and commonalty, to oversee, rule, and govern the said fellowship and commonalty, and all men of the said faculty, with divers other liberties and privileges, by your Highness to us granted for the common wealth of this your realm, as in your said most gracious letters patents

The physicians of London made a body corporate. 2 Bulstr 185. 2 Salk. 431. This act is confirmed by 1 Mar. sess. 2. c. 9.

(19) And forasmuch that the making of the said corporation is meritorious, and very good for the common wealth of this your realm, it is therefore expedient and necessary to provide, That no person of the said politick body and commonalty aforesaid, be suffered to exercise and practise physick, but only those persons that be profound, sad, and discreet, groundly learned, and deeply studied in physick.

The foregoing letters patents confirmed, and further enlarged.

II. In consideration whereof, and for the further authorizing of the same letters patents, and also enlarging of further articles for the said common wealth to be had and made: Pleaseth it your Highness, with the assent of your lords spiritual and temporal, and the commons, in this present parliament assembled, to enact, or-dain, and establish, That the said corporation of the said commonalty and fellowship of the faculty of physick aforesaid, and all and every grant, article, and other thing contained and specified in the said letters patents, be approved, granted, ratified, and confirmed in this present parliament, and clearly authorized and admitted by the same, good, law ful, and available to your said body corporate, and their successors for ever, in as ample and large manner as may be taken, thought, and construed by the same; (2) and that it please your Highness, with the assent of your said lords spiritual and temporal, and the commons, in this your present parliament assembled, further to enact,

enact, ordain, and establish, That the six persons before said in your said most gracious letters patents named as principals, and first named of the said commonalty and fellowship, choosing to them two more of the said commonalty, from henceforward be called and cleaped elects; (3) and that the same elects yearly choose one of them to be president of the said commonalty, and as oft as any of the rooms and places of the same elects shall fortune to be void, by death or otherwise, then the survivors of the said elects (within thirty or forty days next after the death of them, or any of them) shall choose, name, and admit one or mo, as need shall require, of the most cunning and expert men, of and in the said faculty in London, to supply the said room and number of eight persons; (4) so that he or they that shall be so chosen, be first by the said survivors strictly examined after a form devised by the said elects, and also by the same survivors approved.

There shall be eight elects of the physicians of London.

III. And where that in dioceses of England, out of London, it is not light to find alway men able sufficiently to examine (after the statute) such as shall be admitted to exercise physick in them, that it may be enacted in this present parliament, That no person from henceforth be suffered to exercise or practise in physick through England, until such time as he be examined at London, by the said president, and three of the said elects; and to have from the said president or elects, letters testimonials of their approving and examination, except he be a graduate of Oxford or Cambridge, which hath accomplished all things for his form, without any grace.

Physicians in other places to be examined by the president and three of the elects.

CAP. VI.

Altering of highways in the weld of Kent.

IN humble wise beseecheth your Highness, your true and faithful subject, George Guldeford esquire for your body, That where there is, and of time whereof mind of man is not to the contrary, hath been an old common way, or street for carriages, and all other passages and business for you and your progenitors, and your and their people, in the hundred of Cranebrook, in the weld of your county of Kent, leading and extending between and among the lands of the manor of Hempsted, of the said George, in the said hundred of Cranebrook, from the bridge called Hempsted bridge, dividing the said hundred of Cranebrook, and the hundred of Rolvinden, in the said weld of your said county, to a cross called Totenden cross, standing nigh to a great oak, named Hempsted oak, which is in length upon an hundred fourscore and ten perches; which common way so used is in divers places thereof right deep, and noynus for the passage of your people, and also is not so directly leading between the said bridge and cross, neither so commodious for your people, as another way of like breadth in other places within and over the lands of the said manor might be made.

II. In consideration whereof, it may please your Highness, of your blessed disposition, with the assent of the lords spiritual and temporal, and the commons, in this present parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, to enact and ordain, That

Guldeford may lay out a new way in the manor of Hempsted, and then keep in several the old.

That it shall be lawful to your said beseecher, his heirs and assigns, owners of the said manor of Hempsted, at his and their proper costs and charges, at any time before the twenty sixth day of May which shall be in the year of our Lord God M,D,XXVII. by the oversight and assent of two justices of peace of the said county of Kent, and twelve other discreet men, inhabitants within the said hundreds of Cranebrook and Rokvinden, to assign, limit, and lay out, over and through the lands of the said manor, one other way for carriages and passages of your grace, and of your people, and of your and their heirs and successors, of as great largeness in breadth, or larger than the said old way now being is, and as commodious for the said carriages and passages, as the same way now being is, or better, extending and leading directly between the said bridge and cros, so that your grace, and your people, by the said new way so to be assigned and laid out, shall have the more easy carriage and passage than is, or of late time hath been, by the said old way; (2) and that after the said new way so laid out and assigned, the said carriages, passages, and other business there, may be as liberally, commonly, and freely from thenceforth there used and had for ever, and every other thing there exercised and kept, as before this time hath been had, used, exercised, and kept in the said old way, without let or interruption of the said George, his heirs, or assigns, or any other person, which hereafter shall have, hold, or possess the said manor; (3) and that immediately after that the said new way (as is aforesaid to be assigned and limited, shall be (as is abovesaid) laid out, and fully made, it shall be lawful to your said beseecher, his heirs, and assigns, owners of the said manor, to inclose the said old way, and every part thereof, and that from henceforth to hold in severalty to them, and to their heirs and assigns, to their own use and profit for ever, as parcel of the said manor, without any common way or passage there from thenceforth to be had or claimed, any prescription or use to the contrary heretofore had notwithstanding.

Any person may lay out a more commodious way in the weld of Kent, by the assent of two justices of the peace, and xij.
discreet men of that hundred,
and keep several the old.

III. And in consideration that many other common ways in the said weld of Kent, be so deep and noyous, by wearing, and course of water, and other occasions, that people cannot have their carriages or passages by horses upon or by the same, but to their great pains, peril, and jeopardy: it may be by the said authority enacted and established, That if any other person or persons, any time hereafter, in any place within the said weld of your said county, of his good mind and disposition, without any value of good by him or them to be received for the same, will for the common weal of your people, assign and lay out a more commodious way, in and over the lands thereunto adjoining, whereof the person or other to his use shall be seised of fee in estate of inheritance, that the same new way so to be assigned and laid out, by oversight and assent of two justices of peace of the said county, and twelve other discreet men, inhabiting within the hundred where any such new way shall be limited and laid out, or inhabiting within the same hundred and other hundreds to that hundred next adjoining, joining, shall be from thenceforth holden, occupied, and used in like manner as the old way there now is, or before hath been.

IV. And that also the same person or persons so disposed, willing and accomplishing the same, shall and may, for the said new way so assigned and used, retain, and hold in way of recompence for the same new way so to be given, the soil and ground of the old way in severalty, as is abovesaid, to him or them, and to their heirs for ever, in like manner as is abovesaid of the said new way to be assigned at Hempsted; (2) and that the said two justices of peace, and twelve other discreet persons, by whose oversight and assent the said new way at Hempsted, or any other way, by virtue of this act shall be hereafter assigned, limited, and laid out, shall within three months next after the assignment, limitation, and laying out of the same, make certificate into the King's most honourable court of chancery under their seals, of the length and breadth of the same new way or street, and of other things adjoining or concerning the same, as by their discretions shall be thought most expedient or requisite for the common wealth of that county to be certified; (3) and that certificate to be made from time to time, as oft as any such new way or street shall be assigned, limited, and laid out in form above written.

The justices and xij. men shall make certificate of the new way into the chancery.

V. Provided alway, That if any person or persons, or body politick, have, or ought to have, or hereafter shall have any church-way, or other whatsoever way or passage, over or through any manner lands adjoining to any of the said old ways or streets, which shall be taken and used by force of this act, as several soil, and freehold, in recompence for any new way to be made and laid out in form aforesaid, or have, or ought to have, or hereafter shall have any lands or tenements adjoining to the said old way; that they, and every of them, their heirs, and successors, shall and may have and use their said way, or ways, out of, and into the said new way, over and through the land of the said old way or street, into or over the said land or tenement adjoining to the same, and so to pass and repass, as shall appertain, over the same old way, at such convenient place or places thereof, as therefore shall be limited and assigned by the said two justices of peace, and other twelve men, and by them to be certified into the chancery, among other things by them to be certified in form aforesaid, any thing in this act above written notwithstanding.

They which have any way through the old way, may use it.

CAP. VIII.

The marriage of the six clerks allowed, &c.

By old custom no clerk of the chancery might marry, but only the clerk of the crown.

IN most humble wise beseechen your highness, your true and faithful subjects, and daily servants, the six clerks of your high court of chancery, That whereas of old time accustomed hath been used in the said court, that all manner of clerks and ministers of the same court, writing to the great seal, should be unmarried (except only the clerk of the crown) so that as well the curfitors, and other clerks, as the six clerks of the said chancery, were by the same custom restrained from marriage, whereby all those that contrary to the same did marry, were no longer suffered to write in the said chancery, not only to their great hinderance, losing thereby the benefit of their long study, and tedious labours and pains in youth taken in the said court, but also to the great decay of the true course of the said court.

II. And forasmuch as now the said custom taketh no place nor usage, but only in the office of the said six clerks, but that it is permitted and suffered for maintenance of the said course, that as well the said curfitors, as the other clerks aforesaid, may and do take wives, and marry at their liberty, after the laws of holy church, and of long time have so done, without interruption or let of any person: (2) It may therefore please your highness of your most abundant grace, with the assent of the lords spiritual and temporal, and the commons, in this present parliament assembled, and by authority of the same, in consideration of the premises, and also for that the said custom is not grounded upon any law, to ordain, enact, and establish, That John Trevelthen, Richard Welles, Oliver Leader, John Croke, William Jesson, and John Lemsey, now being in the office of the six clerks of the chancery, and every of them, and all other which in time to come shall be in the same office, and every of them, may and do take wives and marry at their liberty, after the laws of holy church; (3) and that they, and every of them so married, may have, hold, and enjoy their said office of six clerks, in as ample, large, and like manner, as they did or should do before the said espousals, or as if they had never been married, the said custom, or any other custom or ordinance heretofore had or made to the contrary notwithstanding.

The six clerks of the chancer may marry, and enjoy their offices.

III. Provided alway, That by any thing in this act contained, the master of the rolls for the time being be not prejudiced either in the giving and disposition of the said offices from time to time, as hath been heretofore accustomed, the forfeiture of that office by reason of marriage only except. And that the said officers which now be, and hereafter shall be, do give such attendance unto the said master of the rolls for the time being, as heretofore in the said offices hath been accustomed.

CAP. X.

The penalty for unlawful hunting the hare.

FORASMUCH as our sovereign lord the King, and other noblemen of this realm of England, before this time have used and exercised the game of hunting of the hare for their disport and pleasure, which game is now decayed, and almost utterly destroyed, for that divers persons in divers parts of this realm, by reason of the tracing in snow, have killed and destroyed, and daily do kill and destroy the same hares, by x, xij, or xvi, upon one day, to the displeasure of our said sovereign lord the King, and other noblemen of this his realm. (2) The penalty for killing of a hare in the snow. Wherefore be it enacted by our said sovereign lord, by the lords spiritual and temporal, and by the commons, in this present parliament assembled, and by authority of the same, That no person or persons, of what estate, degree, or condition they be, from henceforth trace, destroy, and kill any hare in the snow with any dog, bitch, bow, nor otherwise. (3) Justices of peace and stewards in leets may enquire of and punish the offenders. And that the justices of peace within every shire, at every sessions of the peace, and stewards of leets, shall have full authority and power to enquire of such offenders; (4) and after such inquisitions found, the said justices of the peace and stewards of leets, for every hare so killed, shall cess upon every such offender vi. s. viij. d. to be forfeited to our said sovereign lord, that shall be so founden by the justices of peace in their sessions, (5) and the forfeiture found in every leet to be to the lord of the leet. 1 Jac. 1. c. 27.

CAP. XI.

Cloths made in Suffolk, called Vesses or Set cloths, shall not be forfeited for lack of length or breadth, being wet.

HUMBLY shewn unto your highness, your true subjects and clothiers of your county of Suffolk, That where in the sixth year of your most noble reign, it was and is enacted amongst other things concerning making of cloth, That any person or persons shall not put any cloth to sale, which, when it is full wet, shall shrink more than one yard in length, and one quarter of a yard in breadth for the more part thereof; (2) and cloths called Narrows or Streits after the rate; upon pain to forfeit for every cloth otherwise put to sale, vi. s. viij. d. and to deduct of his price for the same, to be rebated to the buyer thereof as much after the rate, as the same cloth so otherwise put to sale, (being full wet) shall be shrunk more than one yard of that it was in length at the time of the same sale, and as it shall (being wet) lack of the breadth of one yard and three quarters of a yard. (3) And in the same act was and is a proviso made after the form following. 6 H. 8. c. 9.

II. Provided alway, That this act extend not to woollen cloths called Kendals, nor cloths called Carpenel Whites, commonly made for lining of bosen, nor to any cloths called Tostocks, made in the county of Devonshire, nor to any woollen cloths made in the county of Cornwall, nor for any cottons or plain lining, or frise made or to be made in Wales, Lancashire, and Cheshire, or any of them.

III. So it is, most gracious sovereign lord, that vesses, otherwise called Set Cloths, of divers colours, be made in your said county of Suffolk, folk, which be made to be worn in far countries, and not in England, and be of small prices, not above xl. s. a cloth, that do not hold the length nor breadth when they be wet, which the buyers do know well when they buy them, so that therein is no deceit; which cloths in the third year of the reign of your most noble father King Henry the Seventh were provided for, so that they might lawfully be sold without any penalty or forfeiture, though they lacked in length or breadth when they were full wet, and so they have used to do time out of mind.

IV. And in the proviso made in the said act of the sixth year of your most noble reign, they were forgotten and not provided for, which should be to the utter impoverishing of the clothiers of your said county, and of all other that be wrought by reason of cloth-making within the said county of Suffolk, if no remedy should be therefore provided.

The statute of

shall not ex-
or Set Cloths.

V. Wherefore your humble subjects humbly beseech your highness, That it be enacted by all the lords spiritual and temporal, and all the commons, in this present parliament assembled, with your royal assent to the same, That all cloths called Vesses, otherwise called Set Cloths, what colour soever they be of, not being above the value of xl. s. a cloth, shall not be forfeited, for that they lack in length or breadth, when they be full wet, after the sale of them afore this time made, or hereafter to be made; (2) the said act made in the sixth year of your most noble reign, or any other act heretofore made to the contrary notwithstanding.

(2) And notwithstanding ſuch truſt and confidence ſo by them put in their ſaid executors, it hath oftentimes been ſeen, where ſuch laſt wills and teſtaments of ſuch lands, tenements, and other hereditaments have been declared, and in the ſame divers executors named and made, that after the deceaſe of ſuch teſtators ſome of the ſame executors, willing to accompliſh the truſt and confidence that they were put in by the ſaid teſtator, have accepted and taken upon them the charge of the ſaid teſtament, and have been ready to fulfil and perform all things contained in the ſame; and the reſidue of the ſame executors, uncharitably contrary to the truſt that they were put in, have reſuſed to intermeddle in any wiſe with the execution of the ſaid will and teſtament, or with the ſale of ſuch lands ſo willed to be ſold by the teſtator. CAP. V.

What fees ought to be taken for probate of teſtaments.

WHERE in the parliament holden at Weſtmiſter, in the thirty firſt year of the reign of the noble King of famous memory, Edward the Third, upon the complaint of his people for the outrageous and grievous fines and ſums of money taken by the miniſters of biſhops, and of other ordinaries of holy church, for the probate of teſtaments, and for the acquittances by the ſaid ordinaries to be made concerning the ſame, the ſaid noble King in the ſame parliament, openly charged and commanded the archbiſhop of Canterbury, and the other biſhops for the time being, that amendment thereof ſhould be had; (2) and if none amendment were thereof had, it was by the authority of the ſame parliament accorded, that the King ſhould thereof make enquiry by his juſtices, of ſuch oppreſſion and extorſions; and that the ſame juſtices ſhould hear and determine them as well at the ſuit of the King, as of the party, as of old time hath been uſed, as by the ſame ſtatute plainly appeareth. (3) And where at the parliament holden at Weſtmiſter, in the third year of the reign of King Henry the Fifth, it was recited, That the commons of the realm had oftentimes complained them in divers parliaments, for that divers ordinaries do take for the probation of teſtaments, and other things thereunto belonging, ſometime xl. s. ſometime lx. s. and ſometimes more, againſt right and juſtice, where in the time of King Edward the Third, men were wont to pay for ſuch cauſes but ii. s. vi. d. or v. s. at the moſt, by which unlawful exactions the teſtaments of the teſtators might not be executed according to their laſt wills; (4) it was then enacted, for the avoiding of ſuch oppreſſions, That no ordinary from thenceforth ſhould take for the probation of any teſtament or inventory, or for any other thing to the ſame belonging, any more than was accuſtomed and uſed in the time of the ſaid noble King Edward the Third, (5) upon pain to yield to the party ſo grieved, three times as much as the ſaid ordinaries did ſo receive; (6) which act did endure but to the next parliament following, by reaſon that the ordinaries did then promiſe to reform and amend the ſaid oppreſſions and exactions; (7) and for that the ſaid unlawful exactions of the ſaid ordinaries, and their miniſters, be nothing reformed nor amended, but greatly augmented and increaſed, againſt right and juſtice, and to the great impoveriſhing of the King's ſubjects:

CAP. VI.

Where mortuaries ought to be paid, for what persons, and how much; and in what case none is due.

13 Co. 9.
The causes of limiting in certainty what shall be paid for mortuaries.

FORASMUCH as question, ambiguity, and doubt is chanced and risen upon the order, manner, and form of demanding, receiving, and claiming of mortuaries, otherwise called Corse Presents, as well for the greatness and value of the same, which, as hath lately been taken, is thought over-excessive to the poor people and other persons of this realm, (2) as also for that such mortuaries or corse presents have been demanded and levied, for such as at the time of their death have had no property in any goods or chattels, and many times for travelling and wayfaring men, in the places where they have fortune to die; (3) to the intent that all doubt, contention, and uncertainty herein may be removed, and as well the generality of the King's people therein remedied, as also of the parsons, vicars, parish priests, curates, and other having interest in such mortuaries and corse presents indifferently provided for:

The penalty
of him that conventeth any person to pay for a mortuary more than is due.

II. Be it therefore enacted, ordained, and established by the King our sovereign lord, and the lords spiritual and temporal, and the commons of this parliament assembled, and by authority of the same, That from the first day of April, in the year of our Lord God M.D.XXX. no parson, vicar, curate, nor parish priest, ne any other spiritual person, nor their fermors, bailiffs, nor lessees, shall take, receive, or demand of any person or persons within this realm, for any person or persons dying within the same, any manner mortuary or corse present, ne any sum or sums of money, ne any other thing for the same, more than is hereafter mentioned; (2) ne also shall convent or call any person or persons before any judge spiritual, for the recovery of any such mortuaries or corse presents, or any other thing for the same, more than is hereafter mentioned, (3) upon pain to forfeit for every time so demanding, receiving, taking, or conventing, or calling any such person or persons before any spiritual judge, so much in value as they shall take above the sum limited by this act, and over that, xl. s. to the party grieved contrary to this act; (4) for the which forfeiture the party so grieved contrary to this act, shall have an action of debt, by writ, bill, plaint, or information in any of the King's courts, wherein no wager of law, essoin, nor protection shall be allowed.

No mortuary
goods be under mortuaries

have been.
But one mortuary for one person.

III. First it is ordained, established, and enacted, That no manner of mortuary shall be taken or demanded of any person whatsoever he be, which at the time of his death hath in moveable goods under the value of x. marks. (2) Also that no mortuary shall be given, asked, or demanded from henceforth of any manner person, but only in such place where heretofore mortuaries have been used to be paid and given, and in those places none otherwise but after the rate and form hereafter mentioned. (3) Ne that any person pay mortuaries in more places than one, that is to say, in the places of their most dwelling ling and habitation, and there but one mortuary. (4) Nor no parson, vicar, curate, parish priest, or other, shall for any person dying or dead, and being at the time of his death of the value in moveable goods of x. marks, or more, clearly above his debts paid, and under the sum of xxx. li. take for a mortuary above iii. s. iv. d. in the whole. (5) And for a person dying or dead, being at the time of his death of the value of xxx. li. or above clearly, above his debts paid, in moveable goods, and under the value of xl. li. there shall no more be taken or demanded for a mortuary than vi. s. viii. d. in the whole. (6) And for any person dying or dead, having at the time of his death of the value in moveable goods of xl. li. or above, to any sum whatsoever it be, clearly above his debts paid, there shall be no more taken, paid, or demanded for a mortuary than x. s. in the whole.

The duty of the parson, &c. for all mortuaries.

IV. Provided alway, That for no woman being covert baron, nor child, ne for any person not keeping house, any manner mortuary be paid, ne that any parson, vicar, curate, parish priest or other, ask, demand, or take for any such woman, child, or for any person not keeping house, dying or dead, any manner thing or money, by way of mortuary; (2) ne also for any way-faring man, or other, that dwelleth not, ne maketh residence in the place where they shall happen to die, but that the mortuary of such way-faring persons be answerable in places where mortuaries be accustomed to be paid, and in manner and form, and after the rate before mentioned, and none otherwise, in the place or places where such way-faring persons at the time of their death had their most habitation, house, and dwelling-places, and no where else.

A woman covert, a child, or person keeping no house, shall pay no mortuary. Nor wayfaring man, or that maketh no residence where he dieth.

V. Provided alway, That it shall be lawful to all manner parsons, vicars, curates, parish priests, and other spiritual persons, to take and receive any manner sum of money, or other thing, which by any person dying shall fortune to be disposed, given, or bequeathed unto them, or any of them, or to the high altar of the church, this act, or any thing therein mentioned notwithstanding.

A legacy bequeathed to a parson, &c. or to the altar.

VI. And be it also enacted by the authority aforesaid, That no mortuaries nor corse presents, ne any sum or sums of money, or other thing, for any mortuary or corse present, shall be demanded, taken, received, or had in the parts of Wales, nor in the marches of the same, nor in the towns of Calais or Berwick, nor in the marches of the same, but only in such parts and places of Wales, marches, and towns aforesaid, where mortuaries have been accustomed to be taken and paid; (2) and in those parts and places no mortuaries nor corse presents, ne any other thing for mortuary or corse present from henceforth shall be demanded, taken, received, or had, but only after the form, order, and manner above specified in this present act, and none otherwise, ne of any other person or persons than is limited by this present act, upon the pain above contained in this present act.

No mortuaries in Wales, Calais, or Berwick.

Mortuaries to be taken by the bishops of Bangor, St. David, St. Asaph, &c. In part repealed by 12 Annæ. stat. 2. c. 6. Places where mortuaries have been of less value.

VII. Provided also, That it shall be lawful to the bishops of Bangor, Landaff, St. David's, and St. Asaph, and likewise to the archdeacon of Chester, to take such mortuaries of the priests within their dioceses and jurisdictions, as heretofore have been accustomed. (2) Provided also, That in such places where mortuaries have been accustomed to be taken of less value than is aforesaid, that no person shall be compelled to pay in any such place any other mortuary, or more for any mortuary than hath been accustomed, ne that any mortuary in such place shall be demanded, taken, received, or had of any person or persons exempt by this act, nor in any wise contrary to this act, upon the pain afore limited.

In ſome caſes a ſpiritual perſon may take to ferm the temporalities of a biſhop, &c.

IV. Provided alway, That this preſent act ſhall not extend to any ſpiritual perſon or perſons, in and for taking to ferm any temporalities, during the time of vacations of any archbiſhopricks, biſhopricks, abbeys, priories, or other collegiate, cathedral, or coventual churches, (2) nor to any ſpiritual perſon or perſons that ſhall tender or make any traſverſe upon any offices or office, concerning his or their freehold.

No ſpiritual perſon ſhall buy to ſell again any merchandise, corn, cattle, &c.

V. And be it alſo enacted by the authority aforeſaid, That no ſpiritual perſon or perſons, ſecular or regular, of what eſtate or degree ſoever they be, ſhall from henceforth by himſelf, nor by any other for him, nor to his uſe, bargain and buy to ſell again for any lucre, gain, or profit, in any markets, fairs, or other places, any manner of cattle, corn, lead, tin, hides, leather, tallow, fiſh, wool, wood, or any manner of victual or merchandise, what kind ſoever they be of, upon pain to forfeit treble the value of every thing, by them, or by any to their uſe, bargained and bought to ſell again, contrary to this preſent act; (2) and that every ſuch bargain and contract tract hereafter to be made by them, or by any to their use, contrary to this act, shall be utterly void, and of none effect; (3) and the one half of every such forfeiture to be to the King our sovereign lord, and the other half to him that will sue for the same by original writ of debt, bill, plaint, or information in any of the King's courts; in which action or suit no wager of law for the defendant shall be admitted, nor any essoin nor protection allowed.

VI. Provided alway, That if any such spiritual person or persons shall happen hereafter without fraud or covin to buy any horses, mares, or mules, to the only intent to occupy for himself or his servants, to ride to and fro upon his necessary business, or any other cattles or goods, to the only intent and purpose at the buying thereof to be employed and put in and about his necessary apparel of his own house, or of his person and servants, or in, for, and about the only occupying, manuring, or tillage of his own glebe or demean lands annexed to his church, or for the necessary expences of his own household-keeping, and after the buying of any such horses, cattles, or goods, or exercise of them, or any of them, happeneth to mislike any of them that they should not be good, profitable, nor convenient for any of the purposes abovesaid, for the which they were bought; that then every such spiritual person or persons may lawfully bargain and put away such things so by him bought, without fraud or covin, for any of the purposes abovesaid at his pleasure and advantage, this act, or any thing therein contained notwithstanding.

VII. Provided alway, That all abbots, priors, abbeesses, prioresses, provosts, presidents, masters of colleges and hospitals, and all other spiritual governors and governesses of any spiritual monasteries, or houses of religion, by what name or names soever they be called, having manors, lands, tenements, and hereditaments, and other yearly profits in the right of their monasteries or houses, of the yearly value of viii. IX. And be it enacted by the authority aforesaid, That if any person or persons having one benefice with cure of soul, being of the yearly value of viii. pound or above, accept and take any other with cure of soul, and be instituted and inducted in possession of the same, that then and immediately after such possession had thereof, the first benefice shall be adjudged in the law to be void.

X. And that it shall be lawful to every patron, having the advowson thereof, to present another, and the presentee to have the benefit of the same, in such like manner and form as though the incumbent had died or resigned, any licence, union, or other dispensation to the contrary hereof obtained notwithstanding. And that every such licence, union, or dispensation had, or hereafter to be obtained contrary to this present act, of what name or names, quality or qualities, soever they be, shall be utterly void, and of none effect.

XI. And if any person or persons at any time after the first day of April, in the year of our lord God M.D. and xxx. contrary to this present act, procure and obtain at the court of Rome, or elsewhere, any licence or licences, union, toleration, or dispensation, to receive and take any mo benefices with cure than is above limited, or else at any time after the said day put in execution any such licence, toleration, or dispensation, before that obtained contrary to this act, that then every such person or persons, so after the said day suing for himself, or receiving and taking such benefice by force of such licence or licences, union, toleration, or dispensation, that is to say, the same person or persons only, and none other, shall for every such default incur the danger, pain, and penalty of xx.li. sterling, and also lose the whole profits of every such benefice or benefices as he receiveth or taketh by force of any such licence or licences, union, toleration, or dispensation; (2) the one half of which forfeiture to be to the King our sovereign lord, and the other half thereof to him that will sue for the same by original writ, bill, plaint of debt, or information in any of the King's courts; (3) in which action and suit no wager of law, effoin, or protection for the defendant, shall be admitted or allowed.

XII. Provided always, That this act concerning the not keeping of mo benefices with cure of souls than one, extend, ne be prejudicial to any person or persons, which at any time before the said first day of April, in the year of our Lord God

M. D.

M. D. and xxx. shall be really intituled or possessed of any such benefices with cure of soul, as concerning or touching any of the same benefices, whereof they shall then be already really intituled or possessed before the said day, to or under the number of four, and not above; (2) and if any such spiritual person or persons so being intituled or possessed of no benefices with cure of soul than four, do not by the said first day of April clearly, and without yearly pension, resign, or otherwise give up all and every such benefice and benefices as he shall be so intituled and possessed of, above the said number, that then it shall be lawful for every patron, having the advowson of any such benefice, over the number aforesaid, to present another, and the presentee to have the benefit of the same, in like manner and form as though it had been void by death, or resignation of the incumbent, any licence, union, or other dispensation to the contrary hereof obtained notwithstanding; (3) and this clause of presentation to be taken and understood in and of such benefices with cure of soul, as were given to any such spiritual person, after the said number of four benefices with cure furnished and fulfilled,

They may keep their benefices, which were thereof possessed ann. 1530, except they have above four.

XIII. Provided also, That all spiritual men now being, or which hereafter shall be of the King's council, may purchase licence or dispensation, and take, receive, and keep three parsonages, or benefices, with cure of soul; (2) and that all other being the King's chaplains, and not sworn of his council, the chaplains of the queen, prince, or princess, or of any of the King's children, brethren, sisters, uncles, or aunts, may sem-

house, the King's secretary, and dean of his chapel, the King's amner, and the master of the rolls, may have every of them two chaplains; (2) and the chief justice of the King's bench one chaplain; (3) and the warden of the five ports for the time being, one chaplain; whereof every one may purchase licence, and receive, have, and keep two parsonages or benefices with cure of soul.

XX. And that the brethren and sons of all temporal lords, which are born in wedlock, may every of them purchase licence or dispensation, and receive, have, and keep as many parsonages or benefices with cure, as the chaplains of a duke, or an archbishop.

XXI. And likewise the brethren and sons born in wedlock of every knight, may every of them purchase licence or dispensation, and receive, take, and keep two parsonages or benefices with cure of soul.

The chaplains shall shew the letters of their lords or masters.

XXII. Provided always, That the said chaplains so purchasing, taking, receiving, and keeping benefices with cure of soul as is aforesaid, shall be bound to have and exhibit, where need shall be, letters under the sign and seal of the King, or other their lord and master, testifying whose chaplains they be, and else not to enjoy any such plurality of benefices by being such chaplain, any thing in this act notwithstanding.

Doctors and batchelors of divinity and law may by dispensation have two benefices with cure. No dispensation can licence any to have above two benefices.

XXIII. Be it also provided, That all doctors and batchelors of divinity, doctors of law, and batchelors of the law canon, and every of them which shall be admitted to any of the said degrees by any of the universities of this realm, and not by grace only, may purchase licence, and take, have, and keep two parsonages or benefices with cure of soul; (2) so that always the said liberty, by any of the provisions aforesaid given to any of the said counsellors, chaplains, and other persons before specified, to purchase licence or dispensation, and take, receive, and keep more benefices than one, after the manner and form aforesaid, be taken and understood to extend in number to no more benefices with cure of soul, than is above limited; accounting in the same, and as parcel thereof, such benefices with cure of soul, as any the said persons shall have in real title, or in their possession, at the said first day of April, in the year of our Lord M.D. and xxx.

Every archbishop may have eight chaplains, and every bishop four.

XXIV. Provided also, That every archbishop, because he must occupy eight chaplains at consecrations of bishops, and every bishop, because he must occupy six chaplains at giving of orders, and consecration of churches, may every of them have two chaplains over and above the number above limited unto them, whereof every one may purchase licence and dispensation, and take, receive, and keep as many parsonages and benefices, with cure of soul, as is before assigned to such chaplains.

XXV. Provided also, and be it enacted by authority aforesaid, That no person or persons, to whom any number of chaplains, or any chaplain, by any of the provisions aforesaid is is limited, shall in any wise, by colour of any of the same provisions, advance any spiritual person or persons, above the number to them appointed, to receive or keep any mo benefices with cure of soul, than is above limited by this act, any thing specified in the said provisions notwithstanding; (2) and if they do, then every such spiritual person and persons, so advanced above the said number, to incur the pain and penalty contained in this act.

XXVI. Be it also further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That as well every spiritual person now being promoted to any archdeaconry, deanry, or dignity in any monastery, or cathedral church, or other church, conventual or collegiate, or being beneficed with any parsonage or vicarage, as all and every spiritual person and persons, which hereafter shall be promoted to any of the said dignities or benefices, with any parsonage or vicarage, from the feast of St. Michael the archangel next coming, shall be personally resident, and abiding in, at, and upon his said dignity, prebend, or benefice, or at one of them at the least; (2) and in case that any such spiritual person, at any time after the said feast, keep not residence at one of his said dignities, prebends, or benefices, as is aforesaid, but absent himself wilfully by the space of one month together, or by the space of two months, to be accounted at several times in any one year, and make his residence and abiding in any other places by such time, that then he shall forfeit for every such default x.li. sterling; the one half thereof to the King our sovereign lord, and the other half of the same to the party that will sue for the same in any of the King's courts by original writ of debt, bill, plaint, or information; in which action and suit the defendant shall not wage his law, nor have any essoin nor protection allowed.

XXVII. And if any person or persons procure or obtain at the court of Rome, or elsewhere, any manner of licence or dispensation to be non-resident at their said dignities, prebend, or benefices, contrary to this act, that then every such person or persons putting in execution any such dispensation or licence for himself, from the said first day of April, in the year of our Lord God M. D. and xxx. shall run and incur in the penalty, damage, and pain of xx. li. sterling for every time so doing, to be forfeited and recovered as is aforesaid, and such licence or dispensation so procured, or to be put in execution, to be void and of none effect.

XXVIII. Provided alway, That this act of non-residence shall not in any wise extend, ne be prejudicial to any such spiritual person as shall chance to be in the King's service beyond the sea, nor to any person or persons going to any pilgrimage or holy place beyond the sea, during the time that they shall be in the King's service, or in their pilgrimages going and returning home; (2) nor to any scholar or scholars being conversant and abiding for study, without fraud or covin, at any university within this realm, or without; (3) nor to any of the XXIX. Provided also, That it shall be lawful to every spiritual person or persons, being chaplains to the King our sovereign lord, to whom it shall please his highness to give any benefices or promotions spiritual, to what number soever it be, to accept and take the same, without incurring the danger, penalty, and forfeiture in this estatute comprised; (2) and that also it shall be lawful to the King's highness, to give licence to every of his own chaplains for non-residence upon their benefices, any thing in this present act contained to the contrary notwithstanding.

No spiritual person beneficed with cure shall take in ferm any parsonage or vicarage.

XXX. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That no spiritual person, secular or regular, beneficed with cure, as is afore rehearsed, from the feast of St. Michael the archangel next coming, by authority of any manner licence, dispensation, or otherwise, shall take any particular stipend or salary to sing for any soul, nor have nor occupy by himself or by any other to his use, any parsonage or vicarage in ferm, of the lease or grant of any person or persons, nor take any profit or rent rent out of any ſuch ferm, (2) upon pain to forfeit xl. s. for every ſuch week that he, or any to his uſe, ſhall occupy or have any ſuch ſtipend or ferm contrary to this preſent act, and upon pain to loſe ten times the value of ſuch profit or rent as he ſhall take out of any ſuch ferm after the ſaid feaſt; (3) the one half of ſuch forfeitures to be to the King our ſovereign lord, and the other moiety to him that will ſue for the ſame by original writ, bill, plaint of debt, or by information in any of the King's courts, in which ſuit and action no wager of law ſhall be admitted for the defendant, nor any eſſoin nor protection allowed.

Touching artificers strangers, what they may do as concerning retaining apprentices, journeymen, &c.

PRAYEN the commons in this present parliament assembled, That where in the xv. day of February, in the xx. year of the reign of our now most gracious sovereign lord the King, Henry the Eighth, by our said sovereign lord the King, his most honourable council in his star-chamber at Westminster, for the common wealth of his natural subjects born within this his realm, by great and deliberate advice it was deemed, adjudged, and decreed, That no stranger artificer, born out of our said sovereign lord his obeisance, inhabiting within any city, borough, or any other place within this his realm of England, from henceforth should keep in his or their house or houses, any manner of strangers servants born out of his obeisance, but only two servants strangers, and no more at one time.

No stranger artificer inhabiting within any city or other place, shall keep in his house but two strangers born. Rep. 5 El. c. 4. Hutt. 132.

II. And also all and singular strangers that then were, or after the making of the said decree should be made denizens, that at the time or after the making thereof would inhabit within the city of London, or within two miles compass of the same, and keep or would keep houses, or occupy their craft, should be contributories to and with our said sovereign lord his subject artificers within the said city of London, paying, bearing, and sustaining such charges as hereafter shall be expressed, that is to say, that all other strangers, artificers, denizens or no denizens, of every handicraft or mystery, inhabiting as well within the city of London, as in any other city, town, borough, or village within this his realm, should pay, bear, and sustain all such and like charges, as our said sovereign lord his subjects of like craft and mystery do always use to pay.

Aliens house-keepers shall bear such charges as the King's subjects do.

III. And if any of them refused, or denied the same, or any part thereof, then he or they so denying, or refusing so to do, should not any longer occupy any handicraft, upon the pains, damages, and perils specified, cified, as well in the acts or ſtatutes made in the xiv. and xv. years of the reign of our now ſovereign lord, as in one ſtatute made in the firſt year of the reign of King Richard the Third.

Aliens ſhall be ſworn to be true to the King, to obey him and his laws.

IV. And that the ſame ſtrangers, denizens or no denizens, houſholders, which would remain and abide within our ſaid ſovereign lord his realm, ſhould upon lawful warning to them given, by the maſters and wardens of divers and ſundry myſteries, mentioned and ſpecified in the ſaid decree, within the ſaid cities and towns, preſent themſelves in the common-hall or meeting-place of the ſaid crafts, and there to receive, and take their oath, and be ſworn upon the holy evangelists, before the maſter and wardens of their ſaid craft, to be faithful and true to the King our ſovereign lord, and his heirs, Kings of England, and to be obedient to him and them, and his and their laws.

V. Alſo that no ſtranger, artiſicer, or handicraftſman, born out of our ſaid ſovereign lord his obeiſance, not being denizen, which was not a houſholder the fifteenth day of February aboveſaid, ſhould not ſet up ne keep any houſe, ſhop or ſhops, or chamber, wherein they ſhould exerciſe or occupy any handicraft or myſtery within this our ſaid ſovereign lord his realm, upon pain to incur and run into ſuch penalties as be contained in the ſtatutes before this time made and enacted, as is aforeſaid.

1 R.3.c.9.

VI. And that none of the ſaid ſtrangers artiſicers, or handicraftſmen, born out of our ſaid ſovereign lord his obeiſance, as well denizens, as no denizens, ſhould aſſemble in any company, fellowſhip, congregation, or conventicle, but only in the common-hall of their crafts, with our ſaid ſovereign lord his ſubjects which be of the companies of their ſaid craft or crafts, at ſuch time as they ſhould be commanded and warned by the ſaid maſters and wardens of their ſaid craft or crafts, and at none other place and time, or in any other manner, upon the pain afore expreſſed: as by the ſaid decree ſhewed and exemplified, and hereunto annexed, under our ſaid ſovereign lord the King his great ſeal, more plainly, and at large, it may and doth appear.

The foreſaid decree made by the lords in the ſtar-chamber confirmed.

VII. That for the common wealth aboveſaid, it may be enacted by the King our ſovereign lord, the lords ſpiritual and temporal, and the commons in this preſent parliament aſſembled, and by the authority of the ſame, That the ſaid order and decree, had, given, and made by our ſaid ſovereign lord the King his moſt honourable council, and all and every thing therein contained, ſpecified, and declared, be holden and obſerved firm and ſtable, and duly to be put in execution in every point and article, in manner and form as is above rehearſed, according to the purport, effect, and true meaning of the ſame.

The ſtatute made 14 & 15 H.8.c.2. touching ſtrangers artiſicers taking of apprentices made perpetual.

VIII. Be it furthermore enacted by the authority aforeſaid, That the act made in the parliament begun at London the fifteenth day of April, in the fourteenth year of the reign of our ſaid ſovereign lord the King that now is, and from London adjourned to Weſtmiſter the laſt day of July, in the fifteenth year of the reign of our ſaid ſovereign lord, concerning ſtrangers artiſicers, for the taking of apprentices, journeymen, and covenant ſervants, and every article and proviſion contained in the ſame act, ſhall be from henceforth put in due execution, according cording to the true intent, meaning, and purport of the same, as well within the city of London, as in all other cities, boroughs, and towns corporate within this realm, and the same to endure perpetually, any thing contained in the said act or decree to the contrary notwithstanding.

IX. Provided always, That no artificer, alien or stranger, born out of the King's obeisance, being a householder, or inhabiting within any of the universities of Oxford and Cambridge, or within the sanctuary of St. Martin le Grand, within the city of London, shall from henceforth have or retain in their service journeymen or apprentices, being aliens or strangers born, above the number of ten persons at one time, upon pain of the penalty contained in the said act, made in the said fourteenth and fifteenth year of our said sovereign lord; the provisions contained or specified in the same act notwithstanding.

No alien dwelling in Oxford, Cambridge, or Great St. Martins shall have above x. persons aliens in his house.

and also our subjects handicraftsmen, born within our obedience, by the means aforesaid, be fore impoverished, ministered, and almost utterly decayed and destroyed, and many of them, for lack of occupation in the said handicrafts, be constrained to live in idleness, by occasion whereof they do continually fall to theft, murder, and other great offences, and consequently in great numbers be put to death by our laws, as we be informed; (7) and also the great scarcity of grain and victual at this present time throughout this our realm, to be the more enforced and caused, by reason of the great multitude, and continual recourse of the said strangers handicraftsmen, which consume a great portion of corn and victual, grown and bred within this our realm; (8) the premises considered, to the intent to be thereof more perfectly and truly instructed, for the charitable zeal that we have to the common weal of our realm, and our said subjects of the same, and for the quietness of the said strangers, we have assigned, and given in commandment to our lords, and others of our council, indifferently to examine the premises, and as well to hear the said complainants as the said defendants, and their allegations and sayings of, in, and to the premises, and to every part thereof, and the same by them heard, examined, and by good deliberate advice understood, to ordain, adjudge, and decree the same, after their wisdoms and learning; whereupon as well the said bill of complaint, the answer of the said defendants thereunto made, the replication of the said complainants to the said answer also made, and all other allegations and sayings of both the said parties, by mature and deliberate advice, by our said council ripely examined, heard, and understood:

XII. 'It is ordained, adjudged, and decreed, the x day February, The decree in this present term of St. Hillary; in the xx. year of our reign, made by the lords of the King's council in the star-chamber, by the most reverend father in God Thomas lord cardinal legate de latere of the apostolick see, archbishop of York, primate and chancellor of England, and by our nobles touching the complainants and defendants then there being, in manner and form following; that is to say, That according to the act of parliament made in the said xiv. and xv. year of our reign, That no stranger artificer born out of our obedience, inhabiting within any city, town, or borough, or any other place within this our realm of England, from thenceforth shall keep in his or their house, any manner of servants strangers born out of our obedience, but only two strangers servants, and no more at one time; (2) and that as many of the strangers artificers now inhabiting within any city, town, or borough corporate, or in any other place within our realm, that will be apprentices or servants to or with any of our subjects artificers born within our obedience, exercising new or old stuff, inhabiting within our realm, shall be suffered so to abide and dwell with them without interruption, as long as they will so continue and abide with them, and can agree together.

XIII. 'And

Strangers artificers may take Englishmen to be their apprentices.

What charges strangers shall be contributory unto with the English artificers.

XIII. ' And furthermore it is decreed, That it shall be lawful to all and every of the said strangers artificers, now being householders within our said realm, to take as many of our subjects born within our obeisance to be their servants and apprentices, in the craft that they do exercise, as they can lawfully get ; and that all the strangers artificers, now being householders within our said city of London, suburbs, parishes, or compass thereof expressed in the said statutes, or within two miles compass of the said parishes ;

XIV. ' And also all and singular strangers that now be, or hereafter shall be made denizens, that do or hereafter will inhabit within our said city of London, suburbs, or parishes aforesaid, or within two miles compass of the same, and keep houses, and occupy their craft ; shall be contributory to and with our subjects artificers within our city of London, paying, bearing, and sustaining such charges as hereafter shall be expressed ; that is to say, as well every of the said strangers, being of the craft and mystery of cordwainers, householders, or denizens that now be, or hereafter shall be made denizens, and shall inhabit within our said city, suburbs, parishes, or two miles compass of the same, shall quarterly pay to the said master, wardens, and commonalty of the said craft of cordwainers within our said city of London for the time being, vi. d. (2) And every servant stranger of the said occupation of the said cordwainers within the said city, suburbs, and precinct, not being denizen, shall quarterly pay to the said masters, wardens, and commonalty, iii. d. (3) And that all other strangers artificers and denizens of every handicraft and mystery, inhabiting as well within our said city of London, as in any other city or town within this our realm, shall pay, bear, and sustain all such and like charges as our subjects of like craft and mystery born out of our obeisance, inhabiting within the city, borough, or town of their habitation, at this time do now bear and sustain.

XV. ' And also all strangers artificers, and denizens, exercising the craft and mystery of cordwainers, dwelling out of our said city of London, in any other city or town within this our realm, shall pay, bear, and sustain, scot, taxes, tallages, subsidies, prefts, and all other reasonable exactions from time to time, according as the said masters, wardens, and companies of the said crafts for the time being, shall be bounden to pay, bear, and sustain, when any subsidy, tax, tallage, or preft, or other reasonable charges shall by the mayor and aldermen of our said city of London, and the mayors and aldermen of our said other cities, and towns, or by the common council of the said city, cities, and towns, of and for any charges or payments of money, to be paid by the companies of the said crafts, citizens of any city, for any payment to be made unto the King's highness, or his heirs, or else to be paid for any cause concerning the common wealth of any of our said cities or towns, or common wealth of the said artificers, the said strangers shall pay all the same that they shall be assessed or taxed to pay, as ‘ any other city, town, or borough, or village within this our ‘ realm, wherein he shall exercise and practise any handicraft or ‘ mystery, upon pain to incur and run in such penalties as be con‘ tained in the statutes before this time made and enacted. (2) And ‘ that none of the said strangers artificers or handicraftsmen, born ‘ out of our obeisance, as well denizens as other, shall assemble in ‘ any company, fellowship, congregation, or conventicle, but ‘ only in the common hall of their crafts, with our subjects which ‘ be of the company of their said craft or crafts, at such time as ‘ they shall be commanded and warned by the master and war-

II. Be it therefore enacted, eſtabliſhed, and ordained by authority of this preſent parliament, That whereſoever any manner lands, tenements, and other hereditaments be holden of any manner perſon or perſons, by rents, cuſtoms, or ſer- vices, that if the lord, of whom any ſuch manner lands, tenements, or hereditaments be ſo holden, diſtrain upon the ſame manors, lands, or tenements, for any ſuch rents, cuſtoms, or ſer- vices, and replevin thereof be ſued, that the lord of whom the ſame lands, tenements, or hereditaments be ſo holden, may avow, or his bailiff or ſervant make conſance, or juſtify, for taking of the ſaid diſtreſſes upon the ſame lands, tenements, or heredita- ments ſo holden, as in lands or tenements within his fee or ſeig- niory, (2) alledging in the ſaid avowry, conſance and juſti- fication, the ſame manors, lands, and tenements to be holden of him, without naming of any perſon certain to be tenant of the ſame, and without making any avowry, juſtification, or conſi- ſance upon any perſon certain; (3) and likewise the lord, bailly, or ſervant to make avowry, juſtification, or conſance in like manner and form upon every writ ſued of ſecond de- liverance.

III. And alſo be it enacted by the ſaid authority, That every avowant, and every other perſon or perſons that make any ſuch avowry, juſtification, or conſance, as bailly or ſervant to any perſon or perſons in any replegiare, or ſecond deliverance, for rents, cuſtoms, ſervices, or for damage ſeſtant, or other rent or rents, upon any diſtreſſ taken in any lands or tenements, if the ſame avowry, conſance, or juſtification be found for them, or the plaintiffs in the ſame be nonſuit, or otherwiſe barred, that then they ſhall recover their damages and coſts againſt the ſaid plaintiffs, as the ſame plaintiffs ſhould have done or had, if they had recovered in the replegiare, or ſecond deliverance found againſt the ſaid defendants.

CAP. II.

An act for trial of foreign pleas pleaded by felons.

WHERE among other things it was considered by the whole court of parliament of our most excellent sovereign lord the King, holden in the fourth year of his noble reign, That murderers and felons, lawfully arraigned of their detestable offences, bare them bold upon imagining and pleading of feigned and untrue foreign pleas triable in foreign counties, to the intent to be removed from place to place by colourable and untrue suggestions, and for to be untruly acquit by favour, might or corruption, so that they lived in manner without fear or dread: (2) For reformation whereof, and for the common wealth of this realm, it was enacted by authority of the same parliament, That if any murderer or felon, upon his arraignment from thence did alledge, that he had taken any church or church-yard, for murther or felon, or other place privileged for the same in a foreign country, and against his will was taken out thereof: that then the King's attorney, or any other person that will shew or alledge for the King, that the said murtherer or felon so arraigned, was taken at large in the same shire where he is so arraigned, then that the same allegiance and issue should be tried by the inquest that should try the same murther or felony within the same shire, and before the same justices where the said murtherer or felon is arraigned, as though the said foreign plea had not been pleaded by the said felon. (3) And that if it were found by the same inquest, that the said murtherer or felon was taken within the same shire, as is aforesaid, that then he to have no advantage or benefit of the matter alledged by him for taking out of the church or church-yard, or other place privileged in any such foreign shire, (4) and that the said act should endure to the next parliament from then ensuing, as by the same act made in the said fourth year manifestly appeareth. (5) And forasmuch as sub the time of expiration of the said act made in the said fourth year, many abominable murthers, as well of priests as of other persons, robberies of church, and robberies of persons in their houses, as well by day as by night, and other most detestable murthers and felonies, have been committed and done within this realm, and the more, and more often, because that the said statute hath been expired and ended, from and since the beginning of the parliament of our said sovereign lord holden in the sixth year of his most noble reign:

So much of the stat. of 4 H. 8. c. 2. as toucheth the plea pleaded by a felon that he was taken in a foreign country out of sanctuary, made perpetual.

II. It is ordained and enacted by authority of this present parliament, That the said act made in the said fourth year, and every thing therein contained concerning the said foreign pleas, and replications thereunto to be made, and trials thereof, shall now be revived, and shall stand in full force and effect, and shall continue and endure from henceforth for ever, as if the same act had been originally made perpetual and not determinable.

II. And where in many parts of this realm it cannot be known and proved what hundred, riding, wapentake, city, borough, town, or pariſh, nor what perſon certain, or body politick, ought of right to make ſuch bridges decayed, by reaſon whereof ſuch decayed bridges, for lack of knowledge of ſuch as owen to make them, for the moſt part lie long without any amendment, to the great annoyance of the King's ſubjects,

This act is enforced by 1 Ann. ſtat. 1. c. 18. ſo far as not altered by that ſtatute.

III. For the remedy thereof, be it enacted by authority aforeſaid, That in every ſuch caſe the ſaid bridges, if they be without city, or town corporate, ſhall be made by the inhabitants of the ſhire or riding within the which the ſaid bridge decayed ſhall happen to be; (2) and if it be within any city or town corporate, then by the inhabitants of every ſuch city or town corporate wherein ſuch bridges ſhall happen to be; (3) and if part of any ſuch bridges ſo decayed happen to be in one ſhire, riding, city, or town corporate, and the other part thereof in another ſhire, riding, city, or town corporate, or if part be within the limits of any city, or town corporate, and part without, or part within one riding, and part within another; that then in every ſuch caſe, the inhabitants of the ſhires, ridings, cities or towns corporate ſhall be charged, and chargeable to amend, make and repair ſuch part and portion of ſuch bridges ſo decayed as ſhall lie and be within the limits of the ſhire, riding, city, or town corporate, wherein they be inhabited at the time of the ſame decays.

The juſtices may tax the inhabitants with the aſſent of the conſtables.

IV. And be it further enacted, That in every ſuch caſe where it cannot be known and proved, what perſons, lands, tenements, and bodies politick owen to make and repair ſuch bridges, that for ſpeedy reformation and amending of ſuch bridges, the juſtices of peace within the ſhires or ridings wherein ſuch decayed bridges been out of cities and towns corporate, and if it be within cities or towns corporate, then the juſtices of peace within every ſuch city or town corporate, or four of the ſaid juſtices at the leaſt, whereof one to be of the quorum, ſhall have power and authority within the limits of their ſeveral commiſſions and authorities, to call before them the conſtables of every town and pariſh, being within the ſhire, riding, city, or town corporate, as well within liberty as without, wherein ſuch bridges, or any parcel thereof ſhall happen to be, or elſe two of the moſt honeſt inhabitants within every ſuch town or pariſh in the ſaid ſhire, riding, city or town corporate, by the diſcretion of the ſaid juſtices of peace, or four of them at the leaſt, whereof one to be of the quorum; (2) and at and upon the appearances of ſuch conſtables or inhabitants the ſaid juſtices of peace, or four of them, whereof one to be of the quorum, with the aſſent of the ſaid conſtables or inhabitants, ſhall have power and authority to tax and ſet every inhabitant in every ſuch city, town, or pariſh within the limits of their commiſſions and authorities, to ſuch reaſonable aid and ſum of money, as they ſhall think by their diſcretions convenient and ſufficient for the repairing, re-edifying, and amendment of ſuch bridges; (3) and after ſuch taxation made, the ſaid juſtices ſhall cauſe the names and ſums of every particular perſon ſo by them taxed, to be written in a roll indented: (4) And ſhall alſo have power and authority to make two collectors of every hundred, for collection of all ſuch ſums of money by them ſet and taxed; which collectors, receiving the one part of the ſaid roll indented under the ſeals of the ſaid juſtices ſhall

For abjurations and fanctuaries.

In what manner perfons committing petty treason fhall abjure.

By how many means abjurations of offenders out of this realm hath been prejudicial to this realm.

The oath of him which abjureth.

THE King our fovereign lord confidering, that many of his fubjects heretofore for their offences and merits, have been put to execution of death by the laws of this realm, and many other committing like offences, for tuition of their lives, have fled and reforted to churches, and other hallowed places within this realm, and there being, have abjured the realm before the King's coroners of the fame; (2) divers of which men (fo abjuring) have been known to be very expert mariners, and many other have been feen, to be very able and apt men for the wars, and defence of this realm, fo that by the one mean, and the other, the ftrength and power of this realm is greatly minifhed. (3) And divers of the faid perfons which heretofore have abjured this realm, being by reafon of their abjurations in outward realms and countries, have not only procured many men of the fame to the exercife and praetife of archery, and have inftruded them in the feat and knowledge thereof, to the great increafe and fortifications of the fame outward realms and countries, but alfo the fame abjured perfons have difclofed their knowledges of the commodities and fecrets of this realm, to no little damage and prejudice of the fame: (4) the King's highnefs therefore daily fludying and devising to provide for the fufeguard of this his realm, and of his fubjects, albeit they be trangreffors of his laws, fo that the incommodities infuing upon fuch abjurations to be preferved to the beft effect as far as fhall please God to give them grace; hath ordained and enacted by authority of this prefent parliament, That if any perfon hereafter flie or refort to any parifh church, cemetery or other like hallowed place, for tuition of his life, by occafion of any murder, robbery or other felony by the fame perfon committed, and thereupon confels any murder, felony or other offence before the coroner, wherefore the fame perfon by the laws of this realm heretofore ufed fhould abjure and pals out of the fame: the fame perfon thereupon fhall abjure from all his liberty of this realm, and from his liberal and free habitations, reforts and paffages to and fro the univerfal places of this realm, which appertain to the liberty of the King's

King's subjects undefamed, and shall forthwith be directed by the coroner, taking and recording such abjuration, to any one sanctuary being within this realm, which the same person will elect and choose, there to remain as a sanctuary-person abjured, during his natural life, and to be sworn afore the coroner upon his abjuration so to do, and to be burned in the hand, according to the statute in that case provided. (5) And every such person so abjured shall be directed and conveyed to the same sanctuary by him chosen, by the constables and other officers, and in every behalf ordained after the like manner and form as he should have been in case he should have abjured this realm for any murder or felony after the laws of the land. (6) And if after such abjuration any person so abjured come out of the same sanctuary to the which he was assigned, and be taken without the same sanctuary, not having the King's special pardon or licence so to do: then every such person abjured, and after abjuration taken without sanctuary whereunto he was assigned, shall suffer such like pain of death, and after like manner be ordered, as he should have done and been in case he had abjured this realm for murder or felony, and after such abjuration had returned again into this realm, contrary to the laws of this land.

II. And furthermore it is enacted, That if any such sanctuary-person so abjured, or any other person or persons, which now be, or is, or hereafter shall happen to be in any sanctuary of this realm, for doing any petty treason, murder or felony, or for being accessary to any such offences: or if any person or persons, which at any time hereafter shall take any sanctuary of this realm, for doing any petty treason, murder or felony, or for being accessary to any such offences, or upon abjuration, and so being in sanctuary for, or upon any such cause, matter or offence, afterward commit or do any petit treason, murder, or felony within the same sanctuary, or be accessary to any such offences, or go out of the same sanctuary, and commit any petty treason, murder or felony, or be accessary to any such offences, and after come again to the same sanctuary, or take any other sanctuary for the same, every such person and persons being indicted for any of the said causes or offences, shall lose the privilege of the same sanctuary by him taken, and of every other sanctuary within this realm for any such cause of petty treason, murder, felony or abjuration, and for any accessary to any such offences: (2) and that it shall be lawful to all and singular justices of the peace, and the high sheriff of the county, or other place where the sanctuary is, and to all and singular mayors, sheriffs and bailiffs of cities and towns corporate, where such sanctuary is, and to every of them, and to the servants, ministers and officers, or any, or every of the same justices of peace, sheriffs, mayors and bailiffs, in their presence to take out of the same sanctuary or sanctuaries all and every such sanctuary-person or persons so offending as is aforesaid, and being indicted of the same; (3) and to commit or put him or them into the King's gaol within the shire or liberty where any such indictment is found againſt any ſuch perſon, ſafely to be kept till they ſhall be of the ſame petty treaſon, murder or felony, or of the acceſſary to any ſuch offences whereof they ſhall happen to be indicted, convicted, attainted, or diſcharged by the law. (4) And if any perſon or perſons which ſhall be indicted of any petit treaſon, murder or felony, or of any acceſſary to any ſuch offence, happen hereafter to be taken out of any ſanctuary for the ſame, by authority of this ſtatute, and upon his or their arraignment plead ſanctuary, according to the order of the law: then it is enacted by the authority aforeſaid, That as well the King's attorney, as every other perſon for the King, ſhall be admitted to object and allege, that the perſon ſo arraigned, afore the doing of the offence or offences whereof he then is arraigned, did take privilege of ſanctuary in the ſame ſanctuary whereof he allegeth him to be taken out, or in any other place privileged within this realm, upon any abjuration, or for any other petty treaſon, murder or felony, then whereof he is arraigned, and that he there had and enjoyed privilege of ſanctuary for the ſame, and that he ſo having once privilege of ſanctuary in the ſame, did commit the offence of petit treaſon, murder or felony whereof he then is arraigned: or that he went out of the ſaid ſanctuary, and committed the ſame offence whereof he is indicted and arraigned, and pray that ſuch perſons ſo arraigned may be excluded of reſtitution to the ſanctuary by him demanded. (5) And in caſe the ſaid plea and objection ſo alleged, be denied by the perſon ſo arraigned, then it is farther enacted by the authority aforeſaid, That it ſhall be forthwith tried afore the ſame juſtices, where ſuch perſon is ſo arraigned, and by the ſame jurors of the ſame county that ſhall try the petty treaſon, murder or felony whereof he is arraigned, without farther delay, in whatſoever county or counties, place or places of this realm the ſame other taking of ſanctuary ſhall be alleged or objected to be done or had. (6) And if the plea ſo objected againſt the ſaid perſon arraigned, be tried againſt him by verdict of twelve men, or by his own confeſſion, and alſo it be found by verdict of twelve men, or by his own confeſſion, according to the order of the law, that he is guilty of the petty treaſon, murder, felony, or of any acceſſary to any ſuch offence whereof he is ſo arraigned; that then like judgment and execution ſhall be given and done upon every ſuch perſon as though he had been no ſanctuary perſon, nor had claimed or required the privilege of the ſame. (7) And if any ſuch perſon be lawfully acquitted of the petty treaſon, murder or felony whereof he ſhall be ſo indicted and arraigned, then he ſhall be reſtored to the ſame ſanctuary out of the which he was taken there to have the privilege of the ſame, in like manner as he had before.

III. Provided alway, That if any perſon being or abiding in any ſanctuary as a ſanctuary-perſon hereafter, ſhall happen to be indicted for any manner of felony ſuppoſed to be committed by him or her going out of the ſame, or any other ſanctuary, and committing the ſame felony whiles that he or ſhe was ſo a ſanctuary-perſon, he or ſhe being indicted of ſuch felony ſuppoſed

(2) And if the same person so indicted within four days after the first examination do make such proof as the said examiners by their discretion shall think sufficient, that the same person was in the sanctuary at the time of the said felony committed: then he or she making such proof shall be suffered to remain and be in the same sanctuary, without any extraction from the same, the said indictment or any thing in this act above written notwithstanding.

IV. Provided also, That if any person, which was at any time a sanctuary person for any petit treason, murder or felony, obtain and have the King's pardon, and thereby, or otherwise, be at large and out of sanctuary discharged, or purged of that offence or cause, wherefore the same person took sanctuary, and afterward do commit other petit treason, felony or manslaughter by chance-medly, and not murder of malice premeditated, and thereupon again take sanctuary for any such petit treason, felony or manslaughter by chance-medly: the same person shall have and enjoy the privilege of sanctuary for that his or her other offence of petit treason, felony or manslaughter by chance-medly, as the same person might have had before the making of this act; any thing in the same act contained notwithstanding.

V. And over this, for more speedy trials of murders and felonies, be it enacted by authority aforesaid, That all manner of foreign pleas triable by the country, hereafter to be pleaded by any person or persons arraigned upon any indictment for any petit treason, murder or felony, shall be forthwith tried before the same justices afore whom such persons shall be arraigned, and by the same jurors of the same county that shall try the petit treason, murder or felony whereof he shall be so arraigned without any further respite or delay, in whatsoever county or counties, place or places of this realm, the matter of the same pleas be supposed or alleged.

VI. And that no person arraigned for any petit treason, murder or felony, be from henceforth admitted to any peremptory challenge above the number of xx. (2) This act to endure to the end of the next parliament.

VII. Provided always, That no person or persons be hereafter excluded, or in any wise hurted, to have and enjoy any privilege of sanctuary for any offence or offences, being of any higher nature in the law than the offences and causes specified in this act be: but that every person and persons for such offences of higher nature, may have and enjoy privilege of sanctuary, in as free and liberal manner, and after such form as they might have done by the laws and customs of the realm afore the making of this act, any thing in this act to the contrary

and Anno Dom. 1531.

THE King our sovereign lord Henry the Eighth, by the grace of God King of England and of France, defender of the faith, and lord of Ireland, at the session of his high court of parliament, after divers prorogations holden at Westminster the fifteenth day of January, in the xxij. year of his noble reign, to the honour of Almighty God and holy church, and for the common weal and profit of this his realm, by the assent of the lords spiritual and temporal, and the commons, in this present parliament assembled, and by authority of the same, hath ordained, established, and enacted certain good statutes, laws, and ordinances, in manner and form following.

CAP. I.

An act concerning convicts in petit treason, murder, &c.

3 E. 1. c. 2.
Clergy not allowed to any person under a subdeacon.

WHERE at a parliament holden at Westminster in the third year of King Edward the First, the same King moved the prelates of the realm, and them enjoined upon their faith that they owed to him, that in no wise they should deliver those clerks, which were indicted for felony, without due purgation, so that the said King should have no need to put other remedy in that behalf; (2) and that notwithstanding after that monition, divers and many clerks convict were accustomedly delivered, and suffered to make their purgations, to the great courage of evil-doers :

4 H. 4. c. 3.

II. By occasion whereof afterward, at another parliament holden at Westminster in the fourth year of King Henry the Fourth, upon the complaint of the commons, the same King Henry the fourth then advertised the prelates of the realm of the premisses, intending then to have provided remedy by authority of the said parliament, as appertained to his prerogative royal, for the conservation of the peace of the crown; (2) at which time the archbishop of Canterbury, for himself and all other bishops of his province, then openly promised to the same same King Henry the Fourth, That if any person from thenceforth were convict of any treason which touched not the King nor his royal Majesty, and such as were notoriously known and reputed for thieves, and for such cause delivered to any ordinary as a clerk convict, that the ordinary to whom such person or persons were delivered, should safely keep them after the effect of a constitution provincial, to be made by the said archbishop and bishops after the effect of the letters of Simon, then afore that time archbishop of Canterbury, bearing date the xij. calends of March, the year of our Lord God M.CCC.L. (3) And that no such traitor nor felon should make his purgation against the said constitution; (4) which constitution the said archbishop then promised to deliver to the same King before his next parliament, to the intent that if it should seem to the same King, that the same constitution were not sufficient remedy for the premisses, that then the said King might provide such remedy as should appertain in that behalf. (5) Sithen which time, the same constitution was never notified ne shewed by the prelates of this realm, but continually sithen that time manifest thieves and murderers, indicted and found guilty of their misdeeds by good and substantial inquests, and upon plain and provable evidence before the King's justices, and afterwards by the usages of the common laws of the land delivered to the ordinaries as clerks convict, be speedily and hastily delivered and set at large by the ministers of the said ordinaries, for corruption and lucre; (6) or else because the ordinaries, enclaining such offenders by the liberties of the church, will in no wise take the charges in safe keeping of them, but little regarding the trial and conviction of the said offenders by the due and plain course of the common laws of the land, do suffer them to make their purgations by such as nothing know of their misdeeds; (7) and by such fraud adul and make void all the good and provable trial that is used against such offender by the King's laws, to the great slander of such as pursue such misdoers, and to the pernicious example, increase, and courage of such offenders, if the King's highness, by his authority royal, put not speedy remedy in the premisses, as appertaineth:

III. Be it therefore enacted by the King our sovereign lord, and the lords spiritual and temporal, and the commons, in this present parliament assembled, and by authority of the same, That no person nor persons, which hereafter shall happen to be found guilty after the laws of this land, for any manner of petit treason, or for any wilful murder of malice prepened, or for robbing of any churches, chapels, or other holy places, or for robbing of any person or persons in their dwelling houses, or dwelling place, the owner or dweller in the same house, his wife, his children or servants then being within, and put in fear and dread by the same, or for robbing of any person or persons in or near about the highways, or for wilful burning of any dwelling houses, or barns wherein any grain or corn shall happen to be, nor any person or persons being found guilty of any abetment, procurement, helping, maintaining, or counselling, of or to any such petit treasons, murders, or felonies, shall from henceforth be admitted to the benefit of his or their clergy, but utterly be excluded

IV. And be it further enacted by authority aforesaid, That every such person or persons within such orders of sub-deacon, or above, which at any time hereafter be found guilty of any petit treason, or of any murder of malice prepened, or of any of the felonies above rehearsed, or of any accessory to petit treason, wilful murder, or to any other the felonies above specified, and admitted to his or their clergy, and delivered to the ordinary for the same, shall not in any wise from henceforth be suffered to any purgation, nor be set at liberty, but remain and abide in perpetual prison, under the keeping of the ordinary, to whom he shall be committed, and his successors, without any manner of purgation during the natural life of every such convict, (2) except only such person or persons so being within such holy orders, and convict of or for any of the offences aforesaid, and delivered to the ordinary for the same, do find two sufficient sureties by recognizance before two of the King's justices of his peace, within the same shire wherein the petit treason, murder, or felony, whereof he was convicted, was committed and done, whereof one of them to be of the quorum, that such convict shall be of good abearing against the King our sovereign lord, his laws and subjects, every such convict to be bound in the sum of xl. li. and every his sureties in xx. li. V. Provided alway, That this act extend not to give any benefit to any such person or persons, which, after their confession, or judgment given against them, of or for felony, or murder, or after they be outlawed for any such cause, be admitted to their clergy, and delivered to the ordinary for the same, but that they and every of them shall remain in the custody of the ordinaries without making purgation, upon such peril, and in such manner and form, as it was used by the common law before the making of this present act; this act or any thing therein contained notwithstanding.

VI. Provided always, and it is further enacted, That every ordinary, to whose custody any such convict for any of the offences above rehearsed shall be committed, may at his liberty disgrace every such convict after the laws of the church, if he see cause so to do, and send the convict so disgraced, in sure and safe keeping, into the King's bench, with a certificate under his seal, testifying the said disgrading, (2) upon which the justices of the King's bench, having afore them the record upon which the said person so disgraced was first convict, shall give such like judgment of death upon the same record, against every such person so convict, and disgraced, as the justices afore whom he was convict might have done, if the said person so disgraced at the time of his conviction afore them had been no clerk, his admission to his clergy, and committing to the ordinary, ne any other thing, use or custom to the contrary hereof notwithstanding; (3) and that every such judgment shall be executed accordingly; (4) and that every ordinary so sending any such convict disgraced into the King's bench, shall be discharged against the King our sovereign lord, his heirs, and successors, of or for any further custody or keeping of the same convict, (5) this act to continue unto the last day of the next parliament.

CAP. III.

An act against perjury and untrue verdicts.

THE King our sovereign lord of his most goodly and gracious disposition, calling to his remembrance how that perjury in this land is in manifold causes by unreasonable means detestably used, to the disheritance, and great damage of many and great numbers of his subjects well-disposed, and to the most high displeasure of Almighty God, the good statutes against all officers having return of writs and their deputies, making panels partially for rewards to them given, against unlawful maintainers, embracers, and jurors, and against jurors untruly giving their verdict notwithstanding; for reformation whereof, and forasmuch as the late noble King Henry the Seventh provided remedy for the same by a statute made in the eleventh year of his reign, which statute is now expired;

C A P. IV.

An act concerning new making of barrels, kilderkins, and other vessels.

WHERE the ale-brewers and beer-brewers of this realm of England have used, and daily do use, for their own singular lucre, profit, and gain, to make in their own houses their barrels, kilderkins, and firkins, of much less quantity, content, rate, and assize than they ought to be, to the great hurt, prejudice, and damage of the King's liege people, and contrary to divers acts, statutes, ancient laws and customs heretofore made, had, and used, and to the destruction of the poor craft or mystery of coopers: (2) For reformation whereof, be it enacted by the King our sovereign lord, the lords spiritual and temporal, and the commons, in this present parliament assembled, and by authority of the same, That no beer-brewer nor ale-brewer, that shall brew to sale beer or ale, shall from henceforth occupy by himself, nor by any other to his use, in his house, nor elsewhere, the mystery or craft of coopers, nor make any barrels, kilderkins, firkins, or other vessels, by himself, nor by his or their own servants, whereby they shall put their beer or ale to sale; (3) but that all such barrels, kilderkins, and other vessels of wood, wherewith they shall put their beer or ale to sale, shall from henceforth be made and marked according as hereafter shall be expressed, by the common artificers of coopers, exercised and practised in the said occupation, upon pain to forfeit and pay for every such barrel, kilderkin, firkin, or other vessel hereafter to be made contrary to the tenor of this act, three shillings four pence.

No brewer of ale or beer to sell shall use the mystery of a cooper, nor make any barrels, &c.

II. And be it also enacted, That every artificer of the craft or mystery of coopers, that will exercise or practise to make any of the said vessels for beer or ale to be put to sale, shall make the same vessels, and every of them, of good and seasonable wood, and put his proper mark upon every of them; (2) and that every barrel for beer shall contain xxxvi. gallons, every kilderkin for beer xviii. gallons, and every firkin for beer ix. gallons, of the King's standard gallon; (3) and that every barrel for ale shall contain xxxij. gallons, every kilderkin for ale xvi. gallons, and every firkin for ale viii. gallons, of the King's standard gallon; so that they shall be of good and just measure, or else above, and not under. (4) And that no cooper shall make any other vessel for beer or ale, to be sold within this realm, of any greater or lesser number of gallons than is abovesaid, unless he shall cause to be marked upon every such vessel that he shall so make of greater or lesser number of gallons, the true and certain number of as many gallons as every such other vessel shall contain, to the intent that every person may know the content thereof.

Vessels for ale and beer shall be made of seasonable wood, and marked. The contents of barrels, kilderkins, &c.

III. And that no such artificer of coopers shall enhance the prices of any such barrels, kilderkins, firkins, or other vessels, in the sale of them to any ale-brewer or beer-brewer, or other person, but keep the rates of such prices as hereafter ensueth, and

A beer-brewer may keep a cooper to hoop and amend his barrels.

X. Provided always; That every beer-brewer may keep in his house one or two servants of the mystery or craft of coopers, to hoop and amend his barrels, kilderkins, firkins, and other vessels, wherein they shall put their beer to sale from time to time; this act or any thing therein contained to the contrary in any wise notwithstanding.

The penalty for vessels diminished.

XI. And be it further enacted by the said authority, That if any person, at any time after the said feast of Lemmas next coming, do minish, or cause to be minished, any manner of barrel, kilderkin, or firkin, to the deceit of any of the King's subjects, by reason of taking out the head of any such vessel, or taking out of any staff out or from any such vessel, that then every such vessel to be burnt, and the offender to forfeit for every such offence iii. s. iv. d. the one moiety thereof to be to the King our sovereign lord, and the other moiety thereof to him or them of the King's subjects that will sue for the same, to be recovered in manner and form above rehearsed; (2) and the party so offending to be further punished by the discretion of the head-officer or officers, before whom such default shall be presented.

An ale-brewer may keep a cooper.

XII. It is enacted by the authority of this present parliament, That notwithstanding any thing contained in this act of brewers and coopers, whereunto this schedule is annexed, it shall be lawful for every ale-brewer, mentioned in the same act, to have and retain in his service one person of the mystery or craft of coopers to exercise in his service the craft of a cooper only in binding, hooping, and pinning his master's ale-vessels recited by the said act, and in none otherwise to use or exercise any making of vessels concerning the craft or mystery of a cooper, whiles that he is in the service of any ale-brewer.

XIII. Also it is enacted, That every cooper, which hereafter shall make any ale-vessel specified by the said act, shall, from the feast of Pentecost next coming, make every such vessel according to the assise specified in the treatise called Compositio mensurarum; that is to say, every barrel for ale shall contain xxxii. gallons of the said assise, or above, of the which viii. gallons make the common bushel to be used in this realm of England, every kilderkin for ale xvi. gallons of the said assise, or above, and every firkin viii. gallons of assise, or above, (2) upon pain of forfeiture of iii. s. iv. d. for every of the same vessels by him untruly made contrary to this act; the one half of the same forfeiture to be to the King, and the other to him that will sue for the same by action of debt, bill, plaint, writ, or otherwise; in which action no essoin, protection, or wager of law shall be allowed.

51 H. 3. stat 1.

XIV. And be it also enacted, That every cooper mark his vessel with his own mark, upon pain of iii. s. iv. d. to be levied and recovered after like manner and form as is abovesaid; (2) and that no manner of person in the search-making for the true gauging of any such vessels, shall put out the ale of any such vessel, whereby the same ale shall be the worse. (3) And that that it shall be lawful to every ale-brewer to bring, carry, and cause to be brought and carried, their ale to the households of our sovereign lord the King, the Queen, the princes, and to every archbishop's, bishop's, duke's, marquis's, earl's, barons, or other honourable men's houses, in tuns, butts, pipes, hogf-heads, or other vessels of greater or larger quantity than is expressed in this present act, as before time hath been used in that behalf. (4) And also it shall be lawful to the said ale-brewers to bring, carry, or cause to be brought, conveyed, or carried, their ale to every man's house in barrels, kilderkins, and firkins, bearing and holding their true contents according to the purport and effect of this present act, any thing contained in 31 El. c. 2. the same act to the contrary hereof notwithstanding.

CAP. V.

The bill of sewers with a new proviso, &c.

OUR sovereign lord the King, like a virtuous and most gracious prince, nothing earthly so highly weighing, as the advancing of the common profit, wealth and commodity of this his realm, considering the daily great damages and losses which have happened in many and divers parts of this his said realm, as well by the reason of the outrageous flowing, surges, and course of the sea in and upon marsh-grounds, and other low places heretofore through politick wisdom won and made profitable for the great common wealth of this realm, as also by occasion of land-waters, and other outrageous springs, in and upon meadows, pastures, and other low grounds adjoining to rivers, floods, and other water-courses; (2) and over that, by and through mills, mill-dams, wears, fishgarths, kedels, gores, gotes, flood-gates, locks, and other impediments in and upon the same rivers and other water-courses, to the inestimable damages of the common wealth of this realm, which daily is likely more and more to increase, unless speedy redress and remedy be in this behalf shortly provided: (3) Wherein albeit that divers and many provisions have been before this time made and ordained, yet none of them are sufficient remedy for the reformation of the premisses, hath therefore by deliberate advice and assent of his lords spiritual and temporal, and also his loving commons, in this present parliament assembled, ordained, established, and enacted, That commissions of sewers, and other the premisses, shall be directed in all parts within this realm from time to time, where and when need shall require, according to the manner, form, tenor, and effect hereafter ensuing, to such substantial and indifferent persons as shall be named by the lord chancellor and lord treasurer of England, and the two chief justices for the time being, or by three of them, whereof the lord chancellor to be one.

II. Henry the Eighth, &c. Co. pl. f. 293.

XI. And if any action of trespass, or other suit, shall happen to be attempted against any person or persons for taking any distress, or any other act doing, by authority of the said commission, or by authority of any laws or ordinances made by virtue of the said commission, the defendant or defendants in any such action shall and may make avowry, conusance, or justification, for the taking of the same distress, or other act doing, touching the premises, or any of them, alleging in such avowry, conusance and justification, that the said distress, trespass, or other act whereof the plaintiff complaineth, was done by the authority of the commission of sewers for lot or tax assessed by the said commission, or for such other act or cause as the said defendant did by authority of the same commission, and according to the tenor, purport, and effect of this present act made the three and twentieth year of the reign of our sovereign lord King Henry the Eighth, without any expressing or rehearsal of any other matter or circumstance contained in this present act, or any commission, laws, statutes, or ordinances thereupon to be made; (2) whereupon the plaintiff shall be admitted to reply, that the defendant did take the said distress, or did any other act or trespass supposed in his declaration of his own wrong, without any such cause alleged by the said defendant; whereupon the issue in every such action shall be joined, to be tried by verdict of twelve men, and not otherwise, as is accustomed in other personal actions: (3) and upon the trial of that issue the whole matter to be given on both parties in evidence according to the very truth of the same.

shall repay

XII. And after such issue tried for the defendant, or nonsuit of the plaintiff after appearance, the same defendant to recover tre-treble damages by reason of his wrongful vexation in that behalf, with his costs also in that part sustained, and that to be assessed by the same jury, or writ to enquire of damages, as the cause shall require. damages with his costs of suit.

XIII. And it is also enacted, That every of the said commissioners shall have and perceive four shillings for every day that they shall take pain in the execution of this commission of sewers, and one clerk, by them to be assigned, two shillings for every day, of the rates, taxes, lots, and wains that shall be assessed or lost by the authority of the said commission, and to be levied and paid by their discretions. (2) And that the said commissioners, or six of them, shall have power and authority to limit and assign of the same rates, taxes, lots, and wains, by their discretions, such reasonable sums of money to the said clerk, for writing of books and process concerning the premisses, and to the collectors, expeditors, and such other as shall take pain in the due execution of the said commission, as by the discretions of the said commissioners, or six of them, shall be thought reasonable. The wages and fees of commission-ers, clerks, collectors, &c.

XIV. Provided alway, That whensoever, and as often as such commission, as is afore limited, shall be made and directed to any person or persons, for the reformation and amendment of or in any of the premisses specified in the said commission, within the fees, liberties, or possessions of the duchy of Lancaster, that then such commissioners, as shall execute any such commission, shall be always named and appointed by the discretion of the lord chancellor and lord treasurer of England, and the said two chief justices of either bench, and the chancellor of the said duchy for the time being, or three of them, whereof the said lord chancellor and the chancellor of the duchy to be two; (2) and that in every such case two commissions shall be awarded and made according to the tenor of the commission above expressed, one thereof under the great seal of England, and the other under the seal of the same duchy, as beforetime hath been accustomed, any thing afore rehearsed in this act to the contrary hereof notwithstanding. Commissions within the liberty of the duchy.

XV. And it is further enacted, That the said commissions from time to time, as the case shall require, shall be had and obtained without any money, or other charge to be paid for the seals, or writing of the same, unless it be to the King, two shillings six pence for the seal of every commission, as hath been accustomed, and for the writing and inrolling of any one commission, five shillings, and not above. The charge of the commissions.

XVI. And it is further enacted, That every commission to be made by authority of this act shall endure and continue for the term of three years next after the teste of the commission; (2) nevertheless, after any commission made and delivered out of the King's court of chancery, the King's highness shall always at his pleasure, by his writ of Superfedeas out of his said court of chancery, at any time discharge as well every such commission, as every commissioner that shall be made or named by authority of this act; (3) after which discharge, the said commissioner shall have no power or authority to proceed in A commission of sewers shall endure three years. And further it is enacted by authority aforesaid, That the said person so to be assigned by the King's highness to write, make, and inroll such obligations, or his sufficient deputy or deputies, at the request of the creditors, their executors or administrators, shall certify such obligations as shall be taken and recognized by authority of this act, into the King's court of chancery, under the seal of the said person so to be appointed for writing, making, and inrolling such obligations.

2 Inst. 290.

VI. And that every person and persons to whom any such obligation shall be made, knowledged, and inrolled (as is aforesaid) their executors and administrators, and the executors and administrators of every of them, for default of payment of the debts contained in such obligations, shall have in every point, degree, and condition, against the said recognizer and recognizers, nizors, and every of them, their heirs, executors, and administrators, and the heirs, executors, and administrators of every of them like proceſs, execution, commodity, and advantage in every behalf, as hath been uſed and accuſtomed before this time to be had, done, or made, of and upon any obligation of the ſtatute of the ſtaple, and under ſuch manner and form, as is for the ſame ſtatute of the ſtaple provided, (2) paying for ſuch proceſs and execution to be had, ſuch like fees as is accuſtomed for proceſs and execution to be had upon obligations of the ſame ſtatute of the ſtaple, and not above.

Execution upon a recognizance acknowledged according to this ſtatute.

VII. And that every ſuch perſon and perſons that ſhall be bounden, or otherwiſe grieved by virtue of any obligation to be made by authority of this act, ſhall have their like remedy by Audita querela, and all other remedies in the law, that they might have had in caſe they had been bounden by obligation of the ſtatute of the ſtaple.

Where the recognizor ſhall be relieved by audita querela.

VIII. And that every ſuch perſon and perſons that ſhall have proceſs for execution to be had by reaſon of any ſuch obligation to be made and knowledgeable according to this act, ſhall pay to the King's highneſs, his heirs, or ſucceſſors, at the time of enſealing of the proceſs for execution to be had, one half-penny for every pound that ſhall be contained in the obligation, whereof execution ſhall be required, and not above.

The King ſhall have 1 ob. in the pound upon execution ſued. Altered by 8G. 1. c. 25. ſ. 3.

IX. And that every ſuch perſon and perſons that ſhall happen to have any execution of any lands, tenements, or hereditaments, by reaſon of any ſuch obligations to be made and knowledgeable (as is aboveſaid) their executors, administrators, or aſſigns, and the executors, administrators, and aſſigns of every of them, if they, or any of them being put out or diſſeiſed, ſhall have like remedy in every point and condition, as perſons having execution in and upon any ſtatute of the ſtaple, after execution to them had, may or might have, by virtue of the ſaid writing obligatory of the ſtatute of the ſtaple, and execution of the ſame.

The remedy for tenant by recognizance being diſſeiſed.

X. And further be it enacted by the authority aforeſaid, That every of the ſaid juſtices, and the ſaid mayor and recorder, before whom any ſuch obligations ſhall be recognized, ſhall take for every knowledge of every one ſuch recognizance iii. s. iv. d. and not above; (2) and the clerk that ſhall write, make, and inroll the ſame obligations, iii. s. iv. d. (3) and for the certificate of every one ſuch obligation xx. d. (4) and if any of the ſaid juſtices, mayor, recorder, or clerk, take of any of the King's ſubjects above the ſum or ſums to them limited by this eſtatute, that then the ſaid juſtices, mayor, recorder, or clerk, that ſo ſhall take contrary to the form aforeſaid, ſhall forfeit for every time ſo offending xl. li.

The juſtices clerk's fee upon every recognizance.

XI. And further it is enacted by the authority aforeſaid, That from the ſaid firſt day of April, no mayor or conſtable of the ſtaple, for the payment of any ſum or ſums of money, take any knowledge or recognizance of the ſaid ſtatute of the ſtaple, of any of the King's ſubjects, upon pain to forfeit for every

Plenteously sheweth, and complaineth unto the King our sovereign lord, and to the lords spiritual and temporal, and the commons, in this present parliament assembled, the inhabitants of the towns and ports of Plymouth, Dartmouth, and Teignmouth, in the county of Devonshire, Falmouth, and Foway, in the county of Cornwall, That where the said ports have been in time past the principal and most commodious havens and ports within this realm for the road, surety, and preservation of ships resorting from all places of the world, as well in peril of storms as otherwise. (2) For where before this time all manner of ships being under the portage of eight hundred tuns, resorting unto any of the said ports or havens, might at the low water easily enter into the same, and there lie in surety, what wind or tempest soever did blow, blow, by reason whereof not only a great multitude of ships, as well Plymouth, Dartmouth, &c. of this realm, as of other regions and countries, before this time have been preserved and saved, but also in time of war the said havens and ports have been the greatest fortification and defence of that part of this realm, and the special preservation of the great part of the navy of the same: (3) Which said ports and havens been at this present time in manner utterly decayed and destroyed by mean of certain, tin-works, called stream-works, used by certain persons within the said counties; which persons more regarding their own private lucre, than the common wealth and surety of this realm, have by working of the said stream-works, digging, searching, and washing of the same near unto the fresh rivers, waters, and low places, descending and coming out of the lands towards and into the said ports and havens to the sea, conveyed by the force of the said fresh rivers a marvellous great quantity of sand, gravel, stone, robel, earth, slime, and filth into the said ports and havens, and have so filled and choaked the same, that where before this time a ship of the portage of eight hundred tun, as is aforesaid, might have easily entred at a low water into the same, now a ship of an hundred can scanty enter at the half flood, to the decay and utter destruction of the said havens and ports, and also to the ruin and utter undoing of all the good towns within the said counties of Devonshire and Cornwall, if remedy be not in that case speedily provided: (4) For reformation whereof, be it enacted by the King our sovereign lord, the lords spiritual and temporal, and the commons, in this present parliament assembled, and by authority of the same, That no person or persons hereafter shall labour or work, or cause to be laboured or wrought, in any manner of tin-works, called Stream-works, within the said counties of Devonshire and Cornwall, nigh to any of the said fresh waters, rivers, or low places, descending or having course unto the said havens or ports, or any of them, nor shall labour, dig, or wash any tin in any of the said tin-works called Stream-works, unless the said digger, owner, or washer shall make, or cause to be made, sufficient hatches and ties in the end of their buddles and cords, and therein put and lay, or cause to be put and laid, all the sand, stones, gravel, and robel digged about the infearching, finding, and washing of the said tin, there to be wholly and surely kept by the said hatches and ties, out and from the said fresh rivers and water-courses, or any of them, so that the said sand, stones, gravel, and robel, ne any part thereof, be for lack of such hatches or ties conveyed into the said ports and havens, or any of them, (5) upon pain to forfeit for every time that any owner or tinner shall dig or wash, or cause to be digged or washed, any tin contrary to the form aforesaid, x. li. the one half thereof to be to the use of our sovereign lord the King, and the other half thereof to be to any of the inhabitants of the said ports, towns, or havens, that will sue for the same in any of the King's courts by original writ, bill, plaint, information, or otherwise, wherein the defendant shall not be admitted to wage his law, ne any protection or essoin shall be allowable.

III. Provided alway, That this act, or any thing therein contained, be not in any wise prejudicial or hurtful to any of the officers of the stannary, ne to any of their lawful, liberties, privileges, usages, laws, or customs, saving only in the cases and provisions contained and limited within this present act, which shall alway be put in execution according to the tenor of this act; any usage, custom, privilege, ordinance, or liberty to the contrary thereof notwithstanding.

IV. And it is enacted, That this act shall begin to take effect from the feast of St. Michael the archangel next coming, and not before.

C A P. IX.

An act that no person shall be cited out of the diocese where he or she dwelleth, except in certain cases.

WHERE great number of the King's subjects, as well men, wives, servants, as other the King's subjects, dwelling in divers dioceses of this realm of England, and of Wales, heretofore have been at many times called by citations, and other processes compulsory, to appear in the arches audience, and other high courts of the archbishops of this realm, far from, and out of the diocese where such men, wives, servants, and other the King's subjects been inhabitant and dwelling, (2) and many times to answer to surmised and feigned causes, and suits of defamation, withholding of tithes, and such other like causes and matters, which have been sued more for malice, and for vexation, than for any other just cause of suit.

II. And where certificate hath been made by the summoner, apparitor, or any such light literate person, that the party against whom any such citation hath been awarded, hath been cited or summoned, and thereupon the same party, so certified to be cited or summoned, hath not appeared according to the certificate, the same party therefore hath been excommunicated, or at the least suspended from all divine service; (2) and thereupon, before that he or she could be absolved, hath been compelled, not only to pay the fees of the court whereunto he or she was so called by citation, or other process, amounting to the sum of ii. s. or xx. d. at the least; but also to pay to the summoner, apparitor, or other light literate person, by whom he or she was so certified to be summoned, for every mile being distant from the place where he or she then dwelled, unto the same court whereunto he or she was so cited or summoned to appear, ii. d. to the great charge and impoverishment of the King's subjects, and to the great occasion of misbehaviour and mistreating of wives, women, and servants, and to the great impairment and diminution of their good names and honesties: (3) Be it therefore enacted by the King our sovereign lord, with the assent of the lords spiritual and temporal, and the commons, in this present parliament assembled, and by authority of the same, That no manner person shall be from henceforth cited or summoned, or otherwise called to appear by himself, or herself, or by any procurator, before any ordinary, arch-deacon, 118.

This act shall not be prejudicial to the officers or liberties of the stannaries.

V. Provided also, That this act shall not extend in any wise to the prerogative of the most reverend father in God the archbishop of Canterbury, or any of his successors, of or for calling any person or persons out of the diocese where he or they be inhabiting, dwelling, or resident, for probate of any testament or testaments, any thing in this act contained to the contrary notwithstanding.

Proviso for the probate of testaments in the province of Canterbury.

VI. And be it further enacted by authority aforesaid, That no archbishop, nor bishop, ordinary, official, commissary, or any other substitute or minister of any of the said archbishops, bishops, archdeacons, or other having any spiritual jurisdiction, at any time from the Feast of Easter next coming, shall ask, demand, take, or receive of any of the King's subjects, any sum or sums of money for the seal of any citation, after the said feast to be awarded or obtained, than only iii d. sterling, upon the pains and penalties before limited, contained, and expressed in this present act, to be in like form recovered, as is aforesaid.

The fees for the seal of a citation.

VII. Provided always, That this act be not in any wise hurtful or prejudicial to the archbishop of York, nor to his successors, of, for, or concerning probate of testaments within his province and jurisdiction, by reason of any prerogative; any thing in this act to the contrary thereof notwithstanding.

Proviso for the probate of testaments in the province of York.

CAP. X.

An act for feoffments and assurances of lands and tenements made to the use of any parish church, chapel, or such like.

Rep. 1 & 2. Ph. & M. c. 8.
Revised by 1 El. c. 1. l. 10,

WHERE by reason of feoffments, fines, recoveries, and other estates, and assurances, made of trusts, of manors, lands, tenements, and hereditaments, to the use of parish churches, chapels, church-wardens, guilds, fraternities, commonalties, companies, or brotherhoods erected and made of devotion, or by common assent of the people without any corporation, and also by reason of feoffments, fines, recoveries, wills, and other acts made to any uses aforesaid, unto the uses and intents to have obites perpetual, or a continual service of a priest for ever, or for threescore, or fourscore years, founders of the issues and

and profits of the manors, lands, tenements, and hereditaments, whereof such feoffments, fines, recoveries, wills, and other acts been made, or that the feoffees, conisees, recoverers, or other persons, and their heirs thereof seised, shall take, levy, receive, and perceive, or cause or suffer to be taken, levied, and perceived the issues, revenues, and profits thereof, and the same to dispose, pay, convert, or otherwise employ or suffer, or cause to be disposed, paid, converted, or employed to any such uses, intents, or purposes, as been above specified or to any other like uses and intents; there groweth and issueth to the King our sovereign lord, and to other lords and subjects of the realm, the same like losses and inconveniencies, and is as much prejudicial to them, as doth, and is, in case where lands be aliened into mortmain :

Assurances of lands to churches, chapels, &c. shall be void. Cro. El. 226. 11 Co. 71.

II. Be it therefore enacted by the King our sovereign lord, the lords spiritual and temporal, and the commons, in this present parliament assembled, and by authority of the same, That all and every such uses, intents, and purposes, of what name, nature or quality they shall be called, that shall be devised, covenanted, made, declared, or in any wise ordained after the first day of March, in the three and twentieth year of the reign of our sovereign lord King Henry the eighth, by any feoffee, recoverer, or conisee, or by any other person or persons to whose use any such feoffee, recoverer, or conisee shall be seised, of any manors, lands, tenements, or hereditaments, or of the issues, revenues, and profits of them, or any of them, shall be utterly void, and of no strength, virtue, nor effect in the law.

Proviso for assurances of lands to churches, &c. for xx. years.

III. Provided alway, That it shall be lawful to every person, being seised of any manors, lands, tenements, or hereditaments to his own proper use, or having feoffees, recoverers, or conisees to his use, to make, ordain, or devise, or cause to be made, ordained, or devised, any of the uses, intents, or purposes above specified, in such manner as they might have done before the making of this act, and as if this act had never been had ne made; (2) so that no such uses, intents, or purposes to be so made, ordained or devised after the said first day of March, be not in any wise made, ordained, devised, or appointed, to endure, continue, or abide by any craft, colour, terms, sentences, clauses, words, or other means, above the term of twenty years next after the first making and beginning of any such uses, intents, or purposes.

Collateral assurances in defrauding of the statute shall be void.

IV. And it is further enacted, That if any person or persons, in defraud of this statute, bind or ordain any their heirs or successors, or any other person or persons, that they shall suffer such uses, intents, and purposes to endure and continue, contrary to this act, upon pains or penalties of losses of any other lands, tenements, or hereditaments, or of any other thing or things; or do attempt or devise by any colour, craft, or means, any thing or things, to make any such uses, intents, or purposes to be declared, contrary to the true meaning of this act, to continue or abide for any longer time or season than is above limited for the same; that then every such pain, penalty, craft, colour, and every other thing and things, of what kind, nature, or quality soever it be that shall be so made, ordained, or devised in defraud of this act, act, shall be utterly void in the law to all intents; and that this statute shall be always interpreted and expounded, as beneficially as may be, to the destruction and utter avoiding of such uses, intents, and purposes therein above remembered, and of all other like uses and intents, otherwise than only after such manner as is afore by this present act provided.

V. Provided alway, That in such cities, and towns corporate, where by their ancient customs they have good and lawful authorities to devise into mortmain the lands, tenements, and hereditaments, within the same cities or towns corporate, that this act shall not be in any wise prejudicial or hurtful to any such custom.

VI. Provided alway, That this act, ne any thing therein contained, shall extend, or be in any wise prejudicial, to hinder or impair any such ordinances, devices, or declarations of uses, as shall hereafter be made and declared in writing, by the executors of the testaments and last wills of Robert Jannis and John Terry, late aldermen of the city of Norwich, now deceased, or by the executors or the survivor of the executors of either of them, of any lands, tenements, or hereditaments, not amounting in the whole above the clear yearly value of forty pounds, to be employed and converted to and for the discharge of tolls and customs within the said city, and at the gates of the same, for the discharge of the poor people within the same city, of taxes and tallages hereafter to be assessed and levied, and for the cleansing of the streets of the same city, or for any of the said good purposes, according to the true intents and meanings of the said last wills and testaments, and either of them; so that the same ordinances, devices, and declarations be had, made, and certified in writing into the King's court of Chancery, within two years next ensuing the feast of Easter next coming.

CAP. XI.

An act for clerks convict breaking prison.

WHERE divers persons being convict of murder or felony, having the privilege of their clergy, and delivered to the ordinaries, afterwards wilfully break the prisons of the ordinaries, and escape their ways, doing and committing great, horrible, and detestable offences; and as hitherto for such wilful breaking of prisons of ordinaries by clerks convict, hath not been provided any great penalty, whereby they should stand in dread of doing the same: (2) Be it therefore enacted by authority of this present parliament, That if any clerk convict, being in prison of any ordinary, wilfully break the said prison, and escape his way out of the same, that then every such breaking of prison and escape, shall be from henceforth deemed and adjudged felony, and the offender therein shall have and suffer such pain of death and penalty, and loss of his lands and goods, as for other felonies is accustomed by the laws of this realm, and shall not in any wise be admitted to have the privilege or benefit of his clergy, nor enjoy any sanctuary for the fame.

They which be in holy orders, shall be delivered to the ordinary. Altered 18 H. 8. c. 1.

The ordinary may disgrace a clerk convict, and send him, to the King's bench.

23 H. 8. c. 1.

II. Provided alway, That if any such offender be within holy orders, that is to say, of the orders of subdeacon, deacon, or priesthood, that then after he is convict of the premisses, he shall be delivered to the ordinary, there to remain without any purgation.

III. And it is enacted, That it shall be at the liberty of the ordinary, to disgrace any such offender after he is found guilty, and delivered to him as a clerk convict, and send him before the King in his bench, with letters witnessing the said disgrading, (2) and thereupon the justices of the King's bench, having the record of his conviction, shall have power and authority to give judgment against every such offender, being convicted and disgraded, that he shall suffer death, like as they might do in case the same offender had been a lay-man, and arraigned, and found guilty afore them of the said offence, the delivering of such offender afore to the ordinary notwithstanding.

An act for the exaction of tolls by the Severn side.

WHERE the King's subjects, passing upon the river and water of Severn, have used time out of mind, to have and use a certain path of one foot and a half broad on every side of the said river, for drawing up by lines or ropes, their trows, barges, boats, and other vessels passing or re-passing on the said river of Severn, with wine, or any other merchandise, without any imposition, tax, or toll to be demanded of them that should carry wine in any of the said vessels, for the said passing and drawing in the said paths accustomed, till now of late certain covetous persons have perturbed and interrupted many of the King's subjects, haling and drawing up their vessels in the said paths, taking of them fines, and draughts, and bottles of wine, and yet daily use to take, to the disturbance and loss to many of the King's subjects :

The penalty for hindering passengers upon the banks of the river of Severn, or for demanding of toll.

9 H. 6. c. 5.
19 H. 7. c. 18.

II. Be it therefore enacted by the King our sovereign lord, and the lords spiritual and temporal, and the commons, in this present parliament assembled, That no person or persons interrupt by any obstacle, let, or otherwise, any person or persons passing or re-passing, over and upon every of the said paths accustomed, nor also ask, take, or demand any toll, called a draught, or bottle of wine, or any other tax or imposition of any of the King's subjects there going in the said paths accustomed, upon every side of the river of Severn, there haling or drawing their boats, trows, or vessels, (2) upon pain to forfeit for every time that he or they so shall interrupt any of the King's subjects, or ask or take any such imposition, by what name soever it be called, forty shillings; the one half thereof to be to the King our sovereign lord, and the other half to the party grieved, that will sue for the same by bill, plaint, information, or otherwise, in the which suit no essoin, wager of law, nor protection shall be allowed.

An act for trial of murders in cities and towns.

FORASMUCH as trials in murders and felonies in cities, boroughs, and towns corporate within this realm, having authority to proceed in the deliverance of such offenders, been oftentimes deferred and delayed, by reason of challenge of such offenders, for lack of sufficiency of freehold, to the great hindrance of justice: (2) It may therefore be enacted by authority of this present parliament, That every person and persons, being the King's natural subject born, which either by the name of a citizen, or of a freeman, or any other name, doth enjoy and use the liberties and privileges of any city, borough, or town corporate, where he dwelleth and maketh his abode, being worth in moveable goods and substance to the clear value of forty pounds, be from henceforth admitted in trial of murders and felonies in every sessions and gaol-delivery, to be kept and holden in and for the liberty of such cities, boroughs, and towns corporate, albeit they have no freehold; any act, statute, use, custom, or ordinance to the contrary hereof notwithstanding.

Trial of felons in corporate towns shall be by men worth xl. li. in goods.

II. Provided alway, That this act do not extend, in any manner of wife, to any knight or esquire, dwelling, abiding, or resorting in or to any such city, town, or borough corporate, any thing in the same act mentioned or declared to the contrary hereof notwithstanding.

Process of outlawry to lie in actions, on 5 RICH. 2. and in covenant and annuity.

FORASMUCH as there is great delay in actions of trespass brought upon the statute of Richard the Second, made in the fifth year of his reign, against them that make entries into any lands or tenements where their entry is not given by the law, and also in actions of annuity, and actions of covenant, because there lieth no process of outlawry in such nature of actions: (2) For reformation whereof, it may please the King's highness, by the advice of the lords spiritual and temporal, and the commons, in this present parliament assembled, and by authority of the same, to ordain and enact, That like process be had hereafter in every action from henceforth to be brought upon the said statute of Anno quinto, as is in a common action of trespass at the common law, (3) and that also like process be had in every writ of annuity and covenant hereafter to be sued, as is in an action of debt.

reason that many ships, keyls, cogs, and boats, and other vessels have heretofore had their frank passages, without let, impediment, or interruption, in and upon the said river and water of Ouse, and Humber, from divers parts of this realm unto the said city, whereby the said city hath hitherto most chiefly been advanced; (2) and now of late certain persons, studying only for their own private lucre, not regarding the common weal, but daily imagining the utter destruction, ruin, and decay of the said city, and the countries adjoining upon the said river of Ouse, and water of Humber, and occupiers thereof, have, and daily do keep, preserve, and maintain certain engines for taking of fish in the said river and water of Ouse, and Humber, commonly called fish-garths, and set in the said river and water, in such places of the same where ships should have their liberal and direct passage, in the midst of the streams of the said river of Ouse and water of Humber, stakes, piles, and other things, in and upon the common passage for ships, keyls, cogs, boats, and other vessels, at divers and many places in the said river of Ouse, and water of Humber; by reason whereof, not only the said ships, keyls, cogs, boats, and other vessels are daily in jeopardy, and men, children, goods, and merchandises in the same, of late have been, and daily be like more to increase to be drowned, slain, and destroyed, but also the brood and fry of fish in the said river, and water of Ouse, and Humber, be commonly thereby destroyed and putrified, to the utter impoverishment and destruction of the said city, unless speedy remedy be in this behalf shortly provided:

An act concerning restraint of payment of Annates to the see of Rome.

Not in the printed stat. Codex, Tit. 5. c. 1. Great sums of money have been conveyed out of the realm, &c. for first-fruits of archbishopricks and bishopricks,

FORASMUCH as it is well perceived, by long approved experience, that great and insupportable sums of money have been daily conveyed out of this realm, to the impoverishment of the same; and especially such sums of money as the Pope's holiness, his predecessors, and the court of Rome, by long time have heretofore taken of all and singular those spiritual persons which have been named, elected, presented, or postulated to be archbishops or bishops within this realm of England, under the title of Annates, otherwise called first-fruits: which Annates, or first-fruits, have been taken of every archbishoprick, or bishoprick, within this realm, by restraint of the Pope's bulls, for confirmations, elections, admissions, postulations, provisions, collations, dispositions, institutions, installations, investitures, orders, holy benedictions dictions, palleſ, or other things requiſite and neceſſary to the attaining of (without thoſe their promotions; and have been compelled to pay, before they could attain the ſame, great ſums of money, before they might receive any part of the fruits of the ſaid archbiſhoprick, or biſhoprick, whereunto they were named, elected, preſented, or poſtulated; by occaſion whereof, not only the treaſure of this realm hath been greatly conveyed out of the ſame, but alſo it hath happened many times, by occaſion of death, unto ſuch archbiſhops, and biſhops, ſo newly promoted, within two or three years after his or their conſecration, that his or their friends, by whom he or they have been holpen to advance and make payment of the ſaid Annates, or firſt-fruits, have been thereby utterly undone and impoverished: and for becauſe the ſaid Annates have riſen, grown, and encreaſed, by an uncharitable cuſtom, grounded upon no juſt or good title, and the payments thereof obtained by reſtraint of bulls, until the ſame Annates, or firſt-fruits, have been paid, or ſurety made for the ſame; which declareth the ſaid payments to be exacted, and taken by conſtraint, againſt all equity and juſtice: the noblemen therefore of the realm, and the wiſe, ſage, politick commons of the ſame, aſſembled in this preſent parliament, conſidering that the court of Rome ceaſeth not to tax, take, and exact the ſaid great ſums of money, under the title of Annates, or firſt-fruits, as is aforeſaid, to the great damage of the ſaid prelates, and this realm; which Annates, or firſt-fruits, were firſt ſuffered to be taken within the ſame realm, for the only defence of chriſtian people againſt the infidels, and now they be claimed and demanded as mere duty, only for lucre, againſt all right and conſcience: inſomuch that it is evidently known, that there hath paſſed out of this realm unto the court of Rome, ſithen the ſecond year of the reign of the moſt noble Prince, of famous memory, King Henry the Seventh, unto this preſent time, under the name of Annates, or firſt-fruits, payed for the expedition of bulls of archbiſhopricks, and biſhopricks, the ſum of eight hundred thouſand ducats, amounting in ſterling money, at the leaſt, to eightſcore thouſand pounds, beſides other great and intolerable ſums which have yearly been conveyed to the ſaid court of Rome, by many other ways and means, to the great impoveriſhment of this realm: and albeit, that our ſaid ſovereign the King, and all his natural ſubjects, as well ſpiritual as temporal, been as obedient, devout, catholick and humble children of God, and holy church, as any people be within any realm chriſtend; yet the ſaid exactions of Annates, or firſt-fruits, be ſo intolerable and importable to this realm, that it is conſidered and declared, by the whole body of this realm now repreſented by all the eſtates of the ſame aſſembled in this preſent parliament, that the King's Highneſſe before Almighty God, is bound, as by the duty of a good chriſtian prince, for the conſervation and preſervation of the good eſtate and common-wealth of this his realm, to do all that in him is to obviate, repreſs and redreſs the ſaid abuſions and exactions of Annates, or firſt-fruits: and becauſe that divers prelates of this realm, being now in extreame age, and in other debilities of their bodies, ſo that of likelihood, bodily death in ſhort time ſhall or may ſucceed unto them; by reaſon whereof great ſums of money ſhall ſhortly after their deaths be conveyed unto the court of Rome, for the unreaſonable and uncharitable cauſes aforeſaid, to the univerwhich diſpatch could not be had at the ſee of Rome) to the impoveriſhing of the nation, and ſometimes the ruin of the friends of the perſons promoted, which demands though made without any juſt title, yet from the ſecond H. 7. 160,000l. hath been paid for firſt-fruits, beſides other great ſums;

and though the King and his ſubjects are obedient children of holy church.

yet the ſaid exactions being intolerable, the eſtates have repreſented, that the King is bound to repreſs them; eſpecially now when divers prelates are in extreame age, ſal damage, prejudice, and impoveriſhment of this realm, if ſpeedy remedy be not in due time provided :

All ſuch payments other than are declared in this act, ſhall ceaſe, and no perſon ſhall pay them, upon pain to forfeit goods, &c. to the King ;

and if any perſon is delayed, or denied his bulls at the court of Rome, he ſhall be conſecrated by his archbiſhop, being firſt named by the King ; and an archbiſhop being ſo letted, ſhall be conſecrated by two biſhops to be named by the King ;

(as divers heretofore have been)

II. It is therefore ordained, eſtabliſhed, and enacted, by authority of this preſent parliament, That the unlawful payment of Annates, or firſt-fruits, and all manner contributions for the ſame, for any archbiſhoprick, or biſhoprick, or for any bulls hereafter to be obtained from the court of Rome, to or for the aforeſaid purpoſe and intent, ſhall from henceforth utterly ceaſe, and no ſuch hereafter to be paid for any archbiſhoprick, or biſhoprick, within this realm, other or otherwiſe than hereafter in this preſent act is declared ; and that no manner perſon, nor perſons hereafter to be named, elected, preſented, or poſtulated to any archbiſhoprick, or biſhoprick, within this realm, ſhall pay the ſaid Annates, or firſt-fruits, for the ſaid archbiſhoprick, or biſhoprick, nor any other manner of ſum or ſums of money, penſions or Annates for the ſame, or for any other like exaction, or cauſe, upon pain to forfeit to our ſaid ſovereign lord the King, his heirs and ſucceſſors, all manner his goods and chattels for ever, and all the temporal lands and poſſeſſions of the ſame archbiſhoprick, or biſhoprick, during the time that he or they which ſhall offend, contrary to this preſent act, ſhall have, poſſeſs, or enjoy the archbiſhoprick, or biſhoprick, wherefore he ſhall ſo offend contrary to the form aforeſaid. And furthermore it is enacted, by authority of this preſent parliament, That if any perſon hereafter named and preſented to the court of Rome by the King, or any of his heirs or ſucceſſors, to be biſhop of any ſee or dioceſe within this realm hereafter, ſhall be letted, deferred, or delayed at the court of Rome from any ſuch biſhoprick, whereunto he ſhall be ſo repreſented, by means of reſtraint of bulls apoſtolick, and other things requiſite to the ſame ; or ſhall be denied at the court of Rome, upon convenient ſuit made, any manner bulls requiſite for any of the cauſes aforeſaid, any ſuch perſon or perſons ſo preſented, may be, and ſhall be conſecrated here in England by the archbiſhop, in whoſe province the ſaid biſhoprick ſhall be, ſo alway that the ſame perſon ſhall be named and preſented by the King for the time being to the ſame archbiſhop : and if any perſons being named and preſented, as aforeſaid, to any archbiſhoprick of this realm, making convenient ſuit, as is aforeſaid, ſhall happen to be letted, deferred, delayed or otherwiſe diſturbed from the ſame archbiſhoprick, for lack of pall, bulls, or other to him requiſite, to be obtained in the court of Rome in that behalf, that then every ſuch perſon named and preſented to be archbiſhop, may be, and ſhall be, conſecrated and inveſted, after preſentation made, as is aforeſaid, by any other two biſhops within this realm, whom the King's highneſs, or any of his heirs or ſucceſſors, Kings of England, for the time being, will aſſign and appoint for the ſame, according and in like manner as divers other archbiſhops and biſhops have been heretofore, in ancient time, by ſundry the King's moſt noble progenitors, made, conſecrated, and inveſted within this realm : and that every archbiſhop and biſhop hereafter, being named and and presented by the King's highness, his heirs or successors, after which, Kings of England, and being consecrated and invested, as is ^{he shall be in-} aforefaid, shall be installed accordingly, and shall be accepted, ^{stalled, and be} taken, reputed, used, and obeyed, as an archbishop or bishop of ^{archbishop} the dignity, see or place whereunto he so shall be named, pre- ^{and bishop of} sented, and consecrated, requireth; and as other like prelates of that province, see, or diocese, have been used, accepted, taken, and obeyed, which have had, and obtained compleatly, their bulls, and other things requisite in that behalf from the court of Rome. And also shall fully and entirely have and enjoy all the spiritualities and temporalities of the said archbishoprick or ^{and shall en-} bishoprick, in as large, ample, and beneficial manner, as any of ^{joy all spiri-} his or their predecessors had, or enjoyed in the said arch- ^{tualities and} bishoprick, or bishoprick, satisfying and yielding unto the King ^{temporalities,} our sovereign lord, and to his heirs and successors, Kings of England, all such duties, rights, and interests, as before this time yielding unto ^{the King all} had been accustomed to be paid for any such archbishoprick, ^{duties, rights,} or bishoprick, according to the antient laws and customs of this ^{&c.} realm, and the King's prerogative royal.

III. And to the intent our said holy father the Pope, and ^{and that due} the court of Rome, shall not think that the pains and labours ^{reward may} taken, and hereafter to be taken, about the writing, sealing, ^{be allowed for} obtaining, and other businesses sustained, and hereafter to be ^{the expedition} sustained, by the offices of the said court of Rome, for and about ^{of bulls,} the expedition of any bulls hereafter to be obtained or had for any such archbishoprick, or bishoprick, shall be irremunerated, or shall not be sufficiently and condignly recompensed in that behalf; and for their more ready expedition to be had therein; it is therefore enacted by the authority aforefaid, That every ^{every person} spiritual person of this realm, hereafter to be named, presented, ^{presented to} or postulated, to any archbishoprick or bishoprick of this realm, ^{archbishop-} shall and may lawfully pay for the writing and obtaining of his ^{rick, or} or their said bulls, at the court of Rome, and enfealing the same ^{bishoprick,} with lead, to be had without payment of any Annates, or first- ^{shall pay 5 l.} fruits, or other charge or exaction by him or them to be made, ^{for every} yielded, or paid for the same, five pounds Sterling, for and after ^{hundred that} the rate of the clear and whole yearly value of every hundred ^{the promotion} pounds Sterling, above all charges of any such archbishoprick, ^{is of clear} or bishoprick, or other money, to the value of the said five ^{yearly value.} pounds, for the clear yearly value of every hundredth pounds of every such archbishoprick, or bishoprick, and not above, nor in any otherwise, any thing in this present act before written notwithstanding. And forasmuch as the King's highness, and ^{The parlia-} this his high court of parliament, neither have, nor do intend to ^{ment not wil-} use in this, or any other like cause, any manner of extremity or ^{ling to use ex-} violence, before gentle courtesie or friendship, ways and means ^{trernity with-} first approved and attempted, and without a very great urgent ^{out urgent} cause and occasion given to the contrary, but principally coveting ^{cause,} to disburthen this realm of the said great exactions, and intol- ^{have com-} erable charges of Annates, and first-fruits, have therefore thought ^{mitted this} convenient to commit the final order and determination of the ^{premises,} matter to the

whose compositions shall be inviolably observed, and who shall have power to declare, by letters patents, whether this shall be a statute or not, so as, what he shall refuse in whole or in part shall be void, and what he shall accept shall be put in execution, and be as available in law, as any other acts.

If no redress may be had by these amicable means,

but the court of Rome shall premisses, in all things, unto the King's highness. So that if it may seem to his high wisdom, and most prudent discretion, meet to move the Pope's holiness, and the court of Rome, amicably, charitably, and reasonably, to compound, other to extinct and make frustrate the payments of the said Annates, or first-fruits, or else by some friendly, loving, and tolerable composition to moderate the same in such wise as may be by this realm easily borne and sustained; that then those ways and compositions taken, concluded, and agreed, between the Pope's holiness and the King's highness, shall stand in strength, force and effect of law, inviolably to be observed. And it is also further ordained, and enacted by the authority of this present parliament, That the King's highness at any time, or times, on this side the feast of Easter, which shall be in the year of our Lord God, one thousand five hundred and three and thirty, or at any time on this side the beginning of the next parliament, by his letters patents under his great seal, to be made, and to be entred of record in the roll of this present parliament, may and shall have full power and liberty to declare, by the said letters patents, whether that the premisses, or any part, clause, or matter thereof, shall be observed, obeyed, executed, and take place and effect, as an act and statute of this present parliament, or not. So that if his highness, by his said letters patents, before the expiration of the times above limited, thereby do declare his pleasure to be, that the premisses, or any part, clause, or matter thereof, shall not be put in execution, observed, continued, nor obeyed, in that case all the said premisses, or such part, clause, or matter, as the King's highness so shall refuse, disaffirm, or not ratify, shall stand and be from henceforth utterly void and of none effect. And in case that the King's highness, before the expiration of the times afore prefixed, do declare by his said letters patents, his pleasure and determination to be, that the said premisses, or every clause, sentence, and part thereof, that is to say, the whole, or such part thereof as the King's highness so shall affirm, accept, and ratify, shall in all points stand, remain, abide, and be put in due and effectual execution, according to the purport, tenor, effect, and true meaning of the same; and to stand and be from henceforth for ever after, as firm, stedfast, and available in the law, as the same had been fully and perfectly established, enacted and confirmed, to be in every part thereof, immediately, wholly, and entirely executed, in like manner, form, and effect, as other acts and laws; the which being fully and determinately made, ordained, and enacted in this present parliament. And if that upon the aforeſaid reasonable, amicable and charitable ways and means, by the King's highness to be experimented, moved, or compounded, or otherwise approved, it shall and may appear, or be seen unto his grace, that this realm shall be continually burdened and charged with this, and such other intolerable exactions and demands, as heretofore it hath been; and that thereupon, for continuance of the same, our said holy father the Pope, or any of his successors, or the court of Rome, will, or do, or cause to be done at any time hereafter, so as is above rehearsed, unjustly, uncharitably, and unreasonably, vex, inquiet, molest, trouble, or grieve our said sovereign lord, his heirs or successors, Kings of England, or any of his or their spiritual or lay subjects, or this his realm, by excommunication, excommungement, interdiction, or by any other process, censures, compulsories, ways or means; be it enacted by the authority aforesaid, That the King's highness, his heirs and successors, Kings of England, and all his spiritual and lay subjects of the same, without any scruples of conscience, shall and may lawfully, to the honour of almighty God, the increase and continuance of virtue and good example within this realm, the said censures, excommunications, interdictions, compulsories, or any of them notwithstanding, minister, or cause to be ministered, throughout this said realm, and all other the dominions or territories belonging or appertaining thereunto, all and all manner of sacraments, sacramentals, ceremonies, or other divine services of the holy church, or any other thing or things necessary for the health of the soul of mankind, as they heretofore at any time or times have been virtuously used or accustomed to do within the same; and that no manner such censures, excommunications, interdictions, or any other process or compulsories, shall be by any of the prelates, or other spiritual fathers of this region, nor by any of their ministers or substitutes, be at any time or times hereafter published, executed, nor divulged, nor suffered to be published, executed, or divulged in any manner of ways.

in such case, all sacraments and divine services shall continue to be ministered, notwithstanding, and the excommunications, interdicts, &c. shall not be executed.

For the deſtruction of crows and rooks.

Choughs,
crows and rooks ſhall be deſtroyed.

The great inconveniences ſuffered by reaſon of choughs, crows and
rooks.

FORASMUCH as innumerable number of rooks, crows and choughs do daily breed, and increaſe throughout this realm, which rooks, crows and choughs, do yearly devour and conſume a wonderful and marvellous great quantity of corn and grain of all kinds, that is to wit, as well in the ſowing of the ſame corn and grain, as alſo at the ripening and kernelling of the ſame, and over that a marvellous deſtruction, and decay of the covertures of thatched houſes, barns, reeks, ſtacks and other ſuch like: (2) ſo that if the ſaid crows, rooks and choughs ſhould be ſuffered to breed and continue, as they have been in certain years paſt, they will undoubtedly be the cauſe of the great deſtruction and conſumption of a great part of the corn and grain which hereafter ſhall be ſown throughout this realm, to the great prejudice, damage and undoing of the great number of all the tillers, huſbands and ſowers of the earth within the ſame.

Every man ſhall do his beſt to deſtroy crows, &c.
upon pain of amerſciament, being preſented at leets, ſheriffs turns,
ſeſſions, &c.

II. For remedy whereof, be it enacted by the authority of this preſent parliament, That every perſon and perſons, as well ſpiritual as temporal, having, keeping, holding and inhabiting in any manors, meaſes, lands or tenements in their own manurance and occupation of any eſtate of inheritance, or for term of life, or for years, or at will, or by copy of court-roll, or otherwiſe in poſſeſſion or uſe, ſhall hereafter do, or cauſe to be done, as much as in him or them reaſonably ſhall or may be, to kill and utterly deſtroy all manner of choughs, crows, rooks, coming, abiding, breeding or haunting within or upon any the ſaid manors, meaſes, lands or tenements which he or they ſhall inhabit and dwell upon, and have in their manurance and occupation, as is aforeſaid, (2) upon pain of a grievous amerſciament, to be ſet and aſſeſſed as hereafter ſhall be expreſſed: that is to ſay, that if any offence be done contrary to the ſtatute, by any perſon or perſons inhabited within the limits of the leets, lawdays, rapes or court barons of any lords having ſuch courts, that then upon a preſentment thereof made before the ſteward of ſuch leets, lawdays, rapes or courts, the ſtewards with two of the preſenters, (by the ſteward and preſenters to be named) ſhall aſſeſs and ſet for every default preſented to be done contrary to this act, ſuch amerſciament as to them ſhall ſeem reaſonable and convenient, after the quantity of the offence, (3) the ſaid amerſciament to be to the uſe of the lord, or lords of the leets, lawdays, rapes or courts where the ſaid offence ſhall be done and preſented, to be levied by diſtreſs of the goods and chattels of the offender or offenders, like as other amerſciaments for common annoyances (preſented in leets) have been accuſtomed to be levied.

(4) And if the offence be done contrary to this ſtatute by any perſon or perſons, which ſhall dwell and have the manurance of and in ſuch manors, meaſes, lands, tenements or hereditaments, whereunto ſuch leets, lawdays, rapes and courts do not belong, or by reaſon whereof any ſuch courts be not holden: that that then upon a presentment thereof had before the sheriffs in the turns, or justices of peace in their sessions, the steward of the turns with two of the presenters, to be chosen as is aforesaid, if the presentment be within the turn, and the justices of peace, or two of them at the least, if the presentment be before them in their sessions, shall assess and set the said amerciaments, after the quantity of the offence, by their discretions, to be had and levied to the use of our sovereign lord the King by distress, like as other amerciaments be levied upon presentments of common annoyances.

III. And farther be it enacted by the authority aforesaid, That in every parish, township, hamlet, borough or village within this realm, wherein is at least ten households inhabited, the tenants and inhabitants thereof shall before the feast of St. Michael the archangel next, and so during ten years next ensuing the said feast, at their own proper costs, charges and expences, provide, make or cause to be made one net, commonly called a net to take choughs, crows, and rooks, with all things requisite or belonging to the same, (2) and the said net so made or caused to be made, shall keep, preserve and renew, as often as shall need: and with and after a shrap made with chaff and other things meet for that purpose, shall lay or cause to be laid, at such time or times in the year, as are convenient for destruction of such choughs, rooks and crows, and in such place and places as shall be thought expedient to take the said choughs, crows and rooks, (3) upon pain to forfeit ten shillings, the one moiety thereof to be to our sovereign lord the King, and the other moiety to the lord or lords of the same courts, leets, lawdays or rapes, where any such net shall be lacking, and not made, and put in execution according to this act, (4) to be levied of the said tenants and inhabitants of the said parish, township, hamlet, borough or village, where any such net shall be lacking, and not put in use and execution as is aforesaid. (5) And that every such net with all things requisite thereunto, shall one time in the year, at the least, be presented in the court baron, leet, rape or lawday, before the steward of the same court, leet, rape or lawday, whereunto the said tenants and inhabitants shall be bounden to sue, and appear, to be viewed, whether the same be sufficiently repaired or not, for the foresaid purpose: (6) So that by the advice of the steward, tenants and inhabitants of the said court baron, leet, rape or lawday, where any such net shall be necessary to be used, a sure way and ordinance may be devised for the reparation, continuance and putting in execution of the said net at times and places convenient, as is aforesaid. (7) And that such ordinances as shall be devised and made by the steward, tenants and inhabitants of and within the said leets, lawdays, rapes and courts, or by the most part of them, to and for the destruction of the said rooks, crows and choughs, shall stand good and effectual, and be put in due execution, according to the tenor thereof.

Every town, hamlet, &c. shall provide and maintain crow nets during x. years.

Revised as to the maintenance of nets, &c. for the destruction of crows, &c. and as to the rest repealed by 8 El. c. 15.

integrity and ſufficiency of number, it hath been always thought, and is alſo at this hour, ſufficient and meet of it ſelf, without the intermeddling of any exterior perſon or perſons, to declare and determine all ſuch doubts, and to adminiſter all ſuch offices and duties, as to their rooms, ſpiritual doth appertain; (5) for the due adminiſtration whereof, and to keep them from corruption and ſiniſter affection, the King's moſt noble progenitors, and the anteceſſors of the nobles of this realm, have ſufficiently endowed the ſaid church, both with honour and poſſeſſions; (6) and the laws temporal, for trial of property of lands and goods, and for the conſervation of the people of this realm in unity and peace, without rapine or ſpoil, was and yet is adminiſtered, adjudged and executed by ſundry judges and miniſters of the other part of the ſaid body politick, called the temporality; (7) and both their authorities and juriſdictions do conjoin together in the due adminiſtration of juſtice, the one to help the other.

II. And whereas the King his moſt noble progenitors, and the nobility and commons of this ſaid realm, at divers and ſundry parliaments, as well in the time of King Edward the Firſt, Edward the Third, Richard the Second, Henry the Fourth, and other noble Kings of this realm, made ſundry ordinances, laws, ſtatutes, and proviſions for the entire and ſure conſervation of the prerogatives, liberties and pre-eminences of the ſaid imperial crown of this realm, and of the juriſdiction ſpiritual and temporal of the ſame, to keep it from the annoyance as well of the ſee of Rome, as from the authority of other foreign potentates, attempting the diminution or violation thereof, as often, and from time to time, as any ſuch annoyance or attempt might be known or ſpied: (2) and notwithstanding the ſaid good ſtatutes and ordinances made in the time of the King's moſt noble progenitors, in preſervation of the authority and prerogative of the ſaid imperial crown, as is aforeſaid; yet nevertheless ſithen the making of the ſaid good ſtatutes and ordinances divers and ſundry inconveniencies and dangers, not provided for plainly by the ſaid former acts, ſtatutes and ordinances, have ariſen and ſprung by reaſon of appeals ſued out of this realm to the ſee of Rome, in cauſes teſtamentary, cauſes of matrimony and divorces, right of tithes, oblations and obventions, not only to the great inquietation, vexation, trouble, coſt and charges of the King's highneſs, and many of his ſubjects and reſiants of this his realm, but alſo to the great delay and let to the true and ſpeedy determination of the ſaid cauſes, for ſo much as the parties appealing to the ſaid court of Rome moſt commonly do the ſame for the delay of juſtice. (3) And forasmuch as the great diſtance of way is ſo far out of this realm, ſo that the neceſſary proofs, nor the true knowledge of the cauſe, can neither there be ſo well known, ne the witneſſes there ſo well examined, as within this realm, ſo that the parties grieved by means of the ſaid appeals be moſt times without remedy: (4) in conſideration whereof, the King's highneſs, his nobles and commons, conſidering the great enormities, dangers, long delays and hurts, that as well to his highneſs, as to his ſaid nobles, ſubjects, commons, and reſiants of this his realm, in the ſaid cauſes teſtamentary, cauſes of matrimony and divorces, tithes, oblations and obventions, do daily enſue, doth therefore by his royal aſſent, and

and by the assent of the lords spiritual and temporal, and the commons, in this present parliament assembled, and by authority of the same, enact, establish and ordain, That all causes testamentary, causes of matrimony and divorces, rights of tithes, oblations and obventions (the knowledge whereof by the goodness of princes of this realm, and by the laws and customs of the same, appertaineth to the spiritual jurisdiction of this realm) already commenced, moved, depending, being, happening, or hereafter coming in contention, debate or question within this realm, or within any the King's dominions, or marches of the same, or elsewhere, whether they concern the King our sovereign lord, his heirs and successors, or any other subjects or residents within the same, of what degree soever they be, shall be from henceforth heard, examined, discussed, clearly, finally, and definitively adjudged and determined within the King's jurisdiction and authority, and not elsewhere, in such courts spiritual and temporal of the same, as the natures, conditions, and qualities of the cases and matters aforesaid in contention, or hereafter happening in contention, shall require, without having any respect to any custom, use, or sufferance, in hindrance, let, or prejudice of the same, or to any other thing used or suffered to the contrary thereof by any other manner of person or persons in any manner of wise; any foreign inhibitions, appeals, sentences, summons, citations, suspensions, interdictions, excommunications, restraints, judgments, or any other process or impediments, of what natures, names, qualities, or conditions soever they be, from the see of Rome, or any other foreign courts or potentates of the world, or from and out of this realm, or any other the King's dominions, or marches of the same, to the see of Rome, or to any other foreign courts or potentates, to the let or impediment thereof in any wise notwithstanding. (5) And that it shall be lawful to the King our sovereign lord, and to his heirs and successors, and to all other subjects or residents within this realm, or within any of the King's dominions or marches of the same, notwithstanding that hereafter it should happen any excommungement, excommunications, interdictions, citations, or any other censures, or foreign process out of any outward parts, to be fulminate, promulged, declared, or put in execution within this said realm, or in any other place or places, for any of the causes before rehearsed, in prejudice, derogation, or contempt of this said act, and the very true meaning and execution thereof, may and shall nevertheless as well pursue, execute, have and enjoy the effects, profits, benefits and commodities of all such processes, sentences, judgments and determinations done, or hereafter to be done, in any of the said courts spiritual or temporal, as the cases shall require, within the limits, power and authority of this the King's said realm, and dominions and marches of the same, and those only, and none other to take place, and to be firmly observed and obeyed within the same.

V. And furthermore, in eschewing the said great enormities, inquietations, delays, charges and expences hereafter to be sustained in pursuing of such appeals, and foreign processe, for and concerning the causes aforesaid, or any of them, do therefore by authority aforesaid, ordain and enact, That in such cases where heretofore any of the King's ſubjects or reſiants have uſed to purſue, provoke, or procure any appeal to the ſee of Rome, and in all other caſes of appeals, in or for any of the cauſes aforeſaid, they may and ſhall from henceforth take, have and uſe their appeals within this realm, and not elſewhere, in manner and form as hereafter enſueth, and not otherwiſe; that is to ſay, firſt from the archdeacon, or his official, if the matter or cauſe be there begun, to the biſhop dioceſan of the ſaid ſee, if in caſe any of the parties be grieved.

VI. And in like wiſe if it be commenced before the biſhop dioceſan, or his commiſſary, from the biſhop dioceſan, or his commiſſary, within fifteen days next enſuing the judgment or ſentence thereof there given, to the archbiſhop of the province of Canterbury, if it be within his province; and if it be within the province of York, then to the archbiſhop of York; and ſo likewiſe to all other archbiſhops in other the King's dominions, as the caſe by order of juſtice ſhall require; and there to be definitively and finally ordered, decreed, and adjudged, according to juſtice, without any other appellation or provocation to any other perſon or perſons, court or courts.

4 Mod. 116, 117. Dyer 209.

VII. And if the matter or contention for any of the cauſes aforeſaid be or ſhall be commenced, by any of the King's ſubjects or reſiants, before the archdeacon of any archbiſhop, or his commiſſary, then the party grieved ſhall or may take his appeal within fifteen days next after judgment or ſentence there given, to the court of the arches, or audience, of the ſame archbiſhop or archbiſhops; (2) and from the ſaid court of the arches or audience, within fifteen days then next enſuing after judgment or ſentence there given, to the archbiſhop of the ſame province, there to be definitively and finally determined, without any other or further proceſs or appeal thereupon to be had or ſued.

Appeals ought to be within 15 days.

VIII. And it is further enacted by the authority aforeſaid, that all and every matter, cauſe and contention now depending, or that hereafter ſhall be commenced by any of the King's ſubjects or reſiants for any of the cauſes aforeſaid, before any of the ſaid archbiſhops, that then the ſame matter or matters, contention or contentions, ſhall be before the ſame archbiſhop where the ſaid matter, cauſe or proceſs ſhall be ſo commenced, definitively determined, decreed, or adjudged, without any other appeal, provocation, or any other foreign proceſs out of this realm, to be ſued to the let or derogation of the ſaid judgment, ſentence or decree, otherwiſe than is by this act limited and appointed; (2) ſaving always the prerogative of the archbiſhop and church of Canterbury, in all the aforeſaid cauſes of appeals, to him and to his ſucceſſors to be ſued within this realm, in ſuch and like wiſe as they have been accuſtomed and uſed to have heretofore.

Suits commenced before an archbiſhop ſhall be determined by him without any further appeal.

The prerogative of the archbiſhop of Canterbury ſaved.

Clergy not allowed to thofe who ftand mute, or who do make peremptory challenge.

WHERE at your parliament holden at Weftminfter, in the three and twentieth year of your moft noble reign, among other things it was ordained, eftablifhed and enacted, That no perfon or perfons which thereafter fhould happen to be found guilty, after the laws of this land, for any manner of petit treason, or of any wilful murder of malice prepensed, or for robbing of any churches, chapels, or other holy places, or for robbing of any perfon or perfons in their dwelling houfes or dwelling-place, the owner or dweller in the fame houfe, his wife, his children, or fervants then being within, and put in fear and dread by the ſame, or for robbing of any perſon or perſons in or near about the high-way, or for wilful burning of any dwelling-houſes or barns, wherein any grain or corn ſhall happen to be; nor any perſon or perſons being found guilty of any abetment, procurement, helping, maintaining, or counſelling of or to any ſuch petit treason, murders, or felonies, ſhould from thenceforth be admitted to the benefit of his or their clergy, but utterly be excluded thereof, and ſuffer death in ſuch manner and form as they ſhould have done for any the cauſes or offences aforeſaid, if they were no clerks; ſuch as be within holy orders, that is to ſay, of the orders of ſubdeacon, or above, all only except, as more at large appeareth by the ſaid act.

(2) And ſoſmuch as the ſaid act extendeth only to ſuch perſons as be found guilty after the due courſe of the laws of this land, divers and many great errant robbers, murderers, burglars and felons, that do offend and commit divers and many petit treaſons, robberies, burglaries and felonies, contrary to the tenor of the ſaid act, perceiving and clearly underſtanding, by the words of the ſame ſtatute and act, that they ſhall not loſe the benefit and advantage of their clergy, unleſs they be found guilty after the due courſe of the law, upon their arraignment of and upon the ſaid felonies, robberies, and other offences beforeſaid, ſo by them done and committed, by reaſon whereof divers and many of the ſame robbers and felons upon their arraignment of the ſame robberies and felonies, upon their indictments againſt them ſtand mute, and ſometimes challenge peremptorily over the number of twenty, or elſe will not directly answer to the ſame indictments whereupon they be ſo arraigned according to the order of the law. (3) And for that theſe eſpecial caſes be not expreſſly comprized and contained within the letter of the ſame ſtatute, it is neceſſary and expedient that the ſame caſe be clearly and definitively expounded and declared by authority of this preſent parliament. (4) And whereas alſo divers and many felons and robbers, that commit and do divers and many great heinous robberies and burglaries in one ſhire, and convey the ſpoil and robbery into any other ſhire, and there be taken, indicted, and arraigned upon felony and felonious ſtealing of the ſame goods in the ſame other ſhire, than there where the ſame robberies or burglaries were done and committed, and not upon the ſame robbery nor burglary, for that it was not done nor committed in the ſame ſhire where they be ſo indicted and arraigned, and by reaſon thereof the ſame miſdemaneors, felons, robbers, and burglars, have and enjoy the privilege and advantage of their clergy, to the great hurt and loſs of the King's prerogative, and great boldneſs of ſuch offenders.

II. In conſideration whereof, be it enacted by the King our ſovereign lord, the lords ſpiritual and temporal, and the commons in this preſent parliament aſſembled, and by authority of the ſame, That every perſon and perſons that is or hereafter ſhall be indicted of petit treason, wilful burning of houſes, murder, robbery, or burglary, or other felony, according to the tenor and meaning of the ſame ſtatute, and thereupon arraigned, and do ſtand mute of malice or froward mind, or challenge peremptorily above the number of twenty, or elſe will not or do not answer directly to the ſame indictment.

For callendring of Worstedes.

The statute of

touching cal-lendring of worstedes, made perpetual.

WHEREAS at the parliament holden at Westminster the xxiiij. day of January, in the fifth year of our sovereign lord's reign the King that now is, there was an act and one statute made, provided and established, for the avoiding of deceits and falseness of worsteds, as well by reason of dry callendring thereof with gums, oils and presses, as also by wet callendring, by persons having no cunning in ordering of the same, which act was made to endure but only to the parliament then next following: (2) and forasmuch as it is evidently known, that the same act and statute aforesaid is very good and necessary to the com-

common wealth of this realm: wherefore the King our sovereign lord, by the advice and consent of his lords spiritual and temporal, and the commons, of this present parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, hath ordained, enacted and established, That the said act and statute made in the fifth year of his most noble reign aforesaid, and every thing therein contained, shall, from the feast of St. Michael the archangel next coming, continue and be good and effectual in every point and article of the same for ever.

II. And furthermore be it enacted and established by the authority aforesaid, for the common wealth of the city of Norwich, and maintenance, supportation and upholding of the houses, tenements and habitations of the same, That no manner of person using the craft or mystery of dying of worsteds, stamins or fays, or any of them, neither by themselves, or any servant, factor, deputy, or any other by his commandment or assignment, from the feast of Christmas now next ensuing, shall use to callender any worsteds, stamins or fays, or any other commodities made of worsted yarn, during all such time as the same person shall use the mystery or craft of dying aforesaid, upon pain to forfeit for every piece so dyed and callendred by colour, covin or fraud, contrary to the true meaning and intent of this present act, xl. s. and to be divided in three equal parts, the one part thereof to the King our sovereign lord, and another part to the mayor for the time being, and the third part to him or them that will sue for the same by bill, action of debt, plaint, information, or otherwise, in any of the King's courts, wherein no essoin, delay or protection shall be allowed.

No person which dyeth worsteds shall callender them.

A bill concerning pewterers.

How pewter-ers ſhall uſe their trade.

19 H. 7. c. 6.
4 H. 8. c. 7.

The cauſe why the trade of pewterers did increate, and now doth decay in this realm.

IN their moſt lamentable wiſe ſhewen, and piteouſly complaining unto the King's moſt royal majeſty, and to this his moſt high court of parliament, the King's moſt humble, poor and obedient ſubjects, the maſter, wardens and poor fellowſhip of the craft and myſtery of the pewterers, as well of the city of London, as of all other places within this realm of England, that where the ſaid craft or myſtery before this time hath been one of the beſt handicrafts within this realm, which hath only grown and continued by mean of divers good acts and ſtatutes made for the true exerciſe of the ſame, whereof one was made in the nineteenth year of the reign of the King's moſt renowned father, (whoſe ſoul God pardon) and one other was made in the fourth year of the King's moſt victorious reign, concerning the crafts of pewterers and braſiers, of and for the true making, mixing and ſelling of good and true pewter and braſen veſſels, and alſo for uſing and exerciſing of true weights and beams, to be occupied by the ſellers of any ſuch pewter or braſen veſſels within this realm, ſo that none of the King's ſubjects, nor any other perſon, ſhould by any ſale of any falſe mixed braſen and pewter veſſel, or any untrue weights, be deceived, as by the ſaid eſtatutes more plainly doth appear; (2) which good ſtatutes, duly put in execution, hath cauſed the ſaid craft to increaſe and multiply, to the great profit and utility of a great number of the King's ſubjects, and the commodity of pewter veſſel much to be had in reputation in all ſtrange regions and countries, until now of late divers evil diſpoſed perſons, being the King's ſubjects born, which have been apprentices, and brought up in the exerciſe of the ſaid craft of pewterers, have now of late, for their ſingular lucre, repaired into ſtrange regions and countries, and there do exerciſe the ſaid craft

of pewterers, teaching strangers not only the cunning of mixing and forging of all manner of pewter vessel, but also do teach all things belonging to the said craft of pewterers, by mean whereof there is not only brought daily into this realm, out of strange regions, to be sold, great number of things made of pewter, untruly mixed and made of tin, wherewith the King's subjects be daily deceived, and the people of strange countries greatly instructed in the cunning of the said craft of pewterers, so that thereby not only a great number and quantity of pewter vessel, and other things of pewter, made in divers sorts and fashions, amounting to a great value, which was daily and continually wont to be carried and conveyed out of this realm by merchants into strange regions and countries, there to be sold and vended, whereby the commodity of tin made into pewter vessel, which hath been had in great estimation, as things very necessary and commodious, and the King's customs thereby much advanced, is now like utterly to cease and decay, and not to be esteemed as heretofore hath been, but also the said craft of pewterers, which at this day setteth and keepeth in work and occupation a great number of people, shall be utterly undone, and a great multitude of the King's natural subjects thereby fall into idleness, to the great impoverishment of this realm, if speedy remedy for the redress of the premisses be not provided; (3) in tender consideration whereof, and for reformation of the premisses, it may please the King's highness, by the assent of the lords spiritual and temporal, and the commons, in this present parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, to ordain and enact, That no person or persons hereafter, at any time now inhabiting, or which hereafter shall inhabit within this realm, shall buy, or otherwise take by exchange for other wares, any manner wares made, or hereafter to be made out of this realm, of tin, or mixt with tin, as platters, dishes, saucers, pots, basons, ewers, flaggons, goblets, salts, saltcellars, spoons, or any other thing made of tin or pewter as aforesaid, whatsoever it be, upon pain of forfeiture of the same ware, in whose hands soever it may be found or taken, and also lawful money current in this realm to the full value thereof; the one half of the same forfeiture to be to the use of the King's highness, the other half to be to the use of the finders of the same.

No person shall buy any wares made of tin out of the realm.

II. And furthermore be it enacted, That it shall be lawful to the master and wardens of the said craft of pewterers, as well within the city of London, as within every other city, borough and town of this realm, where such wardens be, and where no such wardens be to the head officer or governor, head officers or governors of the same city, borough or town for the time being, to appoint divers persons most expert in knowledge of the same, to make search and seizure, and to take into their hands and possessions all such wares as hereafter shall be brought contrary to the true intent and effect of this present act, in whose soever hands or possession any such shall be found.

Officers may search and seize wares brought into this realm contrary to this statute.

III. And also be it enacted by the authority aforesaid, That no person or persons occupying the said craft or occupation of pewterers within this realm, shall set on work, or retain in his or their service, any person or persons to be his or their apprentice or journeyman, being stranger born out of this realm, upon pain to forfeit for every such apprentice and journeyman, x. li. sterling; (2) and that no stranger born out of this realm shall occupy, exercise or use, from the feast of Pentecost next coming, the said craft of pewterers, ne work any manner of vessel, or other ware afore said, to be made of tin or pewter, within any place or places of this realm, upon pain of forfeiture of ten pound sterling, and also upon pain of forfeiture of the same pewter or tin so wrought, in whose hands soever it may be found or taken.

IV. And also be it enacted by authority afore said, That no person or persons being born within this realm, occupying or exercising the said craft of pewterers, shall at any time hereafter resort into any strange regions or countries, there to use, teach or exercise the said craft of pewterers, upon pain to lose the privilege and benefit of an Englishman.

V. And if in case any of the King's subjects at this present time being dwelling in any strange country or region, and there occupying the same craft of pewterers, do not repair into this realm within three months next after request and warning to him to be given, by writing sealed with the common seal of the wardens of the said craft within the said city of London, and here in this realm continually from henceforth dwell and inhabit, that then and from thenceforth he shall be reputed and taken as no Englishman, but shall stand, and be from thenceforth out of the King's protection.

VI. And forasmuch as sundry evil-disposed persons, which commonly been called hawkers, by authority of the King's letters patents or placard, do not only go about from place to place within this realm, using buying and selling of brass and pewter, and by colour and pretence of the same licences or placards, use unlawful and deceivable weights and beams, but also do use to sell both brass and pewter which is not good, nor truly nor lawfully mixt nor wrought, to the great deceit of the King's true liege people, contrary to the form and effect of the said good act and statute made in the said fourth year of the King's most noble reign: (2) be it therefore enacted by authority of this present parliament, That all such licences and placards heretofore had, made or granted, to any such person or persons, contrary to the true meaning, form and effect of this statute, shall be from henceforth, by authority of this present parliament, clearly void and of none effect. (3) And whereas in the said act of parliament, concerning the craft of pewterers and brasiers, made in the said fourth year, for divers causes and considerations in the same act contained, amongst other things it is expressed, That no other person or persons using the said craft of pewterers or brasiers, should from thenceforth sell or change any pewter or brass, new or old, at any place or places within this realm, but only in open fairs or markets, or in their own dwelling-houses, but if they were desired by the buyers of such wares, upon pain of forfeiture for every such default x. li.. (4) Forasmuch as the same forfeiture is to the only use use of the King's highness, and that any party searching or finding the same, is not intituled to have any benefit thereby, it hath not been known that any person or persons have taken any pain to search, or make any enquiry thereof, by reason whereof divers and many evil-disposed persons, using buying and selling both of brass and of pewter, and not regarding the said good act, neither the said penalty, daily go about from village to village, town to town, and from house to house, to sell such pewter and brass which is not good, and also use deceivable weights and beams, as they did before the making of the said act, to the great hurt and deceit of the King's true liege people and subjects:

(5) wherefore be it enacted by the authority aforesaid, That as well the moiety of the said forfeiture of x. li. limited in the said statute made in the said fourth year, as also the moiety of all other forfeitures before expressed, and every of them, be and shall be to the use of the King's highness, his heirs and successors, and the other moiety of the same forfeitures, and every of them, to the use of him or them that shall seize, find or present the said forfeitures, or any of them, or that shall sue for the same in any competent court or courts within this realm, by action of debt, bill, plaint or information, wherein the defendant shall in no wise be admitted to wage his law, nor any protection or essoin to any person or persons, which shall be impeached to have offended contrary to the form and effect of this estatute, shall be allowable. (6) This act to endure to the last day of the next parliament.

II. Pro-

II. Provided alway, That lambs shall not be accounted of the number of the sheep prohibited by this act, so long as they be under the age of a year, and not above.

Lambs under one year old shall not be counted sheep.

III. Provided also, That if any person having sheep of his own, happen to be made executor, or to be administrator to any person which had sheep at his death, or happen to be married to any person which shall happen to have sheep at the time of the marriage, by reason whereof the person so being executor or administrator, or being so married, shall happen by such means to be advanced, and have above the said number of two thousand sheep; that then in every such case the person so advanced to lose no penalty for having above the number of two thousand sheep by such means, so that within one year next after such advancement, the person so advanced, from time to time, as often as any such case shall happen, do put to sale, or otherwise dispose so many of the said sheep so to him advanced, or else of his own sheep that he had before, so that above one year he shall not keep, have or occupy by any such means, or otherwise by any fraud or covin, any more number of them than is before limited by this act, upon the pain before rehearsed.

Sheep coming by executorship or marriage.

IV. Provided also, That if any person by his last will and testament give to any child within age any number of sheep, and appoint them by his said will to be kept by his executors, or by any other person, until such time as the said child shall come to a certain age limited by his will, that then in every such case, after the death of the testator, the said sheep, so being in the possession and occupation of the executors, or of any other person to the use of any such child within age, for that time only that the said child shall be within the age that he shall be limited to have the said sheep by the will of the testator, shall not be accounted against the said executors, nor any person so having the said sheep, for the intent aforesaid, any of the number of the sheep prohibited by this act; any thing in this act to the contrary thereof notwithstanding.

Sheep bequeathed by will to a child within age.

V. And it is further enacted, That the justices of the peace of every shire shall have power and authority to enquire of the offenders of this act, as well by the oaths of twelve men, as by information of any of the King's subjects, and to make such like process upon every presentment or information concerning this act, as they use commonly to do upon presentments before them of trespass; and that no person being convicted by confession or otherwise, that he hath done or attempted contrary to this act, shall be put to any less fine than after the rates of the forfeitures afore limited by this act.

Justices of the peace shall enquire of the offenders of this act.

VI. Provided always, That no person shall be put to any answer or loss of any forfeiture by virtue of this act, at the suit of any the King's subjects, by any original writ of debt, bill, plaint or information, except the suit be commenced within one year next after the offence done or committed contrary to this act: (2) nor that any person shall be put to answer, nor to any loss of any forfeiture by virtue of this act, by reason of Every person temporal may keep upon his inheritance, &c. as many sheep as he will.

VII. Provided always, That all and every person and persons, being the King's temporal subjects of this realm, and born under his obedience, which at this present time, or at any time hereafter shall have or be seised of inheritance, in possession or in use, or that now hath, or hereafter shall have juncture in use or in possession, or be or shall be tenant in dower, or by the curtesy of England, of or in any manors, lands, tenements, pastures, feedings or liberty of foldage within any part of this realm of England, Wales, or the marches of the same, that every such person and persons, having any such possession to his own use, and every such person and persons, to whose use any other person or persons now is or be, or hereafter shall be seised of any such estate, as is before rehearsed, may at all times hereafter have, enjoy, keep and maintain upon the same their own demefn lands, and all other their pastures, feedings and fold-courses, which they so have, as many their own sheep and lambs in number to their own proper use, profit and behoof, as they or any of them of right had, or lawfully might have had and kept upon the same, or upon any part thereof, at any time before the making of this present act, this act, or any thing therein contained or specified to the contrary in any wise notwithstanding.

Two thousand sheep may be kept by any person upon demefns and farms.

VIII. And over that be it enacted by the authority aforesaid, That in case any such person or persons, having any such estate in use or in possession, of or in any manors, lands, tenements, pastures, feedings, or liberties of fold-courses, as is before expressed, have or do keep upon the same their possessions the number of two thousand sheep, or above, the same person or persons so having the number of two thousand sheep, or above, shall not in any wise keep, sustain, or have any sheep above or beside the said number of two thousand upon any lands, pastures or feedings, which the same person or persons have, or hereafter shall have, or take in ferm or otherwise, upon such like pains and forfeitures for the same, as be limited in the said act; that is to say, for every sheep over and above the said number of two thousand, three shillings four-pence: (2) And in case the said demefn lands, tenements, pastures, feedings and liberties of fold-courses of any person or persons before rehearsed, suffice not for the feeding, pasturing and keeping of two thousand sheep, as is aforesaid, that then every such person shall and may have, sustain, or feed upon his said demefn lands, and upon his ferm-holds, which he lawfully may have, to the said number of two thousand sheep, and not above, upon pain of forfeiture for every sheep above that number, iij. s. iv. d.

Sheep for the maintenance of his house above two thousand.

IX. Provided alway, and be it enacted, That it shall be lawful to every person or persons within this realm, keeping a household, to have from time to time such convenient number of sheep over and above the number expressed in this act, as shall be be neceſſary for the only expences of his houſhold, to be provided, kept and fed, in and upon his own lands, or other lands, ſuch as he can or lawfully may have or provide for, in ferm or otherwiſe; any thing in this preſent act contained to the contrary notwithstanding; (2) ſo that the ſame houſholder at no one time ſhall have or keep, for the expences of his houſhold, or by colour of the ſame, over and above the number to him limited by this act, any number of ſheep more than ſhall ſuffice for the only expences of his houſhold for one year, without fraud or covin; any thing in this preſent act mentioned or expreſſed to the contrary notwithstanding.

X. Be it alſo further enacted by the authority aforeſaid, That no manner of perſon or perſons, of what degree ſoever he or they be, being lord or lords, owner or owners, farmer or farmers, of or in any liberty of fold-courſes within any town, tything, village or hamlet within any of the counties of Norfolk and Suffolk, from and after the feaſt of the nativity of our Lord God next coming, ſhall take in farm for term of years, or otherwiſe, any quilletts of lands or paſtures, that is to ſay, any number of acres of land or paſture appertaining to any other perſon or perſons, lying and being within the limit, extent or precinct of the ſaid liberty of the ſaid fold-courſes; (2) but that they ſhall permit and ſuffer the ſaid perſons, having or being, for the time, owner or owners, leſſee or leſſees of the ſaid quilletts, to manure and paſture the ſaid quilletts; (3) and alſo to ſuffer the ſheep of the ſaid owner or owners, farmer or farmers of the ſaid quilletts, after the rate of the ſame quilletts, to go with the flock of the owner, farmer or occupier of the ſaid liberty or liberties of the ſaid fold-courſes, paying the cuſtomary charges for the keeping and feeding of the ſame, after the rate and uſe of the country there commonly uſed, without any interruption therein to be made by the ſaid owner or owners, farmer or farmers, or occupiers of the ſaid liberties, (4) upon pain of forfeiture for every time that any ſuch perſon having any ſuch quillet, that ſhall be ſo letted or diſturbed of feeding, keeping or paſturing any of his ſheep, ſo to be fed and kept after the rate of his ſaid quillet, for every ſuch ſheep iii. s. iv. d.

How fold-courſes in Norfolk ſhall be uſed, and quilletts of land.

XI. Provided alway, That this act, or branch concerning quilletts, or any thing therein contained, ſhall not in any wiſe be available to any tenant, owner or occupier of any ſuch quillet or quilletts, to claim, have, or uſe hereafter any ſuch paſture, or feeding of his ſheep, in or with any ſuch fold-courſes, but only where the tenants, owners and occupiers of any ſuch quilletts have had, or might have had heretofore of right and duty, or uſed to have paſture and feeding in the ſaid fold-courſes, by reaſon of their tenures, and occupations of the ſame quillet and quilletts, and none otherwiſe; (2) and where they have not uſed, ne ought to have any ſheep fed or kept within any ſuch fold-courſes, by reaſon of the ſaid tenures, That the owners or occupiers of ſuch fold-courſes may take ſuch quilletts, lying within their fold-courſes, in farm, agreeing with the owners or occupiers of the ſaid quilletts for the ſame.

To which ſort of quilletts this ſtatute doth extend, and to which not.

Six score of sheep shall be accounted an hundred.

XII. And forasmuch as the number of the C. of sheep in every country be not like, in some country the great C. where six score is accounted for the C. and some country but only five score; it is eft declared by this present act, that the number of two thousand sheep, limited to every person by this act, shall be accounted ten C. for every thousand, after the number of the great hundred, and not after the less hundred, so that every thousand shall contain twelve hundred after the less number of the hundred.

When lambs shall be taken for sheep.

XIII. It is also further provided by the authority aforesaid, That lambs under the age of one whole year, and as much as shall be from the time of the falling of them unto the feast of the nativity of St. John Baptist, in any year to come, shall not be adjudged, ne taken for sheep prohibited in this statute; any thing in this act to the contrary notwithstanding.

No man shall take above
two farms.

7 H. 8. c. 1.

XV. It is also further enacted by authority aforesaid, That the statutes made the fourth year of the noble prince, King Henry the Seventh, and in the seventh year of the reign of our sovereign lord the King that now is, concerning the decay of towns, and maintenance of tillage and husbandry, shall be good and effectual in every thing according to the true purport and intent of the same; any thing in this present act to the contrary notwithstanding.

Spiritual persons.

XVI. Provided also, That it may be lawful to all spiritual persons, and every of them, to keep such and as many sheep upon their own lands, and after such form and manner, and none otherwise, as they might have done afore the making of this act; any thing mentioned in the same to the contrary notwithstanding.

touching bringing into this realm and binding of books.

Bound books brought from beyond ſea prohibited to ſaid be ſold again.

II. And further be it enacted by the authority aforeſaid, That no perſon or perſons, reſiant or inhabitant within this realm, after the ſaid feaſt of Chriſtmas next coming, ſhall buy to ſell again, any printed books, brought from any parts out of the King's obeysance, ready bound in boards, leather or parchment, upon pain to loſe and forfeit for every book bound out of the faid King's obeyfance, and brought into this realm, and bought by any perfon or perfons within the fame to fell again contrary to this act, vi. s. viij. d.

No man fhall buy books by retail brought from beyond fea by any ftranger.

III. And be it further enacted by the authority aforefaid, That no perfon or perfons inhabitant or refiant within this realm, after the faid feaft of Chriftmas, fhall buy within this realm, of any ftranger born out of the King's obedience, other than of denizens, any manner of printed books brought from any the parties beyond the fea, except only by engrofs, and not by retail, upon pain of forfeiture of vi. s. viij. d. for every book fo bought by retail, contrary to the form and effect of this eftatute; (2) the faid forfeitures to be always levied of the buyers of any fuch books contrary to this act; the one half of all the faid forfeitures to be to the ufe of our fovereign lord the King; and the other moiety to be to the party that will feife or fue for the fame in any of the King's courts, be it by bill, plaint or information, wherein the defendant fhall not be admitted to wage his law, nor no protection ne effoin fhall be unto him allowed.

The prices of books exceffively increafed, fhall be qualified by the King's great officers.

IV. Provided alway, and be it enacted by the authority aforefaid, That if any of the faid printers or fellers of printed books, inhabited within this realm, at any time hereafter happen in fuch wife to inhance or increafe the prices of any fuch printed books, in fale or binding, at too high and unreafonable prices, in fuch wife as complaint be made thereof unto the King's highnefs, or unto the lord chancellor, lord treafurer, or any of the chief juftices of the one bench or of the other; that then the fame lord chancellor, lord-treafurer, and two chief juftices, or two of any of them, fhall have power and authority to enquire thereof, as well by the oaths of twelve honeft and difcreet perfons, as otherwife by due examination by their difcretions. (2) And after the fame inhancing and increafing of the faid prices of the faid books and binding fhall be fo found by the faid twelve men, or otherwife by examination of the faid lord chancellor, lord treafurer and juftices, or two of them; that then the fame lord chancellor, lord treafurer and juftices, or two of them at the leaft, from time to time fhall have power and authority to reform and redrefs fuch inhancing of the prices of printed books from time to time by their difcretions, and to limit prices as well of the books as for the binding of them; (3) and over that, the offender or offenders thereof being convict by the examination of the fame lord chancellor, lord treafurer and two juftices, or two of them, or otherwife, fhall lofe and forfeit for every book by them fold, whereof the price fhall be inhanced for the book or binding thereof, three fhillings four pence; the one half thereof fhall be to the King's highnefs, and the other half to the parties grieved that will complain upon the fame in manner and form before rehearfed.

CAP. XVI.

An act that every judge of the high courts may have one chaplain beneficed with cure.

WHERE in the parliament holden at Westminster in the xxi. 21 H. 8. c. 13. year of the reign of our sovereign lord King Henry the Eighth, it was among other things ordained and provided, That certain honourable persons, as well spiritual as temporal shall have chaplains beneficed with cure, to serve them in their honourable houses, which chaplains shall not incur the danger of any penalty or forfeiture made or declared in the same parliament for nonresidence upon their said benefices, or for obtaining licences for dispensations of pluralities: (2) in the which act no provision was made for any of the King's judges of his high courts, commonly called the King's bench and the common pleas, except only for the chief judge of the King's bench, nor for the chancellor nor the chief baron of the King's exchequer, nor for any other inferior persons being of the King's most honourable council, as by the said act may appear.

What persons may have a chaplain beneficed with cure.

II. Wherefore it is ordained and enacted by authority of this present parliament, That as well every judge of the said high courts, and every of the chancellor and chief baron of the said exchequer, the King's general attorney and general solicitor, which for the time is, be, or shall be, shall and may from henceforth at his liberty retain and have singularly to every of them in his house, or attendant to his person, one chaplain having one benefice with cure of souls, which may be absent from his said benefice, and not resident upon the same; the said statute made in the said one and twentieth year, or any other statute, act or ordinance made to the contrary in any wise notwithstanding.

Every of the judges of the King's bench and common pleas, &c. may have one chaplain having one benefice with cure of souls.

An act for clothiers in Worcestershire.

SHEWETH unto the King our sovereign lord, and to the lords spiritual and temporal, and to the commons, in this present parliament assembled, the citizens, burgesses and inhabitants of the city of Worcester, and of the towns of Evesham, Droitwich, Kederminster, and Bromisgrove, within the county of Worcester, That where the said city, boroughs and towns have been in times past well and substantially inhabited, occupied, maintained and upholden by reason of making of woollen cloths, called Long Cloths, Short Cloths and other cloths, as well whites, blues and brown-blues, and the poor people of the same city, boroughs and towns, and of the country adjoining to them, them, daily set a work, as in spinning, carding, breaking and sorting of wools, and the handicrafts there inhabiting, as weavers, fullers, shearmen and dyers, have been well set a work, and had sufficient living by the same, until now within few years passed, that divers persons inhabiting and dwelling in the hamlets, thorps and villages adjoining to the said city, boroughs and towns within the said shire, for their private wealths, singular advantages and commodities, nothing regarding the maintenance and upholding of the said city, boroughs and towns, ne the common wealth of the said handicrafts inhabiting and dwelling within the said city, boroughs and towns, ne the poor people which had living by the same, have not only ingrossed and taken into their hands divers and sundry farms, and become farmers, grafsiers and husbandmen, but also do exercise, use and occupy the mysteries of cloth-making, weaving, fulling and shearing within their said houses, and do make all manner of cloths, as well broadcloths, whites and plain cloths within their said houses in the countries abroad, to the great decay, depopulation and ruin of the said city, towns and boroughs:

What towns only in Worcester-shire shall make cloths.

II. For remedy whereof, and for the amendment and good advancement of the said city, boroughs and towns, be it enacted by authority of this present parliament, That after the last day of September, which shall be in the year of our Lord God 1536. no manner of person ne persons, of what degree or condition soever he or they be of, shall make or cause to be made within the said shire of Worcester, any manner of woollen cloths to be sold, except only such person or persons as after the said last day of September shall be dwelling and inhabiting within the said city of Worcester, the boroughs and towns of Evesham, Droitwich, Kedermister and Bromisgrove within the said county of Worcester, or in any one of them, upon pain of forfeiture for every such broad cloth made after the said day by any person or persons contrary to the true meaning of this act, xl. s.

The rents of the houses in those towns shall not be raised.

III. And be it further enacted by authority aforesaid, That from the feast of Easter, which shall be in the year of our Lord God 1534, no manner of appeals shall be had, provoked, or made out of this realm, or out of any the King's dominions, to the bishop of Rome, nor to the see of Rome, in any causes or matters happening to be in contention, and having their commencement and beginning in any of the courts within this realm,

or within any the King's dominions, of what nature, condition or quality soever they be of; but that all manner of appeals, of what nature or condition soever they be of, or what cause or matter soever they concern, shall be made and had by the parties grieved, or having cause of appeal, after such manner, form and condition, as is limited for appeals to be had and prosecuted within this realm in causes of matrimony, tythes, oblations and obventions, by a statute thereof made and established sithen the beginning of this present parliament, and according to the form and effect of the said statute; any usage, custom, prescription, or any thing or things to the contrary hereof notwithstanding.

IV. And for lack of justice at or in any the courts of the archbishops of this realm, or in any the King's dominions, it shall be lawful to the parties grieved to appeal to the King's majesty in the King's court of chancery; (2) and that upon every such appeal, a commission shall be directed under the great seal to such persons as shall be named by the King's highness, his heirs or successors, like as in case of appeal from the admiral's court, to hear and definitively determine such appeals, and the causes concerning the same. (3) Which commissioners, so by the King's highness, his heirs or successors, to be named or appointed, shall have full power and authority to hear and definitively determine every such appeal, with the causes and all circumstances concerning the same; and that such judgment and sentence, as the said commissioners shall make and decree, in and upon any such appeal, shall be good and effectual, and also definitive; and no further appeals to be had or made from the said commissioners for the same.

Provided also, That such canons, constitutions, ordinances and synodals provincial being already made, which be not contrariant or repugnant to the laws, statutes and customs of this realm, nor to the damage or hurt of the King's prerogative royal, shall now still be used and executed as they were afore the making of this act, till such time as they be viewed, searched, or otherwise ordered and determined by the said two and thirty persons, or the more part of them, according to the tenor, form and effect of this present act.

CAP. XX.

An act for the non-payment of first-fruits to the bishop of Rome.

No first-fruits shall be paid to the bishop of Rome; and within what time a bishop shall be chosen, invested and consecrated. Vide stat. 23 H. 8. c. 10. not in the printed statutes before. Vid. Codex Tit. 5. c. 1.

WHERE futen the beginning of this present parliament, for repress of the exaction of annates and first-fruits of archbishopricks and bishopricks of this realm wrongfully taken by the bishop of Rome, otherwise called the pope, and the see of Rome, it is ordained and established by an act, among other things, That the payments of the annates or first-fruits, and all manner contributions for the same, for any such archbishoprick or bishoprick, or for any bulls to be obtained from the see of Rome, to or for the said purpose or intent, should utterly cease, and no such to be paid for any archbishoprick or bishoprick within this realm, otherwise than in the same act is expressed: (2) and that no manner of person or persons to be named, elected, presented or postulated to any archbishoprick or bishoprick within this realm, should pay the said annates or first-fruits, nor any other manner of sum or sums of money, pensions or annuities for the same, or for any other like exaction or cause, (3) upon pain to forfeit to our sovereign lord the King, his heirs and successors, all manner his goods and chattels for ever, and all the temporal lands and possessions of the said archbishoprick or bishoprick during the time that he or they that should offend contrary to the said act, should have, possess and enjoy the said archbishoprick or bishoprick. (4) And it is further enacted, That if any person named or presented to the see of Rome by the King's highness, or his heirs or successors, to be bishop of any see or diocese within this realm, should happen to be letted, delayed or deferred at the see of Rome from any such bishoprick whereunto he should be so presented, by mean of restraint of bulls of the said bishop of Rome, otherwise called the Pope, and other things requisite to the same, or should be denied at the see of Rome, upon convenient suit made, for any bulls requisite for any such cause, that then every person so presented might or should be consecrated here in England by the archbishop in whose province the said bishoprick shall be; so always, that the same person should be named and presented by the King for the time being to the said archbishop. (5) And if any person being named and presented (as is before said) to any archbishoprick of this realm, making convenient suit, as is aforesaid, should happen to be letted, delayed, deferred or otherwise disturbed from the said archbishoprick, for lack of pall, bulls, or other things to him requisite to be obtained at the see of Rome, that then every such person so named and presented to the archbishop, might and should be consecrated and invested, after presentation made as is aforesaid, by any other two bishops within this realm, whom the King's highness, or any his heirs or successors, Kings of England, would appoint and assign for the same, according and after like manner as divers archbishops and bishops have been heretofore in ancient time by sundry the King's most noble progenitors made, consecrated and invested within this realm. (6) And it is further enacted by the said act, That every archbishop and bishop, being named and presented by the King's highness, his heirs and successors, Kings of England, and being consecrated and invested, as is aforesaid, should be installed accordingly, and should be accepted, taken and reputed, used and obeyed as an archbishop or bishop of the dignity, see or place whereunto he shall be so named, presented and consecrated, and as other like prelates of that province, see or diocese, have been used, accepted, taken and obeyed, which have had and obtained compleatly their bulls and other things requisite in that behalf from the see of Rome, (7) and also should fully and entirely have and enjoy all the spiritualties and temporalities of the said archbishoprick or bishoprick, in as large, ample and beneficial manner, as any of his or their predecessors had or enjoyed in the said archbishoprick or bishoprick, satisfying and yielding unto the King's highness, and to his heirs and successors, all such duties, rights and invests as before-time hath been accustomed to be paid for any such archbishoprick or bishoprick, according to the ancient laws and customs of this realm and the King's prerogative royal, as in the said act amongst other things is more at large mentioned.

One presented to the see of Rome to an archbishoprick, and there letted, may be consecrated by two bishops of England.

II. And albeit the said bishop of Rome, otherwise called the Pope, hath been informed and certified of the effectual contents of the said act, to the intent that by some gentle ways the said exactions might have been redressed and reformed, yet nevertheless the said bishop of Rome hitherto hath made none answer of his mind therein to the King's highness, nor devised nor required any reasonable ways to and with our said sovereign lord for the same: (2) wherefore his most royal majesty of his most excellent goodness, for the wealth and profit of this his realm and subjects of the same, hath not only put his most gracious and royal assent to the foresaid act, but also hath ratified and confirmed the same, and every clause and article therein contained, as by his letters patents under his great seal inrolled in the parliament roll of this present parliament more at large is contained.

The King's consent to the foresaid statute.

III.

No man shall be presented to the see of Rome for the dignity of an archbishop or bishop, nor annates or first-fruits shall be paid to the same see.

The manner of electing an archbishop or bishop.

For default of election by the dean and chapter, the King shall nominate a bishop by his letters patents.

III. And forasmuch as in the said act it is not plainly and certainly expressed in what manner and fashion archbishops and bishops shall be elected, presented, invested and consecrated within this realm, and in all other the King's dominions, (2) be it now therefore enacted by the King our sovereign lord, by the assent of the lords spiritual and temporal, and the commons, in this present parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, That the said act and every thing therein contained shall be and stand in strength, virtue and effect; except only, that no person or persons hereafter shall be presented, nominated or commended to the said bishop of Rome, otherwise called the Pope, or to the see of Rome, to or for the dignity or office of any archbishop or bishop within this realm, or in any other the King's dominions, nor shall send nor procure there for any manner of bulls, breeves, palls or other things requisite for an archbishop or bishop, nor shall pay any sums of money for annates, first-fruits nor otherwise, for expedition of any such bulls, breeves, or palls; but that by the authority of this act, such presenting, nominating or commending to the said bishop of Rome, or to the see of Rome, and such bulls, breeves, palls, annates, first-fruits, and every other sums of money heretofore limited, accustomed or used to be paid at the said see of Rome, for procuracion or expedition of any such bulls, breeves or palls, or other thing concerning the same, shall utterly cease and no longer be used within this realm, or within any the King's dominions; any thing contained in the said act aforementioned, or any use, custom or prescription to the contrary thereof notwithstanding.

IV. And furthermore be it ordained and established by the authority aforesaid, That at every avoidance of every archbishoprick or bishoprick within this realm, or in any other the King's dominions, the King our sovereign lord, his heirs and successors, may grant to the prior and convent, or the dean and chapter of the cathedral churches or monasteries where the see of such archbishoprick or bishoprick shall happen to be void, a licence under the great seal, as of old time hath been accustomed, to proceed to election of an archbishop or bishop of the see so being void, with a letter missive, containing the name of the person which they shall elect and choose: (2) by virtue of which licence the said dean and chapter, or prior or convent, to whom any such licence and letters missive shall be directed, shall with all speed and celerity in due form elect and choose the same person named in the said letters missive, to the dignity and office of the archbishoprick or bishoprick so being void, and none other. (3) And if they do defer or delay their election above twelve days next after such licence or letters missive to them delivered, that then for every such default the King's highness, his heirs and successors, at their liberty and pleasure shall nominate and present, by their letters patents under their great seal, such a person to the said office and dignity so being void, as they shall think able and convenient for the same; (4) and that every such nomination and presentment to be be made by the King's highneſs, his heirs and ſucceſſors, if it be to the office and dignity of a biſhop, ſhall be made to the archbiſhop and metropolitan of the province where the ſee of the ſame biſhoprick is void, if the ſee of the ſaid archbiſhoprick be then full, and not void; and if it be void, then to be made to ſuch archbiſhop or metropolitan within this realm, or in any the King's dominions, as ſhall pleaſe the King's highneſs, his heirs or ſucceſſors: (5) and if any ſuch nomination or preſentment ſhall happen to be made for default of ſuch election to the dignity or office of any archbiſhop, then the King's highneſs, his heirs and ſucceſſors by his letters patents under his great ſeal, ſhall nominate and preſent ſuch perſon as they will diſpoſe to have the ſaid office and dignity of archbiſhoprick being void, to one ſuch archbiſhop and two ſuch biſhops, or elſe to four ſuch biſhops within this realm, or in any of the King's dominions, as ſhall be assigned by our ſaid ſovereign lord, his heirs or ſucceſſors.

V. And be it enacted by the authority aforeſaid, That when- ſoever any ſuch preſentment or nomination ſhall be made by the King's highneſs, his heirs or ſucceſſors, by virtue and authority of this act, and according to the tenor of the ſame; that then every archbiſhop and biſhop, to whoſe hands any ſuch preſentment and nomination ſhall be directed, ſhall with all ſpeed and celerity inveſt and conſecrate the perſon nominate and preſented by the King's highneſs, his heirs or ſucceſſors, to the office and dignity that ſuch perſon ſhall be ſo preſented unto, and give and uſe to him pall, and all other benedictions, ceremonies and things requiſite for the ſame, without ſuing, procuring or obtaining hereafter any bulls or other things at the ſee of Rome, for any ſuch office or dignity in any behalf. (2) And if the ſaid dean and chapter, or prior and convent, after ſuch licence and letters miſſive to them directed, within the ſaid twelve days do elect and chooſe the ſaid perſon mentioned in the ſaid letters miſſive, according to the requeſt of the King's highneſs, his heirs or ſucceſſors, thereof to be made by the ſaid letters miſſive in that behalf, then their election ſhall ſtand good and effectual to all intents; (3) and that the perſon ſo elected, after certification made of the ſame election under the common and covent ſeal of the electors, to the King's highneſs, his heirs or ſucceſſors, ſhall be reputed and taken by the name of lord elected of the ſaid dignity and office that he ſhall be elected unto; (4) and then making ſuch oath and ſealty only to the King's majeſty, his heirs and ſucceſſors, as ſhall be appointed for the ſame, the King's highneſs, by his letters patents under his great ſeal, ſhall ſignify the ſaid election, if it be to the dignity of a biſhop, to the archbiſhop and metropolitan of the province where the ſee of the ſaid biſhoprick was void, if the ſee of the ſaid archbiſhop be full and not void; and if it be void, then to any other archbiſhop within this realm, or in any other the King's dominions; requiring and commanding ſuch archbiſhop, to whom any ſuch ſignification ſhall be made, to confirm the ſaid election, and to inveſt and conſecrate the ſaid perſon

(5) And if the person be elected to the office and dignity of an archbifhop, according to the tenor of this act, then after fuch election certified to the King's highnefs in form aforefaid, the fame person fo elected to the office and dignity of an archbifhop, fhall be reputed and taken lord elect to the faid office and dignity of an archbifhop, whereunto he fhall be fo elected ; (6) and then after he hath made fuch oath and fealty only to the King's majefty, his heirs and fucceffors, as fhall be limited for the fame, the King's highnefs, by his letters patents under his great feal, fhall fignify the faid election to one archbifhop and two other bifhops, or elfe to four bifhops within this realm, or within any other the King's dominions, to be affigned by the King's highnefs, his heirs or fucceffors, requiring and commanding the faid archbifhop and bifhops, with all fpeed and celerity, to confirm the faid election, and to inveft and consecrate the faid person fo elected to the office and dignity that he is elected unto, and to give and use to him fuch pall, benedictions, ceremonies and all other things requisite for the fame, without fuing, procuring or obtaining any bulls, briefs or other things at the faid fee of Rome, or by the authority thereof in any behalf.

This election of a bifhop
fhall be lawful.

VI. And be it further enacted by authority aforefaid, That every person and persons being hereafter chofen, elected, nominate, prefented, invefted and consecrated to the dignity or office of any archbifhop or bifhop within this realm, or within any other the King's dominions, according to the form, tenor and effect of this prefent act, and fuing their temporalties out of the King's hands, his heirs or fucceffors, as hath been accuftomed, and making a corporal oath to the King's highnefs, and to none other, in form as is afore rehearfed, fhall and may from henceforth be thrononied or installed, as the cafe fhall require, (2) and fhall have and take their only reftitution out of the King's hands, of all the poffeffions and profits fpiritual and temporal, belonging to the faid archbifhoprick or bifhoprick whereunto they fhall be fo elected or prefented, and fhall be obeyed in all manner of things, according to the name, title, degree, and dignity that they fhall be fo chofen or prefented unto, and do and execute in every thing and things touching the fame, as any archbifhop or bifhop of this realm, without offending the prerogative royal of the crown and the laws and cuftoms of this realm, might at any time heretofore do.

The penalty
for not electing or not consecrating a bifhop named.

VII. And be it further enacted by the authority aforefaid, That if the prior and covent of any monaftery, or dean and chapter of any cathedral church, where the fee of an archbifhop or bifhop is within any the King's dominions, after fuch licence as is afore rehearfed, fhall be delivered to them, proceed

ceed not to election, and signify the same according to the tenor of this act, within the space of twenty days next after such licence shall come to their hands; (2) or else if any archbishop or bishop, within any the King's dominions, after any such election, nomination or presentation shall be signified unto them by the King's letters patents, shall refuse, and do not confirm, invest and consecrate with all due circumstance as is aforesaid, every such person as shall be so elected, nominate or presented, and to them signified as is abovementioned, within twenty days next after the King's letters patents of such signification or presentation shall come to their hands; (3) or else if any of them, or any other person or persons, admit, maintain, allow, obey, do or execute any censures, excommunications, interdictions, inhibitions, or any other process or act, of what nature, name or quality soever it be, to the contrary, or let of due execution of this act; (4) that then every prior and particular person of his convent, and every dean and particular person of the chapter, and every archbishop and bishop, and all other persons, so offending and doing contrary to this act, or any part thereof, and their aiders, counsellors and abettors, shall run into the dangers, pains and penalties of the estatute of the provision and præmunire, made in the five and twentieth year of the reign of King Edward the Third, and in the sixteenth year of King Richard the Second.

CAP. XXI.

The act concerning Peter-pence and dispensations.

MOST humbly beseeching your most royal Majesty, your obedient and faithful subjects, the commons of this your present parliament assembled, by your most dread commandment, That where your subjects of this your realm, and of other countries and dominions, being under your obedience, by many years past have been, and yet be greatly decayed and impoverished, by such intolerable exactions of great sums of money as have been claimed and taken, and yet continually be claimed to be taken out of this your realm, and other your said countries and dominions, by the bishop of Rome, called the Pope, and the see of Rome, as well in pensions, censures, peter-pence, procurations, fruits, suits for provisions, and expeditions of bulls for archbishopricks and bishopricks, and for delegacies, and rescripts in causes of contentions and appeals, jurisdictions legantine, and also for dispensations, licences, faculties, grants, relaxations, writs called perinde valere, rehabilitations, abolitions, and other infinite sorts of bulls, breeves, and instruments of sundry natures, names and kinds, in great numbers heretofore practised and obtained otherwise than by the laws, laudable uses, and customs of this realm should be permitted; the specialities whereof been over long, large in number, and tedious here particularly to be inserted; (2) wherein the bishop of Rome aforesaid hath not been only to be blamed for his usurpation in the premises, but also for his abusing and beguiling your subjects, pretending and persuading them that he hath power to dispense with all human laws, uses and customs of all realms, in all causes which be called

ſpiritual, which matter hath been uſurped and practiſed by him and his predeceſſors for many years, in great derogation of your imperial crown and authority royal, contrary to right and conſcience ; (3) for where this your Grace's realm recogniſing no ſuperior under God, but only your Grace, hath been and is free from ſubjection to any man's laws, but only to ſuch as have been deviſed, made and obtained within this realm, for the wealth of the ſame, or to ſuch other as by ſufferance of your Grace and your progenitors, the people of this your realm have taken at their free liberty, by their own conſent to be uſed amongſt them, and have bound themſelves by long uſe and cuſtom to the obſervance of the ſame, not as to the obſervance of laws of any foreign prince, potentate or prelate, but as to the cuſtomed and ancient laws of this realm, originally eſtabliſhed as laws of the ſame, by the ſaid ſufferance, conſents and cuſtom, and none otherwiſe : (4) it ſtandeth therefore with natural equity and good reaſon, that in all and every ſuch laws human made within this realm, or induced into this realm by the ſaid ſufferance, conſents and cuſtom, your royal Maſteſty, and your lords ſpiritual and temporal, and commons, repreſenting the whole ſtate of your realm, in this your moſt high court of parliament, have full power and authority, not only to diſpenſe, but alſo to authorize ſome elect perſon or perſons to diſpenſe with thoſe, and all other human laws of this your realm, and with every one of them, as the quality of the perſons and matter ſhall require ; (5) and alſo the ſaid laws, and every of them, to abrogate, annul, amplify or diminifh, as it ſhall be ſeen unto your Maſteſty, and the nobles and commons of your realm preſent in your parliament, meet and convenient for the wealth of your realm, as by divers good and wholeſome acts of parliaments, made and eſtabliſhed as well in your time, as in the time of your moſt noble progenitors, it may plainly and evidently appear ; (6) and becauſe that it is now in theſe days preſent ſeen, that the ſtate, dignity, ſuperiority, reputation and authority of the ſaid imperial crown of this realm, by the long ſufferance of the ſaid unreaſonable and uncharitable uſurpations and exactions practiſed in the times of your moſt noble progenitors, is much and ſore decayed and diminifhed, and the people of this realm thereby impoveriſhed, and ſo or worſe be like to continue, if remedy be not therefore ſhortly provided :

II. It may therefore pleaſe your moſt noble Maſteſty, for the honour of Almighty God, and for the tender love, zeal and affection that ye bear, and always have borne to the wealth of this your realm and ſubjects of the ſame, forasmuch as your Maſteſty is ſupreme head of the church of England, as the prelates and clergy of your realm, repreſenting the ſaid church, in their ſynods and convocations have recognized, in whom conſiſteth full power and authority, upon all ſuch laws as have been made and uſed within this realm, to ordain and enact, by the aſſent of your lords ſpiritual and temporal, and the commons in this your preſent parliament aſſembled, and by authority of the ſame, That no perſon or perſons of this your realm, or of any other your dominions, ſhall from henceforth pay any penſions, cenſes, portions, Peter-pence or any other impoſitions, to the uſe of the ſaid biſhop, or the ſee of Rome, like as heretofore they have uſed, by uſurpation of the ſaid biſhop of Rome and and his predecessors, and sufferance of your Highness, and your most noble progenitors, to do; (2) but that all such pensions, censures, portions and Peter-pence, which the said bishop of Rome, otherwise called the Pope, hath heretofore taken and perceived, or caused to be taken and perceived to his use, and his chambers, which he calleth apostolick, by usurpation and sufferance, as is abovesaid, within this your realm, or any other your dominions, shall from henceforth clearly surcease, and never more be levied, taken, perceived nor paid to any person or persons in any manner of wise; any constitution, use, prescription or custom to the contrary thereof notwithstanding.

III. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That neither your Highness, your heirs nor successors, Kings of this realm, nor any your subjects of this realm, nor of any other your dominions, shall from henceforth sue to the said bishop of Rome, called the Pope, or to the see of Rome, or to any person or persons having or pretending any authority by the same, for licences, dispensations, compositions, faculties, grants, rescripts, delegacies, or any other instruments or writings, of what kind, name, nature, or quality soever they be of, for any cause or matter, for the which any licence, dispensation, composition, faculty, grant, rescript, delegacy, instrument, or other writing, heretofore hath been used and accustomed to be had and obtained at the see of Rome, or by authority thereof, or of any prelates of this realm; (2) nor for any manner of other licences, dispensations, compositions, faculties, grants, rescripts, delegacies, or any other instruments or writings that in causes of necessity may be lawfully granted without offending of the holy scriptures and laws of God; (3) but that from henceforth every such licence, dispensation, composition, faculty, grant, rescript, delegacy, instrument and other writing afore named and mentioned, necessary for your Highness, your heirs and successors, and your and their people and subjects, upon the due examinations of the causes and qualities of the persons procuring such dispensations, licences, compositions, faculties, grants, rescripts, delegacies, instruments or other writings, shall be granted, had or obtained, from time to time, within this your realm, and other dominions, and not elsewhere, (4) in manner and form following, and none otherwise; that is to say, the archbishop of Canterbury for the time being, and his successors, shall have power and authority, from time to time, by their discretions, to give, grant and dispose, by an instrument under the seal of the said archbishop, unto your Majesty, and to your heirs and successors, Kings of this realm, as well all manner such licences, dispensations, compositions, faculties, grants, rescripts, delegacies, instruments and all other writings, for causes not being contrary or repugnant to the holy scriptures and laws of God, as heretofore hath been used and accustomed to be had and obtained by your Highness, or any your most noble progenitors, or any of your or their subjects, at the see of Rome, or any person or persons by au-

IV. Be it also enacted by authority aforesaid, That the said archbishop and his successors, after good and due examination, by them had, of the causes and qualities of the persons procuring for licences, dispensations, compositions, faculties, delegacies, rescripts, instruments or other writings, shall have full power and authority by themselves, or by their sufficient and substantial commissary or deputy, by their discretions, from time to time, to grant and dispose, by an instrument under the name and seal of the said archbishop, as well to any of your subjects, as to the subjects of your heirs and successors, all manner licences, dispensations, faculties, compositions, delegacies, rescripts, instruments, or other writings, for any such cause or matter, whereof heretofore such licences, dispensations, compositions, faculties, delegacies, rescripts, instruments or writings, have been accustomed to be had at the see of Rome, or by the authority thereof, or of any prelate of this realm.

V. And that the said archbishop and his commissary, shall not grant any other licence, dispensation, composition, faculty, writing, or instrument, in cases unwont, and not accustomed to be had or obtained at the court of Rome, nor by authority thereof, nor by any prelate of this realm, until your Grace, your heirs and successors, or your or their council shall first be advertised thereof, and determine whether such licences, dispensations, compositions, faculties, or other writings in such cases unwont and not accustomed to be dispensed withal, or obtained, shall commonly pass as other dispensations, faculties, or other writings, shall or no, (2) upon pain that the grantors of every such licence, dispensation, or writing, in such cases unwont, contrary to this act, shall make fine at the will and pleasure of your Grace, your heirs and successors; (3) and if it be thought and determined by your Grace, your heirs or successors, or your or their council, that dispensations, faculties, licences, or other writings, in any such cause unwont, shall pass, then the said archbishop or his commissary, having licence of your Highness, your heirs or successors for the same, by your or their bill assigned, shall dispense with them accordingly.

VI. Provided always, That no manner of dispensations, licences, faculties, or other rescripts or writings hereafter to be granted to any person or persons, by virtue or authority of this act, by the said archbishop or his commissary being of such importance, that the tax of the expedition thereof at Rome extended to the sum of four pounds or above, shall in any wise be put put in execution, till the same licence, dispensation, faculty, rescript, or other writing, of what name or nature soever it be of, be first confirmed by your Highness, your heirs or successors, Kings of this realm, under the great seal, and enrolled in your chancery in a roll, by a clerk to be appointed for the same; (2) and that this act shall be a sufficient warrant to the chancellor of England for the time being, or to him whom your Grace, your heirs or successors, shall depute to be keeper of the great seal, to confirm in your name, your heirs or successors, the foresaid writings, passed under the said archbishop's seal, by letters patents, in due form thereof to be made under your great seal, remitting as well the said writing under the archbishop's seal, as the said confirmation under the great seal, to the parties from time to time procuring for the same; (3) and that all such licences, dispensations, faculties, and other rescripts and writings, for the expedition of the which the said taxes to be paid at Rome, was under iv. li. which be matters of no great importance, shall pass only by the archbishop's seal, and shall not of any necessity be confirmed by the great seal, unless the procurers of such licence, faculty or dispensation, desire to have them so confirmed; (4) in which case they shall pay for the said great seal, to the use of your Highness, your heirs and successors, v. s. sterling, and not above, over and besides such taxes as shall be hereafter limited for the making, writing, registering, confirming and inrolling of such licences, confirmations, and writings under the said tax of iv. li.

What dispensations may be granted by the archbishop without the King's confirmation.

VII. And that every such licence, dispensation, composition, faculty, rescript and writing, of what name or nature soever it be, for such causes as the tax was wont to be iv. li. or above, so granted by the archbishop, and confirmed under the great seal, and all other licences, dispensations, faculties, rescripts, and writings hereafter to be granted by the archbishop by virtue and authority of this act, whereunto the great seal is not limited of necessity to be put to, by reason that the tax of them is under iv. li. shall be accepted, approved, allowed, and admitted good and effectual in the law, in all places, courts and jurisdictions, as well spiritual as temporal, within this realm, and elsewhere within your dominions, and as beneficial to the persons obtaining the same, as they should have been if they had been obtained, with all things requisite, of the see of Rome, or of any other person by authority thereof, without any revocation or repeal hereafter to be had of any such licences, dispensations, faculties, rescripts or writings, of what nature soever they be.

All acts done by virtue of any of the foresaid licences shall be good and of force in law.

VIII. And that all children procreated after solemnization of any marriages to be had or done by virtue of such licences or dispensations, shall be admitted, reputed, and taken legitimate in all courts, as well spiritual as temporal, and in all other places, and inherit the inheritance of their parents and ancestors within this your realm, and all other your dominions, according to the laws and customs of the same; (2) and all acts to be done, had or executed according to the tenor of such licences, dispensations, faculties, writings, or other instruments, to be made or granted by authority of this act, shall be firm, permanent, and remain in force; any foreign laws, constitutions, decrees, canons, decretals, inhibitions, use, custom, prescription, or any other thing had, or hereafter to be made to the contrary notwithstanding.

A clerk to register dispensations appointed by the archbishop.

A clerk assigned by the King to write confirmations.

IX. And be it further enacted, That the said archbishop and his successors, shall have power and authority to ordain, make, and constitute a clerk, which shall write and register every such licence, dispensation, faculty, writing, or other instrument to be granted by the said archbishop, and shall find parchment, wax, and silken laces convenient for the same, and shall take for his pains such sums of money as shall be hereafter in this present act to him limited in that behalf for the same; (2) and that likewise your Grace, your heirs and successors, shall by your letters patents, under your great seal, ordain, depute and constitute one sufficient clerk, being learned in the course of the chancery, which shall always be attendant upon the lord chancellor, or the lord keeper of the great seal, for the time being, and shall make, write and inroll the confirmations of all such licences, dispensations, instruments or other writing as shall be thither brought under the archbishop's seal, there to be confirmed and enrolled; and shall also intitle in his books, and inroll of record, such other writings as shall thither be brought under the archbishop's seal, not to be confirmed, taking for his pains such reasonable sums of money as hereafter by this act to him shall be limited for the same; (3) and that as well the said clerk appointed by the said archbishop, as the said clerk to be appointed by your Highness, your heirs or successors, shall subscribe their names to every such licence, dispensation, faculty, or other writing that shall come to their hands to be written made, granted, sealed, confirmed, registered, and inrolled by authority of this act, in form as is before rehearsed.

The charges qualified which had wont to be spent in obtaining dispensations and licences from Rome.

X. And forasmuch as the charges of obtaining the said licences, dispensations, faculties, and other rescripts or writings aforesaid, at the court of Rome, by the losses and exchanges, and in conducting of curriers, and waging solicitors to sue for any such licences, dispensations, faculties, instruments, and other rescripts or writings, have been grievous and excessive to your people, and many times greater sums have been demanded for the speedy expedition in the court of Rome, than be expressed in the old tax limited to be paid for the said expeditions, whereby your people hath been brought to an uncertainty upon the payment for expeditions of such things, and by reason thereof have been constrained to pay more than they were wont to do, to the great impoverishing of this realm, as is aforesaid: (2) and sometimes the speeding of such dispensations, faculties, licences and other writings at Rome hath been so long deferred, that the parties labouring for the same have suffered great incommodities and loss for lack of quick speed, which hereafter may be had with'in this your realm, to the great great commodity of your people, whereby the charges of making exchanges, conducting of currors and solicitors, for the said dispensations, shall be abated, and your people so much relieved and eased; to the intent that all ambiguity, and uncertainty of payments for dispensations, faculties, licences, and other rescripts and writings, may be taken away, that no fraud or exaction shall be exercised upon your people, by such officers as shall be appointed by this act, to take pains in speeding such dispensations, faculties and licences, but that your people may be sure and certain what they be appointed to pay for the same :

XI. Be it enacted by this present parliament, and by the authority of the same, That there shall be two books drawn and made of one tenor, in which shall be contained the taxes of all customable dispensations, faculties, licences and other writings wont to be sped at Rome, which books, and every leaf of those books, and both sides of every leaf, shall be subscribed by the archbishop of Canterbury, the lord chancellor of England, the lord treasurer of England, and the two chief justices of both benches for the time being; to the which books all suitors for dispensations, faculties, licences, and other writings afore rehearsed, shall have recourse if they require it; (2) and one of the said books shall remain in the hands of him which shall be appointed to be register and scribe of the said dispensations, faculties and licences, under the said archbishop of Canterbury, in form as is before said; (3) and the other book shall remain with the clerk of the chancery, which by your Grace, your heirs or successors shall be appointed, as is before rehearsed; (4) which clerk of the chancery shall also intitle, and note particularly and daily, in his book ordained for that purpose, the number and qualities of the dispensations, faculties, licences, and other rescripts and writings, which shall be sealed only with the seal of the said archbishop, and also which shall be sealed with the said seal, and confirmed with the great seal, in form as is before said, that all fraud and concealment in this behalf may be avoided.

XII. And be it enacted by this present parliament, and by the authority of the same, That no man suing for dispensations, faculties, licences, or other rescripts or writings, which were wont to be sped at Rome, shall pay any more for their dispensations, licences or rescripts, than shall be contained, taxed and limited in the said duplicate books of taxes, only compositions excepted, of which being arbitrary, no tax can be made, wherefore the tax thereof shall be set and limited by the discretion of the said archbishop of Canterbury, and the lord chancellor of England, or the lord keeper of the great seal for the time being; (2) and that such as shall exact or receive of any suitor more for any dispensation, faculty, or licence, than shall be contained in the said books of taxes, shall forfeit ten times so much as he shall so extortiously exact and receive; the one half of the which forfeiture to be to the use of your Grace, your heirs or successors, and the other half thereof to be to such of your subjects

Two books shall be made wherein the taxes of dispensations shall be written.

The fees of dispensations, faculties, licences, &c.

The penalty of extortion in officers.

jects as will sue for the same by action, bill or plaint in any of your Grace's courts, wherein the defendant shall have none es-join nor protection allowed, neither shall be admitted to wage his law.

How the tax for every dispensation, faculty or other writing, shall be divided.

XIII. Be it also enacted by this parliament, and by authority of the same, That the tax or sum appointed to be paid for every such dispensation, licence, faculty, instrument, rescript, or other writing to be granted by authority of this act, shall be employed and ordered, as hereafter ensueth: that is to say, if the tax extend to iv. li. or above, by reason whereof the dispensation, licence, faculty, rescript or writing, which shall pass by the said archbishop's seal, must be confirmed by the appension of the great seal, then the said tax so extending to iv. li. or above, shall be divided into three parts, whereof two shall be perceived by the said clerk of the chancery (to be appointed as is aforesaid) to the use of your Highness, your heirs and successors, and to the use of the lord chancellor, or the keeper of the great seal for the time being, and to the use of the said clerk, in such wise as shall hereafter be declared; (2) and that the third part shall be taken by the said clerk of the archbishop, to the use of the same archbishop and his commissary, and his said clerk and register, in such wise as shall hereafter be ordered and limited by this act; that is to say, the said two parts shall be divided into four parts, of which three parts shall be taken to the only use of your Highness, your heirs and successors, (3) and the fourth part shall be divided into three parts, whereof the chancellor of England, or lord keeper of the great seal for the time being, shall have two parts, and the said clerk of the chancery the third part for his pains, travel and labours that he is limited to write and do by virtue of this act; (4) and the said third part of the whole tax appointed to the said archbishop, and his officers, (as is aforesaid) shall be divided into three parts, whereof the archbishop shall have to his use two parts, and his officers shall have the third part thereof; (5) of which third part to be divided into two parts, the said clerk or register, which shall find parchment, wax and silk, and shall devise and write the said dispensations, licences, faculties, rescripts or other writings, and register the same, shall have for his said labour, and for receiving and repaying of the sums of money that shall come to his hands for dispensations, faculties, licences and other rescripts aforesaid, the one moiety thereof, (6) and the commissary of the said archbishop appointed to seal the said dispensations, faculties, licences, and other rescripts, shall have the other part.

If the tax be under iv. li.
and not under
xl. s.

XIV. And if the tax be under iv. li. and not under xl. s., then the said tax shall be divided into three parts, as is aforesaid, whereof the King's highness, his heirs and successors, shall have two parts thereof, abating iii. s. iv. d. which shall be to the said clerk of the chancery for subscribing, intituling and inrolling the said dispensations, licences, faculties, rescripts, and other writings aforesaid, and receiving of the King's money

ney fo taxed; (2) and the archbifhop and his officers fhall have the third part, which third part fhall be divided into two parts, whereof the archbifhop fhall have the one entirely to himfelf, his fcribe and commiffary fhall have the other part thereof, equally to be divided amongft them for their cofts and pains in that behalf; (3) and if the tax be under xl.s. and not under xxvi.s. viii.d. the fame tax fhall be divided into two parts, whereof the one part fhall be to your Grace, your heirs and fucceffors, deducting thereof ii. s. for the clerk of the chancery for his pains, as is aforefaid; (4) and the other part fhall be to the faid archbifhop and his officers, which other part fhall be divided into two parts, whereof the archbifhop fhall have the one, and his commiffary and fcribe fhall have the other, equally divided amongft them; (5) and if the tax be under xxvi. s. viii. d. and not under xx. s. the fame fhall be divided into two parts, whereof your Grace, your heirs and fucceffors fhall have one part entirely, abating ii. s. thereof to the faid clerk of the chancery; (6) and the archbifhop and his officers fhall have the other part, and the fame other part fhall be divided into three parts, whereof the archbifhop fhall have one, his commiffary the fecond, and his fcribe or register the third; (7) and in cafe the tax be under xx. s. the fame fhall be perceived to the ufe of the faid commiffary, clerk of the faid archbifhop, and clerk of the chancery, to be equally divided amongft them for their pains and labours by them to be fufained, by authority of this act, as aforefaid.

If the tax be under xl. s. and not under xxvi. s. viij. d.

If the tax be under xxvi. s. viij. d. and not under xx. s.

XV. Provided always, That this act fhall not be prejudicial to the archbifhop of York, or to any bifhop or prelate of this realm; but that they may lawfully (notwithftanding this act) difpenfe in all cafes in which they were wont to difpenfe by the common law or cuftom of this realm afore the making of this act.

Dispensations by other prelates.

XVI. Provided alfo, and be it enacted by the authority aforefaid, That if it happen the fee of the archbifhoprick of Canterbury to be void, that then all fuch manner of licences, difpenfations, faculties, instruments, refcripts and other writings, which may be granted by virtue and authority of this act, fhall (during the vacation of the fame fee) be had, done and granted under the name and feal of the guardian of the fpiritualties of the faid archbifhoprick for the time being, according to the tenor and form of this act, and fhall be of like force, value and effect, as if they had been granted under the name and feal of the archbifhop for the time being.

Dispensation by the guardian of the spiritualties.

XVII. And be it further enacted, That if the aforefaid archbifhop of Canterbury for the time being, or the faid guardian of the fpiritualties for the time being, hereafter refufe or deny to grant any licences, difpenfations, faculties, instruments, or other writings, which they be authorized to do by virtue and authority of this act, in fuch manner and form as is afore remembred, to any perfon or perfons that ought, upon a good, juft and reafonable caufe, to have the fame, by reafon whereof this prefent act, by their their wilfulneſs, negligence or default, ſhould take no effect; then the chancellor of England, or the lord keeper of the great ſeal for the time being, upon any complaint thereof made, ſhall direct the King's writ to the ſaid archbiſhop or guardian denying or refuſing to grant ſuch licences, diſpenſations, faculties or other writings, enjoining him by the ſaid writ, upon a certain pain therein to be limited by the diſcretion of the ſaid chancellor or keeper of the great ſeal, that he ſhall in due form grant ſuch licence, diſpenſation, faculty or other writing, according to the requeſt of the procurers of the ſame, or elſe ſignify unto your Highneſs, your heirs or ſucceſſors, in the court of chancery at a certain day, for what occaſion or cauſe he refuſed and denied to grant ſuch licences, faculties or diſpenſations; (2) and if it ſhall appear to the ſaid chancellor or lord keeper of the great ſeal, upon ſuch certificate, that the cauſe of refuſal or denial of granting ſuch licences, faculty or diſpenſation was reaſonable, juſt and good, that then it ſo being proved by due ſearch and examination of the ſaid chancellor, or lord keeper of the great ſeal, to be admitted and allowed. (3) And if it ſhall appear upon the ſaid certificate, that the ſaid archbiſhop or guardian of the ſpiritualties for the time being, of wilfulneſs in contemning the due execution of this act, without a juſt and reaſonable cauſe, refuſed or denied to grant ſuch licence, faculty or diſpenſation, that then your Highneſs, your heirs or ſucceſſors, being thereof informed, after due examination had, that ſuch licences, faculties or diſpenſations, may be granted without offending the holy ſcriptures and laws of God, ſhall have power and authority in every ſuch caſe, for the default, negligence and wilfulneſs of the ſaid archbiſhop or guardian, to ſend your writ of injunction under your great ſeal, out of your ſaid court of chancery, commanding the archbiſhop or guardian that ſhall ſo deny or refuſe to grant ſuch licence, faculty or diſpenſation, to make ſufficient grant thereof, according to the tenor and effect of this act, by a certain day, and under a certain pain in the ſaid writ to be contained, and to be limited by your Highneſs, your heirs or ſucceſſors, Kings of this realm. (4) And if the ſaid archbiſhop or guardian, after the receipt of the ſaid writ, refuſe or deny to grant ſuch licences, faculties or diſpenſations, as ſhall be enjoined him by virtue of the ſaid writ, and ſhew and prove before your Maſteſty, your heirs or ſucceſſors, no juſt or reaſonable cauſe why he ſhould do ſo; then the ſaid archbiſhop or guardian that ſhall ſo refuſe to put this act in execution according to the ſaid writ of injunction, ſhall ſuffer, loſe and forfeit to your Highneſs, your heirs and ſucceſſors, ſuch pain and penalty as ſhall be limited and expreſſed in the ſaid writ of injunction. (5) And over that, it ſhall be lawful to your Highneſs, your heirs and ſucceſſors, for every ſuch default and wilfulneſs of the ſaid archbiſhop or guardian for the time being, to give power and authority, by commiſſion under your great ſeal, to two ſuch ſpiritual prelates or perſons to be named by your Highneſs, your heirs or ſucceſſors, as will do and grant ſuch licences, faculties and diſpenſapenfations, refused or denied to be granted by the said archbishop or guardian in contempt of this act.

XVIII. And be it further enacted by authority aforesaid, That the said twospiritual prelates or persons, to whom in such cases any such commission shall be directed, shall have power and authority to grant every such licence, faculty, dispensation, instrument and other writings, so refused to be granted by the said archbishop or guardian for the time being by any instrument under their seals, taking like fees and charges for the same as is before rehearsed, and not above, under the pains afore remembred. (2) And that every such licence, faculty and dispensation so granted for any cases or matters, whereunto any confirmation under the King's great seal is appointed by this act, to be had in manner and form above declared, shall be had and obtained accordingly. (3) And such licences and confirmation shall be had for like fees and charges as they are above specified, and not above, under the pains abovementioned. (4) And that every such licence, faculty, dispensation and other writing, to be granted by the said prelates or persons to be assigned by the King's highness, his heirs and successors, as is aforesaid, shall be of as good value, strength and effect, and as beneficial and profitable to the persons procuring the same, as if they had been made, granted and obtained under the name and seal of the said archbishop.

Dispensations granted by other spiritual prelates.

XIX. Provided always, That this act, nor any thing or things therein contained, shall be hereafter interpreted or expounded, that your Grace, your nobles and subjects intend by the same to decline or vary from the congregation of Christ's church in any things concerning the very articles of the catholick faith of Christendom, or in any other things declared by holy scripture and the word of God, necessary for your and their salvations, (2) but only to make an ordinance by policies necessary and convenient to repress vice, and for good conservation of this realm in peace, unity and tranquillity, from ravin and spoil, insuing much the old antient customs of this realm in that behalf; not minding to seek for any relief, succours or remedies for any worldly things and human laws, in any cause of necessity, but within this realm at the hands of your Highness, your heirs and successors, Kings of this realm, which have and ought to have an imperial power and authority in the same, and not obliged in any worldly causes to any other superior.

The King and the realm do not mean to vary from the articles of the catholick faith of Christendom.

XX. Provided alway, That the said archbishop of Canterbury, or any other person or persons, shall have no power or authority by reason of this act, to visit or vex any monasteries, abbeys, priories, colleges, hospitals, houses or other places religious, which be or were exempt before the making of this act; any thing in this act to the contrary thereof notwithstanding; (2) but that redress, visitation and confirmation shall be had by the King's highness, his heirs and successors, by commission under the great seal, to be directed to such persons as shall be appointed requisite for the same, in such monasteries, colleges, hospitals, priories, houses and places religious exempt: (3) so that no visitation nor confirmation shall from thenceforth be had or made, in or at any such monasteries, colleges, hospitals, priories, houses and places religious exempt by the said bishop of Rome, nor by any of his authority, nor by any out of the King's dominions; (4) nor that any person, religious or other, residing in any the King's dominions, shall from henceforth depart out of the King's dominions to or for any visitation, congregation or assembly for religion, but that all such visitations, congregations and assemblies shall be within the King's dominions.

The King by commission may visit colleges, hospitals and places exempt, and not the archbishop of Canterbury.

None shall go forth of England to general councils.

This act shall not derogate from the statute of 21 H. 8. c. 13. touching pluralities of benefices, non-residence, &c.

XXI. Provided also, That this present act, or any thing therein contained, or any licence or dispensation hereafter to be made by virtue or authority thereof, shall not extend to the repeal or derogation of the late act made sixth the beginning of this present parliament for reformation of pluralities of benefices, and for non-residences of spiritual persons upon their dignities or benefices, nor to any thing contained or mentioned in the said act; (2) nor that this act, nor any thing to be done by authority thereof, shall not be taken, expounded or interpreted to give licence to any person or persons to have any more number of benefices than is limited in the said act; (3) and that the same act for pluralities and non-residencies of benefices, and every thing therein contained, shall stand good and effectual in all intents, according to the true meaning thereof; any thing in this present act, or any licence or dispensation to be had by authority thereof, in any wise notwithstanding.

XXII. And be it further enacted by authority aforesaid, That if any person or persons, subject or residing within this realm, or within any of the King's dominions, at any time hereafter sue to the court of Rome, or the see of Rome, or to any person claiming to have his authority by the same, for any licence, faculty, dispensation, or other thing or things contrary to this act, or put in execution any licence, faculty, dispensation, or any other thing or things hereafter to be obtained from Rome, or the see of Rome, or from any claiming authority by the same, for any of the causes abovementioned in this act, or for any other causes that may be granted by authority of this act, or attempt, or do any thing or things contrary to this act, or maintain, allow, admit, or obey any manner of censures, excommunications, interdictions, or any other process from Rome, of what name or nature soever it be, to the derogation or let of the execution of this act, or of any thing or things to be done by reason of the said act; that then every such person or persons so doing, offending, and being thereof convicted, their aiders, counsellors and abettors, shall incur and run into the pain, loss and penalty comprised and specified in the act of provision and Præmunire, made in the sixteenth year of your most noble progenitor, King Richard the Second, against such as sue to the court of Rome, against your crown and dignity royal.

XXIII. Pro-

XXIII. Provided alway, That this act, or any thing therein contained, shall not hereafter be taken nor expounded to the derogation or taking away of any grants, or confirmations of any liberties, privileges, or jurisdiction of any monasteries, abbeys, priories, or other houses, or places exempt, which heretofore the making of this act hath been obtained at the see of Rome, or by authority thereof, but that every such grant and confirmation shall be of the same value, force and effect, as they were before the making of this act, and as if this act had never been made. (2) Provided always, That the abbots, priors, and other chief rulers and governors of such monasteries, abbeys, priories and other houses, and places exempt, shall not hereafter pay any pension, portion, or other cense to the see of Rome; (3) nor admit or accept any visitation, nor any confirmation from or by the said see of Rome, or by authority thereof, of or for any person to be elected, named, or presented to be heads of any such monasteries, abbeys, priories, places or houses exempt; nor shall make any corporal oath to the bishop of Rome, otherwise called the Pope, upon the pains limited in this act: (4) but that every such visitation, and confirmation of such heads elect in any such monasteries, abbeys, priories, houses or places exempt, where after their election they were bounden to have and obtain any confirmation of their election, or of the person named, presented or elect, shall be from henceforth had, made and done within this realm, at and within every such abbeys, monasteries, priories, and other houses and places exempt, by such person and persons as shall be appointed, by authority of the King's commission, from time to time, as the case shall require, and not by the see of Rome, nor by authority thereof; any thing in this next proviso above specified to the contrary thereof notwithstanding.

XXIV. Provided always, That in such monasteries, abbeys, priories and houses exempt, where after election, presentation or nomination of their heads, no such confirmation is requisite to be had, nor hath been used to be taken by reason of such privileges as they have concerning the same, that in every such monasteries, abbeys, priories and places exempt, they shall not be bounden to obtain, have or take any confirmation for the same within this realm, by authority of this act, but use their privileges therein as they have done before the making of this act; any thing in this act, or any the provisos next above rehearsed, to the contrary thereof notwithstanding.

XXV. Provided also and be it enacted, That this act, or any thing or things, word or words therein, or in the preamble thereof mentioned or contained, is not intended or meant, nor shall be expounded nor interpreted, that any dispensations, licences or confirmations for marriages, granted to any the King's subjects born under his obeyfance, at any time before the twelfth day of March in the year of our Lord God 1532. shall be appaired, or of any less value, strength, force or effect, than they were at the said twelfth day of March; (2) nor that this act, or any thing therein contained, shall not extend to the derogation,

XXVIII. Provided alway, and be it enacted by authority of this prefent parliament, That this prefent act, or any thing or things therein contained, fhall not begin to take effect nor be put in execution till the feaft of the nativity of St. John Baptift next coming, except the King's majefty, on this fide the faid feaft, feast, by his letters patents under his great seal to be inrolled in the parliament roll of this present parliament, do declare and expreſs, that it is his pleasure that it shall begin and take effect at any time afore the said feast; and if his Highness happen so to do, that then, immediately after such declaration of his pleasure by his said letters patents in form aforeſaid, this said act shall begin and be put in execution afore the said feast, according to his said pleasure so to be declared by his said letters patents; any thing in this proviso to the contrary hereof notwithstanding.

XXIX. And be it further enacted by authority aforeſaid, That the King's majesty at all times on this ſide the said feast shall have full power and authority, by his letters patents under his great seal to be inrolled in the parliament roll of this present parliament, to abrogate, adnull and utterly repeal and make void this act and every thing and things therein contained, or else as much and ſuch part thereof as shall be declared and limited on this ſide the said feast by his letters patents to be void and repealed; and that all ſuch repeal and adnullation ſo to be made in form aforeſaid by his Highness on this ſide the said feast, shall be as good and effectual as though it had been done and had by authority of parliament; any thing or things contained in this present act to the contrary hereof notwithstanding; and if no ſuch repeal be had or made by the King's majesty on this ſide the said feast, in form as is afore rehearſed, that then the said act, or as much and ſuch part thereof as shall not be repealed on this ſide the said feast, shall immediately after the said feast stand firm, good and effectual, and from thenceforth be put in due execution according to the tenor thereof; any thing in this act or in any the provisions aforeſaid to the contrary hereof notwithstanding.

CAP. XXII.

An act concerning the King's ſucceſſion.

IN their moſt humble wiſe ſhewn unto your Maſteſty your moſt humble and obedient ſubjects, the lords ſpiritual and temporal and the commons in this present parliament aſſembled. That ſince it is the natural inclination of every man, gladly and willingly to provide for the ſurety of both his title and ſucceſſion, although it touch only his private cauſe, we therefore, moſt rightſul and dreadful ſovereign Lord, reckon our ſelves much more bound to beſeech and inſtant your Highneſs (although we doubt not of your princely heart and wiſdom, mixed with a natural affection to the ſame) to foreſee and provide for the perfect ſurety of both you, and of your moſt lawful ſucceſſion and heirs, upon which dependeth all our joy and wealth, in whom alſo is united and knit the only mere true inheritance and title of this realm, without any contradiction; (2) wherefore we your ſaid moſt humble and obedient ſubjects, in this present parliament aſſembled, calling to our remembrance the great diſſiſions which in times paſt have been in this realm, by reaſon of ſeveral titles pretended to the imperial crown of the ſame, which ſometimes, and for the moſt part enſued, by occaſion of ambiguity and

The ſucceſſion of the King's majesty in the imperial crown.
Repealed 1 & 2 Ph. & M. c. 2. & c. 8.

The ambiguity of the several titles to the crown of this realm, and the not establishing of the succession thereof, hath been the causes of much trouble.

doubts, then not so perfectly declared, but that men might upon forward intents, expound them to every man's sinister appetite and affection, after their sense, contrary to the right legality of the succession and posterity of the lawful Kings and emperors of this realm; (3) whereof hath ensued great effusion and destruction of man's blood, as well of a great number of the nobles, as of other the subjects, and especially inheritors in the same; (4) and the greatest occasion thereof hath been because no perfect and substantial provision by law hath been made within this realm of itself, when doubts and questions have been moved and proponed, of the certainty and legality of the succession and posterity of the crown; (5) by reason whereof the bishop of Rome, and see apostolick, contrary to the great and inviolable grants of jurisdictions given by God immediately to emperors, kings and princes, in succession to their heirs, hath presumed in times past, to invest who should please them, to inherit in other men's kingdoms and dominions, which thing we your most humble subjects, both spiritual and temporal, do utterly abhor and detest; (6) and sometimes other foreign princes and potentates of sundry degrees, minding rather dissension and discord to continue in the realm, to the utter desolation thereof, than charity, equity or unity, have many times supported wrong titles, whereby they might the more easily and facily aspire to the superiority of the same; the continuance and sufferance whereof deeply considered and pondered, were too dangerous and perilous to be suffered any longer within this realm, and too much contrary to the unity, peace and tranquillity of the same, being greatly reproachable and dishonourable to the whole realm:

The marriage between the King and the lady Katherine shall be adjudged void, and the separation good.

II. In consideration whereof, your said most humble and obedient subjects, the nobles and commons of this realm, calling further to their remembrance, that good unity, peace and wealth of this realm, and the succession of the subjects of the same, most especially and principally above all worldly things consisteth and resteth in the certainty and surety of the procreation and posterity of your Highness, in whose most royal person, at this present time, is no manner of doubt nor question; do therefore most humbly beseech your Highness, that it may please your Majesty, That it may be enacted by your Highness, with the assent of the lords spiritual and temporal, and the commons, in this present parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, That the marriage heretofore solemnized between your Highness and the lady Katherine, being before the lawful wife to prince Arthur, your elder brother, which by him was carnally known, as doth duly appear by sufficient proof in a lawful process had and made before Thomas, by the sufferance of God, now archbishop of Canterbury and metropolitan and primate of all this realm, shall be, by authority of this present parliament, definitively, clearly and absolutely declared, deemed and adjudged to be against the laws of Almighty God, (2) and also accepted, reputed and taken of no value nor effect, but utterly void and adnihilated, and the separation thereof, made by the said archbishop, shall be good and effectual to all intents and purposes; any licence, dispensation or any other act or acts going afore, or ensuing the same, or to the contrary thereof, in any wise notwithstanding; (3) and that every such licence, dispensation, penſation, act or acts, thing or things heretofore had, made, done, or to be done to the contrary thereof, ſhall be void and of none effect; (4) and that the ſaid lady Katherine ſhall be from henceforth called and reputed only dowager to prince Arthur, and not queen of this realm; (5) and that the lawful matrimony had and ſolemnized between your Highneſs and your moſt dear and entirely beloved wife Queen Anne, ſhall be eſtabliſhed, and taken for undoubtful, true, ſincere and perfect ever hereafter, according to the juſt judgment of the ſaid Thomas, archbiſhop of Canterbury, metropolitan and primate of all this realm, whole grounds of judgment have been confirmed, as well by the whole clergy of this realm in both the convocations, and by both the univerſities thereof, as by the univerſities of Bonony, Padua, Paris, Orleance, Tholouſe, Angiewe and divers others, and alſo by the private writings of many right excellent well learned men; (6) which grounds ſo confirmed, and judgment of the ſaid archbiſhop enſuing the ſame, together with your marriage ſolemnized between your Highneſs and your ſaid lawful wife Queen Anne, we your ſaid ſubjects, both ſpiritual and temporal, do putely, plainly, conſtantly and firmly accept, approve and ratify for good, and conſonant to the laws of Almighty God, without error or default; moſt humbly beſeeching your Maſteſty, that it may be ſo eſtabliſhed for ever by your moſt gracious and royal aſſent.

The lady Katherine ſhall be called dowager to prince Arthur, and not Queen.

The marriage between the King and his wife Q. Anne ſhall be taken for good, and conſonant to God's law.

III. And furthermore, ſince many inconveniencies have fallen, as well within this realm as in others, by reaſon of marrying within the degrees of marriage prohibited by God's laws, that is to ſay, the ſon to marry the mother, or the ſtepmother, the brother the ſiſter, the father his ſon's daughter, or his daughter's daughter, or the ſon to marry the daughter of his father procreate and born by his ſtepmother, or the ſon to marry his aunt, being his father's or mother's ſiſter, or to marry his uncle's wife, or the father to marry his ſon's wife, or the brother to marry his brother's wife, or any man to marry his wife's daughter, or his wife's ſon's daughter, or his wife's daughter's daughter, or his wife's ſiſter; (2) which marriages, albeit they be plainly prohibited and deteſted by the laws of God, yet nevertheless at ſometimes they have proceeded under colours of diſpenſations by man's power, which is but uſurped, and of right ought not to be granted, admitted nor allowed; for no man, of what eſtate, degree or condition ſoever he be, hath power to diſpenſe with God's laws, as all the clergy of this realm in the ſaid convocations, and the moſt part of all the famous univerſities of chriſtendom, and we alſo, do affirm and think.

Marriage within the degrees prohibited by God's law. 2 Vent. 11. 32 H. 8. c. 38.

No man hath power to diſpenſe with God's law.

IV. Be it therefore enacted by the authority aforeſaid, That no perſon or perſons, ſubjects or reſiants of this realm, or in any your dominions, of what eſtate, dignity or degree ſoever they be, ſhall from henceforth marry within the ſaid degrees afore rehearſed, what pretence ſoever ſhall be made to the contrary thereof; (2) and in caſe any perſon or perſons, of what eſtate, dignity, degree or condition ſoever they be, hath been heretofore married within this realm, or in any the King's dominions, dominions, within any the degrees above expressed, and by any the archbishops, bishops or ministers of the church of England, be separate from the bonds of such unlawful marriage, that then every such separation shall be good, lawful, firm and permanent for ever, and not by any power, authority or means to be revoked or undone hereafter, and that the children proceeding and procreate under such unlawful marriage, shall not be lawful ne legitimate; any foreign laws, licences, dispensations or other thing or things to the contrary thereof notwithstanding.

Persons here-

f. 8. n. 1.

V. And in case there be any person or persons within this realm, or in any the King's dominions, already married within any the said degrees above specified, and not yet separate from the bonds of such unlawful marriage, That then every such person so unlawfully married, shall be separate by the definitive sentence and judgments of the archbishops, bishops and other ministers of the church of England, and in other your dominions, within the limits of their jurisdictions and authorities, and by none other power or authority; (2) and that all sentences and judgments given and to be given by any archbishop, bishop or other minister of the church of England, or in other the King's dominions, within the limits of their jurisdictions and authorities, shall be definitive, firm, good and effectual, to all intents, and be observed and obeyed, without suing any provocations, appeals, prohibitions or other process from the court of Rome, to the derogation thereof, or contrary to the act made since the beginning of this present parliament, for restraint of such provocations, appeals, prohibitions and other processes.

All the issue

King and his wife Q. Anne shall be his lawful children.

VI. And also be it enacted by authority aforesaid, That all the issue had and procreate, or hereafter to be had and procreate, between your Highness and your said most dear and entirely beloved wife Queen Anne, shall be your lawful children, and be inheritable, and inherit according to the course of inheritance and laws of this realm, the imperial crown of the same, with all dignities, honours, preeminences, prerogatives, authorities and jurisdictions to the same annexed or belonging, in as large and ample manner as your Highness at this present time hath the same as King of this realm, the inheritance thereof to be and remain to your said children and right heirs, in manner and form as hereafter shall be declared.

The imperial
land, &c. in-

VII. That is to say, first the said imperial crown, and other the premisses, shall be to your Majesty, and to your heirs of your body lawfully begotten; that is to say, to the first son of your body, between your Highness and your said lawful wife Queen Anne begotten, and to the heirs of the body of the same first son lawfully begotten, and for default of such heirs, then to the second son of your body and of the body of the said Queen Anne begotten, and the heirs of the body of the said second son lawfully begotten, and so to every son of your body and of the body of the said Queen Anne begotten, and to the heirs of the body of every such son begotten, according to the course of inheritance in that behalf; (2) and if it shall happen your said dear and

entirely beloved wife Queen Anne to decease without issue male of the body of your Highness to be begotten, (which God defend) then the same imperial crown, and all other the premises, to be to your Majesty, as is aforesaid, and to the son and heir male of your body lawfully begotten, and to the heirs of the body of the same son and heir male lawfully begotten; and for default of such issue, then to your second son of your body lawfully begotten, and to the heirs of the body of the same second son lawfully begotten, and so from son and heir male to son and heir male, and to the heirs of the several bodies of every such son and heir male to be begotten, according to the course of inheritance, in like manner and form as is aforesaid; (3) and for default of such sons of your body begotten, and of the heirs of the several bodies of every such sons lawfully begotten, that then the said imperial crown, and other the premises, shall be to the issue female between your Majesty and your said most dear and entirely beloved wife Queen Anne begotten, that is to say, first to the eldest issue female, which is the lady Elizabeth, now princess, and to the heirs of her body lawfully begotten, and for default of such issue, then to the second issue female, and to the heirs of her body lawfully begotten, and so from issue female to issue female, and to the heirs of their bodies one after another, by course of inheritance, according to their ages, as the crown of England hath been accustomed, and ought to go, in cases when there be heirs females to the same; and for default of such issue, then the said imperial crown, and all other the premises, shall be in the right heirs of your Highness for ever.

The lady Elizabeth the first issue female of the King and Queen Anne his wife.

VIII. And be it further enacted by authority aforesaid, That on this side the first day of May next coming, proclamation shall be made in all shires within this realm, of the tenor and contents of this act; and if any person or persons, of what estate, dignity or condition soever they be, subject or resistant within this realm, or elsewhere within any the King's dominions, after the said first day of May, by writing or imprinting, or by any exterior act or deed, maliciously procure or do, or cause to be procured or done, any thing or things to the peril of your most royal person, (2) or maliciously give occasion by writing, print, deed or act, whereby your Highness might be disturbed or interrupted of the crown of this realm, (3) or by writing, print, deed or act, procure or do, or cause to be procured or done, any thing or things to the prejudice, slander, disturbance or derogation of the said lawful matrimony solemnized between your Majesty and the said Queen Anne, or to the peril, slander or disherison of any of the issues and heirs of your Highness, being limited by this act to inherit and to be inheritable to the crown of this realm in such form as is aforesaid, whereby any such issues or heirs of your Highness might be destroyed, disturbed or interrupted in body or title of inheritance to the crown of this realm, as to them is limited in this act in form above rehearsed; (4) that then every such person and persons, of what estate, degree or condition they be of, subject or resistant with-

This act shall be proclaimed in all the shires of England.

IX. And be it further enacted by authority aforeſaid, That if any perſon or perſons after the ſaid firſt day of May, by any words, without writing, or any exterior deed or act, maliciously and obſtinately ſhall publiſh, divulge or utter any thing or things to the peril of your Highneſs, or to the ſlander or prejudice of the ſaid matrimony ſolemnized between your Highneſs and the ſaid Queen Anne, or to the ſlander and diſheriſon of the iſſue and heirs of your body begotten and to be begotten by the ſaid Queen Anne, or any other your lawful heirs, which ſhall be inheritable to the crown of this realm, as is before limited by this act; that then every ſuch offence ſhall be taken and adjudged for miſpriſon of treason; (2) and that every perſon and perſons, of what eſtate, degree or condition ſoever they be, ſubject or reſiant within this realm, or in any the King's dominions, ſo daing and offending, and being thereof lawfully convict by preſentment, verdict, proceſs or confeſſion, ſhall ſuffer imprisonment of their bodies at the King's will, and ſhall loſe as well all their goods, chattels and debts, as all ſuch intereſts and eſtates of freehold or for years, which any ſuch offender ſhall have of or in any lands, rents or hereditaments whatſoever, at the time of conviction and attainder of ſuch offence.

X. And

X. And be it also enacted by the authority aforesaid, That no person nor persons offending in any of the treasons and misprisions contained and limited by this act, shall in any wise have or enjoy the privilege and immunity of any manner of sanctuaries within this realm, or elsewhere within any of the King's dominions, but shall utterly lose and be excluded of the same; any use, custom, grant, prescription, confirmation, or any other thing or things to the contrary thereof in any wise notwithstanding.

An offender shall not have the privilege of sanctuary.

XI. And be it also enacted by authority aforesaid, That if your Majesty should happen to decease before any such your issue and heir male which should inherit the crown of this realm, shall be of his age of eighteen years, or before such your issue and heir female which should inherit the crown of this realm, shall be married, or be of the age of sixteen years, which Almighty God defend, that then your said issue and heir male to the crown, so being within the said age of eighteen years, or your said issue and heir female to the crown, being unmarried, or within the said age of sixteen years, shall be and remain unto such time as such issues and heirs shall come to the said several ages afore limited, at and in the governance of their natural mother, she living, with such other counsellors of your realm, as your Majesty in your life-time shall depute and assign by your will, or otherwise, for the same, without contradiction of any person or persons to the contrary thereof.

Who shall have the government of the King's issue and heir during minority.

XII. And if any person and persons by writing, or exterior deed or act, procure or do, or cause to be procured or done any thing or things to the let or disturbance of the same; that then every such offence shall be high treason, and the offenders being thereof convicted, shall suffer such pains of death and losses of inheritance, freeholds, interests for years, goods, chattels and debts, in such manner and form as is above specified in cases of treason afore mentioned.

XIII. And for the more sure establishment of the succession of your most royal Majesty, according to the tenor and form of this act; be it further enacted by authority aforesaid, That as well all the nobles of your realm spiritual and temporal, as all other your subjects now living and being, or which hereafter shall be, at their full ages, by the commandment of your Majesty or of your heirs, at all times hereafter from time to time, when it shall please your Highness or your heirs to appoint, shall make a corporal oath in the presence of your Highness or your heirs, or before such others as your Majesty or your heirs will depute for the same, that they shall truly, firmly and constantly, without fraud or guile, observe, fulfil, maintain, defend and keep, to their cunning, wit, and uttermost of their powers, the whole effects and contents of this present act. (2) And that all manner your subjects, as well spiritual as temporal, suing livery, restitutions, or ouster le main out of the hands of your Highness or of your heirs, or of doing any fealty to your Highness or to your heirs, by reason of tenure of their lands, as H. 8. c. 2.

shall swear a like corporal oath, that they and every of them without fraud or guile, to their cunning, wit, and uttermost of their powers, shall truly, firmly and constantly observe, fulfil, maintain, defend and keep the effects and contents contained and specified in this act, or in any part thereof; (3) and that they, nor any of them, shall hereafter have any liveries, ouster le mains, or restitution out of your hands, nor out of the hands of your heirs, till they have made the said corporal oath in form above rehearsed: and if any person or persons, being commanded by authority of this act to make the said oath afore limited, obstinately refuse that to do, in contempt of this act, that then every such person so doing, to be taken and accepted for offender in misprision of high treason; and that every such refusal shall be deemed and adjudged misprision of high treason; and the offender therein to suffer such pains and imprisonment, losses and forfeitures, and also lose privileges of sanctuaries, in like manner and form as is above mentioned for the misprisions of treasons afore limited by this act.

The penalty of them which refuse to take the oath,

Marriage with carnal knowledge,

XIV. Provided always, That the article in this act containing prohibitions of marriages within the degrees aforementioned in this act, shall always be taken, interpreted and expounded of such marriages, where marriages were solemnized and carnal knowledge was had.

Statutes made at Westminster, Anno 26 HEN. VIII.
and Anno Dom. 1534.

ACTS made in the session of this present parliament, holden upon prorogation at Westminster the third day of November in the six and twentieth year of the reign of our most dread sovereign lord King Henry the Eighth, and there continued and kept till the eighteenth day of December next ensuing, to the honour of God, and for the common weal and profit of this his realm.

C A P. I.

The King's grace to be authorized supreme head.

The King shall be reputed supreme head of the church of England, and correct all heresies and offences.

ALBEIT the King's majesty justly and rightfully is and ought to be the supreme head of the church of England, and so is recognized by the clergy of this realm in their convocations, yet nevertheless for corroboration and confirmation thereof, and for increase of virtue in Christ's religion within this realm of England, and to repress and extirp all errors, heresies, and other enormities and abuses heretofore used in the same: be it enacted by authority of this present parliament, That the King our sovereign lord, his heirs and successors, Kings of this realm, shall be taken accepted and reputed the only supreme head in earth of the church of England, called Anglicana Ecclesia; (2) and shall have and enjoy, annexed and united to the imperial crown of this realm, as well the title and stile thereof, as all honours, dignities, preeminences, jurisdictions, jurifdictions, privileges, authorities, immunities, profits and commodities to the faid dignity of fupreme head of the fame church belonging and appertaining; (3) and that our faid fovereign lord, his heirs and fucceffors, Kings of this realm, fhall have full power and authority from time to time to vifit, repress, redress, reform, order, correct, refrain and amend all fuch errors, heresies, abufes, offences, contempts and enormities, whatfoever they be, which by any manner fpiritual authority or jurifdiction ought or may lawfully be reformed, repressed, ordered, redressed, corrected, refrained or amended, moft to the pleafure of Almighty God, the increafe of virtue in Chrift's religion, and for the confervation of the peace, unity and tranquility of this realm; any ufage, custom, foreign laws, foreign authority, prefcription, or any other thing or things to the contrary hereof notwithstanding.

Commiſſioners to ſearch for the value of benefices, and to compound for the firſt-fruits.

II. That is to ſay, That the King's highneſs, his heirs and ſucceſſors, Kings of this realm, ſhall have and enjoy from time to time, to endure for ever, of every ſuch perſon and perſons which at any time after the firſt day of January next coming ſhall be nominated, elected, preſented, collated, or by any other means appointed, to have any archbiſhoprick, biſhoprick, abbacy, monastery, priory, college, hoſpital, archdeaconry, deanry, provoiſtſhip, prebend, parſonage, vicarage, chauntry, free chapel, or other dignity, benefice, office or promotion ſpiritual within this realm, or elſewhere within any of the King's dominions, of what name, nature or quality ſoever they be, or to whoſe foundation, patronage or gifts ſoever they belong, the firſt-fruits, revenues and profits for one year of every ſuch archbiſhoprick, biſhoprick, abbey, monastery, priory, college, hoſpital, archdeaconry, deanry, provoiſtſhip, prebend, parſonage, vicarage, chauntry, free chapel or other dignity, benefice, office or promotion ſpiritual afore named, whereunto any ſuch perſon or perſons ſhall after the ſaid firſt day of January be nominated, elected, preſented, collated, or by any other means appointed; (2) and that every ſuch perſon and perſons, before any actual or real poſſeſſion, or meddling with the profits of any ſuch archbiſhoprick, biſhoprick, abbacy, monastery, college, hoſpital, deanry, provoiſtſhip, prebend, parſonage, vicarage, chauntry, free chapel, priory or other dignity, benefice, office or promotion ſpiritual, ſhall ſatisfy, content and pay, or compound or agree to pay to the King's uſe, at reaſonable days, upon good ſureties, the ſaid firſt-fruits and profits for one year.

III. And be it alſo enacted by authority aforeſaid, That the chancellor of England and maſter of the rolls for the time being, jointly and ſeverally, or ſuch other perſon and perſons as ſhall pleaſe the King's highneſs, his heirs or ſucceſſors, from time to time, at his or their pleaſure, to name and depute, by commiſſion or commiſſions under the great ſeal, ſhall have power and authority, as well to examine and ſearch for the juſt and true value of the ſaid firſt-fruits and profits, by all ways and means that they can, as to compound and agree for the rate of the ſaid firſt-fruits and profits, and to ſtall and limit reaſonable days for payment thereof upon good and ſufficient cient ſurety or ſureties by writings obligatory by their diſcretions; (2) and if compoſition or agreement be had or made for the ſaid firſt-fruits before the ſaid lord chancellor or maſter of the rolls, that then the writings obligatory, or money taken for the ſame, ſhall reſt, remain and abide in the hanaper of the King's chancery, there ſafely to be kept to the King's uſe, and the money to be due of ſuch writings obligatory, or to be received in hand by reaſon of any ſuch compoſition, ſhall be paid in the ſaid hanaper to the clerk of the hanaper for the time being, and that the ſaid clerk of the hanaper ſhall make a true and juſt account thereof, like as he is bound to do of the money received of the profits of the King's great ſeal; (3) and if compoſition or agreement be had or made for the ſaid firſt-fruits, afore any other perſon or perſons to be deputed by the King's highneſs, his heirs or ſucceſſors, by commiſſion under his great ſeal, that then the writings obligatory, and money taken for the ſame, ſhall be delivered to the treaſurer of the King's moſt honourable chamber for the time being, or elſewhere to whom it ſhall pleaſe the King's highneſs, his heirs or ſucceſſors, to give authority by commiſſion under the great ſeal to receive the ſame.

The money taken for firſt-fruits ſhall be delivered to the treaſurer of the chamber,

IV. And it is alſo ordained and enacted by authority aforeſaid, That every writing of acquittance ſubſcribed with the hand and name of the clerk of the hanaper, and treaſurer of the chamber, or other commiſſioners aforeſaid, or any of them, witneſſing the receipt of the ſaid firſt-fruits or any part thereof, ſhall be as good and effectual againſt the King's highneſs, his heirs and ſucceſſors, to every perſon and perſons having the ſame, for ſo much money as ſhall be mentioned to be received and contained in every ſuch acquittance, as if ſuch acquittance were or had been lawfully had and obtained in the King's name, under the King's great ſeal, and ſo ſhall be admitted, accepted, allowed and taken in every of the King's courts; (2) and that all writings obligatory to be taken for payment of the ſaid firſt-fruits, by and afore the ſaid lord chancellor, or maſter of the rolls, or by and afore any other perſon or perſons to be deputed to compound and agree for the ſaid firſt-fruits as is aforeſaid, ſhall be of the ſame ſtrength, force, virtue, quality and effect, to all intents and purpoſes, as writings obligatory heretofore made by any lay perſon by authority of the ſtatute of the ſtaple been; (3) and that upon certificate hereafter to be made into the King's chancery, of any ſuch writings obligatory to be taken for payment of ſuch firſt-fruits, like proceſs and execution ſhall be thereupon made and had againſt any perſon ſpiritual and temporal, as hath been accuſtomed to be made againſt any lay perſon, upon certificate of writings obligatory of the ſaid ſtatute of the ſtaple; (4) and that no perſon ſhall be compelled to pay for any writing obligatory to be made for the ſaid payment of the ſaid firſt-fruits, above viii. d. nor for any acquittance to be made for receipt of ſuch firſt-fruits, above iv. d. (5) and that ſuch perſon and perſons as ſhall be deputed by the King's highneſs by commiſſion under the great ſeal, to compound and agree for the ſaid firſt-fruits, ſhall, at the end

Whole acquittance ſhall be ſufficient diſcharge for the firſt-fruits,

An obligation for the firſt-fruits ſhall be of the ſame ſtrength that a ſtatute of the ſtaple is,

The penalty of commissioners concealing bonds taken for the payment of first-fruits.

Whofo entreteth upon his spiritual living before composition shall forfeit double the value of the first-fruits.

All first fruits payable to other persons shall cease, and be paid to the King. See 32 H. 8. c. 47. l. 3.

of every six months next after the date of their commission, and so from six months to six months, deliver or cause to be delivered unto the treasurer of the chamber for the time being, or elsewhere to such commissioners as shall be appointed as is aforesaid, to receive the same, as well all such money, as all such specialties and bonds as they shall have taken for the payment of the said first-fruits, by indenture to be made between them and the said treasurer, or other commissioners as is aforesaid, containing the certainty and number of the sums of money and specialties, and bonds by them taken and received; (6) and if any person or persons to whom any deputation shall be made by commission, to compound and agree for the payment of the said first-fruits, their heirs, executors or administrators, conceal or imbezzle any of the said specialties or bonds taken for the sure payment of the said first-fruits, and do not deliver them according to the tenor of this act, that then every such offender shall forfeit that office of deputation, and over that make fine and ransom at the King's own pleasure and will.

V. And it is also enacted by authority aforesaid, That if any person or persons, which at any time after the said first day of January shall be nominated, elected, preferred, presented, collated, or by any other means appointed to any of the dignities, offices, benefices or other promotions spiritual before-mentioned, do enter into the actual and real possessions thereof, or meddle with the profits thereof, before they shall have truly satisfied and paid to the King's use, the first-fruits and profits thereof for one year, or else shall have agreed or compounded for payment of the same at reasonable days upon good sureties, in manner and form as by this act is above specified, that then every such person and persons so doing and offending, and being thereof convicted by presentment, verdict, confession or witness before the said lord chancellor, or such other as shall have authority by commission to compound for the said first-fruits and profits as is aforesaid, shall be accepted and taken an intruder upon the King's possession; (2) and that they, their executors or administrators, shall pay to the use of the King's highness, for every such offence, so much sums of money as shall amount to the double value of the said first-fruits and profits of such dignities, benefices or other spiritual promotions wherein they shall so enter and intrude before the payment of the said first-fruits and profits for one year thereof, or before due agreement made for the same, in manner and form as is above rehearsed.

VI. And be it further enacted by authority aforesaid, That the first-fruits of benefices heretofore accustomed to be paid to the bishop of Norwich, within his diocese, and to the archdeacon of Richmond, within his archdeaconry, or to any other person or persons within this realm, or any other the King's dominions, shall from the said first day January cease, and be extinct, and no longer be paid, but only to the King's highness, highnefs, his heirs and fucceffors, in fuch form as is above mentioned in this act.

VII. Provided always, That archbifhops and bifhops, and all other having jurifdiction ordinary, may give and deliver letters of institution and induction, as they might do before the making of this act, without any offence of any article contained in this act; any thing in this act contained to the contrary thereof notwithstanding.

The bifhops may give institution and induction.

VIII. Provided alfo, That where there be divers cells appertaining to monafteries and priories, and that the priors of fuch cells be named, and removeable from time to time, at the only wills and pleasures of their mafters and fovereigns of the monafteries and priories whereunto fuch cells belong; that the priors of fuch cells fhall not be compelled to pay any firft-fruits by virtue or authority of this act; any thing in this act contained to the contrary thereof notwithstanding; (2) but that the firft-fruits and profits of every fuch cell fhall be paid to the King's highnefs, his heirs and fucceffors, whensoever and as often as any perfon fhall be nominated, elected, perfected or collated to the monaftery or priory whereunto fuch cells belong.

Priors removeable fhall pay no firft-fruits.

IX. And over this be it enacted by the authority aforefaid, That the King's majefty, his heirs and fucceffors, Kings of this realm, for more augmentation and maintenance of the royal eftate of his imperial crown and dignity of fupreme head of the church of England, fhall yearly have, take, enjoy and receive, united and knit to his imperial crown for ever, one yearly rent or penfion, amounting to the value of the tenth part of all the revenues, rents, farms, tythes, offerings, emoluments, and of all other profits as well called fpiritual as temporal, now appertaining or belonging, or that hereafter fhall belong to any archbifhoprick, bifhoprick, abbacy, monaftery, priory, archdeaconry, deanry, hofpital, college, houfe collegiate, prebend, cathedral church, collegiate church, conventual church, parfonage, vicarage, chauntry, free chapel, or other benefice or promotion fpiritual, of what name, nature or quality foever they be, within any diocefe of this realm, or in Wales; (2) the faid penfion or annual rent to be yearly paid for ever to our faid fovereign lord, to his heirs and fucceffors, Kings of this realm, at the feaft of the nativity of our Lord God, (3) and the firft payment thereof to begin at the feaft of the nativity of our Lord God, which fhall be in the year of our Lord God 1535. (4) And to be paid yearly by fuch as fhall be appointed to have the collection thereof by this act, in fuch manner and form as fhall hereafter be limited by this act, before the firft day of April yearly next following after the faid feaft of the nativity of our Lord.

A yearly tenth of all fpiritual livings given to the King.

The tenth muft be paid at Chriftmas.

X. And it is ordained and enacted by authority aforefaid, That the faid yearly rent and penfion fhall be taxed, rated, levied, perceived and paid to the King's ufe, his heirs and fucceffors, in manner and form hereafter to be declared by this act; that is to say, that the chancellor of England for the time being shall have power and authority to direct into every diocese in this realm, and in Wales, several commissions in the King's name, under his great seal, as well to the archbishop or bishop of every such diocese, as to such other person or persons as the King's highness shall name and appoint, commanding and authorising the said commissioners so to be named in every such commission, or three of them at the least, to examine, search and enquire by all the ways and means that they can by their discretions, of and for the true and just whole and entire yearly values of all the manors, lands, tenements, hereditaments, rents, tithes, offerings, emoluments and all other profits, as well spiritual as temporal, appertaining or belonging to any archbishoprick, bishoprick, abbacy, monastery, priory, archdeaconry, deanry, hospital, college, house collegiate, prebend, cathedral church, collegiate church, conventual church, parsonage, vicarage, chauntry, free chapel, or to any other benefice or promotion spiritual within the limits of their commission, (1) with a clause to be contained in every such commission, that the said commissioners, or three of them at the least, shall deduct and allow in the making and rating of the said yearly values of the premises these deductions following, and none other; that is to say, the rents resolute to the chief lords, and all other annual and perpetual rents and charges, which any spiritual person or persons been bounden yearly to pay to any person or persons, to their heirs and successors for ever, or to give yearly in alms, by reason of any foundation or ordinance; and all fees for stewards, receivers, bailiffs and auditors, and synods and proxies, with another clause to be also contained in every such commission, that the said commissioners or three of them at the least, shall certify under their seals, at such days as shall be limited by the said commissions, as well the whole and intire value, as the deductions aforesaid, of every archbishoprick, bishoprick, abbacy, monastery, priory, archdeaconry, deanry, hospital, college, house collegiate, prebend, cathedral church, collegiate church, conventual church, parsonage, vicarage, chauntry, free chapel, and of all other benefits and promotions spiritual.

Commissions fhall be awarded into every diocefe to enquire of the

XI. And it is ordained and enacted by authority aforesaid, That the said commissioners that shall be so appointed, or three of them at the least, shall have full power and authority to do, accomplish and execute the effects and contents of their said commissions in every behalf; (2) and that every the said commissioners, before they shall execute their said commission, shall receive and take a corporal oath before the lord chancellor, or before such other as shall be appointed by the said chancellor by the King's writ of Dedimus potestatem, that they shall diligently and truly, without favour, affection, fraud, covin, meed, dread or corruption, do, fulfil and execute the whole effects and contents expressed in every such commission within the limits thereof, to their cunning, wits, and uttermost of their powers.

XII. And it is ordained and enacted by authority aforesaid, That after such certificate made by the said commissioners, the said yearly rent and pension of the tenth part shall be set, taxed, rated and taken justly and truly and indifferently by the treasurer, chancellor, chamberlain and barons of the King's exchequer, of and out of the clear yearly value of the premises, that shall be above the deductions afore-mentioned, and none otherwise. (2) And that every archbishoprick, bishoprick, abbacy, monastery, priory, archdeaconry, deanry, hospital, college, house collegiate, prebend, cathedral church, collegiate church, conventual church, parsonage, vicarage, chauntry, free chapel, or other benefice or promotion spiritual, shall be severally and distinctly taxed, charged and chargeable, in the proper diocese where they been, for the payment of such portion of the said tenth part as shall be taxed and set upon them by authority of this act; that is to say, every of them by and for themselves shall be taxed, charged and chargeable in the proper diocese where they been, for the tenth part of the yearly value of their possessions and profits to them belonging, wheresoever their said possessions and profits shall happen to be or lie in any part of this realm, or elsewhere in any of the King's dominions; (3) and that none of them shall be charged or chargeable for the payment of the others charge or portion.

Every spiritual person shall be charged for his tenths in the diocese where they be, though their possessions lie in other dioceses,

XIII. And it is also enacted by authority aforesaid, That after such certificate made into the King's exchequer, and tax be charged to set of the tenth part, in form above remembered, every archbishop and bishop now being, and that hereafter shall be, shall be charged and chargeable to levy, collect and receive, within their proper diocese, as well in places exempt as not exempt, all such sums of money wherewith the dignities, benefices and other promotions spiritual afore mentioned within their diocese, chargeable by this act, shall be set, taxed and charged towards the payment of the said yearly pension, (2) and shall pay and content the said sums of money yearly, before the said first day of April, to the treasurer of the King's chamber for the time being, or to any other person or persons whom it shall please the King's highness to appoint to receive the same; (3) and that every of the said archbishops, and bishops, their executors and administrators, and the possessions of their dignities and churches, shall stand charged and chargeable for the sure and true payment of such sums of money as they shall collect and receive of the said yearly rent and pension.

Bishops shall be charged to the collection of their tenths in their dioceses.

the King is to appoint a collector to receive the tenths.

XIV. And that the treasurer chancellor, chamberlain and barons of the King's exchequer, shall yearly cause process to be made by their discretions for nonpayment of the said pension or yearly rent, or any parcel thereof, against every archbishop and bishop of this realm; that is to say, against every archbishop and bishop for so much part and portion of the said pension and yearly rent, wherewith the dignities, benefices and other pro-

By what means the biſhop ſhall levy the tenths of every ſpiritual promotion.
32 H. 8. c. 22.

XV. And be it alſo enacted by authority aforeſaid, That every archbiſhop and biſhop ſhall have power and authority to levy, take and perceive, by authority of the cenſures of the church, or by diſtreſs or otherwiſe, by their diſcretion, all ſuch ſums of money as ſhall be rated, taxed and ſet to go out of the lands, tenements, hereditaments, profits and emoluments of any dignity, office, benefice or other place or promotion ſpiritual within their dioceſe, towards the payment of the ſaid yearly rent and penſion ; (2) and that no replevin, prohibition nor ſuperſedeas upon any excommunication, nor any other writ or impediment ſhall be ſued, allowed or obeyed, for any perſon or perſons making default of payment of ſuch part and portion as they ſhall be rated and taxed unto by authority of this act, till ſuch time as they have truly ſatiſfied their ſaid part and portion to them allotted of the ſaid yearly rent and penſion.

Who ſhall be collectors in time of vacation of a biſhoprick.

XVI. And it is alſo enacted by authority aforeſaid, That whenſoever and as often as any of the archbiſhopricks or biſhopricks happen to be void, that then the dean and chapter of the cathedral church, or the prior and convent, or chapter or convent of the monaſtery or cathedral church, where the ſee of ſuch archbiſhoprick or biſhoprick being void ſhall happen to be, during the time of the vacation thereof, and their executors, adminiſtrators and poſſeſſions, ſhall be charged and chargeable to do and cauſe to be done all and every thing and things for the due execution of this act, within the dioceſe of ſuch archbiſhoprick or biſhoprick being void, as the ſame archbiſhop or biſhop of the ſee, being void, ſhould have done, according as it is limited and appointed by this act, or by any thing therein contained.

The penalty for default of payment of tenths.

XVII. And it is ordained and enacted by authority aforeſaid, That if any ſum of money being once due by any incumbent of any the dignities, benefices or promotions ſpiritual afore ſpecified, charged to the payment of the ſaid yearly penſion and annual rent, be reaſonably demanded and required any time after the ſaid feaſt of the nativity of our Lord, at their dignities, monaſteries, priories, hoſpitals, colleges, churches, chaunteries or houſes, by the archbiſhop or biſhop, or ſuch as ſhall be charged with the collection of any part of the ſaid penſion, or by any other their miniſters, ſervants or officers, to pay ſuch portion of the ſaid penſion and yearly rent, as they ſhall be taxed and aſſeſſed unto, be not truly contented and paid unto ſuch archbiſhop or biſhop, or their miniſters and officers, and to ſuch other perſon or perſons, or their miniſters or ſervants, as ſhall have the charge of collection thereof every year yearly, at the time of ſuch requeſt and demand thereof, or elſe within forty days next after every ſuch requeſt at the fartheſt ; that then then every incumbent making ſuch default of payment, after ſuch default thereof certified into the King's exchequer in writing under the ſeals of any archbiſhop or biſhop, or of ſuch as be limited and charged to the collection of the ſaid penſion by this act, ſhall be adjudged deprived ipſo facto of all ſuch dignities, benefices, penſions and promotions ſpiritual, as any ſuch incumbent, making ſuch default, ſhall have at the time of ſuch certificate to be made, or at any time after; (2) ſo that all ſuch dignities, benefices, penſions and promotions ſpiritual, which any incumbent, making ſuch default of payment, ſhall have at the time of any ſuch certificate to be made, or at any time after, ſhall be clearly void and deſtitute of incumbent in the law, to all intents and purpoſes, as if ſuch incumbent, making ſuch default of payment, were dead indeed.

XVIII. And it is ordained and enacted by authority aforeſaid, That if any archbiſhop or biſhop, or any other, limited and charged by this act to the collection and payment of the ſaid penſion and annual rent, do make a certificate unto the King's exchequer before the ſaid firſt day of April, or at any time within four and twenty days next after the ſaid firſt day of April, that they according to this act have reaſonably required and demanded any incumbent of any dignity, benefice or promotion ſpiritual, chargeable by this act, to pay ſuch part or portion of the ſaid penſion and annual rent, as they ſhall happen to be aſſeſſed unto, and that ſuch incumbent, ſo being required, hath not paid his ſaid part and portion according to the form and effect of this act; that then every ſuch archbiſhop and biſhop, and every other perſon having the charge by this act for collection and payment of the ſaid penſion and annual rent, upon every ſuch certificate, ſhall be diſcharged and acquitted for ever againſt the King, his heirs and ſucceſſors, of and for all ſuch ſums of money as any ſuch incumbent, againſt whom ſuch certificate ſhall be made, ſhould or ought to have paid by this act; (2) and that then in every ſuch caſe the treaſurer, chancellor, chamberlain and barons of the King's exchequer, ſhall deviſe and direct, upon every ſuch certificate, ſuch proceſs out of the King's exchequer againſt every ſuch incumbent, againſt whom any ſuch certificate ſhall be made, and their executors and administrators, or for inſufficiency of them, againſt the ſucceſſors of every ſuch incumbent, whereby the King's highneſs, his heirs and ſucceſſors, ſhall and may be truly answered, paid and contented of ſuch portion and part as the incumbent againſt whom any ſuch certificate ſhall be made, was taxed and aſſeſſed for his dignities, benefices or promotion ſpiritual chargeable by this act.

XIX. And it is alſo ordained and enacted by authority aforeſaid, That all manner of acquittances made by the treaſurer of the King's chamber, or by any other ſuch commiſſioners as ſhall be appointed as is aforeſaid, to receive the ſaid penſion, or any part thereof, and ſubſcribed with the name of the ſaid treaſurer, or any other ſuch commiſſioner, for the payment of the ſaid penſion or annual rent, or any part thereof, to any ſuch perſon or perſons as be limited and charged with the collection thereof, ſhall be of as good ſtrength, force, virtue and effect to the parties having the ſame, as if they were made in the King's name, under his great ſeal, and ſo ſhall be allowed, admitted and accepted in all courts of this realm; (2) and that the treaſurer, chancellor, chamberlain and barons of the King's exchequer, ſhall, by virtue and authority of this act, as well admit and allow ſuch acquittances, as all ſuch certificates as ſhall be made againſt any incumbent for default of payment, as is above ſaid, upon the account of every archbiſhop and biſhop, and of every other perſon limited and charged by this act for the collection and payment of the ſaid penſion and annual rent, without any writ, bill or warrant, to be ſued in or for that behalf.

Nothing ſhall be taken in the exchequer of a biſhop or his collector for his account or quietus eſt.
Savil 38.

XX. And that no manner of officer of the King's exchequer ſhall take of any archbiſhop or biſhop, or of any other perſon having charge with the collection and payment of the ſaid penſion or annual rent, any manner reward or thing for making their account or quietus eſt in the ſame exchequer, or for any manner of thing appertaining to the ſame, concerning the ſaid penſion and annual rent, upon pain of every officer, doing contrary to this act, to loſe and forfeit his office, and make fine to the King at his will and pleaſure.

They which pay penſions to others out of their ſpiritual living may retain the tenth part thereof.

XXI. And forasmuch as every incumbent of the dignities, benefices and promotions ſpiritual afore mentioned ſhall be charged by this act to the payment of the tenth part of the value of their dignities, benefices and promotion ſpiritual, without any deduction or allowance of ſuch penſion or penſions, wherewith ſome of them been charged to pay to their predeceſſors during their lives, or to other perſons to the uſe of ſuch their predeceſſors during their lives: (2) it is therefore ordained and enacted by authority aforeſaid, That it ſhall be lawful to every incumbent charged with any ſuch penſion payable to any his predeceſſors, or to any to his uſe, to retain and keep in his hand the tenth part of every ſuch penſion; (3) and that every ſuch incumbent and his ſureties ſhall from henceforth be acquitted and diſcharged of the ſaid tenth part of every ſuch penſion, by virtue and authority of this preſent act; any decree, ordinance or aſſignment of any ordinary, or any collateral writing or ſecurity made for ſuch penſion to any ſpiritual perſon or perſons, or to any to their uſes for term of their lives, in any wiſe notwithstanding; (4) and that as well every incumbent, as ſuch perſons as ſtand bound for him for payment of any ſuch penſions, ſhall plead this act in every of the King's courts, for the clear extinguiſhment and diſcharge of the tenth part of every ſuch penſion.

No penſion ſhall be reſerved upon the reſignation of a benefice, above the value

XXII. And be it alſo ordained and enacted by authority aforeſaid, That no penſion ſhall hereafter be aſſigned by the ordinary, or by any other manner of agreement, by collateral ſurety, or otherwiſe, upon any reſignation of any dignity, benefice or promotion ſpiritual, above the value of the third part of the dig-dignity, benefice or promotion spiritual resigned : (2) and if any pension amounting above the value of the third part of the dignity, benefice or promotion spiritual heretofore resigned, be already limited and made sure to any spiritual person or persons, by decree of the ordinary, or otherwise by any collateral surety, or hereafter shall happen to be assigned and made sure to any person or persons spiritual, or to any other to their use, by decree of the ordinary, or by any other collateral surety, upon any resignation thereof; yet nevertheless the incumbent charged with such pension, nor his sureties collateral, shall not be compelled to pay any more pension than the value of the third part of his dignity, benefice or promotion spiritual so resigned shall amount unto; (3) but shall by authority of this act be clearly acquitted and discharged of so much of the said pension as shall amount above the value of the third part of the dignity or benefice resigned; any decree or assignment of the ordinary, or any collateral writings or sureties heretofore made, or hereafter to be had or made for the same, to the contrary thereof notwithstanding.

XXIII. And forasmuch as divers abbots and priors been charged to pay great pensions to sundry their predecessors yet living, to the great decay of their hospitalities and housekeeping; be it enacted by authority aforesaid, That every such predecessors of such abbots or priors, having any pension made sure unto them, or to any to their use, during their lives, amounting above the yearly value of xl. li. shall from henceforth be defalked and abated of the moiety and half-deal of every such pension; (2) and that every abbot, and all other persons charged for the payment of such pension above the said yearly value of xl. li. shall be clearly acquitted and discharged by authority of this act of the moiety and half-deal thereof for ever; any decree or assignment thereof by the ordinary, or any writing or surety collateral had or made for the surety thereof notwithstanding.

Abbots or priors paying pensions to their predecessors.

XXIV. And forasmuch as the lord prior of Saint John's of Jerusalem in England, and his brethren, be not specially named and expressed in this act, whereby ambiguity might arise, whether they should be comprised within the limits of this act; it is therefore for plain declaration thereof enacted by authority aforesaid, That every person and persons which after the said first day of January shall happen to be nominated, elected, collated, or by any other means appointed, to the dignity of the said prior of Saint John's of Jerusalem in England, or to any commandry appertaining unto the same, shall before their actual and real entry into the same dignity or commandry, or meddling with the profits thereof, satisfy and pay to the use of the King's highness, his heirs and successors, the first-fruits and profits thereof for one whole year, or agree or compound for the same at reasonable days, in like manner and form, and upon like pain in every behalf, as archbishops and bishops and other spiritual persons be bound to do by virtue and authority of this act: (2) and that also the prior of St. John's now being, and his successors, and every of his brethren having any commandry, and their fucceffors, fhall contribute and pay yearly to the King's highnefs, his heirs and fucceffors, one yearly rent and penfion amounting to the tenth part of all their poffeffions and profits, as well fpiritual as temporal, and fhall be charged, rated, taxed and fet to the contribution and payment of the faid tenth part; (3) and that alfo the faid tenth part fhall be levied, collected and paid, in fuch like manner and form, to all intents and purpofes, as the tenth part of other dignities and benefices fpiritual fhall be charged, taxed, fet, levied, collected and paid by authority of this act.

The prior of St. John's of Jerusalem shall pay first-fruits and tenths.

They which in one corporation have feveral poffeffions belonging to their dignities, fhall pay for their own poffeffions, and not for others.

XXV. And forasmuch as in sundry and many cathedral churches colleges and hospitals of this realm, there is, and time out of mind hath been, certain ordinances instituted and made, whereby the dean, provost, master, or other chief governor of fuch churches, colleges and hospitals, hath a certain part and portion of the poffeffions and profits belonging to fuch churches, colleges and hospitals, all-only limited and belonging to their offices and dignities; (2) and every prebendary, brother, vicar, fellow, petit canon, and other minifters fpiritual, in fuch churches, colleges and hospitals, hath another portion, all only and diftinctly limited, appertaining and belonging to their dignities and offices in fuch churches, hospitals and colleges: (3) it is therefore provided and ordained by authority aforefaid, That fuch perfon and perfons which at any time after the faid firft day of January fhall be nominated, elected, prefented, perfected, collated, or by other means appointed to be dean, provost, master, or other chief governor of fuch cathedral churches, colleges or hospitals, fhall be rated, compound and pay, for their firft-fruits, but only after the rate of the yearly value of the poffeffions and profits limited and belonging to their office and dignity.

XXVI. And that every other perfon and perfons, that after the faid firft day of January fhall be nominated, elected, prefented, perfected, collated, or by any other means appointed to have any prebend, brotherfhip, fellowfhip, or to be any vicar or petit canon, or to have any other dignity or office fpiritual in any fuch cathedral churches, colleges or hospitals, fhall be rated, compound and pay, for their firft-fruits, after the rate of the yearly value of the poffeffions and profits limited and belonging to their dignities and offices, in fuch churches, colleges and hospitals, and none otherwife; any thing in this act to the contrary hereof in any wife notwithstanding.

No firft-fruits fhall be paid for a benefice being not above the yearly value of eight marks. Altered by 1 El. c. 4. f. 29.

XXVII. Provided always, That fuch perfon or perfons, that after the faid firft day of January fhall be prefented or collated to any parfonage or vicarage, whereof the yearly value fhall not exceed viij. marks, fhall not be compelled to pay any firft-fruits for any fuch parfonage or vicarage whereunto they fhall be prefented or collated, not being above the faid yearly value of viij. marks; except that the incumbent prefented or collated to fuch parfonage or vicarage, whereof the yearly value fhall not exceed viij. marks, do live three years next and immediately following after his institution, induction or collation to fuch parfonage or vicarage; (2) and if fuch incumbent do live after the

VII. And that all foreign pleas pleaded by any of the said malefactors and offenders, shall be tried and determined in the said shire or shires; (2) and that the acquittal or fine making for any of the causes afore said in any of the lordships marchers, shall be no bar for any person or persons, being indicted in the said shire or shires, within two years next after any such murder or felony done.

Justices may award process unto lordships marchers.

VIII. And further it is enacted, That the said justices of peace and gaol-delivery, and every of them, shall have full power and authority to award all manner of process as well of outlawry as otherwise, against all and every such offender and offenders so indicted in manner and form, and according to the customs and laws used and accustomed within this realm of England; (2) and that the said justices or two of them, afore whom any such offender shall happen to be outlawed, or attainted by outlagary, shall immediately upon the same outlagary or attainder, direct and send unto the King's officers of his lordships marchers or to their deputies, or unto the lord or lords marchers of the same lordship marcher or to his or their officer or officers or to their deputies, wherein such offence, murder or felony shall happen to be done, or where any such offender, murderer or felon shall happen to be resiant, a certificate under the seals of them or two of them, of any such outlagary or attainder; (3) commanding them and every of them by the same, under pain of forfeiture of a hundred pounds to the King, to be levied and perceived as well of the goods, chattels, lands and tenements of the same lord or lords marchers, as of the goods and chattels, lands and tenements of the King's officer there to apprehend and attach, or cause to be apprehended and attached, the body or bodies of the same offender or offenders so outlawed or attainted, and safely to keep, or cause to be kept, the same offender or offenders, till such convenient time before the next sessions of the King's justices of the gaol-delivery of the shire where such offender or offenders shall happen to be outlawed or attainted, as to the King's officers of his lordships marchers, or to their deputies, or unto the lord marcher or lords marchers of the same lordship marcher, or his or their officer or officers, or their deputies, where such offender or offenders shall be apprehended, attached, detained and kept, shall be thought expedient for the conveyance and conducting of the same offender or offenders, (4) in manner and form following, to be delivered from the King's officers or their deputies, or the lord marcher or the lords marchers, or his or their officer or officers, to other persons assigned by this act to receive and convey such offender or offenders, by indenture to be made between the deliverer or deliverers, and the receiver or receivers, that is to say, that the King's officers of his lordship marcher, or their deputies, or the lord or lords marchers of the lordship marcher, or his or their officer or officers, or their deputies, where such offender or offenders shall be apprehended, attached, detained and kept, shall safely and surely conduct and convey, or cause to be conducted and conveyed, the same offender or offenders, to the next lordship marcher toward the shire where the same offender or offenders shall happen to be outlawed or attainted; (5) and that the King's officers of the same lordship marcher, or their deputies, or the lord or lords marchers of the same lordship marcher, or his or their officer or officers, or their deputies, shall receive, and safely and surely conduct and convey the same offender or offenders to the next lordship marcher; (6) and so the King's officers of every lordship marcher, or their deputies, or the lord or lords marchers of the same lordship, or his or their officer or officers, or their deputies, to receive, conduct and convey safely and surely, every such offender or offenders from one lordship marcher to another lordship marcher, by indenture, as is aforesaid, unto the time that such offender or offenders shall be safely delivered before the said justices of the gaol-delivery; (7) upon pain of forfeiture by every of the King's officer or lord marcher, by whose default the same offender or offenders shall ne may not appear before the same justices at their said sessions, there to stand and abide the order of the King's laws, C. li. to be levied and perceived of the goods and chattels, lands and tenements of the same officer or lord, to the King's use.

IX. And that all and every officer and officers, lord and lords, or other persons to whom any certificate shall be directed as is abovesaid, shall at the next sessions and gaol-delivery to be holden after the apprehension or attachment of such offender or offenders, return the same certificate in due form, and what he or they have done in that behalf, upon the pain aforesaid; (2) saving alway to all and every offender and offenders, all and singular traverses, challenges, exceptions, advantages, and all other pleas, to, of, and upon the outlawry pronounced or promulged against the same offender or offenders, in manner and form as is and hath been used and accustomed by the laws of this realm for any the King's subjects dwelling within the same realm.

All advantages saved to the offenders.

X. Provided always, and be it enacted by the authority aforesaid, That if any person or persons which shall happen hereafter to be indicted, outlawed, arraigned, convicted or attainted by force of this act, do find such sufficient sureties before the King's justices of the gaol-delivery as by their discretions shall be thought convenient, that the same person or persons shall not from thenceforth commit nor do any felony, murder or felonious offence, nor be accessory to any felony, murder or felonious offence, but at all times from thenceforth shall be of good behaviour against the King our sovereign lord, his heirs and successors, his and their laws and subjects, that then the same justices of gaol-delivery for the time being, with and by the assent, consent and agreement of the lord president, and

No liberties of lord marcher ſhall be abridged.

XI. Provided alway, and be it enacted by the authority aforeſaid, That this preſent act, or any thing therein contained, ſhall not extend ne take place to abridge, deprive, or minorate any liberties, privilege or authority of any lords marchers heretofore granted to the ſame lord, or lawfully uſed or accuſtomed by the ſaid lord or any of his anceſtors, unleſs the aforeſaid offenders happen to be indicted, outlawed, arraigned, convicted or attainted by force of this act, as is aboveſaid, within two years next after ſuch murder or other felonious offence perpetrated, done, or committed within the ſaid lordſhips marchers, or any of them; any thing in this preſent act before rehearſed to the contrary notwithstanding.

Where felonies committed in Merioneth in Wales ſhall be enquired of, heard and determined. Repealed by 8 El. c. 20.

XII. And furthermore be it enacted by the authority aforeſaid, That all murders, robberies, felonies and acceſſaries of the ſame, which ſhall happen hereafter to be done, perpetrated or committed, within the ſhire of Merioneth in Wales, ſhall and may be from henceforth enquired, heard and determined in the counties of Carnarvon or Angleſey, before the King's juſtice of North Wales, or his deputy for the time being, by verdict or inqueſt to be taken by the inhabitants of the ſame ſhires of Carnarvon or Angleſey, or otherwiſe, if by the diſcretion of the juſtice there, or his deputy, it ſhall be thought convenient: (2) and that the ſame juſtice, or his deputy for the time being, ſhall have full power and authority by his diſcretion, by force of this preſent act, to hear and determine all and every the aforeſaid murders, felonies, robberies and acceſſaries, in form aforeſaid.

XIII. And where heretofore upon divers murders, robberies and felonies perpetrated and done, as well within the lordſhips marchers of Wales, as in other places of Wales without the ſame lordſhips, the offenders divers times flee and eſcape from the ſame lordſhip or other place place where ſuch offence was committed, and have repaired and reſorted into another lordſhip marcher, and there by the aid, comfort and favour of the ſaid lord of the ſame lordſhip, or his officer or officers, have been abiding and reſtant, into the which lordſhips the ſame lords marchers have and do pretend a cuſtom and privilege, that none of the King's miniſters or ſubjects may enter to purſue, apprehend and attach any ſuch offender thereunto repaired, as is aforeſaid, by reaſon whereof the ſame offenders went unpuniſhed, to the animation and encouraging of other evil-diſpoſed people: (2) it is therefore enacted by the authority aboveſaid, That every officer and officers, and their deputies, upon commandment given by the commiſſioners or council of the marches for the time being, ſhall bring, ſend or deliver every ſuch offender to the officer of the lordſhip marcher, or other place, where any ſuch offence is or ſhall be committed or done, upon the metes and bounds of the ſaid lordſhips, or to the ſaid commiſſioners or council, according as to the ſaid officers by them ſhall be commanded under pain of xl.li. the ſaid commandment or commiſſion to be directed to any ſuch officer, to be ſent, conveyed and delivered by a ſerjeant at arms, or a purſuivant, attendant on the ſaid council in the marches for the time being.

Where and to whom any offender taken in Wales ſhall be delivered.

C A P. VII.

The bill for the highways in the county of Suffex.

WHERE it is ordained and enacted by authority of this preſent parliament heretofore holden at London the fifteenth day of April in the fourteenth year of the King's moſt noble reign, and from thence adjourned to Weſtmiſter the laſt day of July the fifteenth year of his reign, and there holden; in conſideration that many common ways in the Weld of Kent be ſo deep and noyous by wearing and coure of water, and other occaſions, that people cannot have their paſſages and carriages by horſes upon or by the ſame, but to their great pains, perils and jeopardy; (2) that if any perſon or perſons from that time, in any place within the ſaid Weld of the ſaid county, of his good mind and diſpoſition, without any value of good by him or by them to be received for the ſame, will, for the common weal of the King's people, aſſign and lay out a more commodious way in and over the lands thereunto adjoining, whereof the perſon or perſons, or other to his uſe, ſhall be ſeiſed of ſee in eſtate of inheritance, that the ſame new way, ſo to be aſſigned and laid out, by overſight and aſſent of two juſtices of the peace of the ſaid county, and twelve other diſcreet men within the ſame hundred inhabiting, where any ſuch new way ſhall be limited and laid out, or inhabiting within the ſame hundred, and other hundreds to the ſaid hundred next adjoining, ſhall be from thenceforth holden, occupied and uſed in like manner as the ſaid old way there now is, or before hath been; (3) and that alſo the ſame perſon or perſons ſo diſpoſed, willing and accompliſhing, ſhall and may, for the ſame new way, ſo aſſigned and uſed, receive and hold, in way of recompence for the ſame new way ſo to be given, the ſoil and ground of the old way in ſeveralty to them their heirs and assigns, assigns, to their own use and profit for ever, without any common way or passage there from thenceforth to be had or claimed, any prescription or use to the contrary notwithstanding, in like manner and form as is limited by the said act, of a certain new way granted by the same act to be made by George Gilsford, Esquire, at Hempstead in the said Weld of Kent. (4) And that the two said justices of peace, and twelve other discreet men by whose oversight and assent the said new way, by virtue of the said act, shall be assigned, limited and laid out, shall, within three months next after the assignment, limitation, and laying out of the same, make certificate into the King's most honourable court of chancery, under their seals, of the length and breadth of the said new way or street, and of other things adjoining or concerning the same, as by their discretions shall be thought most expedient or requisite for the common wealth of that country to be certified; (5) and that certificate to be made from time to time, as oft as any such new way or street shall be assigned, limited and laid out in form above written.

Highways in Suffex ſhall be amended.

II. Provided alway, That if any person or persons, or body politic, have or ought to have, or hereafter shall have any church-way, or other whatsoever way or passage, over or through any manner lands adjoining to any the said old ways and streets, which shall be taken and used by force of that act as several soil and freehold, in recompence for any new way to be made, and laid out in form aforesaid, or have or ought to have, or hereafter shall have, any lands or tenements adjoining to the old way; that they and every of them, their heirs and successors, shall and may have and use their said way or ways out of and in the said new way, over and through the land of the said old way or street, into or over the said lands or tenements adjoining to the same, and so to pass and repass, as shall appertain over the same old way, at such convenient place or places thereof, as therefore shall be limited and assigned by the said two justices of peace and other twelve men, and by them to be certified in the chancery, among other things by them to be certified in form aforesaid, any thing in the said act above written notwithstanding, as by the said act manifestly appeareth.

III. And forasmuch as in many places within the county of Suffex like act for the alteration of common ways and streets there, being much annoyous, is much necessary and expedient for the common wealth and commodity of the King's subjects of the said county of Suffex to be had and made: in consideration whereof, be it ordained and enacted by the King our sovereign lord, and the lords spiritual and temporal, and the commons, in this present parliament assembled, and by authority of the same, That the said act above rehearsed and recited shall and may from henceforth extend, take effect, and be put in execution in every place convenient or necessary within the said county of Suffex where the ways and streets be noyous to the King's said subjects of the same county of Suffex, in like form and manner, and in all points and conditions, and with like proviso to be had, done and executed, as it is contained and rehearsed in the above recited act concerning the change of the ways and streets in the said said county of Kent; any prescription, use, custom or other thing to the contrary being in any wise notwithstanding.

III. And to the intent that all treasons should be the more dread, hated and detested to be done by any person or persons, and also because it is a great boldness and an occasion to ill-disposed persons, to adventure and embrace their malicious intents and enterprizes, which all true subjects ought to study to eschew: (2) Be it therefore enacted by the authority aforesaid, That none offender in any kinds of high treasons whatsoever they be, their aiders, consenters, counsellors nor abettors, shall be admitted to have the benefit or privilege of any manner of sanctuary, considering that matters of treasons touch so high both the surety of the King our sovereign lord's person, and his heirs and successors.

IV. And over that, be it enacted by authority aforesaid, That if any of the King's subjects, denizens or other, do commit or practise out of the limits of this realm, in any outward parties, any such offences, which by this act are made, or heretofore have been made treason, that then such treasons, whatsoever they they be, or wherefoever they fhall happen fo to be done or committed, fhall be enquired and prefented by the oaths of twelve good and lawful men, upon good and probable evidence and witnefs, in fuch fhire and county of this realm, and before fuch perfons as it fhall pleafe the King's highnefs to appoint by commiffion under his great feal, in like manner and form as treafons committed within this realm have been ufed to be enquired of and prefented; (3) and that upon every indictment and prefentment found and made of any fuch treafons, and certified into the King's bench, like procefs and other circumftance fhall be there had and made againft the offenders, as if the fame treafons, fo prefented, had been lawfully found to be done and committed within the limits of this realm. (4) And that all procefs of outlawry hereafter to be had and made within this realm againft any offenders in treafon, being refiant or inhabited out of the limits of this realm, or in any of the parties beyond the fea, at the time of the outlawry pronounced againft them, fhall be as good and as effectual in the law to all intents and purpofes, as if fuch offenders had been refident and dwelling within this realm at the time of fuch procefs awarded, and outlawry pronounced.

V. And be it further enacted by authority aforefaid, That every offender and offenders, being hereafter lawfully convicted of any manner of high treafons, by prefentment, confeffion, verdict or procefs of outlawry, according to the due courfe and custom of the common laws of this realm, fhall lofe and forfeit to the King's highnefs, his heirs and fucceffors, all fuch lands, tenements and hereditaments, which any fuch offender or offenders fhall have of any eftate of inheritance in ufe or poffeffion, by any right, title or means, within this realm of England, or elfewhere within any of the King's dominions, at the time of any fuch treafon committed, or any time after; (2) faving to every perfon and perfons, their heirs and fucceffors, (other than the offenders in any treafons, their heirs and fucceffors, and fuch perfon and perfons as claim to any their ufes) all fuch rights, titles, interefts, poffeffions, leafe, rents, offices and other profits, which they fhall have at the day of committing fuch treafons, or at any time afore, in as large and ample manner as if this act had never been had nor made.

Germain's in Cornwall*, and the isle of Wight, shall be taken and accepted for sees of bishops suffragans to be made in this realm, and in Wales, and the bishops of such sees shall be called suffragans of this realm; (4) and that every archbishop and bishop of this realm, and of Wales, and elsewhere within the King's dominions, being disposed to have any suffragan, shall and may at their liberties name and elect, that is to say, every of them for their peculiar diocese, two honest and discreet spiritual persons, being learned, and of good conversation, and those two persons so by them to be named, shall present to the King's highness, by their writing under their seals, making humble request to his Majesty, to give to one such of the said two persons as shall please his Majesty, such title, name, stile and dignity of bishop of such of the sees above specified, as the King's highness shall think most convenient for the same; (5) and that the King's majesty upon every such presentation, shall have full power and authority to give to one of those two persons so to his Highness to be presented, the stile, title and name of a bishop of such of the sees aforesaid, as to his Majesty shall be thought most convenient and expedient, so it be within the same province whereof the bishop that doth name him is.

II. And that every such person to whom the King's highness shall give any such stile and title of any of the sees aforesaid, shall be called bishop suffragan of the same see whereunto he shall be named.

III. And after such title, stile and name so given as is aforesaid, the King's majesty shall present every such person, by his letters patents under his great seal, to the archbishop of Canterbury, if the town whereof he hath his title be within the province of Canterbury, and likewise to the archbishop of York, if the town whereof he hath his title be within the province of York, signifying and declaring by the same letters patents, the name of the person presented, and the stile and title of dignity of the bishoprick whereunto he shall be nominated, requiring the same archbishop to whom such letters patents shall be directed, to consecrate the said person so nominate and presented to the same name, title, stile and dignity of bishop, that he shall be nominated and presented unto, and to give him all such consecrations, benedictions and ceremonies, as to the degree and office of a bishop suffragan shall be requisite.

IV. And be it also enacted by authority aforesaid, That all and every such person and persons as shall be nominated, elected, presented and consecrated as is afore rehearsed, shall be taken, accepted and reputed, in all degrees and places, according to the stile, title, name and dignity that he shall be so presented unto, unto, and have ſuch capacity, power and authority, honour, preeminence and reputation, in as large and ample manner, in and concerning the execution of ſuch commiſſion, as by any of the ſaid archbiſhops or biſhops within their dioceſe ſhall be given to the ſaid ſuffragans, as to ſuffragans of this realm heretofore hath been uſed and accuſtomed.

V. And be it further enacted by authority aforeſaid, That every archbiſhop of this realm, to whom any the King's letters patents, in the caſes afore rehearſed, ſhall be directed, having no lawful impediment, ſhall perform and accompliſh the effects and contents of this act within the time of three months next after ſuch letters patents ſhall come to their hands; any uſages, cuſtoms, foreign laws, privileges, preſcriptions, or other thing or things heretofore uſed, had or done to the contrary hereof notwithstanding.

VI. Provided always, That no ſuch ſuffragans, which ſhall be made and conſecrate by virtue and authority of this act, ſhall take or perceive any manner of profits of the places and ſees whereof they ſhall be named, nor uſe, have or execute any juriſdiction or epifcopal power or authority within their ſaid ſees, nor within any dioceſe or place of this realm, or elſewhere within the King's dominions, but only ſuch profits, juriſdiction, power and authority, as ſhall be licenced and limited to them to take, do and execute by any archbiſhop or biſhop of this realm, within their dioceſe to whom they ſhall be ſuffragans, by their commiſſion under their ſeals; (2) and that every archbiſhop and biſhop of this realm, for their own peculiar dioceſe, may and ſhall give ſuch commiſſion or commiſſions to every ſuch biſhop ſuffragan as ſhall be ſo conſecrate by authority of this act, as hath been accuſtomed for ſuffragans heretofore to have, or elſe ſuch commiſſion as by them ſhall be thought requiſite, reaſonable and convenient; (3) and that no ſuch ſuffragan ſhall uſe any juriſdiction ordinary or epifcopal power, otherwiſe, nor longer time, than ſhall be limited by ſuch commiſſion to him to be given as is aforeſaid, upon pain to incur into the pains, loſſes, forfeitures and penalties mentioned in the ſtatute of provisions, made in the ſixteenth year of King Richard the Second.

VII. Provided always, That the biſhop that ſhall nominate the ſuffragan to the King's highneſs, or the ſuffragan himſelf that ſhall be nominate, ſhall provide two biſhops or ſuffragans to conſecrate him with the archbiſhop, and ſhall bear their reaſonable coſts; (2) provided alſo, That the reſidence of him that ſhall be ſuffragan over the dioceſe where he ſhall have commiſſion, ſhall ſerve him for his reſidence, as ſufficiently as if he were reſident upon any other his benefice; any act heretofore made to the contrary notwithstanding.

VIII. Be it further enacted, That all ſuch ſuffragans as ſhall hereafter exerciſe the offices aforeſaid, by the commiſſion of the biſhop, for the better maintenance of his dignity, may have two benefices with cure; any former act made to the contrary notwithstanding.

ſhall conſecrate a ſuffragan.

What authority and benefit ſuffragans ſhall have in their dioceſes.

To avoid exactions taken by spiritual men in the archdeaconry of Richmond.

FORASMUCH as divers and many the King our sovereign lord's subjects, inhabited within the archdeaconry of Richmond, in the county of York, be, and of long time have been, sore and grievously exacted and impoverished by the parsons, vicars and others, such as have benefices and spiritual promotions within the same, as by taking of every person, when he dieth, in the name of a pension, or of a portion, sometime the ninth part of all his goods and chattels, and sometime the third part, to the open and manifest impoverishing of most part of all the King's poor subjects inhabited, and deceasing within the same:

What duties spiritual men in Richmond in Yorkshire shall take after the decease of any person.

II. Wherefore be it ordained, enacted and established by the King our sovereign lord, the lords spiritual and temporal, and the commons, in this present parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, That from the feast of S. Mark the evangelist next coming, no manner of spiritual person or others, now having or that from the said feast shall have any manner of benefice or other spiritual promotion within the said archdeaconry, shall in no wise ask, levy, demand or take, after the decease of any person or persons, any such portions or pensions, nor any other demand or duty in the name or lieu of the same, upon pain to incur such dangers, forfeitures and penalties as be contained in the statute of privisors, made the five and twentieth year of the reign of your most noble progenitor King Edward the Third; (2) but that all and every the King's subjects of the said archdeaconry, and their executors and administrators, from henceforth shall be ordered, intreated and used for their goods and chattels, after their decease, in like manner, form, order and condition, as is contained in the statute made in the one and twentieth year of your most noble and victorious reign, for probate of testaments, and none otherwise; any use, custom, bull, composition, prescription or ordinance heretofore had, obtained or used to the contrary, within the aforesaid archdeaconry, in any wise notwithstanding.

CAP. XVI.

An act for the making of worsteds in the city of Norwich, and in the towns of Lynn and Yarmouth.

Recital of the statute relating to the worsted-weavers of Norwich, and those of Lynn and Yarmouth in the county of Norfolk, made in 14 H. 8. c. 3.

WHERE at a parliament holden at London the fifteenth day of April in the fourteenth year of the reign of our sovereign lord the King that now is, and from thence adjourned to Westminster the last day of July in the fifteenth year of our said sovereign lord, and there ended; it was ordained, enacted and established, That the craftsmen called worsted-weavers, inhabiting in the town of Great Yarmouth, should have power and authority by that act from thenceforward to elect and choose yearly for ever, on the Monday next after the feast of Pentecost, one honest man of the mystery and occupation of worsted-worsted-weavers, being an housholder within the said town of Great Yarmouth, and having of his proper goods and chattels to the value of x. li. at the least, or lands and tenements to his own use of estate of freehold at the least to the clear yearly value of xx.s. to be warden of the same craft and mystery of worsted-weavers for the year next ensuing, which man, so elected and chosen, should personally appear before the mayor of the city of Norwich for the time being, the Monday next after the feast of Corpus Christi then next ensuing, then and there to be sworn and charged by like oath concerning the true and substantial making of worsteds, says and stamins within the said town of Great Yarmouth, as the four wardens of the said city of Norwich, by virtue of an act of parliament made in the seventh year of King Edward the Fourth, were charged and sworn for the same city of Norwich. And if the said mayor happened to be absent the said Monday next after Corpus Christi, or else then refused to receive or take the said oath, then the said warden so elect, within four days next after the same Monday, should come before the bailiffs of the said town of Great Yarmouth for the time being, or before one of them, the other being absent, and then and there receive a corporal oath for the true exercising of the same office of wardenship, after the tenor of the oath accustomedly used to be given to the said wardens of the said city of Norwich; and then the said warden of the said town of Great Yarmouth for the time being, so elected and sworn, might ordain and appoint a seal, with this letter Y. to be graven in the same seal, and might have full power and authority to view, search, seize and seal in lead with the same seal, so to be appointed and engraven, and none other, all worsteds, says and stamins within the said town of Yarmouth, and suburbs of the same, made or be made, and not elsewhere, in as large and ample manner as the said wardens of the said city of Norwich, and the wardens of the county of Norfolk, or any of them, had within the said city or county, or in any wise may do in that behalf by authority or virtue of the afore remembred act, made in the said seventh year of King Edward the Fourth: any thing in the same contained to the contrary thereof notwithstanding. And that no person inhabiting within the said town of Great Yarmouth, or suburbs thereof, should weave any worsteds, says or stamins within the same town, except he be an Englishman born, and had been apprentice to the said occupation, and without he weaved therein such proper marks as should be limited and appointed by the said warden of the said town for the time being, elect and sworn as is aforesaid, upon pain of forfeiture thereof to the King our sovereign lord; and that every warden of the said town should limit distinct and several marks to every of the said worsted-weavers of the same town of Great Yarmouth, and the same marks by the said warden to be registred in a book.

And also it was further enacted, That if and whensoever the town of Lynn should be inhabited with ten sundry householders, or more number of householders, exercising and using the said craft or mystery of worsted-weavers, then and from thenceforth, that is to say, as long as the same town of Lynn should be inhabited with the number of ten such householders at the least, it should be lawful to the same inhabitants of the said town of Lynn yearly, in the Monday next after the feast of Pentecoſt, to elect and chooſe of themſelves one warden of the ſaid craft and myſtery of worſted-weavers, to be of the value in lands and goods, as is aforeſaid of the warden of Yarmouth; which warden, ſo elect, ſhould yearly be ſworn and charged at the ſaid city of Norwich, in like manner and at like day, as is before limited to the wardens of Yarmouth; or, in default of the ſaid mayor of Norwich, then the ſaid warden, ſo to be elect for the ſaid town of Lynn, to take a corporal oath before the mayor of the ſaid town, within ſuch time, and after ſuch form, as is before limited unto the ſaid warden of Yarmouth. And that the ſaid warden of the ſaid town of Lynn for the time being, ſo elect and ſworn, by himſelf might ordain and appoint a ſeal with this letter L. to be graven in the ſeal, and might have full power and authority to view, ſearch, ſeize and ſeal in lead, with the ſame ſeal ſo to be graven, and with none other, all worſteds, ſays and ſtamins within the ſaid town of Lynn and ſuburbs of the ſame, made or to be made, and not elſewhere, in as large and ample manner, as the ſaid warden of the ſaid city of Norwich, and the warden of the ſaid county of Norfolk, or any of them had within the ſaid city or county, or otherwiſe might do by authority or virtue of the aforeſaid act made in the ſaid ſeventh year of King Edward the Fourth; any thing contained in the ſame act to the contrary notwithstanding.

And that no perſon inhabiting within the ſaid town of Lynn or ſuburbs thereof, ſhould make any worſteds, ſays or ſtamins, within the ſame town, except he were Engliſh born, and had been apprentice to the ſame occupation, and without he weaved therein ſuch proper mark as ſhould be limited and appointed by the ſaid warden of the ſame town of Lynn for the time being, upon pain of forfeiture thereof to the King our ſovereign lord. And that every warden of the ſaid town ſhould limit diſtinct and ſeveral marks to every of the ſaid worſted-weavers of the ſame town, and the ſame marks by the ſaid warden to be regiſtered in a book.

And it was further enacted, That from the feaſt of St. Michael the archangel then next following, unto ſuch time as the ſaid town of Lynn ſhould be inhabited with the ſaid number of ten houſholders of the ſaid craft of worſted-weavers, and always after, when the number of ten houſholders ſhould happen to fail, and not be inhabited in the ſaid town of Lynn, the ſaid wardens of the ſaid city of Norwich, and their ſucceſſors, ſhould procure and cauſe one of themſelves, or one of the wardens of the ſaid craft of the ſaid county of Norfolk, perſonally to come and be, every eight and twentieth day from and after the ſaid feaſt of St. Michael the archangel, in and to the ſaid town of Lynn, or within ſix days next after every ſuch eight and twentieth day, and there to continue and abide by ſo long time as he might ſearch and ſeal all ſuch worſteds, ſays and ſtamins made in the ſame town of Lynn, as then ſhould be brought to him to be ſealed within the ſpace of one whole day. And the ſaid inhabitants of worſted-weavers of the ſame town of Lynn being, ſhould content and pay to the ſaid wardens of Norwich or Norfolk, which ſhould ſo come to Lynn in the ſaid eight and twentieth day, or within the ſix days next after the twenty-eighth day, for his coſts and expences, for every time that he ſhould

ſo come to Lynn, between the feaſts of St. Michael the archangel and the Annunciation of our lady St. Mary, iii. s. and for every time that he ſhould ſo come to the ſaid town of Lynn between the feaſt of the Annunciation of our lady and the feaſt of St. Michael the archangel, ii. s. And if the ſaid inhabitants of worſted-weavers of the ſaid town of Lynn did not content and pay to the ſaid warden, coming to Lynn in form aforeſaid, for his ſaid coſts and charges, the ſaid three ſhillings or two ſhillings as is above limited, then the ſame inhabitants ſhould forfeit and pay to the ſaid warden, or to his executors, for every ſuch default of payment, xl. s. And if none of the ſaid wardens of Norwich and Norfolk come to the ſaid town of Lynn for the cauſe aforeſaid, in manner and form above remembred, that the ſaid wardens of the ſaid city of Norwich ſhould forfeit and pay to the ſaid inhabitants of Lynn, of the ſaid myſtery of worſted-weavers, for every ſuch default, xl. s. for recompence of the penalty and forfeits; the ſaid wardens of Norwich or Norfolk being thereunto intituled by that act by its proper name, with this addition, that is to ſay, Unius gardianorum, or nuper unius gardianorum artis five myſterii textorum panni lanei vocat. worſteds in civitat. Norwic. vel com. Norf. as the truth requireth, ſhould and might have action of debt by writ, bill or plaint, in any competent or lawful court of this realm, againſt the inhabitants of Lynn, of the ſaid myſtery for the time being, by their ſundry proper names, and the ſaid inhabitants by their ſaid names, with this addition, Textorum panni lanei vocat. Worſteds inhabitantes villæ de Lynn, ſhould and might have like action of debt againſt the ſaid wardens of Norwich, by the name of Gardiani artis five myſterii textorum pannorum laneorum vocat. Worſteds infra civitatem Norwic. vel com. Norf. to be uſed in good congruities of Latin and form of the laws of this realm; in which actions, or any of them, none eſſoin, protection or wager of law ſhould be ſuffered or allowed; and that the particular bodies or goods of any of the ſaid wardens or inhabitants, being condemned in any of the ſaid actions, ſhould and might be put in execution, after ſuch manner and form as is uſed in an action of debt by courſe of the common law of this realm.

And moreover it is enacted, That all cloths of worſteds, ſays and ſtamins, made within any of the ſaid towns of Lynn and Great Yarmouth, or ſuburbs of the ſame, or any of them, and marked with ſuch marks as ſhould be limited to the makers by the ſaid wardens of the ſaid town, in manner and form as is aforeſaid, and viewed and ſealed by any of the ſaid wardens of the ſaid towns of Lynn and Yarmouth, in form remembred, by force and virtue of the ſaid act, might be lawfully put to ſale by the owners and makers of the ſame, without any other marking or ſealing upon the ſame cloths, or upon any of them, to be had or made of or upon any of the ſaid cloths, for lack of any other ſeals or marks; any thing contained in the ſaid ſeventh year of King Edward the Fourth to the contrary notwithstanding.

And moreover it was enacted, That every craſtman of the ſaid myſtery and occupation of worſted-making, dwelling within any of the ſaid towns of Lynn and Yarmouth and ſuburbs of the ſame, at their own free-wills and liberties from thenceforth for ever, might have
and

and take apprentice or apprentices, being male, of the age of xiiij. years and upward, and being the King's natural ſubjects, for term of ſeven years, and not under, ſo that none of them exceed the number of two at once, to learn, uſe and exerciſe the ſaid craft within eiſber of the ſaid two towns of Lynn and Great Yarmouth and ſuburbs of the ſame, albeit the father of the ſaid apprentice or apprentices might not expend in lands or tenements to the yearly value of twenty ſhillings; any act or ordinance to the contrary made, or to be made, notwithstanding.

Provided always, That the ſame act, or any thing therein contained, ſhould not in any wiſe be hurtful or prejudicial to the mayor of Norwich, or to his ſucceſſor, or to the wardens of the ſaid city or county, or to their ſucceſſors, in any point, article, power or authority, other than for weaving, ſearching and ſealing of the worſteds, ſays and ſtamins, made or to be made only within the ſaid towns of Lynn and Yarmouth, or ſuburbs of the ſame or any of them, and for limiting of marks to the makers of worſteds, ſays and ſtamins, only inhabiting in either of the ſaid towns, or ſuburbs thereof, and taking of apprentices in form above remembred; but that the ſaid mayor of the ſaid city of Norwich, and wardens of the ſame city and county, and every of them, might have and uſe all other points, articles, powers and authorities contained and ſpecified in the above remembred act made in the ſaid ſeventh year of King Edward the Fourth, as well for the ſearch, ſealing, correſtion and reformation of the ſaid wardens newly to be elected by the virtue of the ſame act, and every of them, according and after ſuch form as they might do or uſe any of the ſaid wardens of the ſaid city or county, by force of the ſaid act made in the ſaid ſeventh year of King Edward the Fourth, as all and every other enquiries, correſtions, ſearches, ſeizings and reformations to be had for the true making of worſteds, ſays and ſtamins, in and upon any perſon or perſons, as well within the ſaid towns of Lynn and Yarmouth as without, without trouble, let, or vexation of any of the inhabitants of the ſaid towns, in as large and ample wiſe, as they might have done before the making of the ſaid act; any thing contained in the ſame act to the contrary notwithstanding.

And alſo it was further provided and enacted, That the ſaid craftſmen of worſted-weavers, inhabiting or after that to be inhabiting, within either of the ſaid towns of Lynn and Yarmouth, or ſuburbs of the ſame, and the merchants, or any other perſon or perſons, which ſhould happen to buy of the ſame craftſmen, or any of them, or any other perſon any of the ſaid cloths of worſted, ſays and ſtamins, made or to be made within either of the ſaid towns of Lynn and Yarmouth, and ſealed by the ſaid wardens of the ſame towns, to be elect and ſworn as is aforeſaid, and any of them, ſhould not ſhear, dye or put in colour, or callender any worſteds, ſtamins or ſays, made or after that to be made within either of the ſaid towns of Lynn and Yarmouth, and ſuburbs of the ſame, in any other place or places, but only within the ſaid city of Norwich, or ſuburbs of the ſame, upon pain of forfeiture of every piece of worſted, ſays or ſtamins, to be made within any of the ſaid towns of Lynn and Yarmouth, or ſuburbs of the ſame, or the value thereof, ſhorn, dyed, coloured or callendered by any of the ſaid craftſmen, buyers or merchants, in any other place or places, than in the ſaid faid city of Norwich, or fuburbs of the fame; the one half thereof to be to the King our fovereign lord, and the other half thereof to fuch perfon or perfons as fhould feize the fame; fo that the faid worfteds brought to the faid city of Norwich to be fhorn, dyed, coloured and callendred without covin or craft of any of the faid inhabitants and merchants, might be fhorn, dyed, coloured and callendred at and by as convenient price or prices, and in as ready wife, as the faid inhabitants of either of the faid towns of Lynn and Yarmouth, and merchants buyers of the faid worfteds, or other of the faid city and county had had in times paff, or after that fhould have. And alfo that the faid inhabitants and merchants, and every of them, fo bringing the faid worfteds to the fame city to be fhorn, dyed, coloured and callendred, were reasonably and lawfully intreated according to the faid act made in the faid feventh year of King Edward the Fourth, and the ordinances made and affirmed, or thereafter to be made and affirmed for the faid myftery, without let or difturbance contrary to the fame act or ordinances in that behalf.

And it was further enacted, That no perfon or perfons any time after that fhould convey or transport into any of the parts beyond the fea, any manner of cloths or worfteds, before the fame cloths were fhorn, dyed, coloured and callendred, upon pain of forfeiture of the value thereof; the one half to the King our fovereign lord, and the other half thereof to the party that will fue therefore by action or plaint of debt in any of the King's courts; in which action or fuit no protection or effain fhall be allowed, nor the defendant admitted to wage his law, as by the faid act thereof made more plainly appeareth; which act was made to endure unto the next parliament, whereby it is now expired. In confideration whereof, and forasmuch as the fame act is a good and neceffary act for the true making of worfteds, fays and ftamins, and very commodious and profitable for the increafe of the faid towns of Yarmouth and Lynn; be it therefore enacted by the King our fovereign lord, and the lords fpiritual and temporal, and the commons, in this prefent parliament affembled, That the fame act, and every article, fentence and provision therein contained, fhall from henceforth be continued, and ftand for ever in full ftrengh and virtue.

and take apprentice or apprentices, being male, of the age of xiiij. years and upward, and being the King's natural ſubjects, for term of ſeven years, and not under, ſo that none of them exceed the number of two at once, to learn, uſe and exerciſe the ſaid craft within either of the ſaid two towns of Lynn and Great Yarmouth and ſuburbs of the ſame, albeit the father of the ſaid apprentice or apprentice ſ might not expend in lands or tenements to the yearly value of twenty ſhillings; any act or ordinance to the contrary made, or to be made, notwithstanding.

Provided always, That the ſame act, or any thing therein contained, ſhould not in any wiſe be hurtful or prejudicial to the mayor of Norwich, or to his ſucceſſor, or to the wardens of the ſaid city or county, or to their ſucceſſors, in any point, article, power or authority, other than for weaving, ſearching and ſealing of the worſteds, ſays and ſtamins, made or to be made only within the ſaid towns of Lynn and Yarmouth, or ſuburbs of the ſame or any of them, and for limiting of marks to the makers of worſteds, ſays and ſtamins, only inhabiting in either of the ſaid towns, or ſuburbs thereof, and taking of apprentices in form above remembred; but that the ſaid mayor of the ſaid city of Norwich, and wardens of the ſame city and county, and every of them, might have and uſe all other points, articles, powers and authorities contained and ſpecified in the above remembred act made in the ſaid ſeventh year of King Edward the Fourth, as well for the ſearch, ſealing, correſtion and reformation of the ſaid wardens newly to be elected by the virtue of the ſame act, and every of them, according and after ſuch form as they might do or uſe any of the ſaid wardens of the ſaid city or county, by force of the ſaid act made in the ſaid ſeventh year of King Edward the Fourth, as all and every other enquiries, correſtions, ſearches, ſeizings and reformations to be had for the true making of worſteds, ſays and ſtamins, in and upon any perſon or perſons, as well within the ſaid towns of Lynn and Yarmouth as without, without trouble, let, or vexation of any of the inhabitants of the ſaid towns, in as large and ample wiſe, as they might have done before the making of the ſaid act; any thing contained in the ſame act to the contrary notwithstanding.

And alſo it was further provided and enacted, That the ſaid craftſmen of worſted-weavers, inhabiting or after that to be inhabiting, within either of the ſaid towns of Lynn and Yarmouth, or ſuburbs of the ſame, and the merchants, or any other perſon or perſons, which ſhould happen to buy of the ſame craftſmen, or any of them, or any other perſon any of the ſaid cloths of worſted, ſays and ſtamins, made or to be made within either of the ſaid towns of Lynn and Yarmouth, and ſealed by the ſaid wardens of the ſame towns, to be elect and ſworn as is aforeſaid, and any of them, ſhould not ſhear, dye or put in colour, or callender any worſteds, ſtamins or ſays, made or after that to be made within either of the ſaid towns of Lynn and Yarmouth, and ſuburbs of the ſame, in any other place or places, but only within the ſaid city of Norwich, or ſuburbs of the ſame, upon pain of forfeiture of every piece of worſted, ſays or ſtamins, to be made within any of the ſaid towns of Lynn and Yarmouth, or ſuburbs of the ſame, or the value thereof, ſhorn, dyed, coloured or callendered by any of the ſaid craftſmen, buyers or merchants, in any other place or places, than in the ſaid

ſaid city of Norwich, or ſuburbs of the ſame; the one half thereof to be to the King our ſovereign lord, and the other half thereof to ſuch perſon or perſons as ſhould ſeiſe the ſame; ſo that the ſaid worſteds brought to the ſaid city of Norwich to be ſhorn, dyed, coloured and callendred without covin or craft of any of the ſaid inhabitants and merchants, might be ſhorn, dyed, coloured and callendred at and by as convenient price or prices, and in as ready wiſe, as the ſaid inhabitants of either of the ſaid towns of Lynn and Yarmouth, and merchants buyers of the ſaid worſteds, or other of the ſaid city and county had had in times paſt, or after that ſhould have. And alſo that the ſaid inhabitants and merchants, and every of them, ſo bringing the ſaid worſteds to the ſame city to be ſhorn, dyed, coloured and callendred, were reaſonably and lawfully intreated according to the ſaid act made in the ſaid ſeventh year of King Edward the Fourth, and the ordinances made and affirmed, or thereafter to be made and affirmed for the ſaid myſtery, without let or diſturbance contrary to the ſame act or ordinances in that behalf.

And it was further enacted, That no perſon or perſons any time after that ſhould convey or transport into any of the parts beyond the ſea, any manner of cloths or worſteds, before the ſame cloths were ſhorn, dyed, coloured and callendred, upon pain of forfeiture of the value thereof; the one half to the King our ſovereign lord, and the other half thereof to the party that will ſue therefore by action or plaint of debt in any of the King's courts; in which action or ſuit no protection or eſſain ſhall be allowed, nor the defendant admitted to wage his law, as by the ſaid act thereof made more plainly appeareth; which act was made to endure unto the next parliament, whereby it is now expired. In conſideration whereof, and forasmuch as the ſame act is a good and neceſſary act for the true making of worſteds, ſays and ſtamins, and very commodious and profitable for the increaſe of the ſaid towns of Yarmouth and Lynn; be it therefore enacted by the King our ſovereign lord, and the lords ſpiritual and temporal, and the commons, in this preſent parliament aſſembled, That the ſame act, and every article, ſentence and provision therein contained, ſhall from henceforth be continued, and ſtand for ever in full ſtrength and virtue.

The foregoing act confirmed.

For pirates and robbers on the sea.

The inconveniencies of the trial of piracy after the course of the civil law.

WHERE pirates, thieves, robbers and murderers upon the sea, many times escape unpunished, because the trial of their offences hath heretofore been ordered before the admiral, or his lieutenant or commissary, after the course of the civil laws, the nature whereof is, that before any judgment of death can be given against the offenders, either they must plainly confess their offence, (which they will never never do without torture or pains (or else their offences be so plainly and directly proved by witnesses indifferent, such as saw their offences committed, which cannot be gotten but by chance at few times, because such offenders commit their offences upon the sea, and at many times murder and kill such persons being in the ship or boat where they commit their offences, which should bear witness against them in that behalf, and also such as should bear witness be commonly mariners and shipmen, which for the most part cannot be gotten ne had always ready to testify such offences, because of their often voyages and passages in the seas, without long tarrying or protraction of time, and great costs and charges, as well of the King's highness, as of such as would pursue such offenders: (2) for reformation whereof, be it enacted by authority of this present parliament, That all such offences done in or upon the sea, or in any other haven, river or creek where the admiral or admirals pretend to have jurisdiction, shall be enquired, tried, heard and determined in such shires and places in this realm as shall be limited by the King's commission to be directed for the same, in like form and condition as if such offences had been done upon the land; (3) and that such commissions shall be had under the King's great seal, directed to the lord admiral or admirals, or to his or their lieutenant, deputy or deputies, and to three or four such other substantial persons as shall be named by the lord chancellor for the time being, as often as need shall require, to hear and determine such offences after the common course of the laws of the land used for felonies done and committed within this realm.

Before what persons offences committed upon the sea shall be heard and determined.

II. And be it enacted by the authority aforesaid, That such persons to whom such commissions shall be directed, or three of them at the least, shall have full power and authority to enquire of such offences, by the oaths of twelve good and lawful men inhabited in the shire limited in their commission, in such like manner and form as if such offences had been committed upon the land within the same shire; (2) and that every indictment found and presented before such commissioners, of any felonies, robberies, murders or manslaughters, done upon the seas, or in or upon any other haven, river or creek, shall be good and effectual in the law; (3) and if any person or persons happen to be indicted for any such offence done or hereafter to be done upon the seas, or in any other places above limited, that then such order, process, judgment and execution shall be used, had, done and made, to and against every such person and persons so being indicted, as against felons and murderers for murder or felony done upon the land, as by the laws of this realm is accustomed; (4) and that the trial of such offence, if it be denied by the offenders, shall be had by twelve men inhabited in the shire limited within such commission, which shall be directed as is aforesaid, and no challenge to be had for the hundred; (5) and such as shall be convicted of any such offence, by verdict, confession or process, by authority of any such commission, shall have and suffer such pains of death, losses

IV. Provided alway, That this act extend not to be prejudicial or hurtful to any perſon or perſons for taking of any victuals, cables, ropes, anchors or ſails, which any ſuch perſon or perſons, compelled by neceſſity, taketh of or in any other ſhip, which may conveniently ſpare the ſame, ſo that the ſame perſon or perſons pay out of hand for the ſame victual, cables, ropes, anchors or ſails, money or money-worth, to the value of the thing ſo taken, or deliver for the ſame a ſufficient bill obligatory to be paid in form following; that is to ſay, if the taking of the ſame things be on this ſide the ſtraits of Marrak, then to be paid within four months; and if it be beyond the ſaid ſtraits of Marrak, then to be paid within twelve months next enſuing the making of ſuch bills; and that the makers of ſuch bills well and truly pay the ſame debt at the day to be limited within the ſaid bills.

V. Provided alway, That whenſoever any ſuch commiſſion for the puniſhment of the offences aforeſaid ſhall be directed or ſent to any place within the jurisdiction of the five ports that then every ſuch commiſſion ſhall be directed unto the lord warden of the ſame ports for the time being, or to his deputy, and unto three or four ſuch other perſon or perſons as the lord chancellor for the time being ſhall name and appoint; any thing in this preſent act to the contrary thereof in any wiſe notwithstanding.

VI. Provided alſo, That whenſoever any commiſſion ſhall be directed into the five ports for the inquisition and trial of any of the offences expreſſed in this act, that every ſuch inquisition and trial to be had by virtue of ſuch commiſſion, ſhall be made and had by the inhabitants in the ſaid five ports, or the members of the ſame; any thing in this act to the contrary thereof notwithstanding.

CAP. V.

For the making of juſtices of peace within Cheſter and Wales.

THE King's highneſs conſidering the manifold robberies, murders, thefts, treſpaſſes, riots, routs, embraceries, maintenances, oppreſſions, ruptures of his peace, and many other malefaſts, which been daily practiſed, perpetrated, committed and done within his counties and county palatines of Cheſter and Flintſhire in Wales, adjoining to the ſaid county of Cheſter, and alſo in his counties of Angleſey, othervwiſe ſolled Angleſey, Cayernarvan and Merconeth, within his principality of North-wales, and alſo in his counties of Cardigan, Cayernmarthen, Pembroke and Glamorgan, in South-Wales; by reaſon that common juſtice hath not been indifferently miniſtered there, and to the intent that one order of miniſtring of his laws ſhould be had, he obſerved and uſed in the ſame, as in other places of this realm of Eng- a land is had and uſed, It is ordained and enacted by the King our Cl ſovereign lord, and the lords ſpiritual and temporal, and the 3a commons, in this preſent parliament aſſembled, and by the authority of the ſame, That the lord chancellor of England, or the Ju lord keeper of the great ſeal for the time being, from time to pe time, and at all times, ſhall have full power and authority, by ru his diſcretion, to nominate and appoint juſtices of peace, juſtices ga of the quorum, and juſtices of gaol-delivery in the ſaid counties ih of Cheſter, Flint, Angleſey, Kayernarvan, Merconeth, Cardigan, ed Kayermerthen, Pembroke and Glamorgan, by commiſſion under ſhi the King's great ſeal, which ſhall have full power and authority rit to enquire, hear and determine all manner of thing and things enquirable, preſentable or determinable before juſtices of peace, juſtices of quorum, and juſtices of gaol-delivery in other ſhires of this realm of England, by force or virtue of any ſtatute or ſtatutes made and to be made, or by the courſe of the common-laws of this realm; (3) and that the ſaid juſtices of peace, juſtices of quorum, and juſtices of gaol-delivery, ſo to be named and appointed by the ſaid lord chancellor or lord keeper of the great ſeal, and every of them, ſhall have like power and authority within the ſaid counties of Cheſter, Flint, Angleſey, Kayernarvan, Mereoneth, Cardigan, Kayermarthen, Pembroke and Glamorgan, to do, uſe and execute every thing and things, as other juſtices of peace, quorum and gaol-delivery have within any other of the ſhires of this realm of England; (4) and alſo ſhall be ſworn, aſſiſted and obliged to the keeping of their ſeſſions of the peace, and to the due execution of all and ſingular ſtatutes and ordinances made and to be made, in like manner and form, and under like pains and penalties, as juſtices of peace, juſtices of quorum and gaol-delivery in other ſhires of this realm of England been and ſhall be bounden and obliged; any act, ſtatute, preſcription, uſage, cuſtom, liberty or privilege, had, made, accuſtomed or uſed, to the contrary notwithstanding.

II. And it is further enacted by the authority aforeſaid, That w the eſtreats of the iſſues, fines and americiaments taxed, ſet, loſt eſt or forfeited by or before ſuch juſtices of the peace, quorum and pa gaol-delivery in the ſaid counties of Cheſter and Flint, ſhall be co returned and certified into the exchequer of Cheſter before the w King's chamberlain there. rei

III. And that the eſtreats of the iſſues, fines and americiaments, taxed, ſet, loſt or forfeited by or before the juſtices of peace, quorum and gaol-delivery in the ſaid counties of Kayer-narvan and Mereoneth, and every of them, ſhall be returned and certified into the King's exchequer at Kayernarvan, to and before the King's chamberlain of North-Wales.

VI. Provided also, That all and every lease and leases of the King's manors, lands, tenements, possessions, or other profits or hereditaments within the county palatine of Lancaster, or of the duchy of Lancaster out of the said county palatine, which the chancellor of the duchy of Lancaster for the time being, or the chancellor of the said county palatine for the time being, or either of them, shall hereafter make or grant in the name of the King our sovereign lord, his heirs or successors, to any manner person or persons, shall and may pass and be passed under the seals of the said duchy of Lancaster, or of the said county palatine of Lancaster, or of either of them, in manner and form as heretofore hath been used and accustomed; any thing in this present act before made to the contrary notwithstanding.

small office in the duchy.

VII. Provided also, That all and every gift, grant and patent of any manner office or offices, or any other thing being, or which hereafter shall be in the county palatine of Lancaster, or of the said duchy of Lancaster out of the said county palatine, the yearly wages or fees whereof amounteth not over and above the value of ii. d. by the day, shall and may pass and be passed by the said chancellor of the duchy of Lancaster, or by the said chancellor of the said county palatine, or of either of them for the time being, in manner and form as heretofore hath been used and accustomed; any article or thing in this present act before made to the contrary notwithstanding.

What fees in several cases the clerk of the signet shall have.

VIII. And to the intent that as well such as now be, or hereafter shall be ministers and clerks of the King's signet and privy seal, should have and take honest and sufficient salary and reward for the writing of the said warrants to be by them made as aforesaid; as also the King's most loving, faithful and obedient subjects, knowing the certain charges to be by them laid out for the writing of the said warrants, should not by any manner exaction or other sinister means, be constrained by any the said clerks to pay more large and excessive fees for the writing of the same, than reason and conscience shall require: (2) be it enacted by the authority aforesaid, That all and every clerk and clerks of the said signet and privy seal shall have and take for his or their writing of a warrant upon a bill for tales or reward, xij. d. (3) for the writing of a warrant for the gift of every office, xx. d. (4) for the writing of a warrant for a pension, annuity or wages, xx. d. (5) for the writing of a warrant for a special livery or other perpetuity, vi. s. viij. d. (6) for the writing of a warrant upon every bill for a Conge desler, royal assent, restitution of temporalities, donatives, advocations, presentations, or other ecclesiastical matter, iij. s. iv. d. (7) for the writing of every warrant upon a placard, licence, pardon, or sheriffs reward, ij. s. (8) for the writing of every warrant upon a denizen, iij. s. iv. d. (9) for the writing of a warrant for keeping of an idiot, xx. d. (10) for the writing of a warrant for keeping of a ward, iij. s. iv. d. (11) and that no manner of clerk or clerks of the signet or privy seal aforesaid shall take for the writing of any manner warrant above specified, more large and ample fees than before is prescribed and ap-appointed, (12) upon pain of x. li. ſterling to be by him forfeited, that ſhall offend contrary to the true tenor and meaning of the ſaid act; the one half thereof to be to the King our ſovereign lord, the other half to him that ſhall firſt ſue for the ſame by bill, action, plaint or information in any of the King's courts; in which action or ſuit no eſſoin, protection or wager of law ſhall be admitted.

The penalty for taking more or larger fees.

IX. Provided alſo, That the lord chancellor of England for the time being ſhall and may at all times uſe his diſcretion in paſſing and ſpeeding any thing by the great ſeal, and delivering the ſame, without paying any fees for the great ſeal, ſignet and privy ſeal, as the caſe of neceſſity ſhall require, and as hath been accuſtomed; and that the clerks for writing, or procuring ſuch writings and patents by his commandment, ſhall be diſcharged of all penalties expreſſed before in this act, for not receiving and paying fees to the ſignet and privy ſeal; any thing in this act contained to the contrary hereof notwithstanding.

The lord chancellor may paſſe things without fees.

X. And be it furthermore enacted by the authority aforeſaid, That this preſent act, and every part and parcel thereof, ſhall extend to the court of augmentation of the revenues of the King's crown; and bind every officer and officers, their clerks and miniſters, that now be, and hereafter ſhall be of the ſame court, to the obſervation thereof, and of every part thereof, for and concerning the ſealing and writing of any manner patent, leaſe or other grant, which upon the King's bill ſigned ſhall paſſe the great ſeal of the ſame court; any ſpecial words contained in the act made in this preſent ſeſſion for the eſta bliſhment of the officers of the ſaid court of the augmentation, or any other act or proviſion made to the contrary hereof in any wiſe notwithstanding.

This act ſhall bind every officer and clerk of the court of augmentations.

XI. Provided nevertheless, That this act, or any thing contained in the ſame, be not in any wiſe prejudicial to any manner perſon or perſons whom the King's highneſs ſhall by expreſs commandment direct, ſend or appoint, to procure any thing or things to be ſealed with any his Maſteſty's ſeals, for or concerning his Maſteſty's private affairs, or the affairs of his Highneſs realm; (2) but that as well the ſame perſon or perſons, being appointed by the King's highneſs as aforeſaid, as alſo ſuch officer and officers as ſhall have the keeping of any of the King's ſeals, their miniſters and clerks, ſhall and may ſeal, write and deliver, and procure the ſealing, writing and delivering of any ſuch thing and things concerning the King's highneſs affairs as aforeſaid, without being bound to procure any manner warrant, or paying any manner fees at or to the ſignet or privy ſeal for the ſame; (3) ſo that the name or names of every ſuch perſon or perſons, as ſhall procure the ſealing of any ſuch thing or things on the King's behalf as aforeſaid, be entered in the clerk of the hanapers book after this ſort, Per A. ad mandatum Domini Regis; any thing in this act contained to the contrary notwithstanding.

Sealing of things touching the King's private affairs, or the affairs of his realm.

XII. Provided alſo, That this act, nor any thing contained in the ſame, be not in any wiſe prejudicial to any manner perſon son or persons, which hereafter shall have by the King's highness, or by any his Majesty's officers, the grant or lease of any manner farm or farms to be sealed with any his Highness seals the yearly rent whereof amounteth not above the sum of vi. li. xiiij. s. iv. d. sterling; (2) but that as well every such person and persons, as officer and officers, having the custody of such seal or seals, their ministers and clerks, may write, seal and deliver, to procure the writing, sealing and delivering of any such lease or leases as aforesaid, without paying therefore any manner fees at or to the signet or privy seal for the same; any thing in this act mentioned to the contrary notwithstanding.

CAP. XII.

The act for the true making of cloth.

FORASMUCH as great infamy and slander hath risen of late years in sundry outward parties beyond the sea, of the untrue making of woollen cloths within this realm, to the great derogation of the common weal of the same, and to the no little hindrance of the sale of the said commodity: (2) for remedy whereof, be it ordained and enacted by the King our sovereign lord, the lords spiritual and temporal, and the commons, in this present parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, That after the feast of St. Michael the archangel next coming, all and every clothier within this realm shall weave, or cause to be woven, his or their several token or mark in all and every cloth, kersey and other cloths, whatsoever they be, made and wrought to be uttered and sold: (3) and when any such cloth shall be ready made and dressed to be put to sale, every of the same clothiers shall set his seal of lead unto every of the same his or their cloths and kerseys, in which seal of lead shall be contained the true and just length of every of the same cloths or kerseys, as it shall be duly found by every buyer of the same, upon due proof thereof to be tried by the water: (4) and in case upon any such proof to be made by any buyer of them at the water, there shall be found less or smaller content in length than is contained and specified in every of their said seals, then every of the said clothiers making such default, shall lose and forfeit, unto every such buyer of the same, the double value of so much cloth as shall want and lack of the said content in length, at the only sight and judgment of any two indifferent persons that shall measure the same cloths and kerseys. (5) And every clothier sending or putting any of their cloths to sale, before such time as all and every of the same cloths shall be sealed by the aulneger of the same counties where it shall chance any of the said cloths so to be made, and also to be ordered and sealed by every of the said clothiers in form aforesaid, shall lose and forfeit his cloth or cloths whatsoever they be; the one half thereof shall be to the King's highness, his heirs and successors, and the other half to him or them that will sue for the same by bill, plaint, action of debt or otherwise; in which action no wager of law, essoin or protection shall be allowed.

An order for truemaking of woollen cloths.

Every clothier shall weave his mark in his cloth, and set his seal to it.

The penalty for want in length.

The clothier's forfeiture omitting his duty.

II. And it is further enacted by authority aforesaid, That ^{The breadth} after the said feast of St. Michael the archangel, every broad ^{of broad cloth.} cloth shall contain in breadth seven quarters of a yard within the lists at the least, and to hold the same content always, if it be proved at the water; the act made in the first year of the reign of our said sovereign lord, that every broad cloth should contain two yards in breadth within the lists, or any other thing therein contained, touching the keeping of the same breadth of two yards, in any wise notwithstanding. (2) And every ker- ^{The breadth} sey shall contain in breadth one yard within the lists at the least, ^{of kerseys.} if it be proved in the water, upon pain to forfeit for every such ^{Rep. 33 H. 8.} broad cloth iij. s. iv. d. and for every such kersey xx. d. to be re- ^{c. 18.} covered, to the use of the King's highness, and of any other that will sue for the same in manner and form before declared.

III. Provided always, That this present act extend not to any ^{Towhat cloths} cloths called set cloths, of all sorts, made in the county of Suffolk, ^{this statute} not exceeding the price of xvi. s. viij. d. the cloth; nor to any ^{cloth not ex-} cloths called tavestocks, western dozens, frizes, kendals, cottons, ^{tend.} and all manner of coarse cloths made for linings.

IV. And be it further enacted by the said authority, That the ^{When the aul-} aulneger of any county shall not seal any of the said cloths ^{neger shall} with the King's seal, until such time as they and every of them shall ^{seal.} first be ordered and sealed with their contents, according to the true meaning of this present act, in form aforesaid, upon pain of losing of his office; (2) and that no buyer of any of the said ^{How far the} cloths or kerseys, marked and sealed in form aforesaid, presume ^{buyers of} by any manner of sleight, means or engines, to draw, pull or ^{cloths or ker-} stretch out any of the same cloths or kerseys, otherwise than to ^{seys may draw} make them even after they be wet, and to agree with the con- ^{or stretch} tents specified and contained in the seal of every of the same ^{them.} cloths and kerseys, as near as they can, upon pain to forfeit the double value of every such cloth or kersey so misused, contrary to the true intent and meaning of this present act, to be levied to the use of the King's highness, and of any other that will sue for the same, in like manner and form as is before declared.

V. Provided alway, That all cloth hereafter made to be sold ^{Cloth made in} within the city of Worcester, the towns of Droitwich, Evesham, ^{Worcester, &c.} Kedminster and Bromesgrove, in the county of Worcester, shall ^{shall be sealed} be sealed with the seal of the searchers there, according to an ^{according to} act of parliament in that behalf provided and made the five and ^{the act there-} twentieth year of the reign of our said sovereign lord; (2) and ^{fore provided.} that the owners of the cloths made within the said city and ^{25 H. 8. c. 18.} towns, shall not be compelled by this act to put their own seals ^{5 & 6 Ed. 6.} to any cloths there made or hereafter to be made. ^{c. 6. f. 50.} ^{See 10. CAP. XIV.

A bill concerning the custom of leather.

In what manner custom shall be taken for leather.

WHERE great quantity and much abundance of leather is daily conveyed out of this realm, as well by strangers, as also by tanners, and other the King's subjects inhabited in divers parts of this realm, towards the sea coasts, and in specially out of Wales, Cheshire and Cornwall, where little or no custom is paid for the same, which leather is commonly packed by the said strangers, tanners and other the King's subjects in their houses, and so conveyed unto the ports and havens havens where they intend to ship the same; which packs, so conveyed and brought to such ports and havens to be shipped, be never there unpacked, to be viewed what number of leather is contained in any such pack, but entered in the customers books by and upon the information and report of the said strangers, tanner or other person, transporter of the same leather; (2) and albeit that the King's highness in such places and ports hath very little custom paid for the same, yet forasmuch as in such places there is no better search nor view had for the perfect knowledge of the number and quantity of the leather so by them packed, the King's grace is much deceived of such his customs as ought therefore to accrue to his Highness; (3) for where in the port of London two persons be named and appointed, by the weigher of the wools within the said port for the time being, to tell and number all such leather by the hide, accounting ten hides to the dicker, and also all woofsels as within the same port shall be shipped from time to time, which two persons be sworn before the customers of his great custom, truly and duly to do and execute their offices, in telling and numbring all such leather and woofsels, in the presence of the said customers, and of the comptroller of the same custom, or of their deputies, who being present, and viewing the same, do make entry thereof in their books; (4) and after such tale made, and entry taken, another person, by the mayor of London for the time being constituted and appointed, is also sworn truly to pack the same leather so told and entered into the customers books, every of the same tellers and packers taking such fees for their labours as of old time have been used, limited and accustomed, (5) every stranger paying for custom of every dicker iv. s. ix. d. and every denizen iv. s. i. d. which like custom is also paid in the port of Hampton, but not in any other ports of this realm, and specially in Wales, Cheshire and Cornwall, out of the which parts, by reason of such small customs, more leather is conveyed over the sea, than out of other places of this realm, which is an occasion of the dearth and great prices of the same leather; (6) for the redress whereof, and to the intent that one manner of custom for every such dicker of leather so conveyed over the sea, as well by denizens as strangers, shall be paid throughout this realm, Wales, and other the King's dominions, and also that the King's highness may be the better assured of his customs to be paid for all such leather as shall be hereafter carried and conveyed over the sea: (7) Be it enacted by the authority of this present parliament, That from henceforth no manner of stranger or denizen shall pack, or cause to be packed, any manner of leather to be conveyed or shipped over the sea, out of this realm, Wales, or other the King's dominions, otherwise than in this act is expressed, that is to say, that all such leather shall be hereafter packed by a packer sworn in every such port where any leather shall be shipped to be conveyed out of this realm, Wales, or other the King's dominions, upon pain of forfeiture of all such leather as hereafter shall be packed contrary to the purport of this act, or of the value thereof; (8) and also that from henceforth every stranger and denizen, which shall ship, send or convey any leather over the sea, out or from any part of this realm, Wales, Cheshire, or other the King's dominions, shall pay like

The cuſtomers and comptrollers ſhall appoint tellers at ports where none be.

II. And be it alſo enacted, That within every port, haven and creek within this realm, Wales, and other the King's dominions, where no tellers nor packers at this preſent time be, nor before the making of this act have been, that from henceforth the cuſtomers and comptrollers of every ſuch port, haven and creek, where ſuch leather ſhall be ſhipped to be conveyed into the parties beyond the ſea, ſhall have power by authority of this act to name, conſtitute and appoint one able perſon to tell and number all ſuch leather as ſhall be at any time there ſhipped, (2) which perſon ſo named ſhall be ſworn by the cuſtomer and comptroller of every ſuch port haven and creek, duly and truly to execute his office in the preſence of the cuſtomer and comptroller of every ſuch port, creek or haven where any ſuch leather ſhall be ſhipped, or of his or their deputy or deputies; (3) the ſame teller taking of every ſtranger for the telling of every dicker of leather vi. d. whereof the ſame teller to have for his labour ii. d. and iv. d. to be to the commonalty of the ſame town and port, toward the payment of their fee-farm, and other their charges; (4) and of every denizen, not being a freeman of the ſaid port and haven, for every dicker iv. d. whereof the teller to have ii. d. and the other ii. d. to be to the commonalty of the ſame port or haven, for the intent above declared; (5) and of every dicker by any perſon being a freeman of ſuch port and haven, but only ii. d. for his labour; (6) and that immediately after ſuch tale had, and entry thereof made by the cuſtomer or his deputy, another able perſon named, deputed and aſſigned by the ſaid cuſtomers and comptrollers of every ſuch port and haven and before them ſworn truly and duly to do and execute his office, ſhall pack all ſuch leather ſo told and entered, every pack to contain as many dickers, under the number of ſeven dickers, as it ſhall pleaſe the merchant or owner thereof to appoint, taking for his labour for the packing of every pack iv. d.

The teller's fee for telling a dicker of leather.

A packer of leather ſhall be aſſigned, and his fee.

The ſeveral forfeitures of the packer and teller not performing their duties.

III. And be it further enacted by the ſaid authority, That if any packer take upon him to pack any leather before it be told or numbered, and entry thereof made by the cuſtomer, or his deputy, or at any time pack more leather than ſhall be told and entered, according to the purport of this act, then the ſame packer to forfeit and loſe for every time doing the contrary v. li. and to ſuffer therefore imprisonment at the King's pleaſure; (2) and alſo that if the teller within any ſuch port or haven, at any time hereafter, take upon him to tell or number any leather in the abſence of the cuſtomer, comptroller, or of his or their deputy or deputies, then the ſame teller, for every time ſo doing, to loſe and forfeit five marks.

IV. And forasmuch as divers ſtrangers carry and convey their leather from one port to another, and by the way cauſe the ſame leather to be packed, which packs ſo conveyed be not undone nor opened at their arrival within the ports whereunto they be ſo transported,

but there only entered by and upon the report and information of the merchant ſtranger, or of his faſtor, whereby much cuſtom is concealed:

(2) Be it therefore alſo enacted by the ſaid authority, That if any ſtranger, or other his faſtor, at any time hereafter do convey and carry any leather from one port to another, to the intent to ſhip the ſame in ſuch other port whereunto it ſhall be ſo conveyed, the ſame ſtranger, or other his faſtor for him, before ſuch transporting of the ſame leather, ſhall cauſe the ſaid leather firſt to be told within the ſame port from whence he will, or intendeth, to carry the ſame; (3) and the ſame ſo told cauſe to be entered by the cuſtomer of the ſame port, or his deputy, and cauſe to be alſo packed by the ſaid packer of the ſaid port where it ſhall be ſo told, taking of the cuſtomer or cuſtomers of the ſame port or haven, or of their deputy or deputies, a certificate expreſſing the number or quantity of dickers of all the ſame leather ſo to be carried and transported, directed to the cuſtomer of the other port or haven whereunto the ſame leather ſhall be ſo conveyed, making mention alſo in the ſame certificate, whether the cuſtom thereof accordingly be truly paid, or not; (4) and in caſe any ſuch leather be carried or conveyed from one port to another, there to be ſhipped, without having of ſuch certificate, that then the ſame leather, or the value thereof, to be forfeited.

In what ſort a ſtranger conveying leather from one port to another ſhall uſe it.

V. And be it further enacted, That no tanner within this realm, Wales, or other the King's dominions, or other perſons occupying or having a tanhouſe, ſhall from henceforth ſend or cauſe to be conveyed over the ſea, by way of merchandiſe or otherwiſe, any manner of leather tanned or untanned, upon pain of forfeiture of all ſuch leather, or the value thereof. (2) Nor that any perſon or perſons at any time hereafter ſhall carry or convey over the ſea out of this realm, Wales, or other the King's dominions, any ſalt or untanned hides, or any leather called backs or ſole-leather, the King's ſpecial licence not obtained for the ſame, upon pain of forfeiture of all ſuch hides and leather called backs or ſole leather, or the value thereof; (3) the one half of all the ſaid forfeitures to be to the King's highneſs, and the other half to any of his ſubjects that will purſue for the ſame in any his courts by action of debt, bill, plaint, information or otherwiſe; in which ſuit none eſſoin, protection, wager of law, or other dilatory plea for the defendant, ſhall be admitted or allowed.

None having a tan-houſe ſhall tranſport any manner of leather tanned or untanned.

VI. Provided always, That this act, or any thing therein contained, ſhall not be hurtful nor prejudicial to any captain of any ſhip in the time of war, being in the retinue and ſervice of the King's highneſs, nor to any owner or maſter of any ſhip, being the King's ſubject, going into Iſeland, Danſke, Norway, or ſouthward beyond the ſtraits; but that every ſuch captain and maſter of every ſuch ſhip during the war-time, and every maſter to ſuch ſhips paſſing into the places before named, may and ſhall at their pleaſure have and carry ſalt hides in their ſhips, ſo that every of them ſhall not have at ſuch voyage,

The captain and the owner of a ſhip in ſome caſe excepted out of this ſtatute, or during the war, at any one time above the number of eight falk hides; this act or any thing therein contained to the contrary in any wife notwithstanding.

Hides untanned of beafts killed in Wales may be transported.

temerous and large manner than before this time hath been seen :

Tithes shall be paid according to the custom of the parish where they be due.

The offender in subtracting of tithes shall be convented before the ordinary.

The offender shall be bound by two justices of peace, &c. to obey the ordinary's sentence.

This act shall not extend to the citizens of London.

(3) for reformation of which said injuries, and for unity and peace to be preserved amongst the King's subjects of this realm, our sovereign lord the King being supreme head on earth (under God) of the church of England, willing the spiritual rights and duties of that church to be preserved, continued and maintained, hath ordained and enacted by authority of this present parliament, That every of his subjects of this realm of England, Ireland, Wales, and Calais, and marches of the same, according to the ecclesiastical laws and ordinances of his church of England, and after the laudable usages and customs of the parish or other place where he dwelleth or occupieth, shall yield and pay his tythes, offerings and other duties of holy church ; (4) and that for such subtractions of any of the said tithes, offerings or other duties, the parson, vicar, curate, or other party in that behalf grieved, may by due process of the King's ecclesiastical laws of the church of England, convent the person or persons so offending before his ordinary, or other competent judge of this realm, having authority to hear and determine the right of tithes, as also to compel the same person or persons offending to do and yield their said duties in that behalf. (5) And in case the ordinary of the diocese or his commissary, or the archdeacon or his official, or any other competent judge aforesaid, for any contempt, contumacy, disobedience or other misdemeanor of the party defendant, make information and request to any of the King's most honourable council, or to the justices of the peace of the shire where such offender dwelleth, to assist and aid the same ordinary, commissary, archdeacon, official or judge, to order or reform any such person in any cause before rehearsed ; that then he of the King's said honourable council, or such two justices of peace, whereof the one to be of the quorum, to whom such information or request shall be made, shall have full power and authority, by virtue of this act, to attach or cause to be attached, the person or persons against whom such information or request shall be made, (6) and to commit the same person or persons to ward, there to remain without bail or mainprize, till that he or they shall have found sufficient surety, to be bound by recognizance or otherwise before the King's said counsellor, or justice of peace, or any other like counsellor, or justice of peace, to the use of our said sovereign lord the King, to give due obedience to the processses, proceedings, decrees and sentences of the ecclesiastical court of this realm, wherein such suit or matter for the premisses shall depend or be. (7) And that every of the King's said counsellors, or two justices of the peace, whereof the one to be of the quorum as is aforesaid, shall have full power and authority, by virtue of this act, to take, receive, and record recognizances and obligations in any of the causes above written.

II. Provided alway, That this act, or any thing therein contained, shall not extend to any inhabitant of the city of London, London, for or concerning any manner of tithe, offering, or other eccleſiaſtical duty, grown and due, to be paid or yielded within the ſame city, becauſe there is another order made for the payment of tithes and other duties within the ſaid city.

C A P. XXIV.

An act for recontinuing liberties in the crown.

The re-continuing of certain liberties taken from the crown.

No perfon fhall pardon treafons or felonies but the King.

WHERE divers of the moft ancient prerogatives and authorities of juftice, appertaining to the imperial crown of this realm, have been fevered and taken from the fame by fundry gifts of the King's moft noble progenitors, Kings of this realm, to the great diminution and detriment of the royal eftate of the fame, and to the hindrance and great delay of juftice; (2) for reformation whereof, be it enacted by authority of this prefent parliament, That no perfon or perfons, of what eftate or degree foever they be, from the firft day of July, which fhall be in the year of our Lord God 1536, fhall have any power or authority to pardon or remit any treafons, murders, manflaughter, or any kinds of felonies, whatfoever they be; (3) nor any accessaries to any treafons, murders, manflaughter or felonies; (4) or any outlawries for any fuch offences afore rehearfed, committed, perpetrated, done or divulged, or hereafter to be committed, done or divulged, by or againft any perfon or perfons in any part of this realm, Wales, or the marches of the fame; (5) but that the King's highnefs, his heirs and fucceffors, Kings of this realm, fhall have the whole and fole power and authority thereof united and knit to the imperial crown of this realm, as of good right and equity it appertaineth; any grants, ufages, prefcription, act or acts of parliament, or any other thing to the contrary hereof notwithstanding.

No perfon
fhall make juftices but the King.
Hob. 139.
1 Bulft. 160.

II. And be it alfo enacted by authority aforefaid, That no perfon or perfons, of what eftate, degree or condition foever they be, from the faid firft day of July, fhall have any power or authority to make any juftices of eyre, juftices of affize, juftices of peace, or juftices of gaol-delivery; (2) but that all fuch officers and minifters fhall be made by letters patents under the King's

King's great seal, in the name and by authority of the King's highness and his heirs Kings of this realm, in all shires, counties, counties palatine, and other places of this realm; Wales, and the marches of the same, or in any other his dominions, at their pleasure and wills, in such manner and form as justices of eyre, justices of assise, justices of peace, and justices of gaol-delivery, be commonly made in every shire of this realm; any grants, usages, prescriptions, allowances, act or acts of parliament, or any other thing or things to the contrary thereof notwithstanding.

III. And be it further enacted by authority of this present parliament, That all original writs and judicial writs, and all manner of indictments of treason, felony and trespass, and all manner of process to be made upon the same, in every county palatine, and other liberty within this realm of England, Wales, and marches of the same, shall from the said first day of July be made only in the name of our said sovereign lord the King, and his heirs Kings of England; (2) and that every person or persons having such county palatine, or any other such liberty to make such originals, judicials or other process of justice, shall make the Tiste in the said original writs and judicial, in the name of that same person or persons that have such county palatine or liberty.

All writs, &c. in a county palatine shall be made in the King's name. Inst. 203.

IV. And that in every writ and indictment that shall be made within any such county palatine or liberty, after the said first day of July next coming, whereby it shall be supposed any thing to be done against the King's peace, shall be made and supposed to be done only against the King's peace, his heirs and successors, and not against the peace of any other person or persons whatsoever they be; any act of parliament, grant, custom, usage or allowance in eyre before this time had, granted or used, to the contrary notwithstanding.

V. Provided always, That justices of assise, justices of gaol-delivery, and justices of peace, to be made and assigned by the King's highness within the county palatine of Lancaster, shall be made and ordained by commission under the King's usual seal of Lancaster, in manner and form as hath been accustomed; any thing in this act to the contrary thereof notwithstanding.

Justices assigned within the county palatine of Lancaster.

VI. Provided also, That all cities, boroughs, and towns corporate within this realm, which have liberty, power and authority to have justices of peace, or justices of gaol-delivery, shall still have and enjoy their liberties and authorities in that behalf, after such like manner as they have been accustomed, without any alteration by occasion of this act; any thing in this act, or in any article therein contained to the contrary thereof notwithstanding.

Towns corporate which have justices.

VII. And it is ordained by authority aforesaid, That all stewards, bailiffs, and other ministers of any liberties or franchises, which in times past have used, or ought to attend upon the justices of assise, justices of gaol-delivery, and justices of the peace at large in any county, shall be attendant to the justices of assise, done.

Bailiffs and officers of liberties shall attend upon the justices as they have done.

, aſſiſe, juſtices of gaol-delivery, and juſtices of peace of the ſame ſhires wherein ſuch liberties and franchiſes be, and make due execution of all proceſſes to them to be directed, for miniſtration of juſtice within ſuch liberties or franchiſes; (2) and that alſo all ſuch bailiffs, or their deputies or deputy, ſhall give their attendance and aſſiſtance upon the ſheriff, together with the ſheriffs bailiffs, at all courts of gaol-delivery from time to time, for execution of priſoners according to juſtice.

VIII. Provided alway, That the article next above rehearſed ſhall not in any wiſe be prejudicial to any ſtewards, or bailiffs of any cities, boroughs or towns corporate ſet in any ſhire of this realm, which have privilege that they ſhould not be compelled to attend or appear out of ſuch cities, boroughs or towns wherein they inhabit, but that every ſuch city, borough and town corporate, ſhall uſe their ſaid privileges and liberties as heretofore hath been accuſtomed; any thing in any of the articles above rehearſed to the contrary thereof notwithstanding.

The King ſhall have the fines, &c. of bailiffs of liberties.

IX. And it is further enacted by authority aforeſaid, That the King our ſovereign lord, his heirs and ſucceſſors, Kings of this realm, from the ſaid firſt day of July next coming, ſhall have all manner of fines, iſſues, amerſciaments and forfeitures that ſhall be loſt, forfeit or aſſeſſed by or upon any ſtewards, bailiffs, or any other miniſters or officers of any franchiſes or liberties, for non-execution, miſ-execution or inſufficient returns of ſuch writs, warrants, precepts or other proceſſes, which to them, or any of them, or to any their deputy or deputies, ſhall be directed, or for any contempt, or other miſdemeanor whatſoever it be, concerning their offices, in and for the due execution or adminiſtration of juſtice; any grant or allowance, or other thing to the contrary hereof notwithstanding. (2) And that the amerſciaments for inſufficient returns of writs, or other proceſſes made by ſtewards or bailiffs of liberties or franchiſes, having returns of writs and execution of the ſame, ſhall be put and ſet upon the heads of ſuch ſtewards or bailiffs, and not upon the ſheriffs.

Fines ſhall be aſſeſſed upon the bailiffs of liberties for inſufficient returns, and not upon the ſheriffs.

Purveyors may provide within liberties, notwithstanding any grant.

X. And furthermore it is enacted by authority aforeſaid, That purveyors aſſigned by the King's commiſſion for proviſions of his Grace, the Queen and their children, ſhall and may provide all victuals, corn, and other kinds of things whatſoever it be, according to their commiſſions, as well within liberties and franchiſes as without; any grants, allowances, or other thing to the contrary or let thereof notwithstanding.

2 Inſt. 3.

XI. Provided alway, That ſuch purveyors ſhall obſerve the ſtatutes for them provided in every behalf.

The King's officers may keep court within the verge, and his clerk of the market only execute his office there.

XII. And over this it is ordained by authority aforeſaid, That in all ſuch places whereſoever the King's highneſſe in his own moſt royal perſon ſhall come to reſt, tarry, abide, or make his repoſe within this realm, or any his dominions, within liberty or without, there and within the verge limited and accuſtomed to his Grace's court, during the time of his abode, his Grace's ſteward, maſter, coroner, and all other his miniſters sters, shall and may keep their courts for justice, and exercise their offices, as shall appertain to them, according to the laws, statutes and customs of this realm, as well within liberties as without. (2) And that his Grace's clerks of the market, and none other, during the same time, as well within liberties as without, shall exercise the office of clerk of the market; any privilege, grant, allowance or other thing to the contrary hereof notwithstanding.

XIII. Provided alway, That this article next afore rehearsed or any thing therein contained, be not in any wise prejudicial to the city of London, but that the same city shall have and use such liberties as they might if this article had never been made.

XIV. And be it also enacted by authority afore said, That all and every statute, act, and acts heretofore made and being in force, against sheriffs, their under-sheriffs, bailiffs, or other ministers, for making or returning of panels or juries, or for due execution or serving of any writs or other process, or for taking of fees, or for reformation of extortions, or for any other thing or things concerning their offices, and all pains and penalties contained in every such statute, shall from henceforth be extended to all stewards, bailiffs and other ministers and officers of liberties and franchises, having returns of writs and executions thereof, in like manner, form and condition as they extend to the sheriffs, their under sheriffs, bailiffs or other ministers, and as if the said stewards, bailiffs or other ministers or officers of liberties and franchises, had been specially and particularly named and rehearsed in such statutes.

All statutes made for sheriffs, under-sheriffs, &c. shall be in force against stewards and other ministers of liberties,

XV. Provided alway, That this article next above rehearsed shall not be prejudicial to any steward, bailiffs of franchises, or to their deputy or deputies, or their clerks, for exercising and occupying their offices over and above one year; but that they and every of them may keep and occupy their said offices for so long time as they be, or hereafter shall be, given to them, as if this article next afore rehearsed had never been made; any of the said acts to be expounded and taken against them or any of them to the contrary thereof notwithstanding.

Stewards and bailiffs of franchises may enjoy their offices above one year.

XVI. And it is enacted by authority afore said, That all such justices to be made as is afore rehearsed in this act, shall have authority and power to keep and hold their sessions of peace, and to deliver the same gaols from time to time only within the same liberties and franchises, and in such places, and in none other places, by reason and authority of that commission, and to do and execute all other things within the same, in as ample and large manner, as any other justices of peace and gaol-delivery in any shire within this realm may do, and have authority to do; any act, grant, use, custom and allowance heretofore had, made or used, or any article in this present act made to the contrary notwithstanding.

XVII. Provided always, That all and singular justices of the peace, gaol-delivery and assise, hereafter to be made, named and appointed by the King's highness, his heirs and successors, within any liberty, where any such justice of peace, gaol-delivery or assize, or any of them, have been made by any person or persons by virtue or authority of any letters patents of the gift or grant of our sovereign lord the King, or his most noble progenitors, Kings of this realm, or otherwise, shall sit and keep their sessions, gaol-delivery, and assizes, only in such place and places as the justices of the said liberties lately have commonly used within the said liberties. (2) And that no person or persons within the said liberties, or any of them, shall be hereafter in any wise compelled by authority of this act to appear out of the said liberties before any other justices of assize, gaol-delivery, or of the peace than before such justices as shall be named and assigned to sit and be by the King's highness, his heirs and successors, within the said liberties in form abovesaid. (3) And that this act shall not extend, or be expounded or taken to any other liberty, privilege or franchise, granted, used or had to any person or persons, other than before in this present act is expressed, and plainly declared and rehearsed; any thing in this act to the contrary notwithstanding, and as if this act had never been made.

Sir Thomas Englefield, justice of Chester and Flint.

XVIII. Provided always, That this act, nor any thing therein contained, be in any wise hurtful or prejudicial unto Sir Thomas Englefield, knight, justice of the county palatine of Chester and Flint, nor to his deputy or deputies, nor to any of them, of, for or concerning the office of justice or justicer of the said county palatine and Flint, nor for or concerning any fees, profits or advantages to the same office in any manner wise appertaining or belonging; (2) but that the said Sir Thomas, his deputy and deputies, and every of them, may lawfully have, occupy and exercise the said office, and also receive and take to their own use all manner profits, commodities and advantages to the said office belonging or appertaining, according to the tenor, purport and effect of such letters patents, as before this time were unto the same Sir Thomas made under the seal of the said county palatine, or under any other seal, by our said sovereign lord the King that now is, of, for or concerning the said office and other the premisses, or any parcel thereof, in as ample and large manner as though this act had never been had ne made; any thing in this act contained to the contrary in any wise notwithstanding.

Cities and towns corporate shall have such liberties, &c. as they had before.

Concerning the laws to be uſed in Wales.

Justice executed in Wales in manner as it is in England.

4 Inst. 233.

The cauſes why a diverſity hath been made between the King's ſubjects of England and Wales.

3 Bulſtr. 117.

Palmer 15.
All perſons born in Wales ſhall enjoy all liberty as

ALBEIT the dominion, principality and country of Wales juſtly and righteouſly is, and ever hath been incorporated, annexed, united and ſubject to and under the imperial crown of this realm, as a very member and joint of the ſame, wherefore the King's moſt royal majeſty of meer droit, and very right, is very head, King, lord and ruler; (2) yet notwithstanding, becauſe that in the ſame country, principality and dominion, divers rights, uſages laws and cuſtoms be far diſcrepant from the laws and cuſtoms of this realm, (3) and alſo becauſe that the people of the ſame dominion have, and do daily uſe a ſpeech nothing like, ne conſonant to the natural mother tongue uſed within this realm, (4) ſome rude and ignorant people have made diſtinction and diverſity between the King's ſubjects of this realm, and his ſubjects of the ſaid dominion and principality of Wales, whereby great diſcord, variance, debate, diſviſion, murmur and ſedition hath grown between his ſaid ſubjects; (5) his Highneſs therefore of a ſingular zeal, love and favour that he beareth towards his ſubjects of his ſaid dominion of Wales, minding and intending to reduce them to the perfect order, notice and knowledge of his laws of this his realm, and utterly to extirp all and ſingular the ſiniſter uſages and cuſtoms differing from the ſame, and to bring the ſaid ſubjects of this his realm, and of his ſaid dominion of Wales, to an amicable concord and unity, hath by the deliberate advice, conſent and agreement of the lords ſpiritual and temporal, and the commons, in this preſent parliament aſſembled, and by the authority of the ſame, ordained, enacted and eſta bliſhed, That his ſaid country or dominion of Wales, ſhall be, ſtand and continue for ever from henceforth incorporated, united and annexed to and with this his realm of England; (6) and that all and ſingular perſon and perſons, born and to be born in the ſaid principality, country or dominion of Wales, ſhall have, have, enjoy and inherit all and singular freedoms, liberties, other subjects in England do. rights, privileges and laws within this his realm, and other the King's dominions, as other the King's subjects naturally born within the same have, enjoy and inherit.

II. And that all and singular person and persons inheritable to any manors, lands, tenements, rents, reversions, services or other hereditaments, which shall descend after the feast of All-Saints next coming, within the said principality, country or dominion of Wales, or within any particular lordship, part or parcel of the said country or dominion of Wales, shall for ever, from and after the said feast of All-Saints, inherit and be inheritable to the same manors, lands, rents, tenements, reversions and hereditaments, after the English tenure, without division or partition, and after the form of the laws of this realm of England, and not after any Welsh tenure, ne after the form of any Welsh laws or customs; (2) and that the laws, ordinances and statutes of this realm of England, for ever, and none other laws, ordinances, ne statutes, from and after the said feast of All-Saints next coming, shall be had, used, practised and executed in the said country or dominion of Wales, and every part thereof, in like manner, form and order, as they be and shall be had, used, practised, and executed in this realm, and in such like manner and form as hereafter by this act shall be further established and ordained; any act, statute, usage, custom, precedent, liberty, privilege, or other thing had, made, used, granted or suffered to the contrary in any wise notwithstanding.

The laws of England shall be used in Wales. Dyer, 113. Plowd. 120.

III. And forasmuch as there be many and divers lordships marchers within the said country or dominion of Wales, lying between the shires of England and the shires of the said country or dominion of Wales, and being no parcel of any other shires where the laws and due correction is used and had, by reason whereof hath ensued, and hath been practised, perpetrated, committed and done, within and among the said lordships and countries to them adjoining, manifold and divers detestable murders, brenting of houses, robberies, thefts, trespasses, routs, riots, unlawful assemblies, embraceries, maintenances, receiving of felons, oppressions, ruptures of the peace, and manifold other malefacts, contrary to all laws and justice; and the said offenders thereupon making their refuge from lordship to lordship, were and continued without punishment or correction; (2) for due reformation whereof, and forasmuch as divers and many of the said lordships marchers be now in the hands and possession of our sovereign lord the King, and the smallest number of them in the possession of other lords, it is therefore enacted by the authority aforesaid, that divers of the said lordships marchers shall be united, annexed and joined to divers of the shires of England, and divers of the said lordships marchers shall be united, annexed and joined to divers of the shires of the said country or dominion of Wales, in manner and form hereafter following; (3) and that all the residue of the said lordships marchers within the said country or dominion of Wales, shall be severed and divided into certain particular counties or shires, that is to say, the county or shire of Monmouth, the XXVI. Be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, Commissions to divide the shires of Wales into hundreds. That immediately upon the prorogation or dissolution of this present parliament, the lord chancellor of England shall direct the King's commission under his Grace's great seal, to such persons as to him shall be thought convenient, to enquire and view all the said shires of Kayermarthen, Pembroke, Cardigan, Monmouth, Brecknock, Radnor, Montgomery, Glamorgan and Denbigh, and every part and parcel of them; and upon such view and search, to divide them and every of them into so many hundreds as they shall think most meet and convenient; (2) and the hundreds so divided shall return and certify with the said commission into the high court of chancery before the said feast of All-Saints, and the same to remain of record, and to be of such force and effect as it were by act of parliament; (3) and that the said hundreds, after the said certificate, shall be used and taken as other hundreds be in every other shire within this realm of England.

XXVII. Furthermore it is enacted by the authority aforesaid, Commissions to inquire the laws and customs of Wales. That immediately after the prorogation or dissolution of this present parliament, the lord chancellor of England shall direct the King's commission under his Grace's great seal to such persons as to him shall be thought convenient, to enquire and search out, by all ways and means that they can, all and singular laws, usages and customs used within the said dominion and country of Wales; (2) and the same shall return and certify to the King's highness, and his most honourable council, before the said feast of All-Saints next coming; (3) and that upon deliberate advice thereof had and taken, all such laws, usages and customs as the King's highness and his said most honourable council shall think expedient, requisite and necessary to be had, used and exercised in the before rehearsed shires, or any of them, or in any other shire of the dominion or country of Wales, shall stand and be of full strength virtue and effect, and shall be for ever inviolably observed, had, used and executed in the same shires, as if this act had never been had ne made; any thing in the same act contained to the contrary in any wise notwithstanding.

XXVIII. And it is further enacted by the authority aforesaid, Two knights for the shire of Monmouth, and one burghers for the town. That for this present parliament, and all other parliaments to be holden and kept for this realm, two knights shall be chosen and elected to the same parliament for the shire of Monmouth, and one burghers for the borough of Monmouth, in like manner, form and order, as knights and burghesses of the parliament be elected and chosen in all other shires of this realm of England,
(2) and

(2) and that the same knights and burgeses shall have like dignity, preeminence and privilege, (3) and shall be allowed such fees, as other knights and burgeses of the parliament have been allowed; (4) and the knights fees to be levied, perceived, received, gathered and paid in such manner, form and order, as such fees be gathered, levied, perceived, received and paid in other shires of this realm of England; (5) and the burgeses fees to be levied as well within the borough of Monmouth as within all other ancient boroughs within the said shire of Monmouth.

Knights and burgeses for the parliament in Wales, and their fees.

XXIX. And that for this present parliament, and all other parliaments to be holden and kept for this realm, one knight shall be chosen and elected to the same parliaments for every of the shires of Brecknock, Radnor, Mountgomery and Denbigh, and for every other shire within the said country or dominion of Wales; (2) and for every borough being a shire town within the said country or dominion of Wales, except the shire town of the foresaid county of Merioneth, one burges; (3) and the election to be in like manner, form and order, as knights and burgeses of the parliament be elected and chosen in other shires of this realm; (4) and that the knights and burgeses, and every of them, shall have like dignity, preeminence and privilege, and shall be allowed such fees, as other knights of the parliament have and be allowed; (5) and the knights fees to be levied and gathered of the commons of the shire that they be elected in; (6) and the burgeses fees to be levied and gathered as well of the boroughs and shire-towns as they be burgeses of, as of all other ancient boroughs within the same shires.

Lords marchers shall keep their liberties.

Farther provisions relating hereto, 1 & 2 Ph. & M. c. 15. f. 6.

XXX. And it is further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That all and every lay and temporal person and persons, now being lords marchers, and having any lordships marchers or lordships royal, shall from and after the said feast of All-Saints have all such mysfes and profits of their tenants, as they have had or used to have at the first entry into their lands in times past, (2) and also shall have, hold and keep, within the precinct of their lordships, courts baron, court leets and law-days and all and every thing to the same courts belonging; (3) and also shall have within the precinct of the said lordships or law-day, waife, straife, infanthes, outfanthes, treasuretrove, deodands, goods and chattels of felons, and of persons condemned or outlawed of felony or murder, or put in exigent for felony or murder, and also wreck de mer, wharfage and customs of strangers, as they have had in times past, and as though such privileges were granted unto them by our sovereign lord the King by point of charter, any thing in this present act to the contrary notwithstanding.

The customs of North Wales and the county palatine of Lancaster saved,

XXXI. Provided alway, That this present act, nor any thing therein contained, shall take away or derogate any laws, usages or laudable customs now used within the three shires of North Wales; (2) nor shall not deprive nor take away the whole liberties of the duchy of Lancaster, but that the said liberties shall ſhall continue and be uſed in every lordſhip, parrel of the ſaid duchy, within the dominion and country of Wales, as the liberties of the ſaid duchy, be uſed in ſhire ground, and not county palatine, within this realm of England.

XXXII. Provided alſo, That this act, nor any thing therein contained, do not extend nor be prejudicial to any perſon or perſons, to avoid any patent, joint patent of any office fees, annuities or reverſion of any office fees or annuities to them granted for term of their life or lives, by our ſovereign lord the King, or by any other perſon or perſons, either for the uſing, exerciſing or occupying any manner of office or otherwiſe; (2) but that they ſhall have and enjoy their ſaid fees, and all other offices or conſtableſhips, porterships, ſtewardſhips of leets, law-days, court barons and other offices, being not repugnant againſt this act; (3) and in caſe any ſuch offices be repugnant againſt this act, that then the grantees to have and enjoy their fees during their life or lives; any article or claufe in this preſent act to the contrary in any wiſe notwithstanding.

thereupon to be made in every ſhire within the ſaid country and dominion of Wales; (2) and that every ſuch ſuſpending, repeal and revocation, ſo to be had and made by the King's highneſs, ſhall be as good and effectual to all intents and purpoſes, as if the ſame had been done by authority of this preſent parliament; this act, or any thing therein contained to the contrary thereof notwithstanding.

The King may erect in Wales ſo many courts and juſtices, &c. as he will.

XXXVII. And where by this preſent act there is appointed one chancery and one exchequer at Brecknock, and another chancery and exchequer at Denbigh, it is enacted by authority aforeſaid, That the King's highneſs, from time to time, within the term of five years next after the end of this parliament, for due miniſtration of juſtice in the ſaid country of Wales, ſhall have power and authority to erect, make and ordain ſuch court or courts, and ſo many courts of record, and ſuch and ſo many juſtices, miniſters, officers and clerks, as by his highneſs within the time of five years next after the end of this preſent parliament ſhall be thought ſufficient and convenient, as well for the due execution of this act, or of any thing or things that ſhall be had, done or made by authority of the ſame, as for the good governance and rule of the ſaid country of Wales.

The office of prothonotary and clerk of the crown.

XXXVIII. Provided alway, That this act, or any thing or things to be done by authority thereof, ſhall not be prejudicial to any perſon or perſons, which now have by the King's letters patents any office or offices of prothonotary or clerk of the crown in the ſaid country or dominion of Wales; but that they and every of them ſhall and may ſtill have and uſe their offices in as large and ample manner, form, faſhion and condition, as if this act, or any thing to be done by authority thereof, had never been had or made, any thing in this act to the contrary thereof notwithstanding.

Lord Ferrers's offices in Wales reſerved.

XXXIX. Provided alſo, That this act, or any thing therein contained, extend not, or in any wiſe be prejudicial or hurtful to Sir Walter Devereux, knight of the noble order of the Garter, and Lord Ferrers of Chartley, of, for and concerning the offices of chief juſtices of South Wales, the office of chamberlain of South Wales, and of the counties of Carmarthen and Cardigan in South Wales aforeſaid, and of and for the office of the ſtewardſhip of the lordſhip of Bealthe in the marches of South Wales, and of and for the office of receiverſhip of the ſaid lordſhip of Bealthe, or of, for or concerning any of the ſaid offices; (2) but that the ſaid lord Ferrers may have, uſe, exerciſe and enjoy the ſaid offices, and every of them, with all fees, wages, emoluments, commodities and profits to the ſame offices, or to any of them in any wiſe belonging or appertaining, in as large and ample manner, form and condition, as if this act had

C A P. XXVIII.

FOrasmuch as manifest synne, vicious, carnal and abominable living is dayly used and committed commonly in such little and small abbeys, priories and other religious houses of monks, canons and nuns, where the congregation of such religious persons is under the number of twelve persons, whereby the governors of such religious houses, and their covent, spoyle, destroye, consume and utterly waste, as well their churches, monasteries, priories, principal houses, farms, granges, lands, tenements and hereditaments, as the ornaments of their churches, and their goods and chatells, to the high displeasure of Almighty God, slander of good religion, and to the great infamy of the King's highness and the realm, if redress should not be had thereof. And albeit that many continual visitations hath been heretofore had, by the space of two hundred years and more, for an honest and charitable reformation of such unthrifty, carnal and abominable living, yet nevertheless little or none amendment is hitherto had, but their vicious living shamelessly encreaseth and augmenteth, and by a cursed custom so rooted and infected, that a great multitude of the religious persons in such small houses do rather choose to rove abroad in apostacy, than to conform themselves to the observation of good religion; so that without such small houses be utterly suppressed, and the religious persons therein committed to great and honourable monasteries of religion in this realm, where they may be compelled to live religiously, for reformation of their lives, the same else be no redress nor reformation in that behalf. In consideration whereof, the King's most royal Majesty, being supreme head on earth, under God, of the church of England, dayly studying and desiring the increase, advancement and exaltation of true doctrine and virtue in the said church, to the only glory and honour of God, and the totalextirping and destruction of vice and sin, having knowledge that the premisses be true, as well by the accompts of his late visitations, as by sundry credible informations, considering also that divers and great solemn monasteries of this realm, wherein (thanks be to God) religion is right well kept and observed, be destitute of such full number of religious persons, as they ought and may keep, hath thought good that a plain declaration should be made of the premisses, as well to the lords spiritual and temporal, as to other his loving subjects the commons, in this present parliament assembled: whereupon the said lords and commons, by a great deliberation, finally be resolved, that it is and shall be much more to the pleasure of Almighty God, and for the honour of this his realm, that the possessions of such small religious houses now being spent, spoiled and wasted for increase and maintenance of sin, should be used and committed to better uses, and the unthrifty religious persons, so spending the same, to be compelled to reform their lives: And thereupon most humbly desire the King's highness that it may be enacted by authority of this present parliament, That his Majesty shall have and enjoy to him and his heirs for ever, all and singular such monasteries, priories and other religious houses of monks, canons and nuns, of what kinds of diversities of habits, rules or order soever they be called or named, which have not in lands, tenements, rents, tythes, portions and other hereditaments, above the clear yearly value of two hundred pound. (2) And in like manner shall have and enjoy all the sites and circuits of every such religious houses, and all and singular the manors, granges, meases, lands, tenements, rents, reversions, services, tithes, pensions, portions, churches, chapels, advowsons, patronages, annuities, rights, entries, conditions, and other hereditaments appertaining or belonging to every such monastery, priory or other religious house, not having, as is aforesaid, above the said clear yearly value of two hundred pound, in as large and ample manner as the abbots, priors, abbesses, prioresses and other governors of such monasteries, priories and other religious houses now have, or ought to have the same in the right of their houses.

(3) And that also his Highness shall have to him and to his heirs all and singular such monasteries, abbeys and priories, which at any time within one year next before the making of this act hath been given and granted to his Majesty by any abbot, prior, abbeys or prioresses, under their convent seals, or that otherwise hath been suppressed or dissolved, and all and singular the manors, lands, tenements, rents, services, reversions, tithes, pensions, portions, churches, chapels, advowsons, patronages, rights, entries, conditions, and all other interests and hereditaments to the same monasteries, abbeys and priories, or to any of them appertaining or belonging; (4) to have and to hold all and singular the premises, with all their rights, profits, jurisdictions and commodities, unto the King's majesty, and his heirs and assigns for ever, to do and use therewith his and their own wills, to the pleasure of Almighty God, and to the honour and profit of this realm.

II. And it is ordained and enacted by the authority aforesaid, That all and every person and persons, and bodies politick, which now have, or hereafter shall have, any letters patents of the King's highness, of any of the sites, circuits, manors, lands, tenements, rents, reversions, services, tithes, pensions, portions, churches, chapels, advowsons, patronages, tithes, entries, conditions, interests or other hereditaments, which appertained to any monasteries, abbeys or priories, heretofore given or granted to the King's highness, or otherwise suppressed or dissolved, or which appertaineth to any of the monasteries, abbeys, priories or other religious houses, that shall be suppressed or dissolved by the authority of this act, shall have and enjoy the said sites, circuits, manors, lands, tenements, rents, reversions, services, tithes, pensions, portions, churches, chapels, advowsons, patronages, tithes, entries, conditions, interests and all other hereditaments, contained and specified in their letters patents now being thereof made, and to be contained and expressed in any letters patents hereafter to be made, according to the tenor, purport and effect of any such letters patents; patents; and ſhall alfo have all ſuch actions, ſuits, entries and remedies to all intents and purpoſes, for any thing and things contained in every ſuch letters patents now made, or to be contained in any ſuch letters hereafter to be made, in like manner, form and conditions, as the abbots, priors, abbeſſes, prioſſes, and other chief governors of any religious houſes which had the ſame, might or ought to have had, if they had not been ſuppreſſed or diſſolved.

III. Saving to every perſon and perſons, and bodies politick, their heirs and ſucceſſors, (other than the abbots, priors, abbeſſes, prioſſes, and other chief governors of the ſaid religious houſes ſpecified in this act, and the covents of the ſame, and their ſucceſſors, and ſuch as pretend to be founders, patrons or donors of ſuch religious houſes, or of any lands, tenements or hereditaments belonging to the ſame, and their heirs and ſucceſſors) all ſuch right, title, intereſt, poſſeſſions, leaſes for years, rents, ſervices, annuities, commodities, fees, offices, liberties and livings, penſions, portions, corrodiſes, ſynodies, proxies, and all other profits, as they or any of them hath, ought or might have had, in or to any of the ſaid monaſteries, abbies, priories or other religious houſes, or in or to any manors, lands, tenements, rents, reverſions, tiſhes, penſions, portions, or other hereditaments appertaining or belonging, or that appertained to any of the ſaid monaſteries, priories or other religious houſes, as if the ſame monaſteries, priories or other religious houſes had not been ſuppreſſed by this act, but had continued in their eſſential bodies and ſtates that they now be, or were in.

others.

IV. Provided always, and be it enacted, That ſoſmuch as divers of the chief governors of ſuch religious houſes, determining the utter ſpoil and deſtruction of their houſes, and dreading the ſuppreſſing thereof, for the maintenance of their deteſtable lives, have lately fraudently and craftily made ſeoffments, eſtates, gifts, grants and leaſes, under the covent ſeals, or ſuffered recoveries of their manors, lands, tenements and hereditaments in fee-ſimple, or fee-tail, for term of life or lives, or for years, or charged the ſame with rents or corrodiſes, to the great decay and diminution of the houſes; that all ſuch crafty and fraudulent recoveries, ſeoffments, eſtates, gifts, grants and leaſes, and every of them, made by any of the ſaid chief governors of ſuch religious houſes, under their covent ſeals, within one year next before the making of this act, ſhall be utterly void and of none effect: (2) provided always, That ſuch perſon and perſons as have leaſes for term of life or years, whereupon is reſerved the old rents and fermes accuſtomed, and ſuch as have any offices, fees or corrodiſes, that have been accuſtomed or uſed in ſuch religious houſes, and have bought any livery or living in any ſuch houſes, ſhall have and enjoy their ſaid leaſes, offices, fees, corrodiſes, liberties, liveries and livings, as if this act had never been made.

Fraudulent aſſurances made

V. And it is further enacted, by authority aforeſaid, That the King's highneſs ſhall have and enjoy to his own proper uſe, all jewels, goods, chattels, debts of monaſteries, given to the King.

ſuch ornaments, jewels, goods, chattels and debts, which appertained or belonged to any of the chief governors of the ſaid monaſteries or religious houſes, in the right of their ſaid monaſteries or houſes, at the firſt day of March in the year of our Lord God 1535. or any time ſithen whenſoever, and to whoſe poſſeſſion ſoever they ſhall come or be found, except only ſuch beaſts, grain and woods, and ſuch other like chattels and revenues, as have been ſold before the ſaid firſt day of March or ſithen, for the neceſſary or reaſonable expences or charges of any of the ſaid monaſteries or houſes.

Provided always, That ſuch of the ſaid chief governors which have been elect or made abbot, prior, abbeſs or prioceſs of any of the ſaid religious houſes ſithen the firſt day of January, which was in the year of our Lord God 1534. and by reaſon thereof be bounden to pay the firſt-fruits to the King's highneſs, at days to come, limited by their bonds made for the ſame, that in every ſuch caſe ſuch chief governors and their ſureties, or any of them, ſhall be clearly diſcharged by authority of this act, againſt the King's highneſs, and all other perſons, for the payment of ſuch ſums of money as they ſtand bounden to pay for the ſaid firſtfruits, or for any part thereof. And forasmuch as the clear yearly value of all the ſaid monaſteries, priories and other religious houſes in this realm, is certiſied into the King's exchequer, amongſt the books of the yearly valuation of all the ſpiritual poſſeſſions of this realm, amongſt which ſhall and may appear the certainty and number of ſuch ſmall and little religious houſes, as have not in lands, tenements, rents, tythes, portions and other hereditaments, above the ſaid clear yearly value of two hundred pounds:

The King
ſhall have the actual poſſeſſion of the abbey lands.

VI. Be it therefore enacted by authority aforeſaid, That the King's highneſs ſhall have and enjoy, according to this act, the actual and real poſſeſſion of all and ſingular ſuch monaſteries, priories and other religious houſes, as ſhall appear by the ſaid certiſicate remaining in the King's exchequer, not to have in lands, tenements, rents, tiſhes, portions and other hereditaments, above the ſaid clear yearly value of two hundred pounds, ſo that his Highneſs may lawfully give, grant and diſpoſe them, or any of them, at his will and pleaſure, to the honour of God, and the wealth of this realm, without farther inquiſitions or offices to be had or found for the ſame.

* In conſideration of which premiſſes to be had to his Highneſs, and to his heirs, as is aforeſaid, his Maſteſty is pleaſed and contented, of his moſt excellent charity, to provide to every chief head and governor of every ſuch religious houſe, during their lives, ſuch yearly penſions and benefices as for their degrees and qualities ſhall be reaſonable and convenient, wherein his Highneſs will have moſt tender reſpect to ſuch of the ſaid chief governors, as well and truly preſerve and keep the goods and ornaments of their houſes, to the uſe of his Grace, without ſpoil, waſte, or embezzling the ſame; and alſo his Maſteſty will ordain and provide, that the covepts of every ſuch religious houſe ſhall have

have their capacities, if they will, to live honeſtly and virtuoſly abroad, and ſome convenient charity diſpoſed to them towards their living, or elſe ſhall be committed to ſuch honourable great monaſteries of this realm wherein good religion is obſerved, as ſhall be limited by his Highneſs, there to live religiously during their lives ; and it is ordained by the authority aforeſaid, That the chief governors and covents of ſuch honourable great monaſteries ſhall take and accept into their houſes, from time to time, ſuch number of the perſons of the ſaid covents as ſhall be aſſigned and appointed by the King's highneſs, and keep them religiously, during their lives, within their ſaid monaſteries, in like manner and form as the covents of ſuch great monaſteries be ordered and kept.

Provided alway, that all archbiſhops, biſhops and other perſons which be or ſhall be chargeable to and for the collection of the tenths, granted and going out of the ſpiritual poſſeſſions of this realm, ſhall be diſcharged and acquitted of and for ſuch parts and portions of the ſaid tenths wherewith the ſaid houſes of religion, ſuppreſſed and diſſolved by this act, were charged or chargeable to the King's highneſs, except of ſuch ſums of money thereof, as they or any of them have or ſhall have received for the ſaid tenths, of the chief governors of ſuch religious houſes.

Provided alſo, That where the clergy of the province of Canterbury ſtand and be indebted to the King's highneſs in great ſums of money, remaining yet unpaid, of the reſt of a hundred thouſand pounds granted and given to his Grace in their convocation, towards the payment whereof the ſaid religious houſes ſhould have been contributory if they had not been ſuppreſſed by this act ; and alſo ſome of the governors of the ſaid religious houſes have been collectors for levying of the ſaid debt, and have received thereof great ſums of money yet remaining in their hands ; the King's moſt royal majeſty is pleaſed and contented to deduct, abate, releaſe and defalk, to the ſaid clergy, of the ſaid reſt yet unpaid, as well ſuch ſums of money as any the chief governors of ſuch religious houſes hath received, and not paid, as ſo much money as every of the ſaid religious houſes, ſuppreſſed by this act, were rated and taxed to pay in any one year, to and for the payment of the ſaid hundred thouſand pounds : and alſo the King's majeſty is pleaſed and contented, that it be enacted by authority aforeſaid, that his Highneſs ſhall ſatisfy, content and pay all and ſingular ſuch juſt and true debts which been owing to any perſon or perſons by the chief governors of any the ſaid religious houſes, in as large and ample manner as the ſaid chief governors ſhould or ought to have done if this act had never been made :

Provided alway, That the King's highneſs, at any time after the making of this act, may at his pleaſure ordain and declare, by his letters patents under his great ſeal, that ſuch of the ſaid religious houſes which his Highneſs ſhall not be diſpoſed to have ſuppreſſed nor diſſolved by authority of this act, ſhall ſtill continue, remain and be in the same body corporate, and in the said essential estate, quality and condition, as well in possessions as otherwise, as they were afore the making of this act, without any suppression or dissolution thereof, or of any part of the same, by authority of this act, and that any such ordinance and declaration, so to be made by the King's highness, shall be good and effectual to the chief governors of such religious houses which his Majesty will not have suppressed, and to their successors, according to the tenors and purports of the letters patents thereof to be made; any thing or things contained in this act to the contrary hereof notwithstanding.

Provided also, That where the clergy of the province of York stand and be indebted to the King's highness in great sums of money yet unpaid, of the rest of such sums of money which was granted by them to his Majesty in their convocation, towards the payment whereof the religious houses that shall be suppressed and dissolved by this act, being within the same province, should have been contributory if they had not been dissolved, and also some of the governors of the said religious houses within the said province, that shall be suppressed by this act, have been collectors for levying of part of the said sums of money granted to the King's highness as is aforesaid, and have certain sums thereof in their hands yet unpaid, the King's majesty is pleased and contented to deduct, abate, release and defalk, to the said clergy of the said province of York, of the rest of their said debt yet unpaid, as well such of the said sums of money, as any chief governors of any religious houses within the same province, that shall be suppressed by this act, hath collected and not paid, as so much money as every of the said religious houses, suppressed by this act, were rated and taxed to pay in any one year, towards the payment of the said sums of money granted to the King's highness.

VII. Provided always, That this act, or any thing or things therein contained, shall not extend, nor be prejudicial to any abbots or priors of any monasteries or priories being certified into the King's exchequer to have in possessions and profits spiritual and temporal above the clear yearly value of two hundred pounds, for or concerning such cells of religious houses, appertaining or belonging to their monasteries or priories, in which cells the priors or other chief governors thereof be under the obedience of the abbots or priors to whom such cells belong, as the monks or canons of the covents of their monasteries or priories, and cannot sue nor be sued, by the laws of this realm, in or by their own proper names, for the possessions or other things appertaining to such cells whereof they be priors or governors, but must sue and be sued in and by the names of the abbots or priors to whom they be obedient, and to whom such cells belong; (2) and also be priors or governors dative, and removable from time to time, and accountants of the profits of such cells, at the only pleasure and will of the abbots or priors to whom such cells belong; but that every such cell shall be and and remain undiſſolved in the ſame eſtate, quality and condition, as if this act had never been made; any thing in this act to the contrary hereof notwithstanding.

VIII. Statutes made at Westminster, Anno 28 HEN. VIII.
and Anno Dom. 1536.

ACTS made in the parliament begun and holden at Westminster the eighth day of June in the eight and twentieth year of the reign of our most dread sovereign lord King Henry the Eighth, and there continued and kept till the dissolution of the same parliament the eighteenth day of July, to the honour of God, and for the common weal and profit of this his realm.

CAP. I.

An act that abjurers in cases of petty treason shall not have clergy.

A rehearſal of the ſtatute of 21 H. 8. c. 14.
touching the uſing of ſanctuary-perſons.

WHERE in the laſt parliament begun and holden at London the third day of November in the one and twentieth year of the King's moſt gracious reign, and from thence adjourned to Westminster, and there holden and continued by divers and ſundry prorogations, it was enacted, amongſt other things, That ſuch perſon and perſons which did flee or reſort to any pariſh church, cemetery or other like hallowed place, for tuition of his life, by occaſion of any murder, robbery or other felony by the ſame perſon committed, and thereupon confeſſed any murder, felony or other offence before a coroner, for the which the ſame perſon, by the law of this realm afore that time uſed, ſhould abjure and paſs out of this realm, ſhall be directed by the coroner to take his abjuration to any one ſanctuary being within this realm, which the ſame perſon would elect and chooſe, there to remain as a ſanctuary-man abjured during his natural life; (2) and if after ſuch abjuration any perſon ſo abjured came out of the ſame ſanctuary to the which he was aſſigned, and be taken without the ſame ſanctuary, not having the King's ſpecial pardon or licence ſo to do; that then every ſuch perſon abjured, and after abjuration taken without ſanctuary whereunto he was aſſigned, ſhould ſuffer like pain of death, and after ſuch like manner ſhould be ordered, as he ſhould have done and bidden in caſe he had abjured this realm for murder or felony, and after ſuch abjuration had returned again into this realm, contrary

trary to the laws of this land; (3) and it is further ordained by the same act, That if any such sanctuary-person so abjured, or any other person or persons which then were, or at any time after should happen to be, in any sanctuary within this realm for doing of any petty treason, murder or felony, or for being accessory to any such offences; or if any person or persons, which, at any time after the making of the same act, should take any sanctuary of this realm, for any petty treason, murder or felony, or for being accessory to any such offences, or upon abjuration; and so being in sanctuary for any such cause, matter or offence, afterward commit any petty treason, murder or felony within the same sanctuary, or be accessory to any such offences, or go out of the same sanctuary and commit any petty treason, murder or felony, or be accessory to any such offences, and afterward come again to the same sanctuary, or take any other sanctuary for the same, that every such person and persons, being indicted for any of the said causes or offences, should lose the privilege of the sanctuary by him taken, and of every other sanctuary within this realm, for any such cause of petty treason, murder, felony or abjuration, or for any accessory to any such offences.

II. And it was further ordained by the same act, That all foreign pleas triable by the country, which should be pleaded by any person or persons arraigned upon any indictment for any petty treason, murder or felony, should be tried before the same justices afore whom such persons should be arraigned, and by the same jurors of the county that shall try the petty treason, murder or felony, without any further respite or delay; (2) and that no person arraigned for any petty treason, murder or felony, should be admitted to any peremptory challenge above the number of twenty; (3) which act was made to endure to the end of the next parliament, as by the said act, amongst divers clauses and provisions contained in the same, more plainly is expressed.

III. And where also in the same parliament it was enacted, That no person or persons, which should happen to be found guilty, after the laws of this realm, for any manner of petty treasons, or for any wilful murder of malice prepensed, or for robbing of any churches, chapels or other holy places, or for robbing of any person or persons in their dwelling-houses or dwelling places, the owner or dweller in the said house, his wife, his children, or servants then being within, and put in fear and dread by the same; or for robbing of any person or persons in or near about the highways, or for wilful burning of any dwelling-houses, or barns wherein any corn or grain shall happen to be; nor that any person or persons being found guilty of any abetment, procurement, helping, maintaining or counselling of or to any such petty treasons, murders or felonies, should be admitted to the benefit of their clergy, (such as be within holy orders, that is to say, of the orders of subdeacon, or above, all only except) with many other clauses and provisions contained in the said act, as by the same act more plainly appeareth; (2) which act was also made to continue and endure to the last day of the next parliament.

Trial of foreign pleas. No peremptory challenge above the number of 20.

25 H. 8. c. 3. Clergy taken from divers persons which do commit several offences.

IV. And

IV. And where also in the same parliament it was further enacted, That every such person and persons, which should happen to be indicted of any petty treason, wilful burning of houses, murder, robbery or burglary or other felony, according to the tenor and meaning of the said statute next above rehearsed, and thereupon arraigned, did stand mute of malice or froward mind, or challenge peremptory above the number of twenty, or else will not answer directly to the same indictment and felony whereupon they shall be arraigned, that then every such person and persons should lose the benefit and privilege of their clergy.

25 H. 8. c. 3.

V. And it was also ordained by the same act, That if any person or persons be indicted, and found guilty for stealing of any goods or chattels in any county of this realm, or being indicted stand mute of malice, or challenge peremptory above the number of twenty persons, or will not answer directly to the law, should also lose the benefit of their clergy, in like manner and form as they should have done if they had been indicted, arraigned and found guilty in the same county where the same robbery or burglary was done, if it shall appear to the justices, by evidence or examination, that the said felons or robbers, arraigned before them, should or ought to have lost their clergy by force of the said statute, in case they had been found guilty of the same felonies or burglaries in the same shire where they were committed, as by the said act amongst other things more at large is expressed.

The statute of 25 H. 8. c. 6. rehearsed, and made to continue unto the next parliament.

VI. And whereas also in the said parliament it was further ordained, That the detestable vice of buggery, committed with mankind or beast, should be felony, and that the offenders therein should lose the privilege of their clergy; (2) which act was made to endure to the last day of the next parliament, as by the same act, among other things, it appeareth more at large. (3) Forasmuch as the said acts be beneficial and profitable for the common wealth of this realm: be it therefore enacted by authority of this present parliament, That the said acts, and every of them, and all clauses and provisions contained in the same, shall stand in full strength and virtue; and so from henceforth to continue and endure unto the last day of the next parliament.

Persons in holy orders subject to the same pains that others be. 23 H. 8. c. 11. Made perpetual 32 H. 8. c. 3. Rep. 1 Mar. stat. 1. c. 1. f. 5.

VII. And be it also enacted by authority aforesaid, That such as be within holy orders shall from henceforth stand and be under the same pains and dangers for the offences contained in any of the said statutes, and be used and ordered to all intents and purposes, as other persons not being within holy orders; any provision or exception specified in any of the said acts, or any other usage or custom of this realm, to the contrary thereof notwithstanding. (2) This act to endure unto the last day of the next parliament.

Authority given to the King during three years to allot newly the towns in the ſhires and marches of Wales, notwithstanding the ſtatute of 27 H. 8. c. 26. Continued for three years by 31 H. 8. c. 11.

CAP. IV.

The repeal of the ſtatute made Anno 21. for doulas and Lockerams.

WHERE in the parliament holden at Weſtmiſter the third day of November in the xxi. year of the reign of our ſovereign lord King Henry the Eighth, amongſt other things it was enacted and eſtabliſhed, That no perſon or perſons Engliſh nor ſtranger, denizen or alien, from or after the feaſt of St. Michael the archangel then next following, ſhould bring or convey, or cauſe to be conveyed or brought, by any manner of means, into this realm of England, any linen cloth called doulas or lockerams, unleſs every whole piece of doulas contained in length five ſcore ells of aſſiſe, accounted to every ell one inch of aſſiſe, and in breadth one yard of aſſiſe; and every half piece fifty ells in length, and one yard in breadth of like aſſiſe, and all the whole piece and half piece of one goodneſs in making. (2) And alſo it was there enacted and eſtabliſhed, That every whole piece of lockerams ſhould be of like length as the whole piece of doulas; and every half piece of lockerams ſhould be of like length as the half piece of doulas; and every ſuch whole piece and half piece of lockerams to be in breadth a whole yard lacking a nail of the yard, (3) and every piece and half piece to be in like goodneſs by all the length of the ſame piece, (4) upon pain of forfeiture of the ſame doulas and lockerams ſo to be brought or conveyed into this realm, not containing the full length, breadth and goodneſs, or the value thereof, as in the ſame ſtatute more plainly at large doth appear: (5) ſithen the making of which act a great number of the King's ſubjects, that is to ſay, weavers, tuckers, ſpinners, dyers, and wool-pickers, and many others, have been idle and without work, to their great impoveriſhing, which more and more is like daily to increaſe, if remedy be not provided; forasmuch as the cloth-makers, which before the making of the ſaid act were wont to convey their ſaid cloths into Britain, where the ſaid linen cloth called doulas and lockerams is made, and from thence to bring with them the ſaid linen cloth called doulas and lockeram, which they cannot do, ſithence the making of the ſaid act, without danger and forfeiture of the ſaid linen cloth, by reaſon that there ſhall no Engliſhman be ſuffered to carry or convey any of the ſaid cloths, called doulas or lockerams, from the parties of beyond the ſea into this realm, of the length contained in the ſaid act; which will make the ſaid cloth-makers to leave the making of their cloth, to the great and manifold perils of the King's ſubjects: be it therefore enacted by the King our ſovereign lord, with the aſſent of the lords ſpiritual and temporal, and the commons, in this preſent parliament aſſembled, and by the authority of the ſame, That the ſaid act made in the ſaid xxi. year, A repeal of the ſaid ſtatute. be to all intents, purpoſes and conſtructions in the law, made utterly

An act concerning the succession of the crown.

Ex edit. Pult.

IN their most humble wise shewen to your most royal Majesty, the lords spiritual and temporal, and all other your most loving and obedient subjects, the commons in this your most high court of parliament assembled, that where in your last parliament begun and holden at London the iii. day of November, in the xxi. year of your most gracious reign, and from thence adjourned to Westminster, and there holden and continued by divers and sundry prorogations unto the xv. day of January, in the xxv. year of your most noble reign, and then there holden: it was made and ordained an act concerning amongst many things as well for ratification, and confirmation of your marriage, then had and solemnized between your Highness and the late lady Anne Bolein marchess of Pembroke, as for the limitation of the succession of your imperial crown of this realm, to the issue of your body begotten, and to be begotten of the body of the said lady Anne, with divers remainders over for default of such issue, as in the said act plainly and particularly more at large is expressed and mentioned. And where also by the said act it was ordained and established, that all and singular your subjects should take a corporal oath for the fulfilling, maintaining and defending the whole effects and contents of the said act. And it was further ordained by the said act amongst other things, that if any person or persons, subject or resident within this realm, or within any your Grace's dominions, after the 1. day of May, then next ensuing, by writing, print, deed, or act procured, or did, or caused to be procured or done any thing or things to the prejudice, slander, disturbance, or derogation of the said matrimony, solemnized between your Majesty and the said lady Anne, or to the peril, slander, or disherison of any the issues, and heirs of your Highness, being limited by the same act to inherit, and to be inheritable to the crown of this realm, whereby any such issues or heirs of your Highness might be destroyed, disturbed, or interrupted in body, or title of inheritance to the crown of this realm,

A rehearal of the stat. of 25 H. 8. c. 22. touching the King's marriages, and limitation of succession to the crown.

as to them is limited in the same act: that then every such person and persons, and their aiders, counsellors, maintainers, and abettors, and every of them, for every such offence, should be adjudged high traitors, and that every such offence should be adjudged high treason. And the offenders and their aiders, counsellors, maintainers, and abettors, and every of them being lawfully convicted of such offence by presentment, verdict, confession or process, according to the customs and laws of this realm, should suffer pains of death, as in cases of high treason: as in the said act amongst many other articles, clauses, and provisions, is more at large mentioned and specified.

II. And also in the said parliament holden at Westminster by prorogation, in the third day of November in the xxvi. year of your most noble reign, another act was made for declaration and ratification of the said oath, which divers of your subjects then had taken, and all your subjects after that were bound to take for due observation of the said act of the said succession, as by the same act amongst other things is also specified and expressed. Stat. 26 H. 8. 2.

III. And albeit, most dread sovereign lord, the said acts were then made, as it was then thought by your Majesty, nobles and commons, upon a pure, perfect, and clear foundation, thinking the said marriage then had between your Highness and the said lady Anne, in their consciences to have been pure, sincere, perfect and good, and so was reputed, accepted, and taken in the realm, till now of late, that God of his infinite goodness, from whom no secret things can be hid, hath caused to be brought to light, evident and open knowledge, as well certain, just, true, and lawful impediments unknown at the making of the said acts, and sithen that time hath been confessed by the said lady Anne, before the most reverend father in God Thomas archbishop of Canterbury, metropolitan and primate of all England, sitting judicially for the same: by the which plainly appeareth, that the said marriage between your Grace and the same lady Anne, was never good nor consonant to the laws, but utterly void and of none effect. By reason whereof your Highness was and is lawfully divorced, and separated from the bonds of the said marriage in the life of the said lady Anne. And this notwithstanding most gracious sovereign lord, the lady Elizabeth your daughter being born under the said unlawful marriage, by virtue and authority of the act of your succession above remembred, for lack of heir males of your body should immediately succeed as your lawful heir in the most royal estate of your imperial crown of this realm, against all honour, equity, reason, and good conscience, if remedy should not be provided for the same. And over this, most dread sovereign lord, albeit that your Majesty not knowing of any lawful impediments, entered into the bonds of the said unlawful marriage, and advanced the same lady Anne to the honour of the sovereign estate of Queen of this realm: yet nevertheless she inflamed with pride, and carnal desires received of your Highness, confederated herself with George Boleine late lord Rochford, her natural brother, Henry Norris esquire, Francis Weston knight, William Brereton esquire, gentlemen of your privy chamber, and Mark Smeton groom of your said privy chamber, and so being confederate, she and they most traiterously committed mitted and perpetrated divers detestable and abominable treasons, to the most fearful peril and danger of the destruction of your most royal person, and to the utter loss, dismemberment and desolation of this realm, if God of his goodness had not in due time brought their said treasons to light: for the which being plainly and manifestly proved, they were convicted, and attainted by the due course and order of your common laws of this realm, and have suffered according to their merits, as by the records thereof more at large may appear.

IV. And albeit most gracious and most dread sovereign lord, divers and sundry honourable, just, true and reasonable clauses be contained and expressed in the same act, made for the establishment of your succession, which be very necessary and profitable for the common wealth of this realm: yet nevertheless because certain articles and clauses contained in the same, concerning the ratification of your said unlawful marriage, between your Highness and the said lady Anne, and the limitation of your succession to the issues of your body had by the said lady Anne, and the other expressed and mentioned in both the acts above remembered for the defending and maintaining the whole effects and contents of the said act, which clauses and articles be now become of late so dishonourable and so far distant from the due course of your common laws of your realm, and also so much against good reason, equity and good conscience, that they cannot be sustained, nor tolerated to continue, and endure without great peril of division hereafter to be had, by occasion of the same amongst us your said most humble, loving, and obedient subjects, and our posterities. It may therefore please your Highness of your most excellent and accustomable goodness, and for the entire love, favour, and hearty affection that your Majesty hath always borne, and beareth to the common wealth of this your realm, and for the conservation of the good peace, unity, and rest of us your most bounden and obedient subjects, and of our said posterities, that it may be enacted by authority of this present parliament, that the said ii. acts and every of them, and all clauses, articles, and provisions therein contained, from the first day of this present parliament, shall be repealed, adnulled, and made frustrate, and of none effect.

26. H. 8. c. 2.

They shall not

V. Provided alway that the said repeal, and adnullation of the said act, which was made for the establishment of your succession, shall not be taken, expounded, nor understood to discharge any person or persons which have done or committed any offences of treason or misprision of treason contrary to the same act, or any part thereof, at any time afore the first day of this present parliament: but that such offences of treason and misprision of treason, done and committed by any person or persons, contrary to the same act, afore the first day of this present parliament, shall be, and remain in the same degree and quality to be punished by authority of the same act, as if the same act had not been repealed: the repeal and adnullation of the same act by authority of this present parliament in any wise notwithstanding.

VI. Nevertheless the King's most royal majesty, most graciously considering that divers and many of his most loving and obedient ſubjects now lately afore the beginning of this preſent parliament, have ſpoken, done, practiſed, procured, and attempted, as well by word, writing, printing, as by exterior acts, not only againſt the ſaid unlawful marriage, ſolemnized between his Highneſs and the ſaid lady Anne, and to the prejudice, ſlander, diſturbance, and derogation thereof, but alſo to the peril, ſlander and diſheriſon of the lady Elizabeth the King's daughter illegitimate born under the ſame marriage, and to the let, diſturbation and interruption of the ſaid lady Elizabeth to the title of the crown: and alſo to deprive the ſaid lady Anne, late Queen, and the ſaid lady Elizabeth, and every of them, of their dignity, title, and name of their royal eſtates, contrary to the tenors, purports, provisions, and ordinances, as well contained in the ſaid act made in the laſt parliament, for the eſtabliſhment of the King's ſucceſſion, as in any other act made in the laſt parliament for puniſhment of treaſons. Which words, doings, practices, procurements, and attempts of his ſaid ſubjects, albeit they proceeded of no malice, but upon true and juſt grounds, for puniſhment of the ſaid late lady Anne, according to her deſerts, and for reformation of the ſaid unlawful marriage, for the ſurety of the King's highneſs, and for the unity and wealth of his realm: yet nevertheless the King's ſaid ſubjects might hereafter happen to be impeached, troubled, and vexed for ſuch their words, doings, acts, procurements, and attempts, as well by reaſon of the ſaid eſtatute, made for the eſtabliſhment of the King's ſucceſſion, and now repealed by this act, as by occaſion of other ſtatutes heretofore made for puniſhment of treaſon and miſpriſon of treaſon, to the great danger and perils of the lives, lands, and goods of the King's ſaid ſubjects, which only for hearty good will, and faithful obedience that they bear to the King's majeſty incurred into the ſaid dangers and perils: the King's highneſs therefore of his moſt bountiful mercy and benignity is pleaſed and contented that it be enacted by authority of this preſent parliament, That all and ſingular his loving ſubjects, which have ſpoken, done, practiſed, committed or attempted, or procured to be done, or attempted directly or indirectly, by words, writings, prints, or any exterior act: any thing or things whatſoever it be, againſt the ſaid marriage, ſolemnized between his Highneſs and the ſaid late Queen Anne, or for the ſetting forth or preferment of the divorce or diſſolution thereof: or againſt the ſaid late Queen Anne, or the ſaid lady Elizabeth, or to any of their ſlanders, perils, or diſheriſons, or have wiſhed, willed, or deſired by words or writings, or invented, imagined, practiſed or attempted any bodily harm to the ſaid late Queen Anne, or lady Elizabeth, or to deprive the ſame late Queen Anne, or lady Elizabeth, or any of them, of the dignity, title or name of their royal eſtates, or have, ſpoken, done, or procured to be done, any other words, writings, printings, wiſhing, willing, thing or things, act or acts againſt the ſaid late Queen Anne, or lady Elizabeth, which is or might be deemed or interpreted for treaſon, or miſpriſon of treaſon by any construction upon any of the statutes of this realm heretofore made, shall be freely and clearly pardoned, discharged, and released by authority of this act, of all those and such treasons and misprisions of treasons above mentioned. And that none of his said loving subjects for any of the said treasons or misprisions of treason above mentioned and specified, shall hereafter at any time, by any manner of means be impeached, vexed, or troubled in their bodies, lives, lands, goods, or chattels, any thing in this act, or in any act or acts heretofore made for treasons or misprisions of treason, to the contrary thereof notwithstanding.

VII. And be it further enacted by authority aforesaid, That the said late Queen Anne, George Bolein, late lord Rochford, Henry Norris esq; Francis Weston knight, William Brereton esq; and Mark Smeton, for their abominable and detestable treasons, by them and every of them most abominably and traiterously committed and done against your Majesty and the realm, shall be by authority of this present parliament convicted, and attainted of high treason, in such manner and form, and accordingly as they be, by the due course and order of your laws of this realm. And that the said late Queen Anne, George lord Rochford, Henry Norris, Francis Weston, William Brereton, and Mark Smeton, and every of them, shall lose and forfeit to your Highness and to your heirs, all such their manors, meases, lands, tenements, rents, reversions, remainders, uses, possessions, offices, rights, conditions, and all other hereditaments, of what names, natures, or qualities soever they be, which they or any of them, or any other to their uses, or to the use of any of them had, or ought to have had of any estate of inheritance in fee-simple or in tail, in use or possession, at the days of their several treasons committed, limited, and expressed in their indictment, or at any time after. Saving to every person and persons, and bodies politick, and to the heirs assigns and successors of every of them (other than to the said late Queen Anne, and the other traitors aforesaid, and the heirs, assigns, and successors of every of them, and all and every other person and persons claiming by them, or any of them, or to their uses, or to the uses of any of them, or to the use of any of their heirs) all such right, title, use, possession, interest, condition, fees, offices, rents, annuities, commons, and all other commodities, and hereditaments, whatsoever they or any of them might, should or ought to have had, if this act had never been had, ne made.

VIII. And over this, most gracious sovereign Lord, for as much as it hath pleased your most royal Majesty, notwithstanding the great and intolerable perils and occasions, which your Highness hath suffered and sustained, as well by occasion of your first unlawful marriage, solemnized between your Highness and the lady Katharine, late princess dowager, as by occasion of the said unlawful marriage between your Highness and the said late Queen Anne, at the most humble petition and intercession of us your nobles in this realm, for the ardent love and fervent affection which your Highneſs beareth to the conſervation of the peace, and unity of the ſame, and for the good and quiet governance thereof, of your moſt excellent goodneſs to enter into marriage again, and have choſen and taken a right noble, virtuous, and excellent lady Queen Jane to your true and lawful wife, and have lawfully celebrated, and ſolemnized marriage with her, according to the laws of holy church: who for her convenient years, excellent beauty, and pureneſs of fleſh and blood, is apt, (God willing) to conceive iſſue by your Highneſs: which marriage is ſo pure and ſincere, without ſpot, doubt, or impediment, that the iſſue procreated under the ſame, when it ſhall pleaſe Almighty God to ſend it, cannot be lawfully, truly, nor juſtly interrupted or diſturbed of the right and title in the ſucceſſion of your crown: It may therefore now pleaſe your moſt gracious Maſteſty, at the moſt humble petition and interceſſion of us your nobles and commons, aſſembled in this preſent parliament, as well for the clear extinguiſhment of all ambiguities, and doubts, as for a pure and perfect unity of us your moſt humble and obedient ſubjects, and of all our poſterities, That it may be enacted by your moſt gracious and royal Maſteſty, by conſent of us the lords ſpiritual and temporal, and the commons in this preſent parliament aſſembled, and by authority of the ſame, in manner and form as hereafter in articles enſueth.

Queen Jane married to the King according to the laws of the church.

IX. Firſt, forasmuch as the marriage heretofore ſolemnized between your Highneſs and the ſaid lady Katharine, late princeſs dowager deceaſed, which afore was lawful wife to your natural brother prince Arthur, and by him carnally known, as hath duly been proved by ſufficient witneſſes, at all times was, is, and ought to be deemed and determined, to be againſt the laws of Almighty God, and not diſpenſable by any human authority, and ſo hath been deemed and determined, as well by the whole clergy of this realm, in both convocations, and by both the univerſities thereof, as by the univerſities of Bononie, Padua, Paris, Orleans, Tolowes, Ainew, and divers other, and alſo by a great number of private writings of many right excellent well learned men: Be it therefore enacted by authority of this preſent parliament, according as it was ordained, and enacted in the ſaid act made in the laſt parliament for the eſta bliſhment of your ſucceſſion, That the ſaid marriage heretofore had, and ſolemnized between your Highneſs and the ſaid lady Katharine, which was before lawful wife to the ſaid prince Arthur your elder brother, and by him carnally known, as doth duly appear by ſufficient proof in a lawful proceſs had and made before the ſaid moſt reverend father in God, Thomas, by the ſufferance of God, archbiſhop of Canterbury, metropolitan and primate of all England, ſhall be, by authority of this preſent parliament, definitively, clearly, and abſolutely declared, deemed, and adjudged to be againſt the laws of Almighty God, and alſo accepted, reputed and taken of no value nor effect, but utterly void and adnichiled: And that the separation thereof made by the said archbishop shall be good and effectual to all intents and purposes, any licence, dispensation, or any other act or acts going before, or ensuing the same, or to the contrary thereof in any wise notwithstanding. And that every such licence, dispensation, act or acts, thing or things, had, made, done, or to be done to the contrary thereof, shall be to all intents void, and of none effect, and so shall be reputed, and taken by and amongst us your true subjects and inhabitants, our heirs and successors of and in your realm and dominions for ever. And that the issue born and procreated under the same unlawful marriage, made and solemnized between your Highness and the said lady Katharine, shall be taken, deemed, and accepted, illegitimate to all intents and purposes, and shall be utterly foreclosed, excluded, and barred to claim, challenge, or demand any inheritance as lawful heir to your Highness by lineal descent.

The marriage between the King and Queen Anne was void, and the separation and divorce between them lawful.

X. And also, for as much as the marriage solemnized between your Highness and the said late Queen Anne, upon true and just causes, was, and is deemed, and adjudged by the said most reverend father, to be of no value ne effect, and a divorce and separation thereof had, and made by the due order and process of the laws of the church of England, before the said reverend father: Be it therefore enacted, by the authority of this present parliament, That the same marriage between your Highness and the said late Queen Anne, shall be taken, reputed, deemed and adjudged to be of no force, strength, virtue, nor effect: and that the separation and divorce thereof had by the sentence and judgment of the said most reverend father, shall be good and effectual, and so hereafter shall be taken and reputed for ever by all your subjects their heirs and successors. And that none appeal, repeal, revocation, or adnullation thereof, or any part of the same, shall hereafter be had, taken, allowed, or admitted in any behalf. And that all the issues and children born and procreated under the same marriage between your Highness and the said late Queen Anne, shall be taken, reputed, and accepted to be illegitimate to all intents and purposes, and utterly foreclosed, excluded, and barred to claim, challenge, or demand any inheritance as lawful heir or heirs to your Highness by lineal descent, the said former act made in the last parliament, for the establishment of your succession, or any thing therein contained, or any other thing or things to the contrary thereof in any wise notwithstanding.

Marrying within degrees prohibited by God's law, and which be those degrees.
28 H. 3. c. 16.

XI. And furthermore, sith many inconveniencies have fallen, as well within this realm as in others, by reason of marrying within the degrees of marriage, prohibited by God's laws, that is to say, the son to marry the mother, or the step-mother carnally known by his father, the brother the sister, the father his son's daughter, or his daughter's daughter: or the son to marry the daughter of his father procreate and born by his stepmother: or the son to marry his aunt, being his father's or mother's sister:

sister : or to marry his uncle's wife carnally known by his uncle : or the father to marry his son's wife carnally known by his son : or the brother to marry his brother's wife carnally known by his brother : or any man married, and carnally knowing his wife, to marry his wife's daughter, or his wife's son's daughter, or his wife's daughter's daughter, or his wife's sister.

XII. And furthermore, to dilate, and declare the meaning of these prohibitions, it is to be understood, that if it chance any man to know carnally any woman, that then all and singular persons being in any degree of consanguinity or affinity, as is above written, to any of the parties so carnally offending, shall be deemed and adjudged to be within the cases and limits of the said prohibitions of marriage. All which marriages, albeit they be plainly prohibited and detested by the laws of God, yet nevertheless, at some times they have proceeded under colours of dispensations by man's power, which is but usurped, and of right ought not to be granted, admitted, nor allowed. For no man, of what estate, degree, or condition soever he be, hath power to dispense with God's laws, as all the clergy of this realm in the said convocations, and the most part of all the universities of Christendom, and we also do affirm and think. No man can dispense with the law of God.

XIII. Be it therefore enacted by authority aforesaid, according as it is declared and contained in the said act, made in the last parliament for the establishment of your succession, that no person, or persons, subjects or resiants, of this realm, or in any your dominions, of what estate, degree, or dignity soever they be, shall from henceforth marry within the degrees afore rehearsed, what pretence soever shall be made to the contrary thereof. And in case any person or persons, of what estate, dignity, degree, or condition soever they be, that been heretofore married within this realm, or in any other the King's dominions, within any the degrees above rehearsed, and by any the archbishops, or ministers of the church of England, be separate from the bond of such unlawful marriages : that then every such separation shall be good, lawful, firm and permanent for ever, and not by any power, authority or means, to be revoked or undone hereafter. And that the children proceeding or procreate under such unlawful marriage, shall not be lawful nor legitimate : any foreign laws, licences, dispensations, or other thing or things to the contrary thereof notwithstanding. And that in case there be any person or persons within this realm, or in any of the King's dominions, already married within any of the said degrees above specified, and not yet separate from the bonds of such unlawful marriage, that then every such person, so unlawfully married, shall be separate by the definitive sentence, and judgment of the archbishops, bishops, and other ministers of the church of England, and in other your dominions, within the limits of their jurisdictions and authorities, and by none of other power or authority. And that all sentences, and judgments, given and to be given by any archbishop, bishop or other minister of the church of England, or in any other the King's King's dominions, within the limits of their jurisdictions, and authority, shall be definitively firm, good, effectual to all intents, and be observed, and obeyed, without suing any provocations, appeals, prohibitions, or other process, from or to the court of Rome, to the derogation thereof, or contrary to the act made since the beginning of the last parliament for restraint of such provocations, appeals, prohibitions, and other processes.

84 H. 8. c. 12.

XIV. And also be it enacted by authority aforesaid, That all the issue hereafter to be had and procreate between your Highness and your said most dear and entirely beloved lawful wife, Queen Jane, shall be your lawful children and heirs, and be inheritable and inherit, according to the course of inheritance and laws of this realm, the imperial crown of the same, with all dignities, honours, pre-eminences, prerogatives, authorities, and jurisdictions to the same annexed or belonging, in as large and ample manner, as your Highness at this present time hath the same as King of this realm, the inheritance thereof to be and remain to your said children and right heirs, in manner and form as hereafter shall be declared, that is to say :

The crown of England entailed to the King and to the heirs males of his body begotten, with several remainders over.

XV. First, the said imperial crown and other the premises, shall be to your Majesty, and to your heirs of your body lawfully begotten: that is to say, to the first son of your body between your Highness and your said lawful wife Queen Jane begotten, and to the heirs of the body of the same first son lawfully begotten. And for default of such heirs, then to the second son of your body, and of the body of the said Queen Jane begotten, and the heirs of the body of the same second son lawfully begotten; as aforesaid, and so to every son of your body, and of the body of the said Queen Jane begotten, and to the heirs of the body of every such son begotten, according to the course of inheritance in that behalf.

XVI. And if it shall happen your said most dear and entirely beloved wife Queen Jane to decease without issue male of the body of your Highness to be begotten (which God defend) then the same imperial crown, and all other the premises to be to your Majesty, as is aforesaid, and to the son and heir male of your body lawfully begotten by any other lawful wife, and to the heirs of the body of the same son and heir male lawfully begotten: And for default of such issue, then to your second son of your body lawfully begotten, and to the heirs of the body of the same second son lawfully begotten, and so from son and heir male, to son and heir male, and to the heirs of the several bodies of every such son and heir male lawfully begotten, according to the course of inheritance, in like manner and form, as is above said.

XVII. And for default of such sons of your body lawfully begotten, and of the heirs of the several bodies of every such son lawfully begotten, that then the said imperial crown, and other the premises, shall be to the issue female between your Majesty and your said most dear and entirely beloved wife Queen Jane begotten:

gotten : and for lack of fuch iffue, then to the heirs females of your body lawfully begotten by any other lawful wife: that is to fay, firft, to the eldeft iffue female, and to the heirs of her body lawfully begotten, and fo from iffue female to iffue female, and to their heirs of their bodies one after another by courfe of inheritance, according to their ages, as the crown of England hath been accuftomed and ought to fucceed and go, in cafe where there is heir female inheritable to the fame.

XVIII. And forasmuch as it standeth at this prefent time in the only pleasure and will of Almighty God, whether your Majesty shall have heirs begotten and procreated between your Highness and your faid most dear and entirely beloved wife Queen Jane, or elfe any lawful heirs and iffues hereafter of your own body begotten by any other lawful wife, and if fuch heirs fhould fail, as God defend, and no provision made in your life, who fhould rule, and govern this realm for lack of fuch heirs : That then this realm, after your transitory life, fhall be destitute of a lawful governour : or elfe percase encumbered with fuch a person, that would covet to afpire to the fame, whom the fubjects of this realm fhall not find in their hearts to love, dread, and obediently ferve, as their fovereign Lord. And if your Grace, afore it may be certainly known whether ye fhall have heirs or no, fhould fuddenly name and declare any person or perfons to fucceed after your deceafe, and for lack of heirs of your body lawfully begotten, into the royal eftate of the imperial crown of this realm ; then it is to be doubted, that fuch person that fhould be fo named, might happen to take great heart, and courage, and by prefumption fall to inobedience and rebellion, by occafion of which premisses great divifion and diffention may be, and is very likely to arife, and fpring in this realm, to the great peril and deftruction of us your most humble and obedient fubjects, and of all our posterities, if remedy for the fame fhould not be provided. For reformation and remedy whereof, we your most bounden and loving fubjects, most obediently knowledging, that your Majesty most victoriously, prudently, politickly, and indifferently hath maintained, defended, governed, and ruled this realm in good peace, reft, quietnefs and obedience, during all the time of your most gracious reign, which we most heartily defire might continue for ever, putting all our whole trust and confidence in your Highness, and nothing doubting, but that your Majesty, if ye fhould fail in heirs of your body lawfully begotten, (which God defend) for the hearty love and fervent affection that ye bear to this realm, and for avoiding all the occafions of divifion afore rehearfed, fo earnestly mindeth the wealth of the fame, that ye can beft and most prudently provide fuch a governour for us and this your realm, as fhall, and will fucceed, and follow in the juft, and right tread of all your proceedings, and maintain, keep, and defend the fame, and all the laws, and ordinances eftablifhed in your most gracious time, for the wealth of this realm, which all we defire, whereby we your faid most loving and obedient dient ſubjects, and our heirs and ſucceſſors, ſhall and may live, as near as may be, in as good peace, unity, and obedience after your deceaſe, as we have lived in the time of your moſt gracious reign, Do therefore moſt humbly beſeech your Highneſs, that it may be enacted, for avoiding of all ambiguities, doubts, diviſions, and occasions in that behalf, by your moſt royal Majeſty, by the aſſent of us the lords ſpiritual and temporal, and the commons in this your preſent parliament aſſembled, and by authority of the ſame, that your Highneſs ſhall have full, and plenary power, and authority to give, diſpoſe, appoint, aſſign, declare, and limit by your letters patents under your great ſeal, or elſe by your laſt will made in writing, and aſſigned with your moſt gracious hand, at your only pleaſure, from time to time, hereafter the imperial crown of this realm, and all other the premiſſes thereunto belonging, to be, remain, ſucceed, and come after your deceaſe, and for lack of lawful heirs of your body to be procreated and begotten as is afore limited by this act, to ſuch perſon or perſons in poſſeſſion, and remainder, as ſhall pleaſe your Highneſs, and according to ſuch eſtate, and after ſuch manner, form, faſhion, order and condition as ſhall be expreſſed, declared, named, and limited in your ſaid letters patents, or by your ſaid laſt will. And we your moſt humble and obedient ſubjects, do faithfully promiſe to your Majeſty by one common aſſent, that after your deceaſe, and for lack of heirs of your body lawfully begotten, as is afore rehearſed, we, our heirs and ſucceſſors, ſhall accept, and take, love, dread, ſerve and all only obey ſuch perſon and perſons, males or females, as your Majeſty ſhall give your ſaid imperial crown unto, by authority of this act, and to none other, and wholly to ſtick to them, as true and faithful ſubjects ought to do, to their regal rulers, governours, and ſupreme heads.

XIX. And for ſure corroboration thereof, be it further enacted by authority aforeſaid, That ſuch perſon and perſons, to whom it ſhall pleaſe your Majeſty to diſpoſe, limit, and aſſign your ſaid crown, and other the premiſſes thereto appertaining, by your letters patents, or by your laſt will, as is aforeſaid, ſhall have and enjoy the ſame after your deceaſe, and for lack of heirs of your body lawfully begotten, according to ſuch eſtate, and after ſuch manner, form, faſhion, order, and condition as ſhall be thereof expreſſed, mentioned, and contained in your ſaid letters patents, or in your ſaid laſt will, in as large and ample manner, as if ſuch perſon, and perſons had been your lawful heirs to the imperial crown of this realm, and as if the ſame crown of this realm had been given and limited unto them plainly and particularly by ſpecial names and ſufficient terms, and words, by the full, and immediate authority of this your moſt high court of parliament.

XX. And it is further enacted by authority aforeſaid, That if any of your heirs or children hereafter do uſurp the one of them upon the other in the crown of this realm, or claim or challenge your ſaid imperial crown in any other form, or degree of deſcent, ſcent, or ſucceſſion than is afore limited by this act : Or if any perſon or perſons, to whom it ſhall pleaſe your Highneſs of your moſt excellent goodneſs by authority of this act to give and diſpoſe your ſaid crown and dignity of this realm, or the heirs of any of them, do at any time hereafter demand, challenge, or claim your ſaid crown of this realm, otherwiſe, or in any other courſe, form, degree or condition, than the ſame ſhall be given, diſpoſed and limited unto them by your Highneſs, by virtue and authority of this act. Or, if any ſuch perſon or perſons, to whom your Maſteſty ſhall hereafter give or diſpoſe your ſaid crown by authority of this act, or any of their heirs, do interrupt or let any of the heirs of your Maſteſty, that is, or ſhall be begotten, born, and procreated under your lawful, pure, ſincere and undoubted marriage, now had and ſolemnized between your Highneſs and your ſaid moſt dear and entirely beloved wiſe Queen Jane, or any other your lawful heirs hereafter to be begotten of your body by any other lawful marriage, peaceably and quietly to keep, have, and enjoy the ſaid imperial crown, and other the premiſſes, by courſe of inheritance, according to the limitation thereof, expreſſed and declared by this act : that then all and ſingular the offenders in any of the premiſſes, contrary to this act, and all their abettors, maintainers, fautors, counſellors, and aiders therein, ſhall be deemed and adjudged high traitors to the realm, and that every ſuch offence ſhall be accepted, reputed and taken to be high treason, and the offenders therein, their aiders, maintainers, fautors, counſellors, and abettors, and every of them, for every ſuch offence ſhall ſuffer ſuch judgment and pains of death, loſſes and forfeitures of lands, goods and privileges of ſanctuary, as in any caſes of high treason. And over that as well your ſaid heirs, and children, as every ſuch perſon and perſons, to whom your Highneſs ſhall limit your ſaid crown, in form as is aforeſaid, and every of their heirs for every ſuch offence above ſpecified, by them or any of them to be committed, ſhall loſe and forfeit as well all ſuch right, title, and intereſt, that they may claim or challenge in or to the crown of this realm, as heirs by deſcent, or by reaſon of any gift or act that ſhall be done by your Highneſs, for his or their advancement, by the authority of this act, or otherwiſe by any manner of means or pretence whatſoever it be.

A means to prevent uſurpation of the crown, and the penalty of the uſurpers.

XXI. And be it further enacted by authority aforeſaid, That if any perſon or perſons, of what eſtate, degree, dignity, or condition ſoever they be, at any time hereafter, by words, writing, imprinting, or by any exterior act or deed, maliciously or willingly procure or do, or cauſe to be procured or done, directly or indirectly, any thing or things to the peril of your moſt royal perſon, or to the peril of the perſon of any of your heirs or ſucceſſors, having the royal eſtate of the crown of this realm : Or maliciously or willingly give occaſion by words, writing, print, deed or act, whereby your Highneſs or any your ſaid heirs or ſucceſſors, having the royal eſtate of the crown of this realm,

It ſhall be high treason to write any of the offences hereafter ſpecified.

Treafon to believe either of the marriages between the King and the lady Katharine or Anne to be good.
Treafon to call lady Mary or lady Elizabeth legitimate.

realm, might be diſturbed or interrupted of the crown of this realm: Or by words, writing, print, deed or act, procure or do, or cauſe to be procured or done, any thing or things, to, or for the interruption, repeal or adnullation of this act, or of any thing therein contained, or of any thing that ſhall be done by your Highneſs in the limitation and diſpoſition of your crown by the authority of the ſame. Or by words, writing, print, deed, or act, procure, or cauſe to be procured or done, any thing or things to the prejudice, ſlander, diſturbance, or derogation of the ſaid lawful matrimony, ſolemnized between your Maſteſty and the ſaid Queen Jane, or any other your lawful wife, or wives, hereafter by your Highneſs to be taken: Or to the peril, ſlander, or diſheriſon of any of the iſſues, and heirs of your Highneſs, being limited by this act to inherit, and to be inheritable to the crown of this realm, in ſuch form as is aforeſaid: Or to the interruption or diſheriſon of any ſuch perſon or perſons, to whom your Highneſs ſhall aſſign and diſpoſe your ſaid imperial crown by authority of this act, as is afore remembred; whereby any ſuch iſſues or heirs of your Highneſs, or ſuch other perſon or perſons might be deſtroyed, diſturbed, or interrupted in fame, body, or title of the inheritance to the crown of this realm, as to them is limited in this act, in form above rehearſed, or as to them ſhall be limited and aſſigned by your Highneſs, by virtue and authority of this act: Or if any perſon or perſons, by words, writing, imprinting, or any other exterior act, directly or indirectly accept, or take, judge, or believe any of the marriages had, and ſolemnized between the King's highneſs and the ſaid lady Katharine, or between the King's highneſs and the ſaid late Queen Anne, to be good, lawful, or of any effect: Or by words, writing, printing, or any other exterior act, directly or indirectly, ſlander, interrupt, impeach, gainſay, or impugn the lawful judgments and ſentences of the ſaid moſt reverend father in God, Thomas archbiſhop of Canterbury, and primate of all England, for and concerning the divorces and ſeparations of the ſaid unlawful marriages, or any of them. Or by words, writing, print, or any other exterior act, directly or indirectly take, accept, name, or call by any pretence any of the children born and procreated under any of the ſaid unlawful marriages, to be legitimate and lawful children of your Maſteſty. Or if any perſon or perſons craftily imagine, invent, or attempt by colour of any pretence, to deprive the King's highneſs, the Queen, or the heirs of their bodies begotten, or any other the heirs of the King's body lawfully begotten, or any perſon or perſons, to whom the King's highneſs ſhall diſpoſe, give, and limit the crown of this realm, by authority of this act, or any of their titles, ſtiles, names, degrees, or royal eſtates or regal power. Or if any perſon or perſons at any time hereafter, being required or commanded by the King's highneſs, or by ſuch perſon or perſons, as ſhall be authorized by his Grace, or his lawful heirs, to make or take an oath, to answer to ſuch queſtions and interrogatories as ſhall be be objected to them, upon any clause, article, sentence or word contained in this act, do contemptuously or utterly refuse to make or take such oath, or without frustratory delay do not make, or take the same oath: or after the making or taking such oath, do contemptuously refuse directly to answer to such questions and interrogatories, as shall be objected concerning the same or any part thereof: that then every such person and persons, of what estate, degree or condition soever he or they be, and their aiders, counsellors, maintainers and abettors, and every of them, for every such offence afore declared, shall be adjudged high traitors. And that every such offence afore specified, shall be adjudged high treason, and the offenders therein, and their aiders, counsellors, maintainers, and abettors, and every of them being lawfully convict of any such offence by presentment, verdict, confession, or process, according to the custom and laws of this realm, shall suffer pains of death, as in cases of high treason. And that also every such offender, being convict as is afore said, shall lose and forfeit to your Highness, and to your heirs or successors Kings or regal rulers of this realm, all such manors, lands, tenements, rents, annuities, and hereditaments, which they had in possession as owners, or were sole seised of, by or in any right, title, or means, or any other person or persons had to their use of any estate of inheritance, at the day of such treasons and offences by them committed and done. And shall also lose and forfeit to your Highness and your said heirs, as well all manner such estates of freehold, and interest for years of lands, and rents, as all other goods, chattels and debts, which they had at the time of their conviction or attainder, of any such offence: Saving alway to every such person and persons, and bodies politick, to their heirs, assignes, and successors, and to the heirs and successors of every of them, (other than such person as shall be so convict or attainted, and their heirs and successors, and all other claiming to their uses) all such right, title, use, interest, possession, condition, rents, fees, offices, annuities, and commons, which they, or any of them, shall have in or upon any such manors, lands, tenements, rents, annuities, or hereditaments, that so shall happen to be lost and forfeit by reason of any conviction or attainder, for any the treasons and offences above rehearsed, at any time before the said treasons and offences committed.

Other persons rights saved.

XXII. Be it also enacted by authority afore said, That no person or persons, offending in any the treasons contained and limited by this act, or in any other treasons, shall in any wise have and enjoy the privilege, or immunity of any manner sanctuary within this realm, or elsewhere within any the King's dominions: but shall utterly lose and be excluded of the same, any use, grant, custom, prescription, confirmation, or any other thing or things to the contrary hereof in any wise notwithstanding.

None that committeth treason shall have the benefit of sanctuary.

XXIII. And

If the King die, his heir within age, in whose custody the same heir shall be.

XXIII. And be it also enacted by authority aforesaid, That if your Majesty shall happen to decease before any such your issue and heir male of your body, which should inherit the crown of this realm, shall be of his age of xviii. years, or before that such your issue and heir female, which should inherit the crown of this realm, shall be married, or be of the age of sixteen years, (which Almighty God defend) that then the said issue and heir male to the crown, so being within the age of eighteen years, or your said issue and heir female to the crown, so being unmarried or within the said age of sixteen years, shall be and remain, until such time as such issues and heirs shall come to their said several ages afore limited, at and in the governance of their natural mother, and of such other your counsellors, and nobles of your realm, as your Highness shall limit and appoint by your last will made in writing, signed with your most gracious hand, if it shall be thought by your Highness most convenient so to be: or else the said issues and heirs shall be at, and in the governance of such of your counsellors and nobles of your realm, as your Majesty shall name and appoint by your last will made in writing, and signed with your most gracious hand, as is aforesaid. And if any person or persons, by writing, printing, or exterior deed, or act, directly or indirectly, procure or do, or cause to be procured or done any thing or things, to the let or disturbance of the same: that then every such offence shall be high treason, and the offenders being thereof convicted, shall suffer such pains of death and loss of inheritance, privileges of sanctuaries, freeholds, interests for years, goods, chattels, and debts, in such manner and form as is above specified in cases of treason aforementioned.

The form of the oath.

XXIV. And for the more sure establishment of the succession of your most royal Majesty, according to the tenor and form of this act, be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That as well all the nobles of your realm spiritual and temporal, as all other your subjects now living and being, or that hereafter shall be at their full ages, by the commandment of your Majesty, or of your heirs, or successors, at all times hereafter from time to time, when it shall please your Highness, or your heirs or successors to appoint, shall make a corporal oath in the presence of your Highness, or your heirs or successors, or before such other as your Majesty or your heirs or successors will assign for the same, for the keeping, observing, defending, avowing, and maintaining of this act, and of all things that shall be done by your Highness by authority thereof, according to the tenor of an oath hereafter ensuing, that is to say, Ye shall swear to bear faith, truth and obedience all only to the King's majesty, supreme head in earth under God, of the church of England, during his life, and to his heirs of his body of his most dear and entirely beloved lawful wife Queen Jane, begotten and to be begotten and procreated: and further to the heirs of our said sovereign Lord, according to the limitation in the statute made made for ſurety of his ſucceſſion in the crown of this realm, in the parliament begun and holden at Weſtmiſter on the eighth day of June, in the xxviii. year of the King's moſt gracious reign. And alſo for lack of ſuch heirs, to ſuch perſon and perſons as the King's highneſs ſhall limit and appoint to ſucceed to the crown, by virtue and authority of the ſame act, and not to any other within this realm, nor foreign authority, power, or potentate. And in caſe any other oath be made, or hath been made by you to any perſon or perſons : that then ye to repute the ſame as vain and adnichilate. And that to your cunning, wit, and uttermoſt of your power without guile, fraud, or other undue manner, ye ſhall obſerve, keep, maintain, and defend the ſaid act of ſucceſſion made in the ſaid parliament, begun and holden at Weſtmiſter in the ſaid viii. day of June, in the ſaid xxviii. year of the King's moſt royal reign, and all the whole effects, and contents thereof, and all things that ſhall be done by the King's highneſs by authority of the ſame, and all other acts and ſtatutes made in confirmation, or for execution of the ſame, or of any thing therein contained : and this ye ſhall do againſt all manner of perſons, of what eſtate, dignity, degree, or condition ſoever they be : and in no wiſe do or attempt, nor to your power ſuffer to be done, or attempted directly, or indirectly, any thing or things, privily or appertly, to the let, hindrance, damage, or derogation thereof, or of any part of the ſame, or of any thing or things that ſhall be done by the King's highneſs, by virtue or authority of the ſaid act, by any manner of means, or for any manner of pretence, ſo help you God, all ſaints, and the holy evangelists.

A diſpenſation of any former oath, and the ſame ſhall be reputed as void.

XXV. And it is alſo enacted by authority aforeſaid, That all manner your ſubjects, as well ſpiritual as temporal, ſuing livery, or ouſtre le maine, out of the hands of your Highneſs, or of your heirs or ſucceſſors, or doing any fealty to your Highneſs, or your heirs or ſucceſſors, by reaſon of the tenure of their lands, ſhall ſwear the ſaid corporal oath abovementioned : and that they, nor any of them, ſhall hereafter have any liveries, ouſtre le maine, or reſtitution out of your hands, nor out of the hands of your heirs or ſucceſſors, till they ſhall have made the ſaid corporal oath, in form above rehearſed. And if any perſon or perſons, being commanded by authority of this act, to make the ſaid oath afore limited, obſtinately or wilfully reſuſe that to do, or will proteſt and ſay, when they ſhall be examined upon any interrogatories, that ſhall be objected to them, for or concerning this act, or any thing therein contained, that they be not bound to declare their thought and conſcience, and ſtiffly thereon abide : that then every ſuch perſon ſo doing, for every ſuch offence ſhall be taken and accepted for offender in high treaſon.

The penalty of reſuſers to take the oath.

XXVI. And that every ſuch reſuſal ſhall be deemed and adjudged high treaſon, and the offender therein, being as afore is limited, lawfully convicted or attainted thereof by the laws of this realm, ſhall ſuffer ſuch pains of death, loſſes, and forfeitures, and alſo loſe privileges of ſanctuaries, in like manner and form as is above mentioned, for the treaſons afore limited by this act.

Honours, titles, ſtiles, or lands given by the King's loſe

XXVII. And be it further enacted by authority of this preſent parliament that if it ſhall pleaſe the King's majeſty at any time hereafter, by his letters patents under his great ſeal, or by his laſt will made in writing, and ſigned with his moſt gracious hand, to advance any perſon or perſons of his moſt royal blood to any title, ſtile, or name, of any eſtate, dignity, or honour, whatſoever it be, and to give to them or to any of them, any caſtles, honours, manors, lands, tenements, liberties, franchises, or other hereditaments, in fee-ſimple, fee-tail, or for term of their lives, or the life of any of them: that then all and every ſuch letters patents, and laſt will of his Highneſs, ſo to be made to any ſuch perſon or perſons of his blood, ſhall be good and effectual to them, and every of them, according to the tenor, purports, and effects of every ſuch letters patents and laſt will. And that the ſaid perſon and perſons, and every of them, ſhall have and enjoy as well all ſuch titles, ſtiles, and names of honour, dignity, and eſtate, which ſhall be contained and expreſſed in any ſuch letters patents or laſt will of the King's highneſs, as ſuch caſtles, honours, manors, lands, tenements, liberties, franchises, and all other hereditaments, which ſhall be ſpecified, and mentioned in every ſuch letters patents, or laſt will, in ſuch manner, form, faſhion, and condition, and according to ſuch eſtate, or eſtates in the law, as ſhall be expreſſed and limited in every ſuch letters patents, or laſt will, in as large and ample manner to all intents and purpoſes, as if the titles, ſtiles, and name of honour, dignity and eſtate, and the caſtles, honours, manors, lands, tenements, liberties, franchises, and other hereditaments, which ſhall be comprized in any ſuch letters patents, or laſt will to be made, were already given by good and ſufficient letters patents to ſuch perſon or perſons of the King's blood by their ſpecial names and ſurnames, and ratified and confirmed by authority of this preſent parliament: Or as if the names of ſuch perſon or perſons, ſo being of the King's blood, and ſuch titles, ſtiles, names, caſtles, honours, manors, lands, tenements, liberties, franchises or other hereditaments, had been ſpecially named, and expreſſed in this act, and given to ſuch perſon or perſons of the King's blood by their proper names and ſurnames, by ſufficient words, terms, claules and ſentences, immediately by authority of this preſent parliament. Saving to all and every perſon and perſons and bodies politick, and to their heirs, aſſignes and ſucceſſors other than to the King's highneſs, his heirs or ſucceſſors, all ſuch right, title, intereſt, poſſeſſion, rents, annuities, fees, offices, commons, rights, intereſts, petitions, conditions, and all other hereditaments, which they or any of them may or might claim, of, in, or to any the ſaid titles, ſtiles, names, caſtles, honours, manors, lands, tenements, liberties, franchises, and other hereditaments contained or mentioned in any fuch letters patents, or laft will, in as large and ample manner as if this act had never been had nor made.

XXVIII. And be it finally enacted by authority aforefaid, That this act fhall be conftrued according to the plain words and fentences therein contained, and fhall not be interpreted nor expounded by colour of any pretence or caufe, or by any fubtil arguments, inventions or reafons to the hindrance, difturbance or derogation of this act, or any part thereof: any thing or things, act or acts of parliament heretofore made, or hereafter to be had, done or made to the contrary thereof notwithstanding. And that every act, ftatute, law, provision, thing and things heretofore had or made, or hereafter to be had, done or made contrary to the effect of this ftatute, fhall be void, and of no value nor force.

This act fhall be conftrued according to the plain words thereof.

First-fruits taken during the vacation of a benefice, shall be restored to the next incumbent, whose charge for first-fruits shall begin from the first vacation.

The ordinaries delay to institute clerks for their private gain.

The next incumbent's charge to the King shall begin from the first vacation of the benefice. The fruits taken during the vacation of a benefice, shall be restored to the next incumbent. See 1 El. c. 4. f. 24. Co-pl.f. 368.b.

The forfeiture of the ordinary which receiveth the fruits of a benefice during the vacation, and doth not restore them to the next incumbent.

II. And also by reason that in the same statute it is not declared who shall have the fruits, tithes and other profits of the said benefices, offices, promotions and dignities spiritual, during the time of vacation thereof, divers of the archbishops and bishops of this realm have, not only when the time of perceiving and taking of tithes (that is to say, wool, lamb, corn and hay, and tithes usually paid at the holy time of Easter) hath approached, deferred the collation of such benefices as have been of their own patronage, but also have, upon presentations of clerks made unto them by the just patrons, protracted and deferred to institute, induct and admit the same clerks, to the intent that they might have and perceive to their own use the same tithes growing during the vacation; (2) so that through such delays (over and above the first-fruits, which be justly due to the King's highness) they have been constrained also to lose all or the most part of one year's profits of their benefices and promotions, and to serve the cure at their and their friends proper costs and charges, or utterly to forsake and give over their benefices and promotions, to their great loss and hindrance :

III. For reformation whereof, be it ordained and enacted by the King our sovereign lord, with the assent of the lords spiritual and temporal, and the commons, in this present parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, That the said year, in which the first-fruits shall be paid to the King's grace, shall begin and be accounted immediately after the avoidance or vacation of any such benefice or promotions spiritual afore rehearsed; (2) and that the tithes, fruits, oblations, obventions, emoluments, commodities, advantages, rents and all other whatsoever revenues, casualties or profits, certain and uncertain, offering or belonging to any archdeaconry, deanry, prebend, parsonage, vicarage, hospital, wardenship, provostship, or other spiritual promotion, benefice, dignity or office (chauntries only except) within this realm, or other the King's dominions, growing, rising, or coming, during the time of vacation of the same promotion spiritual, shall belong and appertain to such person as shall be thereunto next presented, promoted, instituted, inducted or admitted, and to his executors, towards the payment of the first-fruits to the King's highness, his heirs and successors; any usage, custom, liberty, privilege or prescription to the contrary had, used or being, in any wise notwithstanding.

IV. And it is also enacted by the authority afore said, That if any archbishop, bishop, archdeacon, ordinary, or any other person or persons to their uses and behoof, at any time heretofore sith the first day of May last past, have perceived, received or taken, or at any time hereafter do perceive, receive or take the fruits, tithes, obventions, oblations, emoluments, commodities, revenues, rents, advantages, profits or casualties, coming, growing or belonging, or which hereafter shall come, grow, appertain, or belong to any archdeaconry, deanry, prebend, parsonage, vicarage, hospital, wardenship, provostship or other spiritual promotion, benefice, dignity or office (chauntries only only excepted) within this realm or other the King's dominions, during the vacation of such archdeaconry, deanry, prebend, parsonage, vicarage, hospital, wardenship, provostship, or other spiritual promotion, benefice, dignity or office (chauntries only excepted) and the same, upon reasonable request from henceforth to be made, doth not render, restore, satisfy, content and pay to the next incumbent, being lawfully instituted, inducted, or admitted to such archdeaconry, deanry, prebend, parsonage or vicarage, or other promotion, benefice, dignity or office spiritual, except before excepted, or do let or interrupt the said incumbent to have the same; that then every archbishop, bishop, archdeacon, ordinary or other person so doing, shall forfeit and lose the treble value of so much as he shall then have received of the fruits of every prebend, parsonage, vicarage, hospital, wardenship, provostship or other spiritual promotion, whereof he so shall perceive, receive or detain, let or interrupt the incumbent to perceive, receive and have the fruits, tithes, obventions, oblations, emoluments, commodities, revenues, rents, advantages, profits or casualties; (2) the moiety of which forfeiture shall be to the King our sovereign lord, and the other moiety thereof to the incumbent of the same prebend, parsonage or vicarage, or other spiritual promotion, to be recovered in any of the King's courts, by action, bill, plaint, information or otherwise, in which action or suit the defendant shall not be admitted to wage his law, nor any protection or essoin shall be unto the defendant allowed.

V. Provided alway, That it shall be lawful to every archbishop, bishop, archdeacon, and ordinary, their officers and ministers, to retain in his or their custody so much of the tithes, fruits, obventions, oblations, emoluments, commodities, advantages, rents, revenues, casualties and profits, as shall amount to pay unto such person or persons, as hath or shall serve or keep the cure of such archdeaconry, deanry, prebend, parsonage or vicarage, or other spiritual promotion, during the vacation, his or their reasonable stipend or salary; (2) and also for the collection, gathering and levying of such tithes, fruits, emoluments, rents and other profits rising and growing during the vacation aforesaid; any thing in this act contained to the contrary in any wise notwithstanding.

VI. Provided also, and be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That in case any of the incumbents aforesaid happen to die, and before his death hath caused any of his glebe lands to be manured and sown at his proper costs and charges with any corn or grain; that then in that case, all and every of the same incumbents may make and declare their testaments of all the profits of the corn growing upon the said glebe lands so manured and sown; any thing contained in this present act in any wise notwithstanding.

Incumbents may declare their wills of any corn sown by them upon their glebe lands.

VII. And where also before this time divers and many parsons, vicars and other spiritual persons, being seised for term of their lives, of and in the said spiritual promotions aforesaid, as well for great sums of money to them beforehand paid, as for other causes and considerations, have let in ferm for term of years, by sufficient writings, their said parsonages, vicarages and other spiritual promotions, or part thereof, unto divers and many of the King's subjects, and after such leases by them so made, the lessors thereof have oftentimes used to resign their said benefices or spiritual promotions so demised and letten in ferm; by reason of which resignation and other acts of the said lessors, the said benefices and other spiritual promotions have been void, and the title and interests of the said lessees hath been thereby annihilate, and of none effect in the law, contrary to right and good conscience: (2) for reformation whereof, and for a quietness the better hereafter to be had and continued between the King's subjects, be it enacted by authority of this present parliament, That from the foresaid first day of May last past, no manner of such lease, by sufficient writing heretofore made, nor hereafter to be made, by any spiritual person within this realm of England, Wales, or the marches of the same, to any lay person, of any parsonage, vicarage or other spiritual promotion aforesaid, within this realm, upon which lease the rent and services reserved, with other the yearly charges of the lease, as in serving the cure and otherwise, shall amount within forty shillings by the year of as much as the said parsonage, vicarage, or other spiritual promotion aforesaid, so letten, is rated and valued at upon the King's books, for paying the first-fruits, shall be adjudged void, annihilate or determined, by reason of any such resignation, or other avoidance of the said benefice or spiritual promotion so letten, by the only act of the said lessor; (3) but that every such lessee or grantee of any such benefices or spiritual promotions aforesaid, their executors or assigns, shall have and may enjoy their terms and interests of and in the same, for the term of six years, to be accounted next and immediately after the said avoidance, if the said lessor do so long live, and the lease so by him before made do so long continue and endure; (4) and that after such avoidance, the successor or successors of every such lessor shall and may distrain for the rent and services so reserved, and have their actions of debt and all other advantages by way of action, entry or otherwise, against the said lessee, his executors or assigns, for recovery of the said rent and covenants upon the said lease reserved, as the lessor thereof might have had if no such avoidance had been had.

VIII. And further be it enacted by the authority aforesaid, That if hereafter it happen any such lessor to decease and die before the end of the term by him so made, and that there be one year at least to come of the said term, that then it shall be lawful to the lessee thereof, his executors or assigns, to hold and enjoy their said lease to the end of the same year, wherein he is so entered at the time of his said lessor's death, if his said lease do so long continue, bearing and paying unto the successor of every such lessor, all such rent and services, as for the remnant of the said year shall upon every such lease be due; for the recovery whereof the said successor shall and may have all such such ways and advantages as before is limited and given to the successor, where his predecessor maketh such lease, and resigneth.

IX. Provided alway, That every successor, after the death of his predecessor, may and shall have, upon one month's warning after the time of his induction, the mansion-house of every such parsonage, vicarage, or other spiritual promotion aforesaid, with the glebe belonging to the same, not being sown at the time of his said predecessor's death, for maintenance of his household, deducting therefore in his rent, as heretofore hath been borne for the same, or as it is reasonably worth; any thing in this act contained to the contrary notwithstanding.

The successor shall have the parsonage-house, and the glebe not sown.

X. Provided alway, That if the fruits of the vacation of the said spiritual promotions be not sufficient to pay the curate's stipend and wages for serving the cure the vacation time, that then the same to be borne and paid by the next incumbent within fourteen days next after that he hath the possession of any of the said promotions spiritual.

Provision for the curate who serves during the vacation.

WHEREAS in the parliament begun at London the third day of November in the twenty-first year of the reign of our sovereign lord King Henry the Eighth, and from thence adjourned and prorogued to the palace of Westminster the seventeenth day of December then next ensuing, amongst other good acts and ordinances, then and there by the authority of the said parliament, it was established, ordained and enacted, That as well every spiritual person, then being promoted to any archdeaconry, deanry or dignity in any monastery or cathedral church, or other church conventual or collegial, or being beneficed with any parsonage or vicarage, as all and every spiritual person and persons, which should after the feast of St. Michael the archangel, which was in the foresaid twenty-first year of the reign of our sovereign lord King Henry the Eighth, be promoted to any of the said dignities or benefices with any parsonage or vicarage, should from the said feast of St. Michael the archangel be personally resident and abiding at and upon his said dignity, prebend or benefice, or at one of them at the least; (2) and in case any such spiritual person, at any time after the said feast, kept not residence at one of his said dignities, prebend or benefices, (as is aforesaid) but absent himself wilfully by the space of one month together, or by the space of two months to be accounted at several times in any one year, and make his residence and abiding in any other places by such time, that then he shall forfeit for every such default x. l. sterling, as in the same act more plainly doth appear; (3) in which act, among other provisions contained and specified in the same, it was provided, That the said act of non-residence should not in any wise extend ne be prejudicial to any scholar or scholars, being conversant and abiding for study, without fraud or

II. Be it therefore enacted by the King our fovereign lord, with the affent of the lords fpiritual and temporal, and the commons, in this prefent parliament affembled, That all and fingular fpiritual perfon and perfons, which now be, or hereafter fhall be, to any benefice or benefices promoted, as is aforefaid, being above the age of xl. years, (the chancellor, vice-chancellor, commiffary of the faid univerfities, or any of them, wardens, deans, provofts, prefidents, reftors, mafters, principals and other head rulers of colleges, halls and other houfes or places corporate within the faid univerfities, or any of them, doftors of the chair, readers of divinity in the common fchools of divinity in any of the faid univerfities, only excepted) fhall be refident and abiding at and upon one of their faid benefices, according to the intent and true meaning of the faid former act, upon fuch pain and penalties as be contained in the faid former act made and appointed for fuch beneficed perfons for their non-refidence. (2) And that none of the faid beneficed perfons being above the age aforefaid, except before except, fhall from henceforth be excufed of their non-refidence upon the faid benefices, for that they be ftudents or refiant within the faid univerfities, or any of them; any provifo, or any other claufe or fentence fpecified or contained in the faid former act of non-refidence, or any other thing or things, to the contrary hereof in any wife notwithstanding.

III. And over this be it enacted by the authority aforefaid, That all and fingular fuch beneficed perfons, being under the age of xl. years, refiant and abiding within the faid univerfities, or any of them, ſhall not enjoy the privilege and liberty of non-refidence, contained in the proviſo of the ſaid former act, made for the ſcholars and ſtudents of the ſaid univerſities, or any of them, unleſs he or they be preſent at the ordinary lecture and lectures, as well at home in their houſes, as in the common ſchool or ſchools, and in their proper perſons keep ſophiſms, problems, diſputations and other exerciſes of learning, and be opponent and reſpondent in the ſame, according to the ordinances and ſtatutes of either of the ſaid univerſities, where he or they ſhall be ſo abiding or reſiant; any thing contained in the ſaid proviſo or former act to the contrary notwithstanding.

IV. Provided alway, That this act ſhall begin to take effect at the feaſt of St. Michael the archangel next coming, and not before.

V. Provided alway, That this act, nor any thing therein contained, ſhall extend to any perſon or perſons which now is, or hereafter ſhall be readers of any publick or common lecture in divinity, law civil, phyſick, philoſophy, humanity, or of any of the liberal ſciences, or publick or common interpreters or teachers of the Hebrew tongue, Chaldee or Greek, in whatſoever college or place of any of the ſaid univerſities the ſaid perſons for the time being ſhall read the ſaid common or publick lectures; nor yet to any perſon or perſons after or above the age of xl. years, which ſhall reſort to any of the ſaid univerſities to proceed doctors in divinity, law civil or phyſick, for the time of their ſaid proceedings, and executing of ſuch ſermons, diſputations or lectures, which they be bound by the ſtatutes of the univerſities there to do for the ſaid degrees ſo obtained.

For prices of wines.

BE it enacted by authority of this preſent parliament, That no perſon or perſons ſhall ſell any Gaſcoign, Guyen or French wines, above viij. d. the gallon, that is to ſay, a peny the pint, two-pence the quart, four-pence the pottle, and eight-pence the gallon, upon pain of forfeiture for every pint to be ſold above the ſaid price, iv. d. and for every quart ſold above the ſaid price, viij. d. and for every pottle ſo ſold above the ſaid price, xij. d. and for every gallon ſo ſold above the ſaid price afore limited, ij. s. (2) And that no malmefeys, romneys, ſacks nor other ſweet wines ſhall be ſold by retail above xij. d. the gallon, vi. d. the pottle, iij. d. the quart, i. d. the pint, upon pain to loſe and forfeit iij. s. iv. d. for every gallon, xx. d. for every pottle, xij. d. for every quart, and vi. d. for every pint that ſhall be ſold contrary to this act.

II. Provided alway, That the lord chancellor, lord treaſurer, lord preſident of the King's moſt honourable council, lord privy ſeal, and the two chief juſtices of either bench, or five, four, or three of them, ſhall have power and authority by their diſcretions to ſet the prices of all kind of wines, that is to ſay, of the prices of the butt, tun, pipe, hogſhead, puncheon, tierce, F f 4 barrel

III. And it is further enacted, That if any perſon or perſons, after ſuch prices be ſet and put in writing by the ſaid lord chancellor, lord treaſurer, lord preſident of the King's moſt honourable council, lord privy ſeal, and the two chief juſtices, or by five, four or three of them, and proclamation thereof had (as is aforeſaid) do ſell any wines in groſs by any fraud or covin, contrary to the ſaid prices ſo ſet and proclaimed; that then every ſuch offender in that behalf ſhall loſe and forfeit for every veſſel by them ſold in groſs contrary to the ſaid prices, xl. s. (2) the one half of all which forfeitures to be to the King our ſovereign lord, and the other half thereof, if it be within any city, borough or town corporate, to be to the mayors, ſheriffs, bailiffs or other head rulers of ſuch cities, boroughs or towns corporate; (3) and if it be without city, borough or town corporate, then to be to ſuch of the King's ſubjects as will ſue for the ſame; and that every ſuch forfeiture ſhall be recovered by original writ of debt, bill, plaint or information, in which ſuit no wager of law ſhall be admitted, nor any proteſtion or eſſoin allowed.

IV. And it is alſo enacted, That the juſtices of peace in every ſhire of this realm, and all mayors, ſheriffs, bailiffs and other head officers in cities, boroughs and towns corporate, that is to ſay, every of them within the limits of their commiſſions and authorities, as well within franchises as without, ſhall have power and authority to examine, hear, enquire and determine the defaults of ſuch as ſhall attempt to ſell any wines in groſs or by retail contrary to this act, and to puniſh the offenders by imprisonment, or otherwiſe, by their diſcretions.

V. And whereas in the parliament holden at Weſtminſter in the firſt year of the reign of King Richard the Third, among other things, it was eſtabliſhed, ordained and enacted, That every tun of wine ſhould contain cclij. gallons, every butt of malmſey ſhould contain cxxvj. gallons, every pipe cxxvj. gallons, every tertian or puncheon lxxxiiij. gallons, every hogſhead lxiiij. gallons, every tierce xli. gallons and di. and every barrel xxxj. gallons and di. and every rundlet xviiij. gallons, (2) and that no veſſel ſhould be put to ſale till it were gauged, upon pain of forfeiture, as by the ſame ſtatute it doth appear more at large. (3) Nevertheless, great deceit is daily uſed in ſelling of wines and oyls in caſks and veſſels not bearing the contents above limited, to the great loſs of the King's poor ſubjects: for remedy whereof, it is enacted by the authority of this preſent parliament, That the ſaid ſtatute made in the firſt year of King Richard the Third, and all other ſtatutes heretofore made for true gauging and meaſuring of wines, oyls, honey or any other liquors, which ſtatutes afore this time be not repealed nor expired, ſhall ſtand in their ſtrength and virtue, and be put in due execution according to their tenors and effects in every behalf.

CAP. XVI.

A provision for diſpenſations and licences heretofore obtained from the ſee of Rome.

WHERE the biſhop of Rome and his predeceſſors, of his and their covetous and ambitious minds, to the intent to advance and enrich themſelves and the ſee of Rome, to the great impoveriſhing of this realm of England, and other the King's dominions, contrary to God's laws, the laws and ſtatutes of this realm, and in derogation of the imperial crown of this ſaid realm, have heretofore wrongfully pretended, extorted, uſed and exerciſed within the ſame divers and many uſurped powers, juriſdictions and authorities, during and by the which time the ſaid biſhop and his predeceſſors arrogantly and unjuſtly have taken upon them, for great ſums of money, and other profits to them given, to grant unto the King's ſubjects, and other inhabitants within this realm and other the King's dominions, many, divers and ſundry authorities, immunities, faculties, privileges, licences, indulgences and preheminences of divers kinds, natures and qualities, (2) which,

Release of such who have obtained licences from the see of Rome.

(2) which, although they proceeded by an unjust and usurped authority, have been until now of late, by the subjects of this realm, timorously and ignorantly accepted, received, used, and erroneously put in exercise and execution; (3) the which usurped authority, jurisdiction and power is now justly, truly, and ought to be clearly and absolutely extinguished, extirped and abolished, within this realm and other the King's dominions; (4) and forasmuch as all and every such person and persons, bodies politick and corporate, which unlawfully, and without any manner of authority or just ground, heretofore have timorously and ignorantly accepted, received, used and erroneously put in execution, and exercised the said faculties, immunities, authorities, privileges, licences, indulgences and prebeminences, have now sincere, pure and perfect intelligence and knowledge of the said usurped authority, jurisdiction and power; and that the said faculties, authorities, privileges, licences and indulgences, so as is aforesaid accepted, received, used and erroneously exercised, were and been to all intents and purposes clearly void, frustrate and of none effect; albeit, if they should be impeached or interrupted of such privileges, liberties, prebeminences, authorities, jurisdictions, profits and other commodities, which they now have, use and exercise, by colour of such vain and void licences, dispensations and faculties, it should be to their intolerable inquietations and utter undoing.

All bulls and dispensations from the bishop or see of Rome to any subjects of this realm shall be void.

A confirmation of former lawful marriages.

II. Wherefore be it enacted by authority of this present parliament, That all bulls, breves, faculties and dispensations, of what names, natures or qualities soever they be of, heretofore had or obtained of the bishop of Rome, or any of his predecessors, or by the authority of the see of Rome, by or to any subjects, resiants, or bodies politick or corporate, of or in this realm, or of or in any other the King's dominions, shall from henceforth be clearly void and of no value, force, strength nor virtue; (2) and shall never hereafter be used, admitted, allowed, pleaded or alledged in any places or courts of this realm, or of any other the King's dominions, upon the pains contained in the statute of provision and premunire, made in the sixteenth year of the reign of King Richard the Second: (3) yet notwithstanding, at the most humble petition and intercession of the lords spiritual and temporal, and the commons in this present parliament assembled, it may please the King's majesty of his most gracious benignity, goodness and blessed disposition, that it may be enacted by authority of this parliament, That all marriages had and solemnized within this realm, or in any other the King's dominions, before the third day of November in the twenty sixth year of the King's most gracious reign, whereof there is no divorce or separation had by the ecclesiastical laws of this realm, and which marriages be not prohibited by God's laws, limited and declared in the act made in this present parliament for the establishment of the King's succession, or otherwise by holy scripture, shall be by authority of this present parliament good, lawful and effectual, and shall be from the beginning of such marriages reputed, esteemed, taken, adjudged, received, approved and allowed, by the authority of this present preſent parliament, to all and ſingular purpoſes, effects and intents, as good, as ſufficient, and as available, as though no impediment of matrimony had ever been between them that have contracted and ſolemnized ſuch marriages; (4) and that all children procreated and to be procreated in and under ſuch marriages, ſhall be lawful to all intents and purpoſes.

III. And that it may be alſo enacted by the authority of this preſent parliament, That all archbiſhops and biſhops of this realm, or of any the King's dominions, conſecrated, and at this preſent time taken and reputed for archbiſhops and biſhops, may by authority of this preſent parliament, and not by virtue of any proviſion or other foreign authority, licence, faculty or diſpenſation, keep, enjoy and retain their archbiſhopricks and biſhopricks, in as large and ample manner, as if they had been promoted, elected, confirmed and conſecrated according to the due courſe of the laws of this realm; (2) and that every archbiſhop and biſhop of this realm, and of other the King's dominions, may miniſter, uſe and exerciſe all and every thing and things pertaining to the office or order of an archbiſhop and biſhop, with all tokens, enſigns and ceremonies thereunto lawfully belonging.

And that all eccleſiaſtical perſons of the King's realm and dominions, which at this time be taken, had and reputed for abbots, priors, abbeſſes, prioceſſes, and other heads of religion, (which be not, neither ſhall be excluded from their dignities by the late act of ſuppreſſion) and the religious perſons living under their obedience, and all perſons now taken and reputed as maſters, preſidents, provots and wardens of cathedral churches and colleges, with the companies and fellowſhips of the ſame, all prieſts and clerks which have received any of the eccleſiaſtical orders, all archdeacons and deans, and other having offices, cures and dignities ſpiritual, may by authority of this act, and not by the virtue of any foreign power or authority, adminiſter, uſe and exerciſe all things pertaining to their dignities, offices, orders, cures, religions and fellowſhips, and may lawfully hereafter uſe all tokens, enſigns and ceremonies, which they have been accuſtomed to uſe in times paſt, ſo it be not expreſſy againſt the laws of God and this realm; any thing or things contained in any act or acts made ſithen the beginning of this preſent parliament to the contrary of any of the premiſſes in any wiſe notwithstanding.

V. And where divers and many of the King's ſaid ſubjects have purchaſed and obtained many diſpenſations, bulls, breves and faculties of the biſhop of Rome for the time being, or by authority of the ſee of Rome, as pluralities, unions, trialities, appropriations, commendams, exemptions and other bulls, breves and faculties, for divers cauſes and matters, other than be afore expreſſed, which be of no ſtrength or virtue: (2) it may therefore pleaſe the King's majeſty, that it may be enacted by authority aforeſaid, That all and every his ſaid ſubjects, during the time of one whole year next after the feaſt of St. Michael the archangel next coming, may enjoy, uſe and and have, by authority of this present act, and not by the virtue of the said bulls, breves and faculties, all and every the effects contained and specified in such bulls, breves and faculties, in all such cases only as may be dispensed with by the archbishop of Canterbury, by authority of the laws and statutes of this realm.

The effect and contents of bulls, breves, faculties, &c. purchased of the see of Rome, which he allowable, shall be confirmed under the great seal. Dyer, 233, 345, 352.

VI. And that it may be further enacted by authority aforesaid, That all and every the King's said subjects, bringing, rendring and delivering to such persons of his council, or of the masters of his chancery, as the King's highness shall name and appoint, any bulls, breves, or any other faculties concerning any the premisses, that then, if it shall appear to such persons as the King's highness shall so name and appoint to receive such bulls, faculties and breves, after due examination thereof had, that the effects contained and specified in such bulls, faculties and breves, or any part thereof, may be lawfully granted by the said archbishop of Canterbury, by authority of the laws and statutes of this realm; that then and in every such case the King's said subjects making humble suit to have the effects contained in the said bulls, breves and faculties to be granted unto them, shall have, receive and obtain of the chancellor of England, or keeper of the great seal for the time being, by sufficient writing in due form to be made, and to be sealed under the King's great seal, all and every such effects contained and specified in such bulls, breves and faculties, as may be lawfully granted by the said archbishop of Canterbury, by authority of the laws and statutes of this realm, (2) paying only for sealing of every such writing xx s. iv. d. and over that, for the reasonable costs for pains of the writing thereof, iij. s. iv. d. and not above; and for the pain taken for due examination of every such bulls, breves and faculties, iij. s. iv. d. and not above. (3) And that this present act shall be sufficient and immediate warrant to the chancellor or keeper of the great seal, for enfealing and delivery of such licences, faculties, dispensations and other writings, which shall be made, granted and sealed under the King's great seal, by virtue and authority of this act.

VII. And it is also enacted by authority aforesaid, That all and every such licence, dispensation, faculty, confirmation or other writing, to be had, made or granted under the King's great seal out of the said court of chancery by authority of this act, in form as is above rehearsed, shall be good and effectual to the said parties suing for the same, according to the tenor and effects thereof, and shall be admitted, accepted and allowed in all courts and places of this realm, and in all other the King's dominions; any usage, prescription, foreign laws, customs or ordinance to the contrary thereof notwithstanding.

WHEREAS divers and many of the lords, knights, esquires, gentlemen, and other the King's subjects within this his realm, at their great costs and charges have caused to be made within their several grounds many ponds, stews and motes, and stored them with divers kinds of fishes, as pikes, bremes, carps, tenches and other fishes, whereof they have thought to have had great commodity, as well for the pleasure of their friends, as for their own commodity and profit towards the necessary finding of their houses, divers and many light and unreasonable persons of this realm, being of no good rule nor honesty, little or nothing regarding God, the fear of their sovereign lord the King's highness, nor his laws, have not only fished the said ponds, stews and motes, as well by night as by day, with nets, hooks, and baits of divers sorts, but also with great number of misruled persons have entered into such grounds, and there with great violence have broken up the heads of the same ponds, stews and motes, and destroyed and taken the fish of the said ponds, stews and motes, to the great displeasures pleasures and losses of the owners of the said ponds, stews and motes, and contrary to all good reason, right and conscience. Wherefore be it enacted by the King our sovereign lord, with the assent of the lords spiritual and temporal, and the commons, in this present parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, That as well all manner of fishings with any nets, hooks or baits, of what kind soever they be, in any several pond, stew or mote, with an intent to steal fish out of the same, done or committed at any time after the feast of the nativity of St. John Baptist next coming, that is to say, in the one and thirtieth year of the reign of our said sovereign lord, from the hour of six in the eventide, unto the hour of six in the morning, against the wills and minds of the owners or possessioners of such ponds, stews or motes, as also the unlawful breaking up of the head of any several pond, stew or mote, by day or by night, after the said feast, without colour of title so to do, whereby any fish of the same pond, stew or mote, is taken or destroyed, against the will or mind of the owner or possessioner of the same, be to all intents deemed, taken and adjudged felony; and that those persons so offending shall have and suffer all such pains of death and punishments, as other felons ought to have and suffer for felony by the course of the laws of this realm.

For placing of the lords.

4 Inst. 361.

How the lords in parliament shall be placed.

None shall sit on either side of the cloth of estate.

The King's vicegerent in ecclesiastical jurisdiction.

FOrasmuch as in all great councils and congregations of men, having sundry degrees and offices in the commonwealth, it is very requisite and convenient that an order should be had and taken for the placing and sitting of such persons as been bounden to resort to the same, to the intent that they, knowing their places, may use the same without displeasure or let of the council; (2) therefore the King's most royal majesty, although it appertaineth unto his prerogative royal to give such honour, reputation and placing to his counsellors, and other his subjects, as shall be seeming to his most excellent wisdom, is nevertheless pleased and contented, for an order to be had and taken in this his most high court of parliament, that it shall be enacted by authority of the same, in manner and form as hereafter followeth.

II. First, it is enacted by authority aforesaid, That no person or person, of what estate, degree or condition soever he or they be of, (except only the King's children) shall at any time hereafter attempt or presume to sit or have place at any side of the cloth of estate in the parliament chamber, neither of the one hand of the King's highness, nor of the other, whether the King's majesty be there personally present or absent. (2) And forasmuch as the King's majesty is justly and lawfully supreme head in earth, under God, of the church of England, and for the good exercise of the said most royal dignity and office, hath made Thomas lord Cromwel and lord privy seal, his vicegerent, for good and due ministration of justice to be had in all causes and cases touching the ecclesiastical jurisdiction, and for the godly reformation and redress of all errors, heresies and abuses in the said church: (3) It is therefore also enacted by authority aforesaid, That the said lord Cromwel, having the said office of vicegerent, and all other persons which hereafter shall have the said office of the grant of the King's highness, his heirs or successors, shall sit and be placed, as well in this present parliament, as in all parliaments to be holden hereafter, on the right side of the parliament chamber, and upon the same form that the archbishop of Canterbury sitteth on, and above the same archbishop and his successors, and shall have voice in every parliament to assent or dissent, as other the lords of the parliament.

III. And it is also enacted, That next to the said vicegerent shall sit the archbishop of Canterbury; and then next to him, on the same form and side, shall sit the archbishop of York; and next to him, on the same form and side, the bishop of London; and next to him, on the same side and form, the bishop of Durham; and next to him, on the same side and form, the bishop of Winchester; and then all the other bishops of both provinces of Canterbury and York shall sit and be placed on the same side after their ancients, as it hath been accustomed.

How the bishops shall be placed in the parliament house.

IV. And forasmuch as such other personages, which now have, and hereafter shall happen to have other great offices of the realm, that is to say, the offices of the lord chancellor, the lord treasurer, the lord president of the King's most honourable council, the lord privy seal, the great chamberlain of England, the constable of England, the lord marshal of England, the lord admiral, the grand master or lord steward of the King's most honourable household, the King's chamberlain, and the King's secretary, have not heretofore been appointed and ordered for the placing and sitting in the King's most high court of parliament by reason of their offices: (2) It is therefore now ordained and enacted by the authority aforesaid, That the lord chancellor, the lord treasurer, the lord president of the King's council, and the lord privy seal, being of the degree of barons of parliament, or above, shall sit and be placed, as well in this present parliament as in all other parliaments hereafter to be holden, on the left side of the said parliament chamber, on the higher part of the form of the same side, above all dukes, except only such as shall happen to be the King's son, the King's brother, the King's uncle, the King's nephew, or the King's brothers or sisters sons.

The lord chancellor, president of the King's council and lord privy seal.

V. And it is also ordained and enacted by authority aforesaid, That the great chamberlain, the constable, the marshal, the lord admiral, the great master or lord steward, and the King's chamberlain, shall sit and be placed after the lord privy seal, in manner and form following; that is to say, every of them shall sit and be placed above all other personages being of the same estates or degrees that they shall happen to be of, that is to say, the great chamberlain first, the constable next, the marshal third, the lord admiral the fourth, the grand master or lord steward, the fifth, and the King's chamberlain the sixth.

The great chamberlain, constable, marshal, admiral, steward, &c. See 1 Geo. 1. c. 3. a private act.

VI. And it is also enacted by authority aforesaid, That the King's chief secretary, being of the degree of a baron of the parliament, shall sit and be placed afore and above all barons, not having any of the offices above mentioned; (2) and if he be a bishop, that then he shall sit and be placed above all other bishops not having any of the offices above remembered.

The King's chief secretary.

VII. And it is also ordained and enacted by authority aforesaid, That all dukes not aforementioned, marquesses, earls, viscounts,

Dukes, marquesses, earls, viscounts viscounts, barons.

viscounts and barons, not having any of the offices aforesaid, shall sit and be placed after their ancienty, as it hath been accustomed.

The place of great officers under the degree of barons.

VIII. And it is further enacted, That if any person or persons, which at any time hereafter shall happen to have any of the said offices of lord chancellor, lord treasurer, lord president of the King's council, lord privy seal, or chief secretary, shall be under the degree of a baron of the parliament, by reason whereof they can have no interest to give any assent or dissent in the said house, that then in every such case, such of them as shall happen to be under the said degree of a baron, shall sit and be placed at the uppermost part of the sacks, in the midst of the said parliament chamber, either there to sit upon one form, or upon the uppermost sack, the one of them above the other, in order as is above rehearsed.

Places in trials by peers.

IX. Be it also enacted by authority aforesaid, That in all trials of treasons by peers of this realm, if any of the peers that shall be called hereafter to be triours of such treasons, shall happen to have any of the offices aforesaid, that then they, having such offices, shall sit and be placed according to their offices, above all the other peers that shall be called to such trials, in manner and form as is above mentioned and rehearsed.

Places in the star-chamber and other assemblies.

X. And it is also enacted by authority aforesaid, That as well in all parliaments, as in the star-chamber, and in all other assemblies and conferences of council, the lord chancellor, the lord treasurer, the lord president, the lord privy seal, the great chamberlain, the constable, the marshal, the lord admiral, the grand master or lord steward, the King's chamberlain, and the King's chief secretary, shall sit and be placed in such order and fashion as is above rehearsed, and not in any other place, by authority of this present act.

CAP. XI,

The authority given to the King by the statute of 28 H. 6. 3. to allot the towns in Wales, continued for three years.

CAP. XII,

It shall be felony to take, in the King's ground, any egg or bird of any falcon, goshawk or laner, out of the nest; or to find or take up any falcon, jerfalcon, jerkin, facer or facerit, goshawk, laner or lanerite, of the King's, and having on it the King's arms and verviles, and do not within twelve days bring or send the same to the master of the King's hawks, or to one of his falconers, or to the chief of the shire; (2) or between the rising of the sun, and setting of the same, with his face hid or covered with hood or visert, or painted, or disguised, to the intent he would not be known, to enter into any forest, chase or park of the King's, Queen's, prince's, or any of the King's children, or into any other ground of either of theirs inclosed with wall or pale, ordained for the keeping of deer, to the intent to steal any of them, or to drive any any of them forth of the same forest, &c. or in or at any time of the day, with his face hid or disguised, to kill any conies or rabbits within any ground, being the lawful warren of the King's, &c. in or within any of his or their parks; or in the night to enter into any park, chase or forest of the King's, &c. to the intent to steal any deer, or into his or their warren to kill and steal any conies.

CAP. XIII.

An act for dissolution of monasteries and abbies.

WHERE divers and sandry abbots, priors, abbeses, prioresses and other ecclesiastical governors and governesses of divers monasteries, abbathies, priories, nunneries, colleges, hospitals, houses of friars and other religious and ecclesiastical houses and places within this our sovereign lord the King's realm of England and Wales, of their own free and voluntary minds, good wills and assents, without constraint, coercion or compulsion of any manner of person or persons, upon the fourth day of February the twenty-seventh year of the reign of our now most dread sovereign lord, by the due order and course of the common laws of this his realm of England, and by their sufficient writings of record, under their covent and common seals, have severally given, granted, and by the same their writings severally confirmed all their said monasteries, abbathies, priories, nunneries, colleges, hospitals, houses of friars and other religious and ecclesiastical houses and places, and all their sites, circuits and precincts of the same, and all and singular their manors, lordships, granges, meases, lands, tenements, meadows, pastures, rents, reversions, services, woods, tithes, pensions, portions, churches, chapels, advowsons, patronages, annuities, rights, entries, conditions, commons, leets, courts, liberties, privileges and franchises, appertaining or in any wise belonging to any such monastery, abbathy, priory, nunnery, college, hospital, house of friars and other religious and ecclesiastical houses and places, or to any of them, by whatsoever name or corporation they or any of them were then named or called, and of what order, habit, religion, or other kind or quality soever they or any of them were then reputed, known or taken; to have and to hold all the said monasteries, abbathies, priories, nunneries, colleges, hospitals, houses of friars, and other religious and ecclesiastical houses and places, sites, circuits, precincts, manors, lands, tenements, meadows, pastures, rents, reversions, services, and all other the premises, to our said sovereign lord, his heirs and successors for ever, and the same their said monasteries, abbathies, priories, nunneries, colleges, hospitals, houses of friars, and other religious and ecclesiastical houses and places, sites, circuits, precincts, manors, lordships, granges, meases, lands, tenements, meadows, pastures, rents, reversions, services, and other the premises, voluntarily, as is aforesaid, have renounced, left and forsaken, and every of them hath renounced, left and forsaken.

II. Be it therefore enacted by the King our sovereign lord, and the lords spiritual and temporal, and the commons, in this present parliament assembled, and by authority of the same, That the King our sovereign lord shall have, hold, possess and enjoy

use by the said chancellor, ministers and officers, of the same court, in such and like manner and form, as the monasteries, priories, sites, circuits, manors, granges, meases, lands, tenements, rents, reversions, services, tithes, pensions, portions, advowsons, patronages, rights, entries, conditions and other hereditaments, late appertaining or belonging unto the monasteries, abbatthies, priories or other religious houses, late by authority of parliament suppressed, been ordered, surveyed and governed; (5) saving to all and every person and persons, and bodies politick and their heirs and successors, and the heirs and successors of all and every of them (other than the said late abbots, priors, abbesses, prioresses and other ecclesiastical governors and governesses of the said late monasteries, abbatthies, priories, nunneries, colleges, hospitals, houses of friars and other religious and ecclesiastical houses and places and their successors, and the successors of every of them, and such as pretend to be founders, patrons or donors of such monasteries, abbatthies, priories, nunneries, colleges, hospitals, houses of friars, and other ecclesiastical houses and places, or of any manors, messuages, lands, tenements, or other hereditaments belonging to the same, or to any of them, their heirs and successors, and the heirs and successors of every such founder, patron or donor, and the now abbots, priors, abbesses, prioresses, and other ecclesiastical governors and governesses of such monasteries, abbatthies, priories, nunneries, colleges, hospitals, houses of friars, and other religious and ecclesiastical houses and places, which hereafter shall happen to be dissolved, suppressed, renounced, relinquished, forfeited, given up, or come to the King's highness, and such as pretend to be founders, patrons, or donors of such monasteries, abbatthies, priories, nunneries, colleges, hospitals, houses of friars, and other ecclesiastical houses and places, or of any manors, messuages, lands, tenements or other hereditaments to the same belonging, or to any of them, their heirs and successors, and the heirs and successors of every of them; (6) all such right, title, claim, interest, possession, rents, charges, annuities, leases, fermes, offices, fees, liveries and livings, portions, pensions, corrodies, commons, synods, proxies and other profits, which they or any of them have, claim, ought, may or might have had, in or to the premises, or to any part or parcel thereof, in such like manner, form and condition, to all intents, respects, constructions and purposes, as if this act had never been had ne made (rents services, rents seck, and all other services and suits only except.)

V. Provided always, and be it enacted by the authority aforesaid, That if any late abbot, prior, prioress, abbess, or other ecclesiastical governor or governess aforesaid, within one year next before the dissolution, suppression, renouncing, relinquishing, forfeiting, giving up, or coming to the King's highness, of his late monastery, abbathy, priory, nunnery, college, hospital, house of friars, or other religious or ecclesiastical house or place, hath made any lease or grant under his convent vent or common seal, or otherwise, for term of life, or for term of years, of the site, circuit and precinct of his said late monastery, abbathy, priory, nunnery, college, hospital, house of friars, or other religious or ecclesiastical house or place, or of any part thereof, or of any manors, messuages, granges, lands, tenements, parsonages appropriate, tithes, pensions, portions or other hereditaments, which belonged or appertained to his said late monastery, abbathy, priory, nunnery, college, hospital, house of friars, or other religious or ecclesiastical house or place, (2) which manors, messuages, granges, lands, tenements, parsonages appropriate, tithes, pensions, portions or other hereditaments, were not before the same lease commonly used to be set nor let to farm, but kept and reserved in the manurance, tillage or occupation of the said governor or governess, for the maintenance of hospitality and good house-keeping; (3) or within one year, as is abovesaid, hath made any lease or grant for term of life, or for term of years, of any manors, messuages, lands, tenements, meadows, pastures, woods, parsonages impropriate, tithes, pensions, portions, churches, chapels, or other hereditaments, whatsoever they be, whereof or in the which any estate or interest for term of life, year or years, at the time of the making of any such grant or lease, then had his being or continuance, and then was not determined, finished or expired, (4) or within the time of one year, as is abovesaid, hath made any lease or grant for term of life, or for term of years, of any manors, messuages, lands, tenements, meadows, pastures, woods, parsonages appropriate, tithes, pensions, portions, churches, chapels, or other hereditaments, whatsoever they be, upon the which leases and grants, the usual and old rents and farms, accustomed to be yielded and reserved by the space of twenty years next before the first day of this present parliament, is and be not thereupon reserved and holden; (5) or if any such governor or governess hath made any bargain or sale of his woods within one year, as is afore limited, which woods be yet growing and standing, (6) that then all and every such lease, grant, bargain and sale of wood or woods, shall be utterly void and of none effect.

VI. And it is also enacted by the authority aforesaid, That all feoffments, fines and recoveries had, made, acknowledged or suffered by any governor or governess, without the King's licence under his great seal, within one year next before the dissolution, renouncing, relinquishing, forfeiting, giving up, or coming unto the King's highness, of his said monastery, abbathy, priory, nunnery, college, hospital, house of friars, or other religious or ecclesiastical house or place, or any manors, meases, lands, tenements or other hereditaments whatsoever they be, which the said late abbot, prior, abbess, prioress, and other ecclesiastical governor and governess, or any of them, or any of their predecessors, had or held, of the gift, grant or confirmation of our said sovereign lord, or of any of his Highness progenitors, or of the which monasteries, abbathies, priories, nunneries, fiastical houses or places, (3) which said leases, grants, feoffments and wood-sales have been examined, enrolled, decreed or affirmed in our said sovereign lord the King's court of augmentations, and the decree of the same put in writing, sealed with the seal of the said court of augmentations, shall be good and effectual according to the same decree; any clause or act heretofore in this present act to the contrary notwithstanding.

XIII. Provided alway, and be it also further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That if any person or persons have justly and truly, without fraud or covin, paid or given any sum or sums of money to any of the said late governors and governesses, for the bargain and sale of any woods, being or growing in or upon any manors, lands, tenements or hereditaments, which appertained or belonged to the said late monasteries, abbathies, priories, nunneries, colleges, hospitals, houses of friers, or other religious or ecclesiastical places, or unto any of them, which bargain and sale by authority of this act is made void and of none effect, and by mean thereof the King's highness may have and take the commodity and profit of such woods so bargained and sold; that then the chancellor and other officers of our said sovereign lord the King's court of augmentations, or three of them, whereof the chancellor for the time being shall be one, of our said sovereign lord the King's treasure remaining in the treasury of the same court, shall satisfy and recompense every such person or persons such sum of money, or other recompence, as the same chancellor and officers, or three of them, whereof the said chancellor shall be one, shall think meet and convenient. (2) And if any other person or persons shall happen to take profit and commodity, by reason of avoiding of such wood-sales by authority of this act, that then every person and persons, which may or shall take such profit, shall be ordered for satisfaction to be made to the parties that shall happen to be grieved by this act, by the said chancellor and other officers of the same court.

XIV. Provided also, and be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That all and every person and persons, their heirs and assigns, which sithen the said fourth day of February, by licence, pardon, confirmation, release, assent or consent of our said sovereign lord the King, under his great seal heretofore given, had or made, or hereafter to be had or made, have obtained or purchased by indenture, fine, feoffment, recovery or otherwise, of the said late abbots, priors, abbesses, prioresses, or other governors or governesses of any such monasteries, abbathies, priories, nunneries, colleges, hospitals, houses of friars, or other religious and ecclesiastical houses or places, any monasteries, priories, colleges, hospitals, manors, lands, tenements, meadows, pastures, woods, churches, chapels, parsonages, tithes, pensions, portions or other hereditaments, shall have and enjoy the same, according to such writings and assurances, as been thereof before the first day of this present parliament or hereafter shall be had or made:

remainders, and all other things which were the hereditaments or the possessions of the said late monastery, wheresoever they lay or were within the realm of England. (2) And in likewise our said sovereign lord gave like licence by his Grace's word, unto the right honourable George lord Cobham, to purchase and receive to him and to his heirs for ever, of the late master and brethren of the college or chantry of Cobham in the county of Kent, now being utterly dissolved, the site of the same college or chantry, and all and singular their hereditaments and possessions, as well temporal as ecclesiastical, wheresoever they lay or were within the realm of England :

XXV. Be it therefore enacted by the authority of this present parliament, That the act above written or any thing therein contained, shall not be in any wise prejudicial or hurtful to the said duke and lord Cobham, or to either of them, or to the heirs or assigns of either of them, but that the same duke and lord Cobham and either of them fundrily, and the heirs and assigns of either of them, shall and may have, hold, receive and enjoy the premises by them fundrily purchased or received, according to the purports and effects of such evidences, writings and conveyances, as they or any of them fundrily have caused to be devised and made to them or to their uses for the same :

Chantry.

XXVI. Saving alway, and reserving to all and singular persons and bodies politick, and to their heirs and successors (other than the said late abbot and convent and their successors, and the said late master and brethren and their successors, and to the founders of the same monastery, or of the said college or chantry and the heirs of either them, and all donors, granters or augmenters of them or of either of them, and the heirs and assigns of either of them) (2) all such rights, titles, possessions, rents, services, fees, offices, annuities, corrodiés, liveries, leases, and all other such their interestes, profits and commodities, as they or any of them had, should or ought to have, of, to, or in any of the premises fundrily purchased or received by the said duke or lord Cobham, if this present act had never been had or made ; any thing in the same act to the contrary being in any wise notwithstanding.

C A P. XIV.

An act for abolishing of diversity of opinions in certain articles concerning christian religion.

WHERE the King's most excellent majesty is by God's law supreme head immediately under him of this whole church and congregation of England, intending the conservation of the same church and congregation in a true, sincere and uniform doctrine of Christ's religion, calling also to his blessed and most gracious remembrance, as well the great and quiet assurance, prosperous increase, and other innumerable commodities, which have ever ensued, come and followed of concord, agreement and unity in opinions, as also the manifold perils, dangers and inconveniencies, which have heretofore, in many places and regions, grown, sprung and arisen of the diversities of minds and opinions, especially of matters of christian religion, and therefore desiring that such an unity might and should be charitably established in all all things touching and concerning the same, as the same so being established might chiefly be to the honour of Almighty God, the very author and fountain of all true unity and sincere concord, and consequently redound to the common wealth of this his Highness's most noble realm, and of all his loving subjects, and other residents and inhabitants of or in the same; hath therefore caused and commanded this his most high court of parliament, for sundry and many urgent causes and considerations, to be at this time summoned, and also a synod and convocation of all the archbishops, bishops and other learned men of the clergy of this his realm, to be in like manner assembled.

And forasmuch as in the said parliament, synod and convocation, there were certain articles, matters, and questions prepared and set forth touching christian religion, that is to say:

First, Whether in the most blessed sacrament of the altar remaineth, after the consecration, the substance of bread and wine or no.

Secondly, Whether it be necessary by God's law, that all men should be communicate with both kinds, or no.

Thirdly, Whether priests, that is to say, men dedicate to God by priesthood, may by the law of God marry after, or no.

Fourthly, Whether vow of chastity or widowhood, made to God advisedly by man or woman, be by the law of God to be observed, or no, Fifthly, Whether private masses stand with the law of God, and be to be used and continued in the church and congregation of England, as things whereby good christian people may and do receive both godly consolation and wholesome benefits, or no.

Sixthly, Whether auricular confession is necessary to be retained, continued, used and frequented in the church, or no.

The King's most royal majesty, most prudently pondering and considering, that by occasion of variable and sundry opinions and judgments of the said articles, great discord and variance hath arisen, as well amongst the clergy of this his realm, as amongst a great number of vulgar people, his loving subjects of the same; and being in a full hope and trust, that a full and perfect resolution of the said articles should make a perfect concord and unity generally amongst all his loving and obedient subjects; of his most excellent goodness not only commanded, that the said articles should deliberately and advisedly, by his said archbishops, bishops and other learned men of his clergy, be debated, argued and reasoned, and their opinions therein to be understood, declared and known, but also most graciously vouchsafed, in his own princely person, to descend and come into his said high court of parliament and counsel, and there, like a prince of most high prudence, and no less learning, opened and declared many things of high learning and great knowledge, touching the said articles, matters, and questions, for an unity to be had in the same; whereupon, after a great and long, deliberate and advised disputation and consultation, had and made concerning the said articles, as well by the consent of the King's highness, as by the assent of the lords spiritual, and temporal, and other learned men of his clergy in their convocations, and by the consent of the commons, in this present parliament assembled, it was and is finally resolved, accorded and agreed in manner and form following, that is to say,

First, That in the most blessed sacrament of the altar, by the strength and efficacy of Christ's mighty word (it being spoken by the priest) is present really, under the form of bread and wine, the natural body and blood of our Saviour Jesus Christ, conceived of the Virgin Mary; and that after the consecration there remaineth no substance of bread or wine, nor any other substance: but the substance of Christ, God and man.

Secondly, That communion in both kinds is not necessary ad salutem, by the law of God, to all persons; and that it is to be believed, and not doubted of, but that in the flesh, under the form of bread, is the very blood; and with the blood, under the form of wine, is the very flesh; as well apart, as though they were both together.

Thirdly, That priests after the order of priesthood received, as afore, may not marry by the law of God.

Fourthly, That vows of chastity or widowhood, by man or woman made to God advisedly, ought to be observed by the law of God; and that it exempteth them from other liberties of christian people, which without that they might enjoy.

Fifthly, That it is meet and necessary, that private masses be continued and admitted in this the King's English church and congregation, as whereby good christian people, ordering themselves accordingly, do receive both godly and goodly consolations and benefits; and it is agreeable also to God's law.

Sixthly, That auricular confession is expedient and necessary to be retained and continued, used and frequented in the church of God.

For the which most godly study, pain, and travel of his Majesty, and determination and resolution of the premisses, his most humble and obedient subjects, the lords spiritual and temporal, and the commons, in this present parliament assembled, not only render and give unto his Highness their most high and hearty thanks, and think themselves most bound to pray for the long continuance of his Grace's most royal estate, but also being desirous that his most godly enterprise may be well accomplished, and brought to a full end and perfection, and so established, that the same might be to the honour of God, and after to the common quiet, unity and concord to be had in the whole body of this realm for ever, most humbly beseechen his royal Majesty, that the resolution and determination above written of the said articles may be established, and perpetually perfected by authority of this present parliament, &c.

 I* If any person by word, writing, printing, cyphering, or any other-otherwise, do preach, teach, dispute, or hold opinion that in the blessed sacrament of the altar, under form of bread and wine (after the consecration thereof) there is not present really the natural body and blood of our Saviour Jesus Christ conceived of the Virgin Mary. Or that after the said consecration, there remaineth any substance of bread or wine, or any other substance, but the substance of Christ, God and man: Or that in the flesh under form of bread, is not the very blood of Christ: Or that with the blood under the form of wine, is not the very flesh of Christ, as well apart, as though they were both together: Or affirm the said sacrament to be of other substance than is aforesaid: Or deprave the said blessed sacrament: then he shall be adjudged an heretick, and suffer death by burning, and shall forfeit to the King all his lands, tenements, hereditaments, goods and chattels, as in case of high treason.

2 And if any person preach in any sermon, or collation openly made, or teach in any common school or congregation, or obstinately affirm or defend, that the communion of the blessed sacrament in both kinds is necessary for the health of man's soul, or ought or should be ministered in both kinds: Or that it is necessary to be received by any person (other than by priests) being at mass, and consecrating the same.

3 Or that any man after the order of priesthood received, may marry or contract matrimony.

4 Or that any man or woman which advisedly hath vowed or professed, or should vow or profess chastity or widowhood, may marry, or contract marriage.

5. Or that private masses be not lawful, or not laudable, or should not be used, or be not agreeable to the laws of God.

6 Or that auricular confession is not expedient, and necessary to be used in the church of God, he shall be adjudged, suffer death, and forfeit lands and goods, as a felon. If any priest or other man or woman, which advisedly hath vowed chastity, or widowhood, do actually marry or contract matrimony with another: Or any man which is or hath been a priest, do carnally use any woman, to whom he is, or hath been married, or with whom he hath contracted matrimony, or openly be conversant or familiar with any such woman; both the man and the woman shall be adjudged felons. Commissions shall be awarded to the bishop of the diocese, his chancellor, commissary, and others, to enquire of the heresies, felonies, and offences aforesaid. And also justices of peace in their sessions, and every steward, understeward, and deputy of stewards in their leet, or lawday, by the oaths of twelve men have authority to enquire of all the heresies, felonies, and offences aforesaid.
